The annual meeting of the Charlevoix Hospital Board of Directors will be held in the City Hall Community Room Wednesday evening, July 24, at 8 o'clock.

The object of this meeting is to elect three directors to serve on the board of nine members for the coming three years. Reports of the Treasurer and Secretary will also be made, together with other information concerning the Hospital.

The Charlevoix Hospital is a community enterprise, in which the public should be sufficiently interested to attend this annual meeting.

INSURANCE ASSETS

America's savings have been flowing into life insurance; life insurance companies understandably and inevitably have been putting the money in mortgages which do not directly stimulate new industries.

Life insurance in the decade 1929-1938 increased only 10 per cent but assets of these great companies increased 63 per cent. It is under these circumstances that officials seem to be putting aside their primary function of writing assurances for the newer problem of investment banking. In one year, 1938, for instance, the 26 companies had the task of finding suitable investments for about $4,000,000,000!

These 26 life insurance companies hold, for example, 17.4 per cent of all the long-term debts of the railroads in America today. Railroads are going through a period of reorganization and dealing with them means dealing with the life insurance companies. Again, the life insurance companies now own 10 per cent of all the long-term farm debts. Oddly enough they are thereby one of the big beneficiaries of federal aid to farmers.

Between 1930 and 1937 the 26 companies increased their ownership of the nation's long-term (mortgage) industrial debt from 2.5 to 11.7 per cent; in 1930 they owned only 10.5 per cent of the public utility debt, in 1937 they owned 18.2 per cent of it.

Here is another point; figures show the companies get a higher rate of return on the money which they lend back to their own policyholders (who are thus re-borrowing their own money) than from any other type of investment they make. Then again, the companies bulk large in the investment market. In 1938 the 26 companies bought practically half (47.7 per cent) of all the new corporate and bond issues of the whole country.

This tendency toward concentration of economic power was noted by the famous New York Armstrong Committee in 1906:

"No tendency in modern financial conditions has created more widespread apprehension," it said, "than the tendency to vast combinations of capital and assets."

The Committee warned, then, that some life insurance companies were too big. Today, a third of a century later, the companies are vastly larger, not only individually but proportionately. And the problem of what to do about it is no nearer solution. — Richard L. Strout in "Intimate Message from Washington."

NOW IS THE TIME TO ACT

Congress now has a real chance to make the industrial job of providing for our national defense a whole lot easier.

Here's the situation: The Smith Bill, amending the Wagner Labor Relations Act, was recently passed by a whopping majority in the House of Representatives. The bill in question is the outcome of careful study of the imperfections of the Wagner Act and of the attitude of the board which administers it. For a long time, the public, the press, and a major labor organization, the American Federation of Labor, have all urged that the act be changed to make it a fairer instrument for settling industrial disputes. But now a small group of inside schemers are seeking to thwart the popular will by bottling up the amendments in a Senatorial committee tangle.

The proposed amendments won't transform the Wagner Act overnight from a trouble-fomenting piece of legislation into a model of fairness, but they are an important step in the right direction. Plainly, our lawmakers ought to adopt these amendments now, a move that need not interfere with giving consideration later to other substantial and sound changes.

But the time to act on the Smith measure is NOW, and the need for immediate action is obvious. No other legislation now pending is more vital to national defense. Efficient and uninterrupted production is necessary to national defense, and the Wagner Act in its present form has definitely slowed down our country's manufacturing machinery.

It is to the interest of all Americans for Congress to amend the Wagner Act as promptly as possible—and upon such action a large measure of our national well-being and security depends!

RELEASE THE FETTERS

The April 4th issue of the Alma Record carried the complete text of a recent address delivered by Wendell L. Willkie, president of Commonwealth and Southern Corporation.

The "Record" should be complimented very highly for devoting this space to this speech. It rendered a real service to the community. Space probably would not permit most papers to do this, but certainly those who can would make more of their readers happy if they did.

This talk deals with a definition of the much abused word "liberal", explaining the trend to a government by men instead of by law—and the disastrous results of the last seven years' decline in individual liberty in America.

Mr. Wilkie states that 100 times more money for business ventures is available today than was available for the same purpose in 1929. He carefully explains how bureaus directing business are largely responsible for the mistrust that keeps men from investing their savings in new enterprises today. He explains that arbitrary rulings by the men on various boards, who not only make the laws but try the violators of same, is undemocratic. Not only that, the personnel of these boards is frequently changed and each new chairman has new ideas. It is this unstable state of affairs that keeps money out of new enterprises; to say nothing of the unfair taxes on business expansion.

Judging by the way some people depend on it, they expect their luck to last forever.

Dust Protects Dahlias

With summer troubles due for dahlias a simple remedy suggested by Professor E. I. McDaniel at Michigan State College may aid gardeners. Red spider and leaf hoppers are two of the worst dahlia pests. The leaf hopper can be controlled by dusting with lime. If the mites or red spiders appear combine the lime with sulphur dust and the plants will be protected against either pest.

Hint Aids Dishwashing

Use of a dairy plant method can simplify one of the chores of dishwashing, it is pointed out by dairy department staff members at Michigan State College. Tumblers that have contained milk should be rinsed out with cold water before they are put into hot dishwater. If hot water is used first, the residual fat melts and emulsifies over the surface of the glass, requiring more strenuous washing to clean the glass.

FLAG OF OUR COUNTRY

A few weeks ago, Americans celebrated Flag Day.

It is an occasion that has been duly observed ever since 1895, but we doubt whether, in the 45 years of its existence, the day has taken on a deeper meaning than it did this time. Events in Europe have brought about a new awakening of our national consciousness. Inevitably, therefore, the flag has again attained its true proportions as a symbol of America—America, something more than a mere name on the face of the globe; America, a single word that embraces the concepts of material welfare, spiritual dignity, and human freedom, ideals nearly extinct in so many other lands and in so many other human souls.

It is only natural in these troubled times that the average citizen of this country should pay particular reverence to the nation's flag. But it would be wise, too, if we remembered during all the other days of the year that this emblem of our security and our welfare is just as important. Flag Day, 1940, will have attained its fullest meaning if we retain the spirit we display at that time in our every waking moment, every day of the year.

John Howard Payne's immortal song, "Home, Sweet Home," will ever express sentiment creditable to all of us. Abraham Lincoln's idea of the home gives it political definition acceptable to most of us. Lincoln said: "The home is the unit of society and the foundation of our nation." Our civilization's security lies in the home of which Payne sang and which Lincoln praised.—Frank B. Craig.

The white oak is the most important hardwood forest tree native to Michigan and to North America. It has held this front rank place since the earliest days of colonization. The original forests of the rich agricultural areas of the United States were largely made up of this most useful tree.

Huge Pork Purchases

Purchase of 24,510,000 pounds on June 29 brought total purchases of lard and pork products for domestic relief distribution to approximately 241,000,000 pounds since the program was authorized in December, 1939, it is announced by the United States Department of Agriculture. Lard, salt pork and smoked pork are included in the purchases. The program was designed to assist corn and hog producers in improving marketing conditions. Commodities obtained are used by the federal surplus marketing administration for distribution in states to families on relief and for use in school lunch programs. Lard and pork products also are included on the list of official surplus commodities moved to relief families through the department's food stamp system, recently inaugurated in Detroit after tests had been made in other large cities in the United States.

Name Poultry Director

Appointment of a new man to direct the comparatively new federal regional poultry research laboratory located on the Michigan State College campus at East Lansing has been announced in Washington, D. C. The new director is Berley Winton, senior poultry husbandman who has been in charge of poultry husbandry investigations for the animal husbandry division of the United States bureau of animal industry. Winton succeeds Dr. J. Holmes Martin who resigned recently to become head of the poultry husbandry department of Purdue University. The poultry disease research laboratory is designed to serve Michigan and 24 other north central and northeastern states by attacking disease problems which plague the farm flocks.

3. To furnishing electric current for power purposes with special meter for the ensuing year, the rate shall be three and one-half cents per kilowatt hour, with the exception of power supplied to the Public Schools of Charlevoix which shall be at the rate of three cents per kilowatt hour, and power supplied for water pumping at the United States Fish Hatchery which shall be at the rate of 2c per kilowatt hour.

4. It is further provided that the furnishing of electric current for any purpose, there shall be a minimum charge of one dollar per month, except as otherwise indicated in Schedules.

5. There shall be a discount of five per cent of the monthly statement for all electric current used, except for Power purposes, if the amount of said statement shall be paid on or before the date specified on bills, otherwise the said statement shall be paid in full on or before the 20th day of each month; failure to pay said statement on or before the 20th day of each month, the city reserves the right to discontinue such service until said statement shall be paid in full together with an additional sum of one dollar for connecting the delinquent with the city's power lines.

6. It is further resolved that all transient or short term users of electric current and all persons, firms or corporations who are users of electric current furnished by the city of Charlevoix and who do not own the real estate where such current is used shall make a deposit of money as hereinafter determined with the city treasurer before commencing to use said electric current as a guarantee that the current consumed will be paid for on demand, and that after the use of said electric current is discontinued and the amount owing thereon has been duly paid, the balance, if any, remaining on deposit with the city treasurer shall be immediately paid to the person, firm or corporation making such deposit.

7. It is further resolved that the mayor and the superintendent of the electric light plant be and they are hereby instructed, directed and empowered to determine the amount of the deposit of money that each transient or short term user of electric current and all persons, firms and corporations who are users of electric current and who do not own the real estate where such electric current is used, shall make with the city treasurer before the city of Charlevoix shall furnish any electric current to such proposed users thereof.

8. This resolution shall take effect as of the 1st day of August, A. D. 1940, and shall include electric current consumed during the month of July, 1940.

This resolution was adopted by a two-thirds majority vote of all the aldermen elect to said council at a duly called regular meeting of the common council held on the 15th day of July, A. D. 1940, at the council room in the city of Charlevoix by the following yea and nay vote: Yeas—Bellinger, Goss, Heise, Hooker, Lamphear, Wood. Nays—none.

On motion the council adjourned.

OF INTEREST TO FARMERS
By B. C. Melleocamp

Local Dairymen, Joining D. H. I. A. Organization, to Hold Discussion Meeting

All dairymen in Charlevoix county, interested in dairy improvement association work, are invited to attend a discussion meeting to be held in the extension office, Boyne City post office building, on Friday night, July 19th, at 8:00. The new year begins this month and it is expected that many new members will join this important project. If you have not been contacted in regard to joining the cow test association, come and hear what the advantages are, the cost, and so forth.

This is the only method by which a dairyman can determine how much production his cows are making and how much real profit is made from each animal. Without records it is most uncertain as to what animals should be saved to improve the herd production. Not alone this, but the tester in charge can render a most helpful service by making suggestions for proper and most efficient rations.

At this meeting we will discuss everything that pertains to joining the association, the method of procedure, how the records are kept, and a study of records showing feed costs and so forth. Make your plans to come. It will be well worth your time.

Grasshopper Mixing Station Open Next Week Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday

The grasshopper bait mixing station at Boyne Falls will be open on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, July 22nd, 23rd and 24th, to take care of those who did not get their poison bran last week. The cost of maintaining the station is such that the committee feels that three more days will take care of the needs of everyone.

Officially, the station will be closed this week, but, in case of emergency, you can get bait this week by contacting Bert Tisron, foreman of the station, who lives on the next road east of the station in Boyne Falls. However, it will be greatly appreciated if you wait until next week to get the quantity of bait that you need.

There is no better time in the world to spread the bait than right after you get the hay off your hay fields. If you will do it then, you can stop their migration to the cultivated fields. Furthermore, the type of year we have had thus far has considerably decreased the hoppers' damage to crops.

While we do not want to make it difficult for you to get your bait, still we do not want to make too much expense to the taxpayers of this county. Kindly cooperate by coming for your bait the first three days of next week as the station will be closed for the balance of the season.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE SOCIETY

Sunday morning service, 10:45.

Sunday school, 12 o'clock.

Wednesday evening meeting at 7:15.

Reading room open Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday afternoons from 3 to 5 o'clock.

We cordially invite the public to our service and reading room.

"Life" will be the subject of the lesson-sermon in all Christian Science churches throughout the world on Sunday, July 21.

The Golden Text (John 17:3) is: "This is life eternal, that they might know thee the only true God, and Jesus Christ, whom thou hast sent."

Among the Bible citations is this passage (Ps. 119:144): "The righteousness of thy testimonies is everlasting: give me understanding, and I shall live."

Correlative passages to be read from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy, include the following (p. 427): "The tenor of the Word shows that we shall obtain the victory over death in proportion as we overcome sin. The great difficulty lies in ignorance of what God is. God, Life, Truth, and Love make man undying."

Even Plants Get "Too Fat"

Several of Michigan's most important crops include plants whose ability to withstand winter weather seems to depend on their condition. In fact, men in the farm crops department at Michigan State College compare this to the tests given by life insurance companies for selection of the best insurance risks. S. T. Dexter considers that overwintering of such plants as alfalfa, sugar beets intended for seed, winter wheat and chickory is more successful if the plants are thrifty, neither too luxuriant or too spindly, but just medium and in good condition.

SHEEP CARE IS FULL-TIME JOB

Winter Protection of Ewes Pays Dividends.

By L. K. BEAR

Lambs may not gambol in the springtime if their owners do some gambling in the winter by failing to give the ewe flock enough attention to insure the production of a healthy lamb crop, according to experiments in animal husbandry at Ohio State university.

The ewe has two tasks to perform in producing a good lamb and a fair clip of wool, and she cannot succeed unless the raw materials needed are supplied by the flock owner. Ewes will go through the winter in good shape with only home grown roughages until six or eight weeks before lambing.

However, there are vast differences in roughages. Good legume hay provides the protein needed by the ewes but timothy hay and corn stalks do not. Farmers also should remember this winter that corn stalks and leaves have had their usual feeding value reduced by unusual fall weather.

Protein supplement in the form of linseed meal, cottonseed oil meal, soybean oil meal, or whole soybeans should be fed to ewes which do not get legume hay.

Shepherds are cautioned to remember that a mature ewe needs about a gallon of water daily, although some people think sheep require little or no water. Farmers who buy sheep tonics and compel their flocks to drink from filthy watering places are spending money uselessly.

Calcium can be furnished the ewes in the form of finely ground limestone. Loose salt placed in troughs permits the ewes to get this necessity without breaking teeth in gnawing a supply from salt blocks.

The ewe flocks have difficulty enough performing their two tasks of lamb and wool production without supporting a horde of internal parasites. The parasites can be removed by treatments described in the bulletin previously mentioned.

Drifted Soil Regions Are Easily Restored

Harnessing the wind to undo its own damage gets results at less expense than doing the job mechanically, experiments where wind erosion has formed dunes indicate. Once a dune has formed a sharp crest, the tendency is for it to grow higher and higher. But concentrating the wind cuts the crest and moves the sand until it is shallow enough for planting to crops that will check blowing.

One of the simplest and least expensive methods is to fill gunnysacks with the dune sand and set them fairly close together on the crest. This concentrates the wind, and as the crest lowers, the sacks sink and continue the work. Drag poles drawn by two teams, one on the crest of the dunes and one on the lee slope also loosen the sand on the crest and break the sharp ridge. So, too, do one-way disk outfits.

Dunes usually are surrounded by areas wind-stripped down to the hard subsoil which will not grow crops. Deep-listing these eroded areas catches considerable sand as the wind moves it away from the dunes. When the hard clay and the freshly deposited sand are mixed, cropping possibilities are improved. Deep-listing also catches and holds rainfall.

Lowering the dunes, and mixing sand with clay in nearby areas, are only the first of essential steps. The next important step is to stimulate plant growth. Until plants start to grow, these blown areas are still in critical conditions. Crops of drouth-resistant plants such as sorghums or native weeds cut the sweep of the winds and their roots bind the sandy soil.

ENOUGH TO MAKE YOU SEE RED

A Justice of the New York State Supreme Court rules that it is not libelous to call an American a Communist. He points out that, while the Communist party "actually has its roots in foreign lands" and while its members "have potentially obligated themselves even to overthrow our government by force and violence," the party still, "under the existing law, may function as a political party."

The decision in question shows how extremely careful Americans are to preserve the democratic rights which individuals and minority groups in this country enjoy. In the case of the Communists, indeed, we lean over backwards to insure protection for an organization that has no respect for and no understanding of the very principles which make its continued existence here possible.

It may not be libelous at the present time to call a person in the United States a Communist — but it strikes us as being about the most insulting "non-libelous" remark that could possibly be addressed to an American citizen!

Our Motto: A Show For Your Money

THIS HAPPENED IN MICHIGAN LESS THAN A YEAR AGO!

OUT WEST they call them "twisters." Here, In Michigan, we call them windstorms—and wherever the wind blows hard, there is damage and plenty of it! Look what happened in Michigan, your own state, less than a year ago! Scores of house and barns, in the same community, were smashed to worthlessness! Property losses were in the thousands!

Protect yourself, now, against the financial consequences of a windstorm in your section of the state! A policy with the reliable State Mutual Cyclone Insurance Company costs so little ($1.50 a year for $1,000.00 worth of protection) that you can't afford to be without one. Don't wait 'til it's too late! There's a State Mutual Cyclone Insurance Company agent in your community! He's a your neighbor!

"A Michigan windstorm in 1939 did $3,600 worth of damage to the uninsured house pictured above. A $4,000 policy with the 43 year old State Mutual Cyclone Insurance Company, costing $6.00 per year, would have afforded 100% protection. Learn the facts about Michigan windstorms! Write, today, for your free copy of "GAMBLERS BEWARE!" Address me personally, Home Office, Lapeer, Michigan."

the crew of the plane, on regular patrol duty, sighted the distressed men in their disabled boat, they undoubtedly would have gone to a watery grave in the Straits of Mackinac, for 30 minutes after the men were rescued, the boat sank. They were four miles from shore, many more miles from the nearest boat—in fact out of sight of any human assistance other than that which a patrol plane of the type which could land on water would be able to give. If this is a sample of the protection a coast guard air base on the Great Lakes can provide lake vessels, there should be little hesitancy in its establishment. To Lieut. A. E. Harned, plane commander, S. J. Brodnan, radio operator, and Ovie Tillotson, mechanic, who flew the patrol plane from its Lake Charlevoix anchorage Monday morning and shortly after noon set it down on choppy Straits waters to make the rescue — our congratulations!

Choosing between making a liar of myself and letting Charlevoix's fishin' down, am saying its so good I couldn't keep track of all the catches during the past week.

East Park is the most popular I've ever seen it this season. The shuffle board courts appear to be in constant play and no small part in making it more popular may be accredited to those fine new tables, chairs and umbrellas provided. Three sets were placed in East Park, one at the Lake Michigan bathing beach.

An entry of 139 players, 7 more than when the event was held in southern Michigan last year, were attracted to the Belvedere Golf Club course for the 34th Michigan state amateur golf championship concluded Sunday afternoon. Perhaps half that many persons — relatives and friends—came with the players. Most of these persons stayed in Charlevoix four days, some five or six. It is safe to estimate each spent $50. Just for sake of argument, that's $10,500 left here. A nice, tidy sum! Charles D. Benoett and James D. Standish, Jr., of Detroit, president and secretary, respectively, of the Michigan State Golf League, stated before leaving that they would welcome an invitation to hold the meet in Charlevoix next year. Many players have expressed pleasure not only with the course, but the housing facilities here. The city council appropriated $300 to compensate owners of the Belvedere Golf Club course for the loss of greens fees during the tournament. That's a small investment in view of the returns and it is to be hoped greater assistance will be proffered, if necessary, to bring the tournament back in 1941.

Congratulations to the city council for their action in making State street a "Stop" street. There is no longer doubt as to who has the right-of-way and these daogerous intersections are now protected.

It's a shame some retailers have taken advantage of the new national defense taxes as an excuse to raise prices, because as usual, John Public is the goat. Orin A. DeMass, chairman of the Michigan State Liquor Control Comoission, recently called upon public opioion to oppose profiteering on Michigan bottle beer. He cited that the price of bottled beer has been raised in some instances from 10c to 15c, whereas the actual extra tax amounts to only one-third of a cent per bottle. "All the rest of the increase is out and out profiteering," he said. Charlevoix happens to be no exception, either, both in this commodity and others as well.

dent and had prepared to attempt salvage of the distressed craft when notified it had sunk.

The coast guard plane, based at Traverse City because of airport requirements, has been working out of Charlevoix the past week on patrol duty and survey to determine necessity and location of a coast guard air base on the Great Lakes.

INDIAN ADMITTED PETOSKEY ATTACK

HARRY BOAK, THIS CITY, HELD AFTER MAN'S DEATH

Arnold Tate, Grand Rapids, Died Sunday of Fractured Skull Following Beer Tavern Fracas

Harry Boak, 21, local Indian, is said to have signed a confession Monday at Petoskey admitting that he struck Arnold Tate, 36, of Grand Rapids, Pere Marquette railway brakeman, following a brawl in a Petoskey beer tavern. Tate died later of a fractured skull.

No charge has been placed against Boak pending arraignment. In his confession, Bosk is reported to have said he struck Tate with his fists after a quarrel which started in the tavern over Boak's wife. Joe Genia, 24, also of this city, who was with Boak at the time of the fight, is being held in the Emmet county jail as a material witness.

Boak told officers that Tate struck him first and exhibited a swollen lip to substantiate his claim. He said that he struck Tate but that Genia was not involved in the fracas.

A coroner's inquest Sunday ruled that Tate had died as the result of a blow struck by an assailant or by a fall to the sidewalk after the blow was struck. Tate was reported to have died about 3:30 a. m. Sunday.

LARGE GROUP ENJOYED ANNUAL WCTU PICNIC

Patriotic Program Held Last Friday in City Park

A large group of members and invited guests were present last Friday at the Woman's Christian Temperance Union's annual picnic held in the city park.

In addition to the usual order of business, a patriotic program was presented. Rev. John Alexander voiced the opening prayer, and Rev. H. J. Pulsipher pronounced the benediction. Mrs. Ida Burns led in the salute and pledge to the U. S. flag. Miss Alida Holmes led in singing patriotic songs. Several short patriotic readiogs were given under the direction of Mrs. Louise Hansen.

Rev. W. L. Cruthers gave an address on the rights of citizenship. He referred to our inalienable rights to life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness, as named in the Declaration of Independence. He said that unless we, as citizens, exercise our rights and stand up for them, the time will come when we or our children will not have these rights. Our right to vote is one of our most precious rights, yet only 42% of the qualified voters exercised the right of franchise at the last presidential election.

The next local W. C. T. U. meeting will be August 9th, at Mrs. Molet's country home. The district picnic will be at East Jordan, some time in August. The national convention begins August 9th in Chicago; the state convention September 11th at the Soo. The district convention is at Gaylord, also in September.

NAVY RECRUITING MEN WILL VISIT PETOSKEY

Establish Sub-Station There for Period July 15 to 19

A navy travelling recruitiog party will visit the city hall in Petoskey from Monday, July 15, until Friday, July 19, and open a temporary recruiting station in that town.

It is the purpose of this party to contact as maoy young men as possible who may be interested in the naval service. The navy needs 25,000 new men immediately and it is expected that Michigan will furnish its quota.

Applicants who wish to apply for enlistment or information must be between the ages of 18 and 31, they must be single and in good health, they must also be able to produce either a birth certificate or baptism record in order to prove American citizenship.

After leaving Petoskey, the recruitiog party will move on to Cheboygan, where it will open a station from the 19th of July until the evening of the 22nd of July.

MANITOU IS WINNER OF PORT HURON RACE

Grand Rapids Boat Established New Record for Annual Classic

Manitou; James Lowe's 66-foot yawl from the Chicago Yacht Club, won the annual 237-mile Mackinac sailboat race from Port Huron to chalk up its second successive victory. Its time was 32 hours and 45 minutes and 25 seconds. Lowe is from Grand Rapids.

The big boat, made for the race, clipped one hour and 51 minutes from the corrected record of Russell Alger's 1934 triumph and finished more than five hours ahead of its closest rival. Manitou's record made possible by a 15 to 20-mile an hour abaft abeam wind most of the way was two hours and nine minutes faster than any made in a previous Mackinac race.

Manitou was across the starting line io eleventh position Saturday afternoon but overtook the fast-starting field after the race had been underway for but 30 minutes. Lowe's craft was the scratch boat of the race by virtue of its victory last year and it had given time to all 31 of its rivals.

Apparent order of finish was Manitou, Josephine II, Tom Fisher's Apache, Tom Herreman's Chicago Yawl, Tomahawk of Grand Rapids, Ed. Wunsch's Minx, and Fred Ford's favored Evening Star.

USHER-DICK WEDDING SOLEMNIZED SATURDAY AT BAPTIST CHURCH

Miss Alyce Caroline Usher, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Usher, became the bride of David J. Dick, of Detroit, son of Mrs. Gertrude Dick, in a service performed by Rev. W. L. Cruthers at 7:30 Saturday evening, July 13, at the Baptist church.

Delphinium and white daisies were the floral decorations at the altar, set among potted palms. The ceremony was performed in the presence of over a hundred guests. Wedding march and incidental music were played by Mrs. A. C. Belding, at the piano.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was gowned in white satin, fashioned with marquisette bodice and a short train, with high neck and long sleeves. Her fingertip-length tulle veil was held by a tiara of orange blossoms. With an arm bouquet of white rosebuds and baby's-breath, she carried a small bible bound in white satin.

Best man and matron of honor were Mr. and Mrs. Earl Hopper, of Ann Arbor. Mrs. Hopper wore blue taffeta, with a tiny over-the-eye hat of white Irish lace. Pink rosebuds and baby's-breath made her bouquet.

James Anderson of Lansing, brother-in-law of the bride, and Dick Dorrow, of Ann Arbor, were ushers.

Corsages of white gardenias were worn by the mothers of both bride and groom. Mrs. Usher wore a blue priot chiffon ensemble, while Mrs. Dick was in rose lace.

Preceding the ceremony, a wedding supper was served to the wedding party at the Hotel Hallett at 5:30 o'clock.

After the ceremony, a reception for fifty guests was held at the home of the bride's parents. The bride's three-tiered cake was set on a table covered with white lace, which was ornamented with bouquets of mixed flowers, and lighted by four tall white candles.

Following the receptioo, the couple left for a short wedding trip. The bride's going-away costume was of brown silk, with white organdie collar, with which she wore a white linen coat. Mr. and Mrs. Dick will also spend several days in Charlevoix this week, and after July 21 will be at home at 4685 Larchmont, Detroit.

Both are graduates of Charlevoix High School. The groom is a graduate of Michigan State Normal College, Ypsilanti, and the bride graduated last fall from St. Joseph Mercy College of Nursing, Detroit.

Guests from out of town included Dick Dorrow and Miss Gertrude Linnenkugel, of Ann Arbor; Mr. and Mrs. James W. Anderson of Lansing; Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Usher, son Billy and daughter Louise, and Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Usher and daughter Sally, of Grand Rapids; Mrs. Howard Frink of Chesaning; Mr. and Mrs. Devere Bird of Detroit; Miss Madeleine Lemieur of Petoskey.

DEDICATE SITE OF HISTORIC BATTLE

PLACQUE WILL COMMEMORATE "BATTLE OF PINE RIVER"

Staphon H. Smith, 91, Only Liviog Eye Witness, to Participato in Event Saturday, July 27th

A monument marking site of the Battle of Pine River between mainland fishermen and Mormons from Beaver Island, one of the major historical events in northern Michigan, will be dedicated here at 5 o'clock Saturday, July 27th.

City and bnard of commerce officials will participate. Coast guardsmen will form an honorary guard.

Stephen H. Smith, 9I, one of the region's oldest and first pioneers, will uncover the huge native stone upon which a bronze placque carrying an inscription recording the event, is mounted. Smith's participation in the dedication ceremony will be significant not only because he is one of the region's first pioneers, hut also by the fact that he is the only living witness to the battle.

The site, at the top of Grant street hill on Park avenue, chosen by the board of commerce as location for the monument, was a virgin wilderness when the event took place. Today instead of lofty pines stand a coast guard station, federal fish hatchery and a municipal bathing beach with bath house and playground equipment—all attributing to the growth from virgin stntus to a mecca for vacationists. Stephen Smith has witnessed this transformation.

When Smith was 3 years oid, his father was keeper of the lighthouse at the head of Beaver Island. "King" James J. Strang, leader of the island's Mormon colony, was a frequent visitor at the Smith home, though his visits were unwelcome, for he was determined to drive the family from the island. On one occasion, during the spring following the Mormon famine of the winter of 1852-53, nn attempt was made to rob the Smith home of supplies. When the Mormon boats were a short distance from the lighthouse, a great ice floe came between the boats and shore, preventing a landing.

In 1854 the Smiths came to Pine River, now Charlevoix, for the fishing season and it is believed they were the first white people to set foot upon the shores at this point.

DR. GEORGE F. LISTER CANDIDATE FOR SENATE

Hillman Physician Again in Race for 29th District Office

An advertisement elsewhere in this issue announces the candidacy of Dr. George F. Lister, prominent Hillman physician, for the Republican nomination as senator for the 29th district.

Dr. Lister will again oppose the incumbent, Otto W. Bishop, of Alpena, in a contest repeated from two previous primaries of 1936 and '38. He is an advocate of legislation for the betterment of conservation conditions, especially as they affect fishing, also for the protection and developing of resort interests.

JOHN BUGBEE, PIONEER RESIDENT, DIED FRIDAY

Funeral Service Held Monday With Burial at Norwood Cemetery

John H. Bugbee, 74, died early Friday morning at his home on US-31. He had been ill for several weeks.

Born at West Chazy, N. Y., April 1, 1866, he came to Norwood with his mother, as a child of two and a half years.

He married Miss Ida Wood in 1892. To this union were born three children, two of whom, Allison Bugbee of Elbridge, N. Y., and Mrs. Ben Blank, of Detroit, survive him. A daughter, Ruth, preceded him in death. Mrs. Bugbee died in 1902.

In 1904 he married Mrs. May Smith, who also survives him. In 1911 they moved from Norwood to Charlevoix. Mr. Bugbee engaged in truck gardening for many years. He was a member of the I. O. O. F. lodge, in which he held offices for many years.

Funeral services were held at 2:00 Monday afternoon, July 22, at the See Funeral Home, with Rev. G. Russell Parker officiating. Interment was at Norwood cemetery.

COMMITTEE IS FORMED ON REFUGEE PROBLEM

Group to Seek Additional Information Before Taking Actlon

Another meeting was held Monday evening in the community room, to continue the discussion of the European refugee problem.

It was voted to form a committee of representatives of as many organizations as are interested in the matter. Seven churches, the American Legion and Legion Auxiliary, Kiwanis, school faculty, and Veterans of Foreign Wars were represented in the meeting. Someone was named from ench group to act until their organization names a permanent member.

The acting secretary was asked to write one of the relief organizations, to learn exactly what would be the obligation to be assumed. The committee will be called together as soon as the reply is received.

WATER CARNIVAL AND BOAT PARADE SUNDAY

CHARLEVOIX MARINE CLUB'S SIXTH ANNUAL PROGRAM WILL BE HELD ON ROUND LAKE HARBOR

List of Water Contests, Canoe Races and Tilting, Band Concert, Operetta "Pirates of Penzance", Spectacular Venetian Boat Parade and Fireworks Are Planned

The Charlevoix Marine Club's sixth annual water carnival and Venetian boat parade will be held Sunday, July 28th.

Previously an August event, the program the past three years has been set ahead to provide entertainment for yachtsmen participating in the Chicago-Mackinac Island race who yearly visit this harbor following the classic.

Sunday's program will open with the customary water contests in the early afternoon and climaxes with a spectacular Venetian boat parade and fireworks display over Round lake harbor in the evening.

Age divisions for water contests have been classified as follows: Juveniles, up to 12 years; juniors, 12 to 16 years; seniors, 16 years and over. Entries for swimming and diving events must be registered at the board of commerce office by 3:30 o'clock the afternoon of Saturday, July 27. Canoe tilting and canoe racing are listed along with diving and swimming events. Medals and prizes will be awarded the winners in each event. Stewart Coleman heads the committee in charge of the program of water events.

The evening program will open with a concert by the city band at East Park. Following the concert, campers and counsellors from Camp Charlevoix will present the colorful "Pirates of Penzance," between 8 and 8:45.

The climax of the evening will be the spectacular and colorful Venetian boat parade, for which Charlevoix has become famous and for which thousands gather from northern Michigan resorts and down-state points to witness. It is expected a greater number of boats than customary will participate this year.

The closing feature will be a beautiful fireworks display over Round lake harbor.

As in the past, swimming and diving contests, as well as canoe tilting and races, will be held off East Park. The plan of using rafts and conducting the races parallel to the shore will be followed again, giving spectators an excellent view of the events.

14 CANOIDATES FILE FOR COUNTY OFFICE

TWO REPUBLICAN INCUMBENTS ARE OPPOSED

Prosecutor and Judge of Probate Have Opposition—Two Democrats Filed Nomination Petitions

Fourteen Republican and two Democratic nomination petitions havo been filed with the county clerk for the ten Charlevoix county elective offices at the September 10 primaries.

Eighteen Republicans and five Democrats filed two years ago and four years ago the field numbered 12 Republicans.

At the 4 o'clock deadline Tuesday afternoon, C. Meredith Bice, incumbent, and Norman D. Ance, Boyne City attorney, had filed for prosecuting attorney; Ervan A. Ruegsegger, of Boyne City, the incumhent, and Edwin K. Reuling, East Jordan attorney, for judge of probate. The only other Republican contest is for road commissioner between Ira A. Bradshaw, present office holder, and Samuel A. Rogers, former commissioner, both from East Jordan.

Two Democrats had filed for as many offices, thus there is no opposition for Democratic nominations at the primary.

Following is the complete slate of Republican and Democratic candidates:

INSTALL PORTABLE SKATING RINK HERE

Open-Air Outfit Opens Friday Night on School Grounds

Open-air roller skating will be introduced to Charlevoix enthusiasts Friday evening by Don Groesser, of Traverse City, who is now operating a chain of such amusement places in this region.

A portable maple floor, providing 2,500 square feet of skating surface, will be installed over the tennis courts on the school grounds. A portable device furnishes music.

Further details are contained in an advertisement elsewhere in this issue.

SHOT AT RANDOM

By Ken Ushar

Met up with Ken Widdifield, an old classmate, and we had an opportunity to reminisce a little. Ken, like most of the other few boys in our class, left Charlevoix after school days, and now holds a fine position with Life magazine after 10 years with Literary Digest. Our efforts to locate by memory the rest of the "bunch" found them scattered all over the U. S. A. like most Charlevoix lads have to do in order to get along in this world, and myself the only one located in the "old home town." Between you and me, I never could get together enough folding money to get out, and wouldn't leava if I did, because all the rest of them admit Charlevoix's the finest place they know of and I'm the best off because I don't have to come back to enjoy it.

Well, the Democratic national convention is over except for the repercussions. The delegates, acting under dictate of Democratic bosses, answered the "Roosevelt for Humanity" plea by nominating the President for a third term. Speaking truthfully, the slogan "Roosevelt to Save the Politicians' Jobs" would have been more appropriate. It was a "cut and dried" affair from start to finish—one of the biggest farces ever fos-

LANSING LETTER

By GENE ALLEMAN

Field Manager, Michigan Press Association

Let the word "lawyer" be mentioned to the average Michigan citizen a generation ago, and his mental reaction would probably form a picture along one or more of the following lines:

A "trouble specialist" who was summoned in an emergency, usually when someone became entangled with the law.

A fee-minded expert with a costly vocabulary.

A professional man who meddled in everybody else's business and never did anything about his own.

A man who drafted bills and helped to run legislatures.

A man who was hired by criminals to defeat justice.

These were yesterday's misconceived ideas about the attorney-at-law, the professional man at the bar—ideas which for years past plagued

Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Hinkley, three sons, nnd Mrs. Hinkley's mother, Mrs. A. Feindt, all of Kalamazoo, spent the week end here visiting relatives and friends.

While riding on a hay wagon Wednesday, Wm. McDonough had a stroke of paralysis, fell from the wagon and was picked up unconscious. He was taken to Charlevoix Hospital Thursday, where they found his condition serious, but not without hope for his recovery.

ROCK ELM

Lawrence Jensen had his early cherries picked last week.

The Montmorency cherries are ripening quite rapidly now.

Preparations are under way to start cherry picking in the Porter orchard this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Jensen attended the cherry festival at Traverve City last Friday.

A while ago we were wishing for warmer weather. Now we wish for cooler. Are we mortals ever satisfied?

Mr. Stephenson had to go to the hospital in Charlevoix last week to receive treatment for injuries sustained when he fell from a load of hay.

The hot weather is causing cherry growers considerable trouble with shot hole, which compels them to do extra spraying to prevent damage to trees and crop alike.

CENTRAL LAKE

William Somerville Jr. has purchased the large tent of Wm. Frame, and he and wife are enjoying the fishing season on the lakes.

The Patton family had their reunion at the Zibe DeForest home last Sunday. If all were there, one could make a guess that there were about 75 to a hundred.

Eldon Drake and family are home from Springfield, Ohio, for a short visit with relatives. Eldon has a good position with an incubator company and works several states from coast to coast.

The funeral of Mr. Cawood, an old time resident of this place, was held at the funeral home here last Saturday. He had been a long-time resident farmer in the Wildwood neighborhood northeast of town.

Ethan Edson hns rented the Eastport garage formerly run by John Gregory. Mr. Gregory has employment at a garage at Cadillac. He recently lost a number of tools in a fire that occurred in a garage there.

Mr. and Mrs. Percy Edwards and family of Detroit, and Tom Edwards nnd wife, have been visiting their mother out at the farm at Bay View. Tom was once one of Michigan's star football plnyers, but now has a government position.

Mr. Ontley of Kewadin, who had his eye badly injured a few weeks ago by getting dusted sulphur and arsenic in it, is still in quite n serious condition. He hns a large nnple and cherry orchard and recently got a large reward for best apples.

Looks like farmers nre driven nearly frantic trying to keep ahead of the weeds nnd potato bugs, but things surely nre growing, and we have seen some fine pieces of wheat and corn, and potatoes. Hay probably was never better. If hail doesn't strike the cherry crop, some of that is going to be fairly good.

The condition of Ed. Yettaw, who had a stroke a week ago last Saturday, remains about the same. His cousin, a former Miss Brown of Atwood, but now of Traverse City, came to visit him Sunday on hearing from Mrs. Smok of Frederic that Mr. Yettaw was ill.

Mrs. Ethel Williams Tomlinson, of Detroit, made a visit to Bay View neighborhood last Monday. Her father, A. M. Williams, was resident here years ago. They are resorting at their cottage at Eastport. It had been many years since we had seen Mrs. Tomlinson.

The writer accompanied Maurice Dawson and family on a trip around the new "scenic route" of Lake Michigan. We went by the sign without seeing it, stating "road closed." We had supposed that this highway had been completed some time ago, but were badly disappointed.

The big 21-lb. muskalunge taken in at Snowflake by Miss Mildred Updike, daughter of the former Miss Lulu Moses of this place, attests the fishing qualities of the Intermediate. Here the tnbles were turned. Formerly Moses was fished out of the water, but this time a Moses did the fishing.

CAMP CHARLEVOIX WEEKLY COLUMN

Edited by Herbert W. Johnson

If all the letters in "Camp Charlevoix" were used to tell of the major activities we have had at camp during the past week it would go something like this:

"C" is for the coming of Coach Bachman from Michigan State to teach us the fundamentals of good football and develop further those who want to "kick the ball around." Coach arrived last Thursday and will be with us for two weeks. It is a great thing for Charlevoix!

"A" is for the arrival of the Artists from a local recreation convention, who were with us on Wednesday. These artists asked if they could come over to meet the campers and teach a little of their crafts. The boys were wholehearted in their interest and spent much time with the guests learning to sketch, make elaborate masks and weave baskets.

"M" undoubtedly is for the movies which "Charlie" Bachman has been giving in the evenings to the various sections showing games between his team and others they met during the past season. Coach explsined the plays to us, and once again we found how important brains are in the game.

"P" can mean only one thing here at this time. Its for the "Pirates of Penzance" which is being rehearsed to be given in Charlevoix on Sunday evening at the annual Venetian Night celebration. In addition to the counsellors and seniors who are playing leads, the singers include Doug Stock, Gratton Gray, David Bennett, Chss. Bachman, Jr., Victor Tuthill, Bob Kerr, Junior Greene, Ken Vineent, Bob Armstrong, Ken Sands, Fritz Pinkham, Charles Marcus, Howard Tuthill, Joe Manning, Bill Carr, Dick Wickham, Allyn Wright, David Hunting, Jim Osmer, Jim Kendall, Herb Dow, Jim Curtis, Allen Hunting, Howard VanAntwerp, Tom Bennett, Selmar Sands, Ed. Gordon, Bud Jenkins, Sarg Harvey, Jack Tanner, Jim Howlett and Forbes Stewart. The "Pirates" are under the direction of Ken Smith.

"C" in "Charlevoix" belongs to the canoe activity we've had in camp lately. A canoe trip was taken on Monday by Counsellor Joe Moran and his campers to East Jordan. The sailors were Charles McGuire, Jack Kirsch, Oliver Robinson, Bill Carr, and George Osborne. A canoe-tilting contest was held on Saturday afternoon. The seniors and intermediates participated and the fun was tremendous.

"H" must mean the horse trip that Cowboy Felts took the boys out on Wednesday. It was a cabin group consisting of Ed. Moran and Doug Stock who rode and Allyn Wright, James Osmer, David Hunting, Dave Bennett and Gratton Gray.

Another "A" is for the "Alert" trip down the lake that brought so many stories of high seas and strange adventure to the camp for a few days afterward. Herb Johnson's cabin took the trip with a good crew including Bob Patterson, Tom Bennett, Joseph Manning, Allen Hunting, George Renick and Charles Kolb.

"R" can only mean one thing at Camp Charlevoix — Riding. Every boy in camp is making the most of his opportunity to ride more than he probably will for the rest of his life. This "Dude Ranch" of ours is developing so many horsemen that Horsemaster Felts promises a skillfully performed Horse Show and Rodeo in a few weeks.

"L" is for Leathercraft, and all the fine things the boys are making—belts, wallets, key cases, picture frames and many others. Many of the articles will be held over by the boys until December 25th!

"E" is for the famous "Eleven" who have been participating in the ping pong tournament held here under Wiley Hitchcock's supervision. Howard VanAntwerp (from Kentucky if you'all please!) is the camp's champ. Lorence Burdick was runner-up. Others who played were Dean Hudnutt, Bud Bachman, Jack Wooley, Art Gannett, Lee Bronson, Dave Hunting, Doug Stock and Gratton Gray.

"V" is for Victory—but this time not ours. It belongs to Camp Algonquin who conquered us in good style last Friday at our intercamp baseball and rifle meet. Coach Steele and his team are going to practice for perfection and the return engagement with our neighbor camp.

"O" is for the play "Old Professor Schnidersmultz" which the juniors gave on Saturday evening to tickle the audience attending in the clubhouse. Clark Bouwman directed the performance and Tommy Sample played the main lead. All of the juniors took part in the program.

"I" is for "Interest", not the commercial kind, but the kind that Clarence Fleming is kindling with his fine work in photography. He has a large group of boys who have grown "Camera Conscious" and keep their eyes open for "neglected beauty." Tom Bennett, Joseph Manning, Bud Bachman, Allyn Wright and James Osmer are in the group.

"X"—well, that is our old humdinger! "X" seems to be able to do only one thing in our day and age—it "marks the spot." The only spot we are interested in these days is this spot—Camp Charlevoix. Guess we had better put someone special on the spot this week. Wonder how Dads would do? Guess that's it. Dad's Day is this week end and the boys are all anxious for their Dads to be "on the spot" ready at breakfast to spend a day at camp with them. Mothers are invited to come along and help along too.

Mrs. Florence Carlisle Lewis is now the new school director at Bay View, and we imagine will make a livewire too. She is a graduate of Central Lake high school. Mrs. Helen Marker is the new director at Creswell. Central Lake school board has made a big turnover. All are now professed Christian people, and it is hoped quite a change in school manngement will be the result.

The death of Newton Allen occurred a week ago. Funeral was held a week ago Saturday. Mr. Allen had been a sufferer from asthma for a long time, and had come home from the hospital, and appeared to be better, but there was no help for him. He was a thoroughly conscientious Christian, member of Bellaire Holiness church and will be much missed by his church and many friends.

Ellsworth Canning Company began canning cherries last week at their factory. The crop is short this year, and they are paying 2¾ cents per pound this year, and likely will raise it to 3 cents. Many farmers have but half a crop, and many none. The shot-hole was bad this year, and the fly was found in Antrim and Charlevoix counties. Ellsworth has erected a new warehouse 80 by 180 feet, with modern equipment, supervised by Elmer Rood, who has been in the business since boyhood. It is interesting to hear him tell how he got an order on account of his being able to cook.

ATWOOD NEWS

Mrs. F. Klooster visited Mrs. John VanHouten Friday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Silas Doctor called on Mr. and Mrs. Arthur DeVries Sunday.

John Bos, Adrian Bos and Martha Brock motored to Grand Rapids Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. John Veenstra visited Mr. and Mrs. Paul Veenstra Sunday evening.

Mrs. John VanHouten was supper guest of Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Veenstra Sunday evening.

We are sorry to state that Henry Burns is ill at this writing. We wish him a speedy recovery.

Mrs. Henry Burns and Mrs. John VanHouten visited Mrs. Cornelius Veenstra Thursday afternoon.

Rev. W. Alkema of East Martin, Michigan, conducted services in the Atwood Christisn Reformed church Sunday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Reamsma and children were Sunday guests of the latter's father, Ben VanderHeide, and brother Sieblo.

Mr. and Mrs. Bert Groenink of Grand Rapids, visited his father, L. Groenink, and brothers and sisters here this past week.

We are glad to report that Junior Heeres, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Heeres, who has been quite ill, is better at this writing.

The young people of the Atwood Christian Reformed church, together with young people of the Ellsworth church, enjoyed a weiner roast near East Jordan Friday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Andy Van Scheun of Grand Rapids returned to their home Sunday afternoon after a week's vacation at the home of her father, Bert DeYoung, and brothers and sisters.

Paul and Joseph Veenstra Jr., sons of Joseph Veenstra, and Ray Weirenga, all of Grand Rapids, came for a few days' visit with their grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Paul L. Veenstra.

Paul Marvin Veenstra and Margaret Veenstra of Grand Rapids motored up Wednesday evening with a 1936 Chevrolet coach, which their grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Paul L. Veenstra, purchased. Henry Wassenaar came with them to visit his brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Gerrit Veenstra. They returned to Grand Rapids Thursday afternoon.

BARNARD

Summer weather at last.

Mr. and Mrs. Hiram Klooster of Royal Oak are enjoying a vacation for a time.

Mrs. Kitty Himebaugh of Charlevoix visited her niece, Mrs. A. J. Bolhuis, a few days last week.

Clyde Smith and family attended a family reunion at the Ira Bennett cottage on Torch lake on Sunday.

The Ladies' Aid meeting was attended by a small number. They meet in the evening on August 8th with Mrs. Frank Matchett.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Semerad of Chicago, and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Jirousek of Cicero, Ill., were week end visitors with their friend, James Likes.

Mrs. Earl Blood accompanied Mr. and Mrs. George Cook and daughter to Vanderbilt and Hardwood lake at the state game farm on Sunday and enjoyed a picnic dinner.

NO COUNTY NAMES ON '41 AUTOMOBILE TAGS

Insertion of Name Would Destroy Visibility, It is Claimed

Names of counties will not appear on the 1941 maroon and white Michigan license plates, Harry F. Kelly, secretary of state, announces.

This decision was reached following tests at the General Motors testing ground at Milford, which showed that the name of the county would fill up the plate and therefore, reduce the visibility.

"There is no need for the county name on a plate, anyway," said Mr. Kelly, "because the serial letters tell law enforcement officers or anyone else who is interested enough to inquire, what county and branch office the plates come from."

Mr. Kelly has been appointed chairman of a committee of the American Association of Motor Vehicle Administrators to continue experiments as to what license plate sizes and colors are most readily visible. Michigan received this honor because it is the first state to adopt a uniform licensing system under which special plates are not issued, even to the highest officials or most prominent and influential citizens.

WITH THE FREE MILE-DIAL

CAREFUL SHOPPER type tells you:

"I'm driving the car all day while my husband's at work, so I really buy most of the family gasoline out of my own budget. If I can get even 2 or 3 miles more to a gallon I want to know it. That's why I went to a Conoco station for my Mile-Dial—not just because it's free, but because it really lets you know your true mileage, exactly as a woman wants to really know about anything she pays for. I like buying tested things—the same as any up-to-date consumer—and this certified Mile-Dial is like giving us consumers our own easy way of testing Conoco Bronz-z-z for mileage.

"Anyway, it's almost like a game, dialing your correct mileage on the Mile-Dial—awfully clever. My husband says so, too. By the way, my driving is just as economical as his, the way it proves out on our Mile-Dial. Isn't that interesting? And we're keeping on dialing to make sure of our average in all different driving. Right now, after 61 gallons of Bronz-z-z in all, we're a good 200 miles ahead of what we used to expect from that much gasoline."

"DIDN'T CARE" type of driver says:

"I didn't much care what gasoline I bought as I went along. But this Mile-Dial being free, and really daring you to keep your own close tabs on Conoco Bronz-z-z gasoline, I went for it. And now I know why they've got the gimp to let the Mile-Dial tell all. For you can see by my Mile-Dial right on the dash that I've gone 633 miles on 37 gallons of Conoco Bronz-z-z.

"Now if you'll watch this smart Mile-Dial work—next to automatic—you'll see it giving the answer: . . . above 17 miles to the gallon of Bronz-z-z in this big eight, around town here. But I'm leaving for about a 700-mile trip—mostly open country. So don't be surprised if I even get better mileage. And don't say that's a brag, because you can't help believing the Mile-Dial. Besides settling the economy of Conoco Bronz-z-z it's sort of swell fun dialing your honest mileage. Tho Conoco boys must know what their gasoline's got, to give you a Mile-Dial free. I'll bet you would like one yourself and they're free as air, around a Conoco station. You ought to go quick and get yours."

Stephen Smith witnessed the first Fourth of July celebration ever staged in northern Michigan. That was in 1855 and the event was held at Cross Village. More than 200 men and women attended. The purpose however, was not so much to celebrate Independence Day as to formulate plans to stop the Mormon depredations upon the fishermen. At that time it was claimed boats, cargoes and crews were disappearing with alarming regularity. Nets were being stolen and burned.

In 1856, when Stephen Smith was 7 years old, the trouble between the Mormons and fishermen reached a climax and in July the Battle of Pine River was fought. The fishermen were concealed when the Mormons pulled their boats upon the beach and approached the house where the fishermen's wives were holding a quilting bee. When the Mormons told the women they would kill their husbands, the fishermen opened fire, and in the ensuing battle wounded many of the invaders and drove them off. Young Smith was placed in charge of Louis Gehoo when the fighting began. Gehoo told him to hang onto his pant-leg and then Gehoo advanced with the others. While Smith was holding the pant-leg, a Mormon bullet hit the knee of the same leg.

About six weeks after the battle "King" Strang was slain by Thomas Bedford and immediately the Mormon depredations ceased.

In 1864 Smith cut the first trail from the Lake Michigan shore into the wilderness and his parents took up a homestead in what is now Marion township. That was the family home until 1903, when Stephen Smith and his wife moved to Charlevoix.

VACATIONISTS TOLD EXERCISE CAUTION

"Better to Use Head Than Feet" in Woods, Lake Emergencies

If you are lost or in danger of drowning, it's better to use your head than your feet.

Conservation officers, who each year lead lost persons back to their woods camps, and have rescued quite a number from overturned boats and other water hazards in past seasons, are urging vacationers to prepare themselves for emergencies with a few commonsense rules. Rule number one is to avoid panic by conserving strength and keeping one's reasoning ability.

If lost in the woods, it is better to stop and try to figure out where you are, instead of wandering about. In a storm or fog, or at night, it is best to make camp, after gathering fuel for a fire, and wait for better traveling conditions. Streams and telephone lines may be followed to reach assistance. Yelling, running, and worrying help not at all.

If your canoe or rowboat should capsize, it is safer, according to vital statistics records, to cling to the overturned craft than to try swimming any distance across a lake to shore. Practically all boats will furnish some buoyancy, even when overturned or full of water, for persons hanging onto the sides.

Shoes and heavy outer clothing should be shed to make swimming easier, when swimming is advisable. Due regard for balancing the boat will dictate care in standing up, changing seats, and in rescuing persons from the water—which is best done over the stern, rather than over the side.

A knowledge of artificial respiration, which is part of the training of all conservation officers, may be invaluable for vacationers in remote regions.

KNOW ● YOUR BANK

The Purpose of a Financial Statement

The financial statement of a borrower furnishes the basis for an unsecured loan. A banker must have sufficient information regarding the assets and liabilities of the loan applicant to enable him to decide with some degree of accuracy the ability of the borrower to repay, and when and how repayment can be made.

Financial statements should be submitted at regular intervals because, like milestones or markers along the road, they indicate the course over which the borrower has come to reach his present financial position.

Loans are passed on by a loaning committee so facts regarding the loan applicant should be in written form for the use of the committee and for future reference. It is a distinct advantage to a borrower to furnish important facts in writing to help the banker evaluate his financial condition.

SURVEY STATE HIGHWAYS FOR WAR NEEDS

Special Emphasis Being Placed on Bus and Truck Traffic

There was new evidence this week of the emphasis to be placed on highway transport in Federal programs to step up efficiency in major industries both for national defense and peace time needs.

State Highway Commissioner Murray D. Van Wagoner said that the state highway department was conducting a study of bus and truck traffic on inter-regional highways and on roads listed on War Department maps. Special check is being made of the flow of commodities on these highways. This study was requested by the National Resources Planning Board for use in forming a long-range Federal program for bringing to peak efficiency inter-state highways vital to the nation's commercial and military plans.

Don Smith, executive secretary of the Michigan Trucking Association, advised Van Wagoner that he is preparing reports at the request of the war department showing the number of available units for use in carrying materials needed in connection with national defense orders. The Federal government will act as a clearing house for this information.

MICHIGAN POPULATION IS OVER FIVE MILLION

General Increase Throughout State Given in Report

Michigan's population is approximately 5,235,000, an increase of more than 393,000 during the last decade, preliminary census figures from all except 10 of the 83 counties indicated.

No county showed a population decline from the 1930 census record, although some urban centers showed slight decreases. These were complemented, however, by rises in suburban areas.

The Detroit metropolitan district, including parts of Wayne, Oakland and Macomb counties, has 2,224,114 inhabitants, a boost of 121,263.

GAME KILL LAST SEASON IS ACCOUNTED FOR

Take of Some Species is Larger, Other Species Decreased

While hunters killed less of some game species last hunting season than in the year before, they also took more of other species, comparisons computed from licensees' compulsory report cards by the conservation department's game division reveal.

Greatest drop was in the take of cottontails, from 2,496,844 in 1938-39 to 1,903,382 in 1939-40. Yet the take of snowshoe hares was greater in the more recent season by 549,796 to 512,917.

The bag of sharptailed grouse increased from 9,769 in the earlier season to 13,021 last season, a gain of 33 per cent. The bag of woodcock also was greater, at 60,081 to 55,156 birds shot in the previous year. The prairie chicken take slipped slightly, from 27,271 to 26,643 last year. The pheasant harvest is computed at 907,848 birds in 1939 as against 921,018 in 1938, but the ruffed grouse kill showed a pronounced shift, from 316,787 in 1938 to 296,676 in the recent season.

Where 1938 had no open season on fox and gray squirrels, the take of these rodents was 619,421 fox and 29,570 gray squirrels in the 1939 season.

More raccoon were taken in the 1939 season both by hunting (35,287 to 33,442) and by trapping (8,449 to 6,501). The take by trappers of other furbearers increased also, as the computed 1939-40 record lists 819,447 muskrats to 782,924 in the previous season; 3,602 foxes to 3,159 in the previous season; 19,707 mink to 17,546 in the previous season; 599 bobcats compared with 532 in the previous season; and 713 badgers, compared with 503 in the previous senson.

Trappers took more opossums in 1939-40, 22,590 to 18,634, but they got fewer skunks (34,485 in 1938 and 32,822 in 1939) and fewer weasels (32,550 in 1938 and 27,287 in 1939).

The estimated kill in the 1939-40 hunting and trapping season is computed from reports of about 40 percent of the small game hunters and about 60 per cent of the trappers licensed.

AT THE MOVIES

"Four Sons" Due on Local Screen

Portentous in its timeliness "Four Sons" comes to the Palace Theatre on July 27. The 20th Century-Fox picture features Don Ameche, Eugenie Leontovich, Mary Beth Hughes, Alan Curtis and many others, and has been called one of the most stirring pictures of recent years.

Simplicity is the keynote of "Four Sons" and the cast plays each part with deep and moving conviction. The compelling force of the drama and the power of its emotional nutcry have caused previewers to label it a picture that should be on every "must see" list.

"Mortal Storm" Brings 4 Stars to Palace Screen

The stellar aggregation of Margaret Sullavan, James Stewart, Robert Young and Frank Morgan head the distinguished cast of "The Mortal Storm," film adaptation of the powerful Phyllis Bottome best-seller story of a family caught in the upheaval of a political storm, which will be the headline attraction starting July 28th on the Palace screen.

Important supporting roles are filled by Robert Stack, Bonita Granville, Irene Rich, William T. Orr, Maria Ouspenskaya and Gene Raynolds.

"South of Pago Pago"

Jon Hall recently went home—to the islands.

But instead of landing at his beloved Tahiti, Jon this time found himself "South of Pago Pago," filling one of the leading roles in the new Edward Small production which United Artists will release at the Palace Theatre on August 1-2. The South Seas lad who made his great success in "The Hurricane," again found himself playing the role of a native Polynesian lad in an alluring drama of island life.

For Hall it was almost a real life part. Hall first saw the light of day on March 24 and almost as soon as he learned to walk he was learning to swim in the warm, clear waters of Tahiti. To him the outrigger canoe became as important as a bicycle to the average American boy. He became known as the best young swimmer on the island and won many competitions. In 1926 when the swimming championship of Tahiti was opened to every male and female, young and old, he captured the crown.

one of the most important and influential groups in American life.

Michigan State Bar

For the purpose of effectively raising the standards of the legal profession and of cooperating with the courts to improve the administration of justice, the State Bar of Michigan was created by act of the 1935 legislature and rules of the Michigan Supreme Court.

Headquarters office is located at Lansing in charge of Henry L. Woolfenden, Jr., executive secretary, with a branch office in Detroit.

Every lawyer in active practice in the state—approximately 6300 in all—must pay annual dues of $5 to maintain his membership in the organization.

What has the State Bar done to meet the public's distorted notions?

Its record of achievements is noteworthy.

Free Legal Aid

The State Bar of Michigan accepts reference of every request for legal aid from both the attorney general's office and the governor's office. In addition, it receives numerous requests for legal aid direct from indigent citizens.

Since its creation, every request for legal aid from any place in the state of Michigan has been carefully investigated and every meritorious request has been granted. This has been done without any cost to the indigent citizen requesting the legal aid, or without any cost to state or local welfare agencies.

The State Bar has been working with the state board of law examiners (which gives the examinations) to insure that applicants for admission to the bar are morally as well as mentally qualified to become lawyers. Character examinations have been given to every bar applicant from the city of Detroit for several years, and arrangements are now being completed to have the State Bar of Michigan give thorough character examinations to every bar applicant from every part of the state.

Self-Discipline

The grievance committees of the State Bar are now vested with authority to hear complaints against lawyers and recommend discipline to the courts. Grievance committees have the power of subpoena and indirectly the power to punish for contempt. These powers enable them effectively to investigate charges of professional misconduct.

Since the State Bar was created, fifty persons have been removed from the roll of attorneys either by orders of disbarment or by resignation pursuant to grievance committee action.

The bar is now effectively "cleaning its own house."

Grievance committee work is all handled voluntarily by lawyers, without any compensation whatever, and the witness fees, stenographic fees, etc. are all paid out of State Bar funds.

State Government

The Supreme Court rules creating the State Bar of Michigan provide that the government, the Supreme Court, the legislature, or the judicial council may call upon the State Bar for assistance in any matter relating to Michigan courts, practice and procedure therein, or the administration of justice.

Every governor who has held office since the organization was created has called upon the State Bar for assistance under this provision of the rules, and the State Bar has also received requests for assistance from the Supreme Court, both houses of the legislature, and the judicial council. In every instance the State Bar was able to give the assistance requested, to the complete satisfaction of the governmental official or body who made the request.

The governing board of the State Bar of Michigan is a commission of twenty-one members. These commissioners are busy lawyers, at the peak of their professional careers, yet during the past year they contributed an aggregate of over one year's working time to the profession without one cent of compensation.

In addition to this governing board, over three hundred lawyers on twenty general committees and over one hundred fifty lawyers on seventeen grievance committees contributed time and services of inestimable value to the profession and to the cause of justice in this state, all without any compensation whatever.

This brief summary does not by any means include all of the work being done by the State Bar, but the examples mentioned indicate the potentialities of a self-governing professional organization.

Few professional groups, if any, have worked as vigorously and intelligently — and effectively — toward raising standards as has the State Bar of Michigan during the past five years.

Method for Disinfecting Small Quantities of Well Water for Drinking at Rural Schools, Camps, Resorts

At schools, camps, etc., where the quality of the drinking water is questionable or known to be polluted, a simple, quick and sure method for making the water safe for drinking is to disinfect it with a chlorine solution. Another method would be to boil the water. Unfortunately equipment for boiling is not always available. The following simple method for disinfecting small quantities of well water is therefore suggested.

Purchase from your local drug store or grocery store one 12-ounce can of chlorinated lime (24% available chlorine). The cost is small, usually not more than 10 or 15 cents. Take one level teaspoonful of the chlorinated lime and mix with a like amount of water to make a paste. Add enough water to make one quart. Mix thoroughly and allow lime to settle for 15 minutes. Strain solution through clean flannel or cotton pad into a quart jar with a tight glass top. To disinfect one gallon of well water add one teaspoon of this solution and mix thoroughly. A slight taste should be detected. If the taste is not detected add a few more drops of the solution until taste is noticeable. Ten minutes after solution is applied the water is safe for drinking.

To disinfect a 10-quart bucketful of water add two and a half teaspoonfuls of the chlorine solution.

The chlorine solution in the quart jar will keep its strength for several months if kept tightly capped and away from bright light.

Caution — The procedure as outlined above is for well water only. Ordinarily water from a lake or stream will require more chlorine solution to disinfect it.

Chlorinated lime, if exposed to the air, will rapidly lose its strength. It is necessary, therefore, to seal the can immediately after using. It is advisable to purchase a new can of chlorinated lime each year to eliminate any possibility of making a weakened chlorine solution.

* TIPS ABOUT FOOD *
* IN REFRIGERATOR *
* * * * * * * * * * *

It takes a little engineering knowledge for a housewife to properly use today's modern electric refrigerator, it is agreed by members of the home economics staff at Michigan State College.

Here are some of the ideas that will make the machine operate more efficiently and serve its purpose of reducing food spoilage:

Convenient location is desirable, with a work table nearby to hold food as it is put in or taken out of food storage. The fewer the trips and the fewer times the door must be opened, the more efficient the refrigerator will prove.

More economy is involved in making sure the machine is on the level and in a comparatively cool place away from the stove or from the sunny windows, and in the winter away from radiator or heat register.

Temperatures are important. A temperature a little under 50 degrees Fahrenheit will keep most perishable foods a reasonable length of time. There should be one area that is 45 degrees or lower, and service men usually point out this is directly below or beside the ice or freezing unit.

Milk, cream and butter quickly take up odors from other foods, so these perishables should be kept covered and in the coldest part of the refrigerator. Meats, fish and poultry also rate the colder portion of the storage space. Uncooked or cooked, these should be kept covered and until cooked should not be stored very long, especially fresh fish. Eggs should be popped into the refrigerator, too, as a few hours at room temperature can injure quality.

Cleanliness is essential. Spilled food should be wiped up immediately and a thorough weekly cleaning is recommended with defrosting, or when the ice is low in an ice refrigerator.

$4,500,000. TESTIFIES TO THE DAMAGE WIND CAN DO IN MICHIGAN!

LAST August 8th was a sorry day for Comstock, Michigan. A windstorm, without warning, struck Comstock . . . houses were destroyed, barns collapsed . . . thousands of dollars worth of damage was done! And this windstorm was no freakish experience! Damage wreaking windstorms have struck in all parts of Michigan before . . . and they will strike again!

The State Mutual Cyclone Insurance Company has paid over $4,500,000 to policy holders in settlement of windstorm losses . . . and this astounding figure represents only a fraction of the actual losses caused by windstorms over the last 43 years. Don't wait 'til it's too late! Insure, now, with the reliable State Mutual Cyclone Insurance Company! $1.50 per year pays for $1,000 worth of windstorm protection. There's a State Mutual Cyclone Insurance Company agent in your community! He's your neighbor!

tered upon the American public. There is a glaring contrast between the Democratic and Republican national conventions. Despite Roosevelt's claim he didn't want the nomination, the whole matter had been settled weeks in advance and the convention was a mere formality. At the Republican convention, the fact alone that the "dark horse" was nominated showed clearly that the delegates exercised the greatest of American privileges—that of self expression. And the way the the Democrats passed out propaganda makes Hitler and Mussolini appear like a pair of amateurs. Now we'll wait and see if a man with 4 billion dollars (of the people's money) can be beaten.

There is nothing in the world that is more liable to gond a bunch of fishermen into action than some honest-to-goodness catches. Sunday produced 'em! Jay Metcalf, the Grand Rapids fishin' wizard, and his party including the Missus, daughter Merna, son Bill, and guests, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Squires, snatched four mackinaw beauties from Lake Charlevoix. Squires' 22-pounder was tops and another tipped the scales at 17 pounds. Fitch and Margaret Tooley landed a 15-pounder from Lake Charlevoix and Harry Walstead swears he took six ranging from 3½ to 10 pounds off the South Point reefs in Lake Michigan. Now if someone would herd the bass onto their regular Lake Charlevoix feeding grounds, everyone ought to be pretty happy. They're getting lots of small ones, but the big smallmouth haven't come up yet.

Every effort Charlevoix citizens put forth to make this city more attractive to summer residents is helping themselves and, with that thought in mind, it is not out of place to urge cooperation with the Garden Club's plan to eradicate rag weed, clean up vacant lots and otherwise act to enhance the city's appearance.

Saw a whopping big eagle out by McGeagh creek on the shore drive Sunday. It looked bigger than the one that had local matrons hiding their youngsters under their aprons this spring.

Definition: An old-timer is the man who remembers when he could buy a dozen eggs for a dime, but who forgets that he had to work an hour to earn that dime.

President "Bob" Bridge of the Charlevoix County State Bank received a letter from the Central Hanover Bank and Trust Company, of New York City, congratulating his organization on the 50th anniversary of the start of business relations between the two institutions. Fifty years is a long time and it is nice to have it so acknowledged.

NEWEST SOUND IS INSTALLED AT THEATER

Palace Brings "Magic Voice of Screen" to Its Patrons

Last Friday marked the debut of the new RCA sound reproducing system, dubbed the Magic Voice of the Screen, at the Palace Theater.

During the showing of the feature picture Friday night, decided improvement was noticeable in the natural quality of the screen players' speaking voices, particularly of women's voices, which have been the most difficult to record and reproduce because of the high frequency tones involved.

"The motion picture art has gradually come to depend on sound to an extraordinary degree, to intensify dramatic and emotional effects," declared Mrs. Moon, manager of the Palace Theater. "Recent technical developments from the great RCA Victor research laboratories, including a new ultra-violet light recording process, are being applied in the making of the new pictures in Hollywood's leading movie studios. This means a new era in motion picture realism, which can only be re-created in the theater with the most advanced sound apparatus. Such an apparatus is the Magic Voice of the Screen equipment installed in the Palace Theater. It has the particular advantage of having been designed by the same engineers who are responsible for the new motion picture sound recording technique as well as for the major technical developments in radio and the phonograph."

BELVEDERE HOTEL ACTIVITIES

Mrs. Ernest Roberts of Baltimore, an all season guest at Belvedere, entertained a party of 41 friends at luncheon-bridge, Wednesday. The table was very attractively decorated in a pink and blue color scheme—with artistically arranged bowls of flowers, pink and blue slender tapers and pink and blue nut cups. After partaking of luncheon, the ladies adjourned to the hotel solarium where they enjoyed an afternoon of bridge.

Mrs. William C. Henning of St. Louis, an all season guest at Belvedere, was hostess at a luncheon-bridge party on Tuesday. The table was attractively decorated with low bowls of variegated spring flowers, delicate pink nut cups and dainty place cards. After the luncheon, Mrs. Henning and guests adjourned to the solarium of the hotel where they enjoyed an afternoon of bridge.

The weekly bridge party was attended by a large number of hotel guests, cottage occupants and their friends. At the end of the evening's play, attractive prizes were awarded to Mrs. C. B. Fox, Mrs. J. F. Hickey, Mrs. R. A. Buermann, Mrs. H. B. Stoner, Mrs. Jessie Hill.

An unusually large and appreciative audience enjoyed the Sunday evening concert given in the lounge of the hotel by the Stulberg Trio under the direction of Julius Stulberg.

DEDICATE SITE OF HISTORIC BATTLE

PLACQUE WILL COMMEMORATE "BATTLE OF PINE RIVER"

Stephen H. Smith, 91, Only Living Eye Witness, to Participate in Event Saturday, July 27th

A monument marking site of the Battle of Pine River between mainland fishermen and Mormons from Beaver Island, one of the major historical events in northern Michigan, will be dedicated here at 5 o'clock Saturday, July 27th.

City and board of commerce officials will participate. Coast guardsmen will form an honorary guard.

Stephen H. Smith, 91, one of the region's oldest and first pioneers, will uncover the huge native stone upon which a bronze placque carrying an inscription recording the event, is mounted. Smith's participation in the dedication ceremony will be significant not only because he is one of the region's first pioneers, but also by the fact that he is the only living witness to the battle.

The site, at the top of Grant street hill on Park avenue, chosen by the board of commerce as location for the monument, was a virgin wilderness when the event took place. Today instead of lofty pines stand a coast guard station, federal fish hatchery and a municipal bathing beach with bath house and playground equipment—all attributing to the growth from virgin status to a mecca for vacationists. Stephen Smith has witnessed this transformation.

When Smith was 3 years old, his father was keeper of the lighthouse at the head of Beaver Island. "King" James J. Strang, leader of the island's Mormon colony, was a frequent visitor at the Smith home, though his visits were unwelcome, for he was determined to drive the family from the island. On one occasion, during the spring following the Mormon famine of the winter of 1852-53, an attempt was made to rob the Smith home of supplies. When the Mormon boats were a short distance from the lighthouse, a great ice floe came between the boats and shore, preventing a landing.

In 1854 the Smiths came to Pine River, now Charlevoix, for the fishing season and it is believed they were the first white people to set foot upon the shores at this point.

DR. GEORGE F. LISTER CANDIDATE FOR SENATE

An advertisement elsewhere in this issue announces the candidacy of Dr. George F. Lister, prominent Hillman physician, for the Republican nomination as senator for the 29th district.

Dr. Lister will again oppose the incumbent, Otto W. Bishop, of Alpena, in a contest repeated from two previous primaries of 1936 and '38. He is an advocate of legislation for the betterment of conservation conditions, especially as they affect fishing, also for the protection and developing of resort interests.

JOHN BUGBEE, PIONEER RESIDENT, DIED FRIDAY

Funeral Service Held Monday With Burial at Norwood Cemetery

John H. Bugbee, 74, died early Friday morning at his home on US-31. He had been ill for several weeks.

Born at West Chazy, N. Y., April 1, 1866, he came to Norwood with his mother, as a child of two and a half years.

He married Miss Ida Wood in 1892. To this union were born three children, two of whom, Allison Bugbee of Elbridge, N. Y., and Mrs. Ben Blank, of Detroit, survive him. A daughter, Ruth, preceded him in death. Mrs. Bugbee died in 1902.

In 1904 he married Mrs. May Smith, who also survives him. In 1911 they moved from Norwood to Charlevoix. Mr. Bugbee engaged in truck gardening for many years. He was a member of the I. O. O. F. lodge, in which he held offices for many years.

Funeral services were held at 2:00 Monday afternoon, July 22, at the See Funeral Home, with Rev. G. Russell Parker officiating. Interment was at Norwood cemetery.

COMMITTEE IS FORMED ON REFUGEE PROBLEM

Group to Seek Additional Information Before Taking Action

Another meeting was held Monday evening in the community room, to continue the discussion of the European refugee problem.

It was voted to form a committee of representatives of as many organizations as are interested in the matter. Seven churches, the American Legion and Legion Auxiliary, Kiwanis, school faculty, and Veterans of Foreign Wars were represented in the meeting. Someone was named from each group to act until their organization names a permanent member.

The acting secretary was asked to write one of the relief organizations, to learn exactly what would be the obligation to be assumed. The committee will be called together as soon as the reply is received.

WATER CARNIVAL AND BOAT PARADE SUNDAY

CHARLEVOIX MARINE CLUB'S SIXTH ANNUAL PROGRAM WILL BE HELD ON ROUND LAKE HARBOR

List of Water Contests, Canoe Races and Tilting, Band Concert, Operetta "Pirates of Penzance", Spectacular Venetian Boat Parade and Fireworks Are Planned

The Charlevoix Marine Club's sixth annual water carnival and Venetian boat parade will be held Sunday, July 28th.

Previously an August event, the program the past three years has been set ahead to provide entertainment for yachtsmen participating in the Chicago-Mackinac Island race who yearly visit this harbor following the classic.

Sunday's program will open with the customary water contests in the early afternoon and climaxes with a spectacular Venetian boat parade and fireworks display over Round lake harbor in the evening.

Age divisions for water contests have been classified as follows: Juveniles, up to 12 years; juniors, 12 to 16 years; seniors, 16 years and over. Entries for swimming and diving events must be registered at the board of commerce office by 3:30 o'clock the afternoon of Saturday, July 27. Canoe tilting and canoe racing are listed along with diving and swimming events. Medals and prizes will be awarded the winners in each event. Stewart Coleman heads the committee in charge of the program of water events.

The evening program will open with a concert by the city band at East Park. Following the concert, campers and counsellors from Camp Charlevoix will present the colorful "Pirates of Penzance," between 8 and 8:45.

The climax of the evening will be the spectacular and colorful Venetian boat parade, for which Charlevoix has become famous and for which thousands gather from northern Michigan resorts and down-state points to witness. It is expected a greater number of boats than customary will participate this year.

The closing feature will be a beautiful fireworks display over Round lake harbor.

As in the past, swimming and diving contests, as well as canoe tilting and races, will be held off East Park. The plan of using rafts and conducting the races parallel to the shore will be followed again, giving spectators an excellent view of the events.

WATER CARNIVAL PROGRAM

WM. J. STEVENSON, PIONEER RESIDENT, IS DEAD

Succumbed Friday at State Street Home After Extended Illness

William J. Stevenson, 87, died Friday at his home on State street, after a long period of illness.

He was born February 11, 1853, in Markham, Ontario, Canada. One of the older residents of Charlevoix, he came here in 1881 and opened a blacksmith and wagon shop, which he operated for many years. He was later engaged in the lumber business, in partnership with Fred A. Watson He married Ellen S. Stewart, August 9th, 1882.

He was a member of the Congregational church, and served on the board of deacons until he was confined to his home by illness. He was a kind husband and father, respected by those who knew him for his honesty and integrity of character.

Surviving are the widow; one son, Stewart L., of East Lansing; two daughters, Mrs. Harvey Klockow of South Bend, Ind.; Mrs. T. R. Miller, and two granddaughters, of Dearborn; two sisters and three brothers living in Canada.

Funeral services were conducted by Rev. G. R. Parker at the See Funeral Home, at 4:00 Monday afternoon, July 22. Burial was at Brookside cemetery.

"ELEANOR ROOSEVELT" TO VISIT CHARLEVOIX

Will Lecture and Entertain at Beach Hotel Friday and Saturday

"Eleanor Roosevelt" will arrive in Charlevoix on the 2:24 train, Friday afternoon, for a two-day stay. She will lecture at the Beach Hotel cocktail lounge on Friday and Saturday evenings. Her program will include singing and dancing, in addition to an instructive lecture.

Prominent citizens of Charlevoix will meet "Mrs. Roosevelt" at the depot, and there will be a triumphal parade down Bridge street.

Charming, elegantly gowned "Mrs. Roosevelt" is to be impersonated by a member of the cast of the University of Michigan Mimes Union Opera of 1940, in which the burlesque act appeared. The act was also featured on U. of M. night at the Masonic auditorium in Detroit, in February.

PROMINENT VOICE INSTRUCTOR OPENS STUDIO

14 CANDIDATES FILE FOR COUNTY OFFICE

TWO REPUBLICAN INCUMBENTS ARE OPPOSED

Prosecutor and Judge of Probate Have Opposition—Two Democrats Filed Nomination Petitions

Fourteen Republican and two Democratic nomination petitions have been filed with the county clerk for the ten Charlevoix county elective offices at the September 10 primaries.

Eighteen Republicans and five Democrats filed two years ago and four years ago the field numbered 12 Republicans.

At the 4 o'clock deadline Tuesday afternoon, C. Meredith Bice, incumbent, and Norman D. Ance, Boyne City attorney, had filed for prosecuting attorney; Ervan A. Ruegsegger, of Boyne City, the incumbent, and Edwin K. Reuling, East Jordan attorney, for judge of probate. The only other Republican contest is for road commissioner between Ira A. Bradshaw, present office holder, and Samuel A. Rogers, former commissioner, both from East Jordan.

Two Democrats had filed for as many offices, thus there is no opposition for Democratic nominations at the primary.

Following is the complete slate of Republican and Democratic candidates:

Republican Ticket

Prosecuting Attorney—*C. Meredith Bice, Charlevoix; Norman D. Ance, Boyne City.

Judge of Probate — *Ervan A. Ruegsegger, Boyne City; Edwin K. Reuling, East Jordan.

Sheriff—*Floyd W. Ikens, Charlevoix.

Clerk—*Fenton R. Bulow, Charlevoix.

Treasurer — *Lillis M. Flanders, Charlevoix.

Register of Deeds — *Frank F. Bird, Charlevoix.

Drain Commissioner — Archie C. Belding, Charlevoix.

Coroners—*F. F. McMillan, Charlevoix; *S. B. Stackus, Boyne City.

Surveyor—*S. A. Tokoly, Boyne City.

Road Commissioner — *Ira A. Bradshaw, Samuel A. Rogers, both East Jordan.

Democratic Ticket

Clerk—Luther Hanna, Charlevoix.

Treasurer — Guy C. Eccleston, Charlevoix.

Inasmuch as petitions for legislative offices for this district are filed in Lansing, a complete record of candidates is not available at this time.

INSTALL PORTABLE SKATING RINK HERE

Open-Air Outfit Opens Friday Night on School Grounds

Open-air roller skating will be introduced to Charlevoix enthusiasts Friday evening by Don Groesser, of Traverse City, who is now operating a chain of such amusement places in this region.

A portable maple floor, providing 2,500 square feet of skating surface, will be installed over the tennis courts on the school grounds. A portable device furnishes music.

Further details are contained in an advertisement elsewhere in this issue.

WIFE OF JUDGE PARM C. GILBERT TAKEN BY DEATH

Mrs. Rhoda Emma Gilbert, wife of Judge Parm C. Gilbert, passed away at the family residence, 501 Sixth street, Traverse City, at 1:00 o'clock Friday morning after an illness of several months duration.

Office supplies of any description may be obtained quickly through this office. Charlevoix Courier.—Adv. 3tf

SHOT AT RANDOM

By Keo Usher

Met up with Ken Widlifield, an old classmate, and we had an opportunity to reminisce a little. Ken, like most of the other few boys in our class, left Charlevoix after school days, and now holds a fine position with Life magazine after 10 years with Literary Digest. Our efforts to locate by memory the rest of the "bunch" found them scattered all over the U. S. A. like most Charlevoix lads have to do in order to get along in this world, and myself the only one located in the "old home town." Between you and me, I never could get together enough folding money to get out, and wouldn't leave if I did, because all the rest of them admit Charlevoix's the finest place they know of and I'm the best off because I don't have to come back to enjoy it.

Well, the Democratic national convention is over except for the repercussions. The delegates, acting under dictate of Democratic bosses, answered the "Roosevelt for Humanity" plea by nominating the President for a third term. Speaking truthfully, the slogan "Roosevelt to Save the Politicians' Jobs" would have been more appropriate. It was a "cut and dried" affair from start to finish—one of the biggest farces ever fos-

LANSING LETTER

By GENE ALLEMAN

Field Manager, Michigan Press Associatioe

Let the word "lawyer" be mentioned to the average Michigan citizen a generation ago, and his mental reaction would probably form a picture along one or more of the following lines:

A "trouble specialist" who was summoned in an emergency, usually when someone became entangled with the law.

A fee-minded expert with a costly vocabulary.

A professional man who meddled in everybody else's business and never did anything about his own.

A man who drafted bills and helped to run legislatures.

A man who was hired by criminals to defeat justice.

These were yesterday's misconceived ideas about the attorney-at-law, the professional man at the bar—ideas which for years past plagued

Lawrence Jensen had his early cherries picked last week.

The Montmorency cherries are ripening quite rapidly now.

Preparations are under way to start cherry picking in the Porter orchard this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Jensen attended the cherry festival at Traverse City last Friday.

A while ago we were wishing for warmer weather. Now we wish for cooler. Are we mortals ever satisfied?

Mr. Stephenson had to go to the hospital in Charlevoix last week to receive treatment for injuries sustained when he fell from a load of hay.

The hot weather is causing cherry growers considerable trouble with shot hole, which compels them to do extra spraying to prevent damage to trees and crop alike.

CENTRAL LAKE

William Somerville Jr. has purchased the large tent of Wm. Frame, and he and wife are enjoying the fishing season on the lakes.

The Patton family had their reunion at the Zibe DeForest home last Sunday. If all were there, one could make a guess that there were about 75 to a hundred.

Eldon Drake and family are home from Springfield, Ohio, for a short visit with relatives. Eldon has a good position with an incubator company and works several states from coast to coast.

The funeral of Mr. Cawood, an old time resident of this place, was held at the funeral home here last Saturday. He had been a long-time resident farmer in the Wildwood neighborhood northeast of town.

Ethan Edson has rented the Eastport garage formerly run by John Gregory. Mr. Gregory has employment at a garage at Cadillac. He recently lost a number of tools in a fire that occurred in a garage there.

Mr. and Mrs. Percy Edwards and family of Detroit, and Tom Edwards and wife, have been visiting their mother out at the farm at Bay View. Tom was once one of Michigan's star football players, but now has a government position.

Mr. Oatley of Kewadin, who had his eye badly injured a few weeks ago by getting dusted sulphur and arsenic in it, is still in quite a serious condition. He has a large apple and cherry orchard and recently got a large reward for best apples.

Looks like farmers are driven nearly frantic trying to keep ahead of the weeds and potato bugs, but things surely are growing, and we have seen some fine pieces of wheat and corn, and potatoes. Hay probably was never better. If hail doesn't strike the cherry crop, some of that is going to be fairly good.

The condition of Ed. Yettaw, who had a stroke a week ago last Saturday, remains about the same. His cousin, a former Miss Brown of Atwood, but now of Traverse City, came to visit him Sunday on hearing from Mrs. Smok of Frederic that Mr. Yettaw was ill.

Mrs. Ethel Williams Tomlinson, of Detroit, made a visit to Bay View neighborhood last Monday. Her father, A. M. Williams, was resident here years ago. They are resorting at their cottage at Eastport. It had been many years since we had seen Mrs. Tomlinson.

The writer accompanied Maurice Dawson and family on a trip around the new "scenic route" of Lake Michigan. We went by the sign without seeing it, stating "road closed." We had supposed that this highway had been completed some time ago, but were badly disappointed.

The big 21-lb. muskalunge taken in at Snowflake by Miss Mildred Updike, daughter of the former Miss Lulu Moses of this place, attests the fishing qualities of the Intermediate. Here the tables were turned. Formerly Moses was fished out of the water, but this time a Moses did the fishing.

CAMP CHARLEVOIX WEEKLY COLUMN

Edited by Herbert W. Johnson

If all the letters in "Camp Charlevoix" were used to tell of the major activities we have had at camp during the past week it would go something like this:

"C" is for the coming of Coach Bachman from Michigan State to teach us the fundamentals of good football and develop further those who want to "kick the ball around." Coach arrived last Thursday and will be with us for two weeks. It is a great thing for Charlevoix!

"A" is for the arrival of the Artists from a local recreation convention, who were with us on Wednesday. These artists asked if they could come over to meet the campers and teach a little of their crafts. The boys were wholehearted in their interest and spent much time with the guests learning to sketch, make elaborate masks and weave baskets.

"M" undoubtedly is for the movies which "Charlie" Bachman has been giving in the evenings to the various sections showing games between his team and others they met during the past season. Coach explained the plays to us, and once again we found how important brains are in the game.

"P" can mean only one thing here at this time. Its for the "Pirates of Penzance" which is being rehearsed to be given in Charlevoix on Sunday evening at the annual Venetian Night celebration. In addition to the counsellors and seniors who are playing leads, the singers include Doug Stock, Gratton Gray, David Bennett, Chas. Bachman, Jr., Victor Tuthill, Bob Kerr, Junior Greene, Ken Vincent, Bob Armstrong, Ken Sands, Fritz Pinkham, Charles Marcus, Howard Tuthill, Joe Manning, Bill Carr, Dick Wickham, Allyn Wright, David Hunting, Jim Osmer, Jim Kendall, Herb Dow, Jim Curtis, Allen Hunting, Howard VanAntwerp, Tom Bennett, Selmar Sands, Ed. Gordon, Bud Jenkins, Sarg Harvey, Jack Tanner, Jim Howlett and Forbes Stewart. The "Pirates" are under the direction of Ken Smith.

"C" in "Charlevoix" belongs to the canoe activity we've had in camp lately. A canoe trip was taken on Monday by Counsellor Joe Moran and his campers to East Jordan. The sailors were Charles McGuire, Jack Kirsch, Oliver Robinson, Bill Carr, and George Osborne. A canoe-tilting contest was held on Saturday afternoon. The seniors and intermediates participated and the fun was tremendous.

"H" must mean the horse trip that Cowboy Felts took the boys out on Wednesday. It was a cabin group consisting of Ed. Moran and Doug Stock who rode and Allyn Wright, James Osmer, David Hunting, Dave Bennett and Gratton Gray.

Another "A" is for the "Alert" trip down the lake that brought so many stories of high seas and strange adventure to the camp for a few days afterward. Herb Johnson's cabin took the trip with a good crew including Bob Patterson, Tom Bennett, Joseph Manning, Allen Hunting, George Renick and Charles Kolb.

"R" can only mean one thing at Camp Charlevoix — Riding. Every boy in camp is making the most of his opportunity to ride more than he probably will for the rest of his life. This "Dude Ranch" of ours is developing so many horsemen that Horsemaster Felts promises a skillfully performed Horse Show and Rodeo in a few weeks.

"L" is for Leathercraft, and all the fine things the boys are making—belts, wallets, key cases, picture frames and many others. Many of the articles will be held over by the boys until December 25th!

"E" is for the famous "Eleven" who have been participating in the ping pong tournament held here under Wiley Hitchcock's supervision. Howard VanAntwerp (from Kentucky, if you'all please!) is the camp's champ. Lorence Burdick was runner-up. Others who played were Dean Hudnutt, Bud Bachman, Jack Wooley, Art Gannett, Lee Bronson, Dave Hunting, Doug Stock and Gratton Gray.

"V" is for Victory—but this time not ours. It belongs to Camp Algonquin who conquered us in good style last Friday at our intercamp baseball and rifle meet. Coach Steele and his team are going to practice for perfection and the return engagement with our neighbor camp.

"O" is for the play "Old Professor Schnidersmultz" which the juniors gave on Saturday evening to tickle the audience attending in the clubhouse. Clark Bouwman directed the performance and Tommy Sample played the main lead. All of the juniors took part in the program.

"I" is for "Interest", not the commercial kind, but the kind that Clarence Fleming is kindling with his fine work in photography. He has a large group of boys who have grown "Camera Conscious" and keep their eyes open for "neglected beauty." Tom Bennett, Joseph Manning, Bud Bachman, Allyn Wright and James Osmer are in the group.

"X"—well, that is our old humdinger! "X" seems to be able to do only one thing in our day and age—it "marks the spot." The only spot we are interested in these days is this spot—Camp Charlevoix. Guess we had better put someone special on the spot this week. Wonder how Dads would do? Guess that's it. Dad's Day is this week end and the boys are all anxious for their Dads to be "on the spot" ready at breakfast to spend a day at camp with them. Mothers are invited to come along and help along too.

Mrs. Florence Carlisle Lewis is now the new school director at Bay View, and we imagine will make a livewire too. She is a graduate of Central Lake high school. Mrs. Helen Marker is the new director at Creswell. Central Lake school bonrd bas made a big turnover. All are now professed Christian people, and it is hoped quite n chnnge in school management will be the result.

The death of Newton Allen occurred n week ago. Funeral was held a week ago Saturdsy. Mr. Allen had been a sufferer from asthma for a long time, and had come home from the hospital, and appeared to be better, but there was no help for him. He was a thoroughly consciencious Christian, member of Bellaire Holiness church and will be much missed by his church and many friends.

Ellsworth Canning Company begnn canning cherries lnst week at their factery. The crop is short this year, and they nre paying 2¾ cents per pound this year, and likely will rnise it to 3 cents. Many farmers have but half a crop, and many none. The shot-hole was bad this year, and the fly was found in Antrim and Charlevoix counties. Ellsworth has erected a new warehouse 80 by 180 feet, with modern equipment, supervised by Elmer Rood, who has been in the business since boyhood. It is interesting to hear him tell how he got an order on account of his being able to cook.

ATWOOD NEWS

Henry Wassenaar came with them to visit his brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Gerrit Veenstra. They returned to Grand Rapids Thursday afternoon.

BARNARD

Summer weather at last.

Mr. and Mrs. Hiram Klooster of Royal Oak are enjoying a vacation for a time.

Mrs. Kitty Himebaugh of Charlevoix visited her niece, Mrs. A. J. Bolhuis, a few days last week.

Clyde Smith and family attended a family reunion at the Ira Bennett cottage on Torch lake on Sunday.

The Ladies' Aid meeting was attended by a small number. They meet in the evening on August 8th with Mrs. Frank Matchett.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Semorad of Chicago, and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Jirousek of Cicero, Ill., were week end visitors with their friend, James Likes.

Mrs. Earl Blood accompanied Mr. and Mrs. George Cook and daughter to Vanderbilt and Hardwood lake at the state game farm on Sunday and enjoyed a picnic dinner.

NO COUNTY NAMES ON '41 AUTOMOBILE TAGS

Insertion of Name Would Destroy Visibility, It is Claimed

Names of counties will not appear on the 1941 maroon and white Michigan license plates, Harry F. Kelly, secretary of state, announces.

This decision was reached following tests at the General Motors testing ground at Milford, which showed that the name of the county would fill up the plate and therefore, reduce the visibility.

"There is no need for the county name on a plate, anyway," said Mr. Kelly, "because the serial letters tell law enforcement officers or anyone else who is interested enough to inquire, what county and branch office the plates come from."

Mr. Kelly has been appointed chairman of a committee of the American Association of Motor Vehicle Administrators to continue experiments as to what license plate sizes and colors are most readily visible. Michigan received this honor because it is the first state to adopt a uniform licensing system under which special plates are not issued, even to the highest officials or most prominent and influential citizens.

2 typical experiences WITH THE FREE MILE-DIAL

CAREFUL SHOPPER type tells you:

"I'm driving the car all day while my husband's at work, so I really buy most of the family gasoline out of my own budget. If I can get even 2 or 3 miles more to a gallon I want to know it. That's why I went to a Conoco station for my Mile-Dial—not just because it's free, but because it really lets you know your true mileage, exactly as a woman wants to really know about anything she pays for. I like buying tested things—the same as any up-to-date consumer—and this certified Mile-Dial is like giving us consumers our own easy way of testing Conoco Bronz-z-z for mileage.

"Anyway, it's almost like a game, dialing your correct mileage on the Mile-Dial—awfully clever. My husband says so, too. By the way, my driving is just as economical as his, the way it proves out on our Mile-Dial. Isn't that interesting? And we're keeping on dialing to make sure of our average in all different driving. Right now, after 61 gallons of Bronz-z-z in all, we're a good 200 miles ahead of what we used to expect from that much gasoline."

"DIDN'T CARE" type of driver says:

"I didn't much care what gasoline I bought as I went along. But this Mile-Dial being free, and really daring you to keep your own close tabs on Conoco Bronz-z-z gasoline, I went for it. And now I know why they've got the gimp to let the Mile-Dial tell all. For you can see by my Mile-Dial right on the dash that I've gone 633 miles on 37 gallons of Conoco Bronz-z-z.

"Now if you'll watch this smart Mile-Dial work—next to automatic—you'll see it giving the answer: . . . above 17 miles to the gallon of Bronz-z-z in this big eight, around town here. But I'm leaving for about a 700-mile trip—mostly open country. So don't be surprised if I even get better mileage. And don't say that's a brag, because you can't help believing the Mile-Dial. Besides settling the economy of Conoco Bronz-z-z it's sort of swell fun dialing your honest mileage. The Conoco boys must know what their gasoline's got, to give you a Mile-Dial free. I'll bet you would like one yourself and they're free as air, around a Conoco station. You ought to go quick and get yours."

Stephen Smith witnessed the first Fourth of July celebration ever staged in northern Michigan. That was in 1855 and the event was held at Cross Village. More than 200 men and women attended. The purpose however, was not so much to celebrate Independence Day as to formulate plans to stop the Mormon depredations upon the fishermen. At that time it was claimed boats, cargoes and crews were disappearing with alarming regularity. Nets were being stolen and burned.

In 1856, when Stephen Smith was 7 years old, the trouble between the Mormons and fishermen reached a climax and in July the Battle of Pine River was fought. The fishermen were concealed when the Mormons pulled their boats upon the beach and approached the house where the fishermen's wives were holding a quilting bee. When the Mormons told the women they would kill their husbands, the fishermen opened fire, and in the ensuing battle wounded many of the invaders and drove them off. Young Smith was placed in charge of Louis Geboo when the fighting began. Geboo told him to hang onto his pant-leg and then Geboo advanced with the others. While Smith was holding the pant-leg, a Mormon bullet hit the knee of the same leg.

About six weeks after the battle "King" Strang was slain by Thomas Bedford and immediately the Mormon depredations ceased.

In 1864 Smith cut the first trail from the Lake Michigan shore into the wilderness and his parents took up a homestead in what is now Marion township. That was the family home until 1903, when Stephen Smith and his wife moved to Charlevoix.

VACATIONISTS TOLD EXERCISE CAUTION

"Better to Use Head Than Feet" in Woods, Lake Emergencies

If you are lost or in danger of drowning, it's better to use your head than your feet.

Conservation officers, who each year lead lost persons back to their woods camps, and have rescued quite a number from overturned boats and other water hazards in past seasons, are urging vacationers to prepare themselves for emergencies with a few commonsense rules. Rule number one is to avoid panic by conserving strength and keeping one's reasoning ability.

If lost in the woods, it is better to stop and try to figure out where you are, instead of wandering about. In a storm or fog, or at night, it is best to make camp, after gathering fuel for a fire, and wait for better traveling conditions. Streams and telephone lines may be followed to reach assistance. Yelling, running, and worrying help not at all.

If your canoe or rowboat should capsize, it is safer, according to vital statistics records, to cling to the overturned craft than to try swimming any distance across a lake to shore. Practically all boats will furnish some buoyancy, even when overturned or full of water, for persons hanging onto the sides.

Shoes and heavy outer clothing should be shed to make swimming easier, when swimming is advisable. Due regard for balancing the boat will dictate care in standing up, changing seats, and in rescuing persons from the water—which is best done over the stern, rather than over the side.

A knowledge of artificial respiration, which is part of the training of all conservation officers, may be invaluable for vacationers in remote regions.

KNOW ● YOUR BANK

The Purpose of a Financial Statement

THE financial statement of a borrower furnishes the basis for an unsecured loan. A banker must have sufficient information regarding the assets and liabilities of the loan applicant to enable him to decide with some degree of accuracy the ability of the borrower to repay, and when and how repayment can be made.

Financial statements should be submitted at regular intervals because, like milestones or markers along the road, they indicate the course over which the borrower has come to reach his present financial position.

Loans are passed on by a loaning committee so facts regarding the loan applicant should be in written form for the use of the committee and for future reference. It is a distinct advantage to a borrower to furnish important facts in writing to help the banker evaluate his financial condition.

SURVEY STATE HIGHWAYS FOR WAR NEEDS

Special Emphasis Being Placed on Bus and Truck Traffic

There was new evidence this week of the emphasis to be placed on highway transport in Federal programs to step up efficiency in major industries both for national defense and peace time needs.

State Highway Commissioner Murray D. Van Wagoner said that the state highway department was conducting a study of bus and truck traffic on inter-regional highways and on roads listed on War Department maps. Special check is being made of the flow of commodities on these highways. This study was requested by the National Resources Planning Board for use in forming a long-range Federal program for bringing to peak efficiency inter-state highways vital to the nation's commercial and military plans.

Don Smith, executive secretary of the Michigan Trucking Association, advised Van Wagoner that he is preparing reports at the request of the war department showing the number of available units for use in carrying materials needed in connection with national defense orders. The Federal government will act as a clearing house for this information.

MICHIGAN POPULATION IS OVER FIVE MILLION

General Increase Throughout State Given in Report

Michigan's population is approximately 5,235,000, an increase of more than 393,000 during the last decade, preliminary census figures from all except 10 of the 83 counties indicated.

No county showed a population decline from the 1930 census record, although some urban centers showed slight decreases. These were complemented, however, by rises in suburban areas.

The Detroit metropolitan district, including parts of Wayne, Oakland and Macomb counties, has 2,224,114 inhabitants, a boost of 121,263.

GAME KILL LAST SEASON IS ACCOUNTED FOR

Take of Some Species is Larger, Other Species Decreased

While hunters killed less of some game species last hunting season than in the year before, they also took more of other species, comparisons computed from licensees' compulsory report cards by the conservation department's game division reveal.

Greatest drop was in the take of cottontails, from 2,496,844 in 1938-39 to 1,903,382 in 1939-40. Yet the take of snowshoe hares was greater in the more recent season by 549,796 to 512,917.

The bag of sharptailed grouse increased from 9,769 in the earlier season to 13,021 last season, a gain of 33 per cent. The bag of woodcock also was greater, at 60,081 to 55,156 birds shot in the previous year. The prairie chicken take slipped slightly, from 27,271 to 26,643 last year. The pheasant harveat is computed at 907,848 birds in 1939 as against 921,018 in 1938, but the ruffed grouse kill showed a pronounced shift, from 316,787 in 1938 to 296,676 in the recent season.

Where 1938 had no open season on fox and gray squirrels, the take of these rodents was 619,421 fox and 29,570 gray squirrels in the 1939 season.

More raccoon were taken in the 1939 season both by hunting (35,287 to 33,442) and by trapping (8,449 to 6,501). The take by trappers of other furbearers increased also, as the computed 1939-40 record lists 819,447 muskrats to 782,924 in the previous season; 3,602 foxes to 3,159 in the previous season; 19,707 mink to 17,546 in the previous season; 599 bobcats compared with 532 in the previous season; and 713 badgers, compared with 503 in the previous season.

Trappers took more opossums in 1939-40, 22,590 to 18,634, but they got fewer skunks (34,485 in 1938 and 32,822 in 1939) and fewer weasels (32,550 in 1938 and 27,287 in 1939).

The estimated kill in the 1939-40 hunting and trapping season is computed from reports of about 40 percent of the small game hunters and about 66 per cent of the trappers licensed.

AT THE MOVIES

"Four Sons" Due on Local Screen

Portentous in its timeliness "Four Sons" comes to the Palace Theatre on July 27. The 20th Century-Fox picture features Don Ameche, Eugenie Leontovich, Mary Beth Hughes, Alan Curtis and many others, and has been called one of the most stirring pictures of recent years.

Simplicity is the keynote of "Four Sons" and the cast plays each part with deep and moving conviction. The compelling force of the drama and the power of its emotional outcry have caused previewers to label it a picture that should be on every "must see" list.

"Mortal Storm" Brings 4 Stars to Palace Screen

The stellar aggregation of Margaret Sullavan, James Stewart, Robert Young and Frank Morgan head the distinguished cast of "The Mortal Storm," film adaptation of the powerful Phyllis Bottomo best-seller story of a family caught in the upheaval of a political storm, which will be the headline attraction starting July 28th on the Palace screen.

Important supporting roles are filled by Robert Stack, Bonita Granville, Irene Rich, William T. Orr, Maria Ouspenskaya and Gene Raynolds.

"South of Pago Pago"

Jon Hall recently went home—to the islands.

But instead of landing at his beloved Tahiti, Jon this time found himself "South of Pago Pago," filling one of the leading roles in the new Edward Small production which United Artists will release at the Palace Theatre on August 1-3. The South Seas lad who made his great success in "The Hurricane," again found himself playing the role of a native Polynesian lad in an alluring drama of island life.

For Hall it was almost a real life part. Hall first saw the light of day on March 24 and almost as soon as he learned to walk he was learning to swim in the warm, clear waters of Tahiti. To him the outrigger canoe became as important as a bicycle to the average American boy. He became known as the best young swimmer on the island and won many competitions. In 1926 when the swimming championship of Tahiti was opened to every male and female, young and old, he captured the crown.

one of the most important and influential groups in American life.

Michigan State Bar

For the purpose of effectively raising the standards of the legal profession and of cooperating with the courts to improve the administration of justice, the State Bar of Michigan was created by act of the 1935 legislature and rules of the Michigan Supreme Court.

Headquarters office is located at Lansing in charge of Henry L. Woolfenden, Jr., executive secretary, with a branch office in Detroit.

Every lawyer in active practice in the state—approximately 6300 in all—must pay annual dues of $5 to maintain his membership in the organization.

What has the State Bar done to meet the public's distorted notions?

Its record of achievements is noteworthy.

Free Legal Aid

The State Bar of Michigan accepts reference of every request for legal aid from both the attorney general's office and the governor's office. In addition, it receives numerous requests for legal aid direct from indigent citizens.

Since its creation, every request for legal aid from any place in the state of Michigan has been carefully investigated and every meritorious request has been granted. This has been done without any cost to the indigent citizen requesting the legal aid, or without any cost to state or local welfare agencies.

The State Bar has been working with the state board of law examiners (which gives the examinations) to insure that applicants for admission to the bar are morally as well as mentally qualified to become lawyers. Character examinations have been given to every bar applicant from the city of Detroit for several years, and arrangements are now being completed to have the State Bar of Michigan give thorough character examinations to every bar applicant from every part of the state.

Self-Discipline

The grievance committees of the State Bar are now vested with authority to hear complaints against lawyers and recommend discipline to the courts. Grievance committees have the power of subpoena and indirectly the power to punish for contempt. These powers enable them effectively to investigate charges of professional misconduct.

Since the State Bar was created, fifty persons have been removed from the roll of attorneys either by orders of disbarment or by resignation pursuant to grievance committee action.

The bar is now effectively "cleaning its own house."

Grievance committee work is all handled voluntarily by lawyers, without any compensation whatever, and the witness fees, stenographic fees, etc. are all paid out of State Bar funds.

State Government

The Supreme Court rules creating the State Bar of Michigan provide that the government, the Supreme Court, the legislature, or the judicial council may call upon the State Bar for assistance in any matter relating to Michigan courts, practice and procedure therein, or the administration of justice.

Every governor who has held office since the organization was created has called upon the State Bar for assistance under this provision of the rules, and the State Bar has also received requests for assistance from the Supreme Court, both houses of the legislature, and the judicial council. In every instance the State Bar was able to give the assistance requested, to the complete satisfaction of the governmental official or body who made the request.

The governing board of the State Bar of Michigan is a commission of twenty-one members. These commissioners are busy lawyers, at the peak of their professional careers, yet during the past year they contributed an aggregate of over one year's working time to the profession without one cent of compensation.

In addition to this governing board, over three hundred lawyers on twenty general committees and over one hundred fifty lawyers on seventeen grievance committees contributed time and services of inestimable value to the profession and to the cause of justice in this state, all without any compensation whatever.

This brief summary does not by any means include all of the work being done by the State Bar, but the examples mentioned indicate the potentialities of a self-governing professional organization.

Few professional groups, if any, have worked as vigorously and intelligently — and effectively — toward raising standards as has the State Bar of Michigan during the past five years.

Method for Disinfecting Small Quantities of Well Water for Drinking at Rural Schools, Camps, Resorts

At schools, camps, etc., where the quality of the drinking water is questionable or known to be polluted, a simple, quick and sure method for making the water safe for drinking is to disinfect it with a chlorine solution. Another method would be to boil the water. Unfortunately equipment for boiling is not always available. The following simple method for disinfecting small quantities of well water is therefore suggested.

Purchase from your local drug store or grocery store one 12-ounce can of chlorinated lime (24% available chlorine). The cost is small, usually not more than 10 or 15 cents. Take one level teaspoonful of the chlorinated lime and mix with a like amount of water to make a paste. Add enough water to make one quart. Mix thoroughly and allow lime to settle for 15 minutes. Strain solution through clean flannel or cotton pad into a quart jar with a tight glass top. To disinfect one gallon of well water add one teaspoon of this solution and mix thoroughly. A slight taste should be detected. If the taste is not detected add a few more drops of the solution until taste is noticeable. Ten minutes after solution is applied the water is safe for drinking.

To disinfect a 10-quart bucketful of water add two and a half teaspoonfuls of the chlorine solution.

The chlorine solution in the quart jar will keep its strength for several months if kept tightly capped and away from bright light.

Caution — The procedure as outlined above is for well water only. Ordinarily water from a lake or stream will require more chlorine solution to disinfect it.

Chlorinated lime, if exposed to the air, will rapidly lose its strength. It is necessary, therefore, to seal the can immediately after using. It is advisable to purchase a new can of chlorinated lime each year to eliminate any possibility of making a weakened chlorine solution.

TIPS ABOUT FOOD IN REFRIGERATOR

It takes a little engineering knowledge for a housewife to properly use today's modern electric refrigerator, it is agreed by members of the home economics staff at Michigan State College.

Here are some of the ideas that will make the machine operate more efficiently and serve its purpose of reducing food spoilage:

Convenient location is desirable, with a work table nearby to hold food as it is put in or taken out of food storage. The fewer the trips and the fewer times the door must be opened, the more efficient the refrigerator will prove.

More economy is involved in making sure the machine is on the level and in a comparatively cool place away from the stove or from the sunny windows, and in the winter away from radiator or heat register.

Temperatures are important. A temperature a little under 50 degrees Fahrenheit will keep most perishable foods a reasonable length of time. There should be one area that is 45 degrees or lower, and service men usually point out this is directly below or beside the ice or freezing unit.

Milk, cream and butter quickly take up odors from other foods, so these perishables should be kept covered and in the coldest part of the refrigerator. Meats, fish and poultry also rate the colder portion of the storage space. Uncooked or cooked, these should be kept covered and until cooked should not be stored very long, especially fresh fish. Eggs should be popped into the refrigerator, too, as a few hours at room temperature can injure quality.

Cleanliness is essential. Spilled food should be wiped up immediately and a thorough weekly cleaning is recommended with defrosting, or when the ice is low in an ice refrigerator.

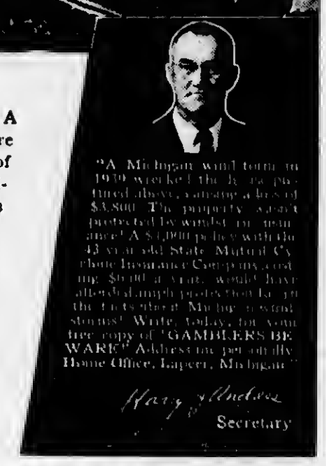
$4,500,000. TESTIFIES TO THE DAMAGE WIND CAN DO IN MICHIGAN!

LAST August 8th was a sorry day for Comstock, Michigan. A windstorm, without warning, struck Comstock . . . houses were destroyed, barns collapsed . . . thousands of dollars worth of damage was done! And this windstorm was no freakish experience! Damage wreaking windstorms have struck in all parts of Michigan before . . . and they will strike again!

The State Mutual Cyclone Insurance Company has paid over $4,500,000 to policy holders in settlement of windstorm losses . . . and this astounding figure represents only a fraction of the actual losses caused by windstorms over the last 43 years. Don't wait 'til it's too late! Insure, now, with the reliable State Mutual Cyclone Insurance Company! $1.50 per year pays for $1,000 worth of windstorm protection. There's a State Mutual Cyclone Insurance Company agent in your community! He's your neighbor!



"A Michigan wind storm in 1939 wrecked the barn pictured above, causing a loss of $4,500. The property owner protected by windstorm insurance! A $1,000 policy with the 43 year old State Mutual Cyclone Insurance Company, costing $1.50 a year, would have offered ample protection for all the facts about Michigan windstorms! tered upon the American public. There is a glaring contrast between the Democratic and Republican national conventions. Despite Roosevelt's claim he didn't want the nomination, the whole matter had been settled weeks in advance and the convention was a mere formality. At the Republican convention, the fact alone that the "dark horse" was nominated showed clearly that the delegates exercised the greatest of American privileges—that of self expression. And the way the the Democrats passed out propaganda makes Hitler and Mussolini appear like a pair of amateurs. Now we'll wait and see if a man with 4 bitlion dollars (of the people's money) can be beaten.

There is nothing in the world that is more liable to goad a buneh of fishermen into aetion than some honest-to-goodness catches. Sunday produced 'em! Jay Metcalf, the Grand Rapids fishin' wizard, and his party including the Missus, daughter Merna, son Bill, and guests, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Squires, snatched four mackinaw beauties from Lake Charlevoix. Squires' 22-pounder was tops and another tipped the scales at 17 pounds. Fitch and Margaret Tooley landed a 15-pounder from Lake Charlevoix and Harry Walstead swears he took six ranging from 3½ to 10 pounds off the South Point reefs in Lake Michigan. Now if someone would herd the bass onto their regular Lake Charlevoix feeding grounds, everyone ought to be pretty happy. They're getting lots of small ones, but the big smallmouth haven't come up yet.

Every effort Charlevoix citizens put forth to make this city more attractive to summer residents is helping themselves and, with that thought in mind, it is not out of place to urge cooperation with the Garden Club's plan to eradicate rng weed, clean up vacant lots and otherwise act to enhance the city's appearance.

Saw a whopping big eagle out by McGeagh creek on the shore drive Sunday. It looked bigger than the one that had local matrons hiding their youngsters under their aprons this spring.

Definition: An old-timer is the man who remembers when he could buy a dozen eggs for a dime, but who forgets that he had to work an hour to earn that dime.

President "Bob" Bridge of the Charlevoix County State Bank received a letter from the Central Hanover Bank and Trust Company, of New York City, congratulating his organization on the 50th anniversary of the start of business relations between the two institutions. Fifty years is a long time and it is nice to have it so acknowledged.

NEWEST SOUND IS INSTALLED AT THEATER

Palace Brings "Magic Voice of Screen" to Its Patrons

Last Friday marked the debut of the new RCA sound reproducing system, dubbed the Magic Voice of the Screen, at the Palace Theater.

During the showing of the feature picture Friday night, decided improvement was noticeable in the natural quality of the screen players' speaking voices, particularly of women's voices, which have been the most difficult to record and reproduce because of the high frequency tones involved.

"The motion picture art has gradually come to depend on sound to an extraordinary degree, to intensify dramatic and emotional effects," declared Mrs. Moon, manager of the Palace Theater. "Recent technical developments from the great RCA Victor research laboratories, including a new ultra-violet light recording process, are being applied in the making of the new pictures in Hollywood's leading movie studios. This means a new era in motion picture realism, which can only be re-created in the theater with the most advanced sound apparatus. Such an apparatus is the Magic Voice of the Screen equipment installed in the Palace Theater. It has the particular advantage of having been designed by the same engineers who are responsible for the new motion picture sound recording technique as well as for the major technical developments in radio and the phonograph."

BELVEDERE HOTEL ACTIVITIES

Mrs. Ernest Roberts of Baltimore, an all season guest at Belvedere, entertained a party of 41 friends at luncheon-bridge, Wednesday. The table was very attractively decorated in a pink and blue color scheme—with artistically arranged bowls of flowers, pink and blue slender tapers and pink and blue nut cups. After partaking of luncheon, the ladies adjourned to the hotel solarium where they enjoyed an afternoon of bridge.

Mrs. William C. Henning of St. Louis, an all season guest at Belvedere, was hostess at a luncheon-bridge party on Tuesday. The table was attractively decorated with low bowls of varigated spring flowers, delicate pink nut cups and dainty place cards. After the luncheon, Mrs. Henning and guests adjourned to the solarium of the hotel where they enjoyed an afternoon of bridge.

The weekly bridge party was attended by a large number of hotel guests, cottage occupants and their friends. At the end of the evening's play, attractive prizes were awarded to Mrs. C. B. Fox, Mrs. J. F. Hickey, Mrs. R. A. Buermann, Mrs. H. B. Stoner, Mrs. Jessie Hill.

An aunusually large and appreciative audience enjoyed the Sunday evening concert given in the lounge of the hotel by the Stulberg Trio under the direction of Julius Stulberg.

CAMP CHARLEVOIX ENJOYS DAD'S DAY

ANNUAL FEATURE WAS EVENT OF LAST SATURDAY

Nearly Hundred Parents of Campers Went Through Activities, Furnishing Rivalry for Sons

(By Herbert W. Johnsun)

Camp Charlevnix played host Saturday to the largest group of parents and friends of the campers ever assembled for the annual "Dad's Day" celebration. Many outstanding men in Michigan and surrounding states attended.

The buys and their fathers had breakfast together in the attractive camp clubhouse, after which they went to their various activities; with the boys and dads rivaling in sailing, riflery, wrestling, photography, and many others.

In the afternoon the annual baseball gumes were played between the dads and the boys with the boys winning in two of the three sections. Bill Felts, the camp cowboy from Arizona, then staged a riding show which was well received by the guests and gave the boys opportunity to display many skills they have developed under the "Dude Ranch" features of the camp. Alex Galton and Cowboy Felts gave a skillful exhibition on two riding horses.

A banquet in the evening for over 300 people was given, presided over by Kenneth Smith of the Detroit University School, Grosse Pointe. Camper Allyn Wright welcomed the guests on behalf of the campers, and then Lewis C. Reimann, the camp owner and director, was introduced and spoke of the spirit and tradition of the fourteen year old camp. He was followed by Dr. Mont Wickham of Detroit, who was re-elected head of the Father's Committee.

A significant feature of the day's program was the dedication of a hand-carved placque in honor of Mr. Reimann by D. D. Hunting of Grand Rapids on behalf of some of the fathers who attended the celebration last year. The carving was done by George Bach, Bavarian wood carver, who is one of the few skilled carvers in the country and supervised the carving of the camp's totem pole which took two years to complete.

HOSPITAL DIRECTORS ELECTED WEDNESDAY

Craig and McMillan Re-Elected; Allen Campbell New Member

One new director was chosen, snd two present members of the board were re-elected at the annual meeting of the hoard of trustees of Charlevoix Hospital last Wednesday evening.

Allen Cumpbell was chosen to fill the unexpired term of the late Dr. R. B. Armstrong. Dr. F. F. McMillan and Harry A. Craig, whose terms had expired, were re-eleetgd.

The annual report was reud by E. J. Edwards, secretary.

MANY CANDIDATES SEEK LEGISLATIVE OFFICES

Four in Field for Congress; Three for State Senate

Petitions filed for congressional and legislative offices for districts which include Charlevoix county, unavailable last week, have heen announced from Lansing.

For Congress, 11th district, are the incumbent Fred Bradley, Rogers City, and U. S. A. Heggblom, Manistique, Republicans; Wendell S. Lund, Escanaba, and Oswald T. McGinn, Cheboygan, Democrats.

For State Senate, 29th district: Otto W. Bishop, Alpena, the incumbent, and George F. Lister, Hillman, Republicans; Robert H. Rayburn, Alpena, Democrat.

For State Representative, Charlevoix-Leelanau district: Louis E. Anderson, Northport, and Russell Bolton, Empire, Republicans; Calvin J. Bennett, East Jordan, and William J. Schram, Omena, Democrats.

Inasmuch as voters in 1938 approved an amendment providing a nnn-partisan ballot for election of candidates for judicial offices as a means of removing these offices frnm politics, petitions may be filed for the office of judge of probate until August 6th.

MICHIGAN STATE FAIR AUGUST 30 TO SEPT. 8

Self-Sustaining Plan is Popular With Michigan Taxpayers

Michigan taxpayers will have far greater interest in the 1940 Michigan State Fair than for many years past, because for the second consecutive time in its long history, the operation of the fair will not cost the taxpayers any money.

The 91st annual State Fair will be held at the fair grounds, Detroit, August 30 to September 8 inclusive. In years prior to 1939, the cost of the fair to the state has been high, sometimes reaching a figure close to a half million dollars. Last year, however, under the administration of Dr. Linwood W. Snow of Northville, the Michigan State Fair not only demonstrated its ability to stand on its own feet, without aid from the state treasury, but also to wipe out an overhanging halance of past due purchase orders totaling $49,602.02, to which the present administration fell heir before the opening of the 1939 fair.

WATER CARNIVAL A SUCCESSFUL EVENT

RAIN CAUSED CANCELLATION SOME AFTERNOON FEATURES; EVENING PROGRAM CARRIED OUT

Edward Moran, Ohioan, Again Winner Feature Half-Mile Swim; Large Entry in Venetian Parade; City Packed to Overflow With Spectators Gathered for Program

A six-year record for perfect weather was marred Sunday when rain caused cuncellation of several afternoon features of the Charlevoix Marine Club 6th annual water carnival.

Diving and canoe tilting events were culled off when a shower scattered participants and spectators, but even though rain persistently threatened, the evening program wus carried out. After swimming and diving contests drew as large, or larger entry than previous years. The many points from which enntestants entered gave an indication of interest in water sports and increasing popularity of the program. The crowd which witnessed these events was but a very smull portion of the thuusands guthered in the evening.

Moran Wins Feature Swim

Swimming competition provided a field day for Camp Charlevoix entrants, who walked off with a lion's share of first and second places. The Charlevoix Marine Club trophy, awarded for the feature ½-mile free-for-all, went to Ed. Moran, of Toledo, Ohio, who tied with his brother, Joseph, for first place and won the toss for the cup. It was Edward's second victory in consecutive years. The Morans are Camp Charlevoix swimming instructors. Ed. is attending Cornell Law School, Ithaca, N. Y., and Joe is attending Western Reserve Medical School, Cleveland, Ohio.

Clark and George Bowman, brothers, of Lansing, won the mile canoe race, out-stroking the local team of Bill and Bob Bergman.

Other results:

Juvenile boys 50-yd. swim—1st Lee Kahn, Glencoe, Ill.; 2nd, Robert King, Cincinnati, O.

Canoe race—1st, Clark and George Bowman, Lansing; 2nd, Bill and Bob Bergman, Charlevoix.

Junior girls, 50-yd. swim — 1st, Marsha Steketee, Grand Rapids; 2nd, Margaret Smith, Royal Oak.

½-mile free-for-all—1st and 2nd tie, Edward and Joseph Moran, Toledo, Ohio; 3rd, George Bowman, Lansing.

Junior boys diving — 1st, Sam Greenawalt, Grand Rapids, 2nd, Bernard Zeitler, Charlevoix.

Judges were Janet Veatch, Grand Rapids, Harold Steele, Grand Rapids, George Kofcoff, Camp Hay-O-Went-Ha.

The water program was in charge of Stewart E. Coleman. Events and winners were broadcast from the Michigan Automobile Association official sound car. Dean Davenport, WPA district recreational supervisor, was score keeper and awarded trophies.

Opening feature of the evening program was a concert by the Charlevoix city band at East Park, preceding presentation by Camp Charlevoix counsellors and campers of the Gilbert Sullivan operetta, "Pirates of Penzance," given from the boat Peregrine anchored nt the water's edge.

MONUMENT DEDICATED ON OLD BATTLE SITE

"Battle of Pine River" Commemorated at Ceramony Saturday.

Inaugurating a policy of marking sites of historical events of tourist interest, the Charlevoix board of commerce Saturday dedicated a monument at site of the "Battle of Pine River," one of northern Michigan's major historical events.

Stephen H. Smith, 91, only living eye witness to the event, unveiled a native stone monument, set on concrete base and bearing a bronze placque with the wording: "Battle of Pine River was fought on this site the evening of July 13, 1853 between a party of Mormons from Beaver Island and fishermen settlers of the new settlement of Pine River, later named Charlevoix in 1879." The monument is located overlooking the Lnke Michigan municipal bathing beach at the top of Grant street hill where it intersects Park avenue.

Mayor Robert Bridge gave a brief dedication address in which he outlined purpose of the ceremony. Coast guardsmen in uniform and carrying regulation arms, formed a guard.

Marking of the site was carried out by the advertising committee of the board of commerce.

JOE DISSETTE WINNER OF IRONTON REGATTA

Third Annual Sail for Harris Trophy Held Last Saturday

The third annual Ironton regattu, sponsored by P. A. Harris, was sailed Saturday, July 27, under fair sailing conditions over a two-mile course on Lake Charlevoix.

Competition was quite spirited and, after three races, Joe Dissette and Allen Harris were tied under the point system with six points. Dissette took the extra heat to win the regatta with Harris second and Suzy Porter third.

Cups were presented winners at a party given Sunday evening by Nancy Price to the following: Joe Dissette with Barbara Miller, Allen Harris with Nancy Price, Suzy Porter with Mrs. J. C. Dissette. Other participants were Louise Miller with Margaret Davis, Bill Sanderson with Paul Hanson, Stan Pillsbury with Bob Pillsbury, Hob Buttrick with Fred Bowen.

Because of engine trouble of her towing launch, Marion Wallsee of the Chicago Club, could not reach Ironton in time to participate.

STORM DAMAGED SAILING CRAFT

TWO TOWED INTO PORT AFTER THURSDAY GALE

Coast Guards Given Busy Day Aiding Ships — Swing Bridge Disabled by Broken Power Line

Coast guard units, including personnel of the Charlevoix station, the cutter Escanaba and patrol plane commanded by Lieut. A. H. Harned, were given a busy 12 hours Thursday as a result of a storm of gule proportions early that morning.

At least two sailing yachts, homeward bound from particlpation in the Chicago-Mackinac Island race, were damaged, and nthers were driven to shelter by the 50-mile gale. It was Friday before all craft which Wednesday had left Mackinac Island, were accounted for.

The schooner Gaviota, of Chicago, owned by C. Lyngby, picked up 11 miles northwest of this port by Charlevoix coast guards under Capt. Oscar Smith, was towed to this harbor. Its sails had been ripped or cut by the crew in the heavy gale and its wheel wus choked by canvas, disabling the engine. The crew had encountered a harrowing experience.

Entrance to the harbor of earlier arrivals was complicated by the swing bridge being out of commission when current was cut off by a broken power line on Dixon avenue. A falling tree had broken the circuit. The yacht Kewadin, of Pentwater, slightly damsged when it rammed the pier to escape hitting the bridge, was assisted into Round lake by coast guards after being held in the channel until the bridge could be swung.

Shortly before noon the cutter Escanaba brought in the Stephia which it released in the bay to be brought into port hy the coast guards. The craft had been picked up off Cross Village with a broken boom and sproader.

Local damage hy the storm was confined to slight power interruptions and broken foliage. Clearing up broken down limbs kept the street department busy most of the morning.

ED. DRIER PHOTOGRAPHS CHARLEVOIX ACTIVITIES

New Material for West Mich. Tourist Assn. Taken Over Week End

New material for photographic publicity for Charlevoix to be released through the West Michigan Tourist & Resort Association, was gathered by Ed. Drier, association photographer, during a week end stay here.

Coming at the invitation of the Board of Commerce, Mr. Drier took movie and still "shots" of the water carnival events, Venetian boat parade and scenic spots in the city. The films are to be released by the tourist association throughout the United States during the winter and one film will be made available to the Board of Commerce for its use.

Joe Howard, who daily fires the East Park cannon signifying time to raise and lower colors should take heed of that Northport incident where a fellow lost two toes firing a cannon to start off a sailboat race.

What's this we hear? Central Lake has a snowbank, with honest-to-goodness nature snow, right in the middle of the summer! It seems a deep gully behind the Charles Finch farmhouse, located two miles north of Central Lake, drifted full of snow to a depth of 25 feet last winter. The resourceful Finch covered the snow with a heavy layer of hay and it has not completely melted. In fact, he has his own refrigeration, not to mention the wherewithall to make occasional ice cream. Here's an idea for the rest of us northerners!

The Marine Club's 6th annual water carnival was another successful event. Thousands witnessed it, testifying to the event's popularity. Cooperation of nearby resort cities was apparent in the wide publicity given the carnival in newspapers throughout the region—a favor highly appreciated and one we will always be pleased to repay. Those who saw the Venetian boat parade the first time were lavish in their praise

LANSING LETTER

By GENE ALLEMAN

Field Manager, Michigan Press Association

The 1940 campaign strategy of the Republican state central committee has centered to a major degree on Arthur H. Vandenberg.

First, committee leaders hoped the national ticket would be headed by the United States senator from Michigan. In this objective the committee had sympathetic support from Vandenberg himself. The senator declined to campaign actively for the nomination and said that while he was available for duty he was not an open candidate for the office.

A national ticket headed by Vandenberg would put Michigan safely into the Republican column next November so the thesis went. Michigan could be depended upon, they argued, to support a native son for the White House.

Second, the committee counted on Vandenberg, if the national conven-

A Bank's Duty to its Depositors

THE American Bankers Association In Its Statement of Principles of Commercial Banking says, "The safety of the funds entrusted to the bank by all of its depositors must be the foremost objective of the commercial banker." Thus banks must exercise extreme care in granting loans and making investments to safeguard deposits.

It is also our duty to render a prompt and adequate checking service for the safety and convenience of our depositors in transmitting funds.

To avoid discriminating against certain depositors by failing to require each account to pay for the service it receives, it is obviously necessary either to require balances sufficient to reimburse the bank for such services, or to make a fair charge for rendering them.

CAMP CHARLEVOIX WEEKLY COLUMN

Edited by Herbert W. Johnson

Saturday was Dad's Day, and what a day it was! So many of the parents were on hand that the camp's provisions and facilities were taxed to the very utmost in use for the largest group of parents and friends ever to attend the camp celebration. Tom Hart and his capable committee did a splendid job with the program so that the Dads had an excellent opportunity to get into the spirit of our camp and learn something of the crafts and skills the fellows should finally master. The baseball games in the afternoon were very successful, and the boys again managed to win two of the games. The banquet was a primary event; and along with the specialties was a speech by Dr. Wickham and D. D. Hunting, fathers of "Dick" Wickham and Allen, David and John Hunting. And then when it came time for the gathering to break up everyone lingered as long as possible, goodbyes were said and everyone knew it was just the best Dad's Day ever.

And now the fellows are getting ready for another main trip of the season—a trip to Sleeping Bear Dunes. The boys chosen for the adventure are Alex Burnstan, Bernie Burnstan, John Griswold, Howard VanAntwerp, Bud Kampe, Mont Wickham, Tom Bennett, Dick Sample and Tom Sample. The boys left Tuesday and by this time are well on their way for four days.

Meanwhile other cabin trips have been going out with great enthusiasm. Cabins number 1 and 3 of the junior section went out on an overnight horse trip on Wednesday. The riders included Craig Ramsay, Roland Burnstan, Tommy Sample, Winchell Craig, Billy Ives, James Fox, Bill Keeler, John Hunting, George Keeler, Richard Abbott and John Griswold.

Counsellor Hogan took out his boys for a sail trip on the "Alert" which gave Jack Wooley, Bob Kerr, John Mains, Stuart Austin, Howard VanAntwerp, Fritz Steketee, Billy Newcomer a chance to develop their "sailormanship."

On last Wednesday night the second in a series of stunt nights was held. Gerry Wilson's cabin gave a clever sketch from "Hellzapoppin" and Allen Hunting led his group in a play called "Lighthouse Loons." Wiley Hitchcock and Harold Steele added special features to make it a good party.

Venetian day and night in town was fun for the boys. Joe and Ed. Moran entered the campers in the annual swim meet in the afternoon with the following results: Sam Greenwalt took first place in Juvenile boys diving and 3rd place in the 25 yard dash. In the Junior boys 50-yard dash Gratton Gray was third, Dean Hudnutt 4th, Ken Sands 5th. In the egg and spoon race Dave Bennett took first place with Charlie Bachman a close second. Wiley Hitchcock placed 2nd in the Senior 100 yard dash. Clark Bouwman won the canoeing event; while the major half-mile swim resulted in a tie between Ed. and Joe Moran, who won the cups offered by the Charlevoix Marine Club, with Charles Bachman coming in 4th and Charles Marcus coming in 5th in the same race.

Quite a few of the parents came over on Sunday morning for the chapel service at our outdoor quarters in the woods. Rev. J. Burt Bouwman, executive secretary of Michigan Council of Churches and Religious Education, was speaker of the day. Doug Stock and Tom Bennett acted as "deacons" greeting the guests and taking up the collection, which is turned over to the University Fresh Air Camp for underprivileged children at Patterson lake near Ann Arbor.

We are pretty proud of the fact that the fathers were so enthused over camp when they visited. Already some of the fathers have applied for enrollments for next year.

The next two dates on your calendar should be August 17th and 18th, when we have our annual Carnival and Rodeo, two events which are "peaks" in our social whirl. The final banquet is on August 27th.

AT THE MOVIES

"New Moon" on Palace Program for Two Days

In a picture which is said to surpass even their greatest triumphs on the screen, Jeanette MacDonald and Nelson Eddy are teamed again, this time in the musical romance, "New Moon," a story set against the colorful background of early New Orleans.

The musical production, which opens August 4 at the Palace Theatre for an engagement of two days, is their first together since "Sweethearts," which was immediately followed by each making a concert tour across the country.

The supporting cast includes Mary Boland, who reeently scored a hit as the Countess de Lage in "The Women," George Zucco, H. B. Warner, Grant Mitchell and more than fifty speaking roles.

Sol Lesser's "Our Town" a Triumph

By far one of the greatest and most stirring pictures ever to be made in Hollywood will be unreeled August 6, 7, at the Palace Theatre, when Sol Lesser presents his screen version of Thornton Wilder's Pulitzer Prize-Winning play, "Our Town."

"Our Town" was brilliantly directed by Sam Wood, who was responsible for the eminently successful "Goodbye, Mr. Chips," and it is being released under the auspices of United Artists. An outstanding cast of stars headed by Martha Scott, William Holden, Frank Craven, Thomas Mitchell, Fay Bainter, Beulah Bondi, Stuart Erwin, Guy Kibbee, Ruth Tobey and many others enacts the stirring and poignant story of "Our Town" with unfailing brilliance, drama and emotion.

Robert Young and Maureen O'Sullivan are teamed again as the romantic interest in "Sporting Blood," story of southern horse racing coming August 8, 9, to the Palace Theatre. The two were paired in "Tugboat Annie" and were last seen on the screen together in "The Emperor's Candlesticks." Lewis Stone leaves his position as Judge in the celebrated "Hardy Family" pictures for the first time this year to join the cast as Maureen's father. Others in the cast are William Cargan, Lynne Carver, Clarence Muse, Lloyd Corrigan, George H. Reed, Tom Kennedy and Russell Hicks.

A "Dad's-Eye" View of Mickey Rooney

Here's the story of America's No. 1 box office star, by the man who "knew him when."

Mickey's dad, in an exclusive interview, tells how Mickey toured the country in a wicker basket, with his father's burlesque show. . . how he slipped out of the basket at the age of one, to take his first stage bow. . . And how he went from there to nation-wide fame. Don't miss this fascinating success story told exclusively in This Week Magazine with next Sunday's Detroit News.

What might have proved to be a fatal accident occurred just outside the city limits of Petoskey last Thursday, when the car driven by M. K. Chew, was struck by a car driven by Mr. Adair of Charlevoix. Mr. Chew escaped with severe lacerations and bruises but the car was a complete wreck. Mr. Chew was taken to Little Traverse Hospital for treatment and returned to his home that evening.

MILES DISTRICT NEWS

Mrs. Elmer Hott was in the Charlevoix hospital recently for treatments.

Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Moblo visited Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Fuller of Chestonia Sunday.

Lightning struck a large tree in the Louis Kowalski yard and shattered it in many pieces recently.

Gordon Evans of East Jordan spent the week with his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Burdette Evans.

Mr. and Mrs. Tom Jensen called on M. R. Kowalski and daughter Carman of East Jordan, Wednesday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Burdette Evans, Mrs. Wesley Simmerman and Mrs. Roy Hastor of Detroit, motored to Charlevoix Wednesday.

Several from our neighborhood attended the water carnival at Charlevoix Sunday. It was a beautiful sight at night and we are sure all enjoyed it.

Elmer LaPorte and Mr. and Mrs. Louis Sader and children, Ronny and Sylvia of Detroit, returned home after spending the past week with Mrs. Sader's uncles and families, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Jensen and Mr. and Mrs. Tom Jensen; also relatives in East Jordan, grandmother, Mrs. Johanna Jensen and aunt, Mrs. Julia Jensen and daughters.

Miles-per-gallon now counted plainly as eggs

FREE CONOCO MILE-DIAL "TELLS YOU TRUE"

YOU DON'T JUST LISTEN to how many eggs you're getting; you look! And now one gasoline makes it easy—and aporting—for you to get a square look at the mileage it gives you. For it actually counts out its own miles-per-gallon, right in sight—and the whole thing is as simple as this: You just swing in to Your Mileage Merchant's Conoco station today to get your Conoco Mile-Dial installed—FREE. (And it's yours to keep—FREE.)

IT TAKES ONLY A MOMENT to add this neat certified instrument to your dash. No marring. Then without any fuss or memory-work your Mile-Dial keeps giving you its visible record of all your purchases of Conoco Bronz-z-z. And whenever you think you've included plenty of city driving, country driving, climbing, starting, stopping, and shifting, you simply lift a finger to ask your Mile-Dial, "How many miles-per-gallon on Conoco Bronz-z-z?"

FLASH!...THE TRUE FIGURE shows on your Mile-Dial! Maybe it's more than you hoped to get. And maybe you're skeptical, but that's just why your Mile-Dial is made so that you can keep on checking Conoco Bronz-z-z with ease—till you're rid of all douht.

IT'S YOU—the consumer—who sets the conditions you want your Conoco Bronz-z-z to meet. You can change them at will. And always from your certified Conoco Mile-Dial comes your own private mileage report, in straight cold figures.

CONOCO BRONZ-Z-Z just simply banks on the mileage count you see on your free Mile-Dial. When has the great American consumer seen a gasoline "laying itself wide open" like this? Make your own down-to-earth test of Conoco Bronz-z-z gasoline. Your Mileage Merchant is holding a Conoco Mile-Dial for you, but the supply is limited . . . get yours today—FREE. VERNON J. BROWN IS SEEKING RE-ELECTION

Republican Auditor General Outlines Record of Past Two Years

Vernon J. Brown, auditor general, has made known his intention to seek re-election this fall. Mr. Brown said:

"Two years ago the voters of Michigan elected me auditor general. My campaign slogan had been, "Stop this Red Ink Bookkeeping." My promise had been to provide better accounting at less cost, to administer this department for less, and to put a stop to deficits and overdrafts. The legislature responded by placing all accounting under my control and also amended the tax laws to permit the abolishment of useless operations. The net results are astonishing.

"Confusing, conflicting and misleading financial reports have been replaced by a single, dependable source of fiscal information. The new operations cost less and provide a guide to careful management for all administration officials never before available. A million and a half has been applied against a 30 million dollar deficit inherited on January 1, 1939. Better bookkeeping can be given considerable credit in this achievement.

"All this has been accomplished at great savings to the taxpayers. When I assumed office I found a staff of more than 400. Today it consists of 251 people. During the fiscal year ended June 30, 1938, it cost the taxpayers $1,129,521.64 to run the Auditor General's office and the then segregated accounting division. For the fiscal year ended June 30, 1940, the cost for the combined department was only $644,349.64.

"A savings of $485,172 a year in itself is an accomplishment.

"The time now approaches for another election. I shall again ask the delegates to the Republican State Convention for renomination and the voters of Michigan for re-election. I submit my record in support of my desire to serve a second term as Auditor General."

BEAVER ISLAND'S HOMECOMING SET

ANNUAL EVENT IS SCHEDULED FOR AUGUST 4 TO 11

Island Chamber of Commerce Planning Entertainment for Crowd of Visitors Expected

Beaver Island's annual homecoming celebration is scheduled for the 7-day period of Sunday, August 4, to Sunday, August 11, inclusive.

Archie Lafreniere, secretary of the Beaver Island chamber of commerce, has announced that plans are rapidly being completed for the entertainment of the hundreds of former residents and summer visitors who make the annual trek to the island for this occasion.

Baseball games, dancing parties, sight-seeing trip and other entertainment features are being arranged, it is understood. The climaxing feature will be the annual chicken dinner scheduled for Sunday evening, August 11, closing day of the celebration.

Capt. Leroy Allers, commander of the Charlevoix-Beaver Island mail boat Mary Margaret, announces that regular schedule will be disregarded to care for those desiring to go to the island.

ADDITIONAL LOCALS

Miss Virginia Taylor left this moraing (Wednesday) for Lansing, to be employed in the office of Dr. Carlton Dean, deputy state health commissioner. A beach party in her honor was given by twelve of her friends Tuesday evening. Guests later attended the theater. Miss Taylor was presented with a gift from the group.

Week end guests at the home of Rev. and Mrs. W. L. Cruthers included Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Howlett of Howell; Mr. and Mrs. Allen Wylie and daughter Helen of Detroit; Mr. and Mrs. Otto Dreese and Mrs. Miles of Jackson. Mrs. Cruther's daughter, Mrs. C. R. Dreese and daughter, Nancy Lou, of Jackson, are here for several weeks' vacation.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Ladd and daughter Susan, of Pontiac, returned home Tuesday after a week's visit with Mr. Ladd's uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. H. I. Ochs. Other guests at the Ochs home for the week end were Mrs. Ochs' sister, Mrs. A. W. Ladd of Detroit, Mrs. Zelpha Hale and Joseph Thorpe of Pontiac, Mr. and Mrs. Charles DeWaele of Roscommon and Higgins Lake.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Davey left this morning (Wednesday) for a two weeks' motor trip to Yellowstone National Park. Their son and two daughters, C. L. Davey, Mrs. Sam King, and Mrs. Wallace Earl and daughter, Kay, of Boyne City, accompanied them to Chicago, and expect to return the end of this week. At Chicago, Mr. and Mrs. Davey will join their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Davey, and daughter Audrey, for the trip west.

The members of St. Mary's church entertained with a party at the school hall last Wednesday evening, honoring Rev. Fr. T. Vincent McKenna of Grand Rapids, who has been here for the past seven weeks, and Rev. Fr. John W. Collins, who arrived recently from Grand Rapids to take over this parish. Fr. McKenna was presented with a gift from the parish by Toastmaster J. M. Foster. Fr. Collins responded with a short talk, as did Rev. Fr. Edward Neubecker, of Lake Leelanau, former pastor here. Refreshments were served to the 75 guests from tables beautifully decorated with summer bouquets and tall candles.

CENTRAL LAKE WILL STAGE HOMECOMING

Annual Event is Scheduled This Year for August 8, 9 and 10

Free entertainment and prizes are the big features planned for Central Lake's annual homecoming to be held August 8, 9, and 10.

Paul Shattuck, president, and the various committees, have worked out a splendid program to entertain the thousands of people who annually attend the celebration.

The free acts signed up are varied and promise a real treat. Capt. Ferguson, of Detroit with his group of trained dogs, Nyle Jessup, magician, of Dearborn, "Skating Smith," acrobat, of Grand Rapids, will give performances daily, while the German band of Traverse City will provide music for the three days' festivities. An amateur contest, a canoe exhibition by Camp Hayo-Went-Ha and several other features are also being planned.

In addition to the many prizes to be given for the various sports contests, $50 in cash will be given away, $10 on Thursday, $15 on Friday and $25 on the last day. Prizes will also be given for the winners in the kiddies parade; for the oldest car; for the car coming the longest distance and for the largest family attending the event.

The kiddies parade which has been a feature of the homecoming for several years, is expected to be bigger and better this year.

The Central Lake Merchants, top-ranking team in the Antrim County Baseball League, will schedule games for two days of the homecoming, while the fine junior team will play one game. A full line-up of track and water contests completes the sports program.

The Lee United Shows and concessions will furnish the midway attractions.

There's going to be a big time in Central Lake August 8, 9, and 10! Make your plans now to attend the Central Lake homecoming!

ANNUAL REPORT
Charlevoix School District No. 1, City and Township

Annual School Meeting, July 8, 1940

Meeting called to order by President Claire Webster at 8:00 p. m.

Reading of the report of the annual meeting of July 10, 1939 by the Secretary, C. B. Meggison. Moved by Mrs. VanAllsburg, seconded by Mrs. Kohler, that the minutes be accepted and placed on file. Motion carried.

Reading of librarian's report by Trustee Carl Kohler. Moved by Mrs. Myers, seconded by Mrs. Saltonstall that the librarian's report be accepted and placed on file. Motion carried.

Reading of secretary's report by the secretary, C. B. Meggison. Moved by Mrs. Saltonstall, seconded by Ed. Edwards, that the secretary's report be accepted and placed on file. Motion carried.

The treasurer's report was read by the treasurer, Henry Partridge. Moved by Archie Livingston, seconded by Harold Withers, that the report be accepted and placed on file. Motion carried.

Nominations were opened for candidates to fill the expired term of C. B. Meggison. C. B. Meggison was nominated. There being no other nominations, it was moved by Floyd Supp that the nominations be closed and a unanimous vote be cast for Mr. Meggison. This was seconded by Mrs. VanAllsburg. Motion carried.

Nominations were opened for trustee to succeed Dr. Carlton Dean, resigned, for a period of two years. Oscar Stroud, Harold Withers and Charles Hamlin were nominated. It was moved by Mr. Palmer, seconded by Floyd Supp, that the nominations be closed. Motion carried.

Tellers were appointed. On the first ballot Harold Withers received 33, Oscar Stroud 24, Charles Hamlin 7 and one blank. Harold Withers having received a majority of the votes cast, was declared elected.

After discussion it was moved by Mrs. Saltonstall, seconded by Mrs. Palmer, that the Junior High School building be torn down. A. Livingston moved an amendment, seconded by H. Fowler, that the original motion be amended to read that when the building becomes of no further value the school board shall have authority to dispose of said building in the best method possible. The amendment was carried by a vote of 39 to 19. The original amendment was voted on by ballot. The vote was 39 to 19 in favor. The motion was declared carried.

Meeting adjourned at 9:25 p. m.

School District No. 1, City and Township of Charlevoix
Report of the Secretary, Year ending July 1, 1940
Charlevoix, Michigan, July 8, 1940

At the close of another school year, our school buildings, school property, and equipment, are in very good condition, with the exception of the high school corridor which will be repaired and redecorated this summer.

In the last annual report, it was anticipated that this year's income might be less than the cost of operating. We are glad to be able to report that while expenditures were $550.00 more than income, that the operating cost was $1300.00 less than previous year. Considering that the school has had the entire cost of maintaining and operating the library the past year, speaks well for economies in operation. Maintenance costs have been reduced to meet the smaller income.

State aid for the schools has never been paid in full. This year for example we received $4000.00 less than the full amount. Two thirds of our school operating income is received from the state, and the balance from local sources.

To meet the requirements of the 15 mill limitation amendment in distributing tax income between the county and school, 10.6 mills are levied in the city of Charlevoix for county purposes leaving this year, 4.2 for the school. This is .2 of a mill less than last year. Reducing valuations in the city not only results in less property to tax, it also lowers the tax rate on remaining property.

Retirement of the school debt will be completed January 1, 1942. For the past year the debt retirement rate was reduced to 3.5 mills. It is anticipated that this rate will be sufficient for the next two years to retire the debt. The school has operated full time.

A complete inspection of plant and heat control system is made each year. We are warned that it may be necessary to install a new heater tank in a year or two. Other projects under consideration are: music and art instructor, band uniforms, tearing down the Junior High building, and the establishing of a children's library in the basement of the Library Building. It is also planned to surface the entire portion of the grounds used for tennis and skating. These additions and improvements will depend on the income for school purposes, and the approval of the citizens of the school district.

Respectfully,
CLARENCE B. MEGGISON, Secretary.

Board of Education
School District No. 1
Charlevoix, Michigan.
Gentlemen:

In accordance with instructions I have made an audit of the cash receipts and disbursements of School District No. 1, city and township of Charlevoix, for the year ended June 30, 1940. This audit included a detailed examination of all checks issued and all deposits made in the two bank accounts maintained for this district. Payroll checks to teachers and other employees were examined and found in proper order. Invoices on file for bills paid were compared with the minute book maintained by the board of education and with the checks issued in payment thereof. Bonds payable totaling $10,500 were retired during the year and have been duly cancelled, and interest coupons amounting to $1,417.50 were paid when due. The sum of $21,000 in bonds is still outstanding. Cash on deposit in banks on June 30, 1940 was $5,809.13. No irregularities or omissions were disclosed during the audit. On the basis of this audit as outlined above, I hereby certify that the books as maintained at the school office correctly reflect the result of operations for the year ended June 30, 1940.

Very truly yours,
O. W. LYNGKLIP, Certified Public Accountant.

MOTORISTS REQUESTED DESTROY ½-YEAR PLATES
Order Rescinds Ruling That Plates Should be Turned In

Harry F. Kelly, secretary of state, today warned car owners that when they buy full year license plates to replace half plates expiring August 31st, they must destroy the half plates.

"The half plates are good until August 31st," said Mr. Kelly, "and unless destroyed might fall into improper hands and be used illegally on other cars."

An earlier ruling by the department required full year plate purchasers to surrender half year plates to the department, but due to inconvenience to great numbers of persons who neglected to bring old plates with them the rule has been modified.

Instead, purchasers are being warned that failure to destroy old plates might cause them trouble should the tags fall into the hands of criminals.

Full year plates at half price were placed on sale July 10th.

OVER FIVE MILLION TREES WERE SET OUT THIS YEAR

For the forests of the next generation, CCC workers set out on Michigan state forest and game lands, in the first half of 1940, five and a half million seedling trees.

Three-qunrters of a million of the trees are hardwoods, planted principally for wildlife food and cover. Hardwood plantings were made on the Cusino, Crawford and Escanaba river game areas.

Soap Helps Houseplants

Houseplants grown mainly for their foliage often are aided in continuing their growth by an occasional sponging with a mild soap solution. Dust settles on the foliage, but this washing helps the plant continue healthy growth. Floriculturists at Michigan State College point out that inasmuch as these plants are grown for beauty, the cleanliness of the foliage is one phase of judging a plant's beauty.

Ten Dairymen Join Dairy Herd Improvement Association

The new year started the first of July and we are pleased to announce that fourteen Charlevoix county dairymen are now having their herds on test. The four following members started last year and will finish during this coming year: Fred Willis, Charlevoix; Sam Straw, Charlevoix; County Poor Farm, East Jordan; and Al Thorsen, East Jordan. Following are the new members who are starting this month: George Morton, Herbert Sommerville, Wm. J. Petts, and LeRoy Hardy, all from Boyne City; Joe Leu, Ted Leu, George Nelson, J. M. Ingalls, all from East Jordan; and Clinton Blanchard and Charles Mascho of Charlevoix.

Denzil Gibbard, East Jordan, will start the year as the tester in charge. He will include herds on test in Emmet, Charlevoix, Antrim and Kalkaska counties. Plans have been developed for a meeting of the entire membership on August 9th, when a board of directors will be selected and other items of business, pertaining to the development of dairy herd improvement association work, will be discussed.

Fall Rye Saves Feed Plus Soil

Six types of savings possible by sowing rye for fall and spring pasture are listed for Charlevoix county dairymen by A. C. Baltzer, extension dairyman at Michigan State College.

Dividends from sowing 3 to 5 pecks of rye about August 10 to 20 at the last corn cultivation time start within a few weeks. In September and October, usually, the rye saves other late fall pasture, saves some of the grain feed bill and covers the soil to reduce wind and water erosion through the winter.

In the spring, more dividends pop up. These include early pasture when 5 to 8 inches high, savings of feed and hay in early spring and saving bluegrass when the latter is still weak.

Two cows an acre are commonly pastured on rye in Michigan. Dairy animals require a volume of lush and nutritious herbage such as rye, says Baltzer. From 100 to 120 pounds of grass is needed daily by a cow giving 30 pounds of milk of 3.5 per cent fat.

DISTRICT HEALTH UNIT
WATER ITCH

A difficulty which may lessen the pleasure of a summer vacation is swimmer's or water itch — better known to some as schistosome dermatitis.

This affliction occurs in scattered areas of the northern parts of the midwestern states. Northern Michigan has been no exception. To begin with, it may be stated that this unpleasantness usually can be prevented. First, by swimming only in water known to be free from the causative agent. Second, by indulging in a brisk rub down with a dry towel immediately on leaving the water, before the skin has had a chance to dry. In this way the causative agent will have no opportunity to enter the skin.

In this district, infections have occasionally followed wading in the shallow water along unfrequented beaches. In these places the organism which causes water itch is sometimes found. It is a small larva, about 1/32 of an inch in length, and cannot be seen even by close observation. The larva has an interesting life history. In its full-grown form it lives as a small worm in the abdominal veins of muskrats and various types of water fowl. An earlier phase of its development takes place within the bodies of certain snails. Large numbers of free swimming larvae leave the snails to begin their search for muskrats or water birds which constitute their adult place of abode. During this time if they contact a swimmer's leg they prepare to burrow in. However, human beings are not their normal host, and the larvae soon die after getting under the skin. Their presence there, however, sets up a very unpleasant irritation for from four to seven days.

To turn again to measures for prevention, the following three recommendations, if carried out, are believed to insure protection.

1. Use care in selecting a beach to be used for swimming. Most beaches are not infested.

2. If swimming in water of infested beaches, stay in the deep portions. Heaviest infections occur in those who wade in shallow water.

3. Rub skin surfaces with a towel before the water has a chance to dry on the skin. This will remove most of the larvae before they penetrate.

These simple precautions embody all that is known to be of any use. Because of their simplicity there are those who will seek something more complicated, such as a lotion or protective cream. In regard to these, experiments have shown that the larvae prefer to enter skins which have been "protected" by oily applications.

From proxy bride to prison. An obliging girl substituted for the real one who didn't look right and got away with it, but she also obligingly pretended to be the fiancee of a robber, and didn't get away with it. Read this unusual true life story with illustrations, in The American Weekly, the magazine distributed with next week's Sunday Chicago Herald-American.

tion did not nominate him for the presidency, to head the Michigan ticket for re-election. Indirectly it was an indication by state party chieftains that one of their sources of popular strength in November would be Vandenberg.

In either reckoning—national or state ticket—Vandenberg was to set the pace.

Vandenberg Career

It was twelve years ago that Woodbridge N. Ferris, a former Democratic governor and member of the United States senate, died suddenly.

As editor of the Grand Rapids Herald, Vandenberg had been one of the first to declare for Fred Green as Republican candidate for governor against Groesbeck. Although there was some talk about giving a temporary appointment to Joseph Fordney of Saginaw, who for many years was chairman of the ways and means committee of the House, Governor Green gave the appointment to Vandenberg.

Vandenberg thus in the year 1928 came to Washington straight over the heads of county and state officials. While Vandenberg had traveled, had spoke and had written for the Republican state committee, he had never enthused over the state legislature or had mixed much with the county chairmen and with the boys who control the votes in the wards. A gifted man, he was not a state politician.

Vandenberg was born 56 years ago in Grand Rapids of Dutch and English blood. His father was a harness maker in Grand Rapids, and the family was poor. When the youth went to the University of Michigan to study in the law class of 1904, he worked his own way but for reasons of health had to retire at the end of his first year.

He is fond of saying frankly that the best thing the college gave him was a wife.

A Statesman

From just another enterprising editor in an American small city, Vandenberg rose rapidly in favor in the Senate which has been termed a seminar of statesmanship, and today he is a valued member of two of its leading committees—Foreign relations and finance.

Working hard at the job, he has a solemn rule never to leave Washington while Congress is in session. Even during the delegate primary campaigns in western states this spring, he consistently declined to leave the capital for political speechmaking trips.

The Philadelphia Record on June 23, 1937 drew this picture of the Michigan senator:

"Tall sparse-haired Vandenberg swapped tortoise shell glasses for rimless ones to 'look less bookish'. Likes to match pennies, bowl, play bridge, billiards. He carries a pedometer, stops his regular morning walk when it shows four miles.

"Finger pointer and desk pounder in the Senate, he smokes heavily, likes dark suits, always double breasted, watches that his 180 pounds don't go up. Inflation fears constantly assail him; he carries German marks printed with 100,000,000 signs to give collegues visual warning of its danger."

Oratorical Ability

A lone wolf in Michigan politics (he is not a part of any faction and is inclined to leave state politics to the governor), Vandenberg's chief asset is his oratorical ability.

Those who heard his oration on "The Spirit of Mackinac" nt the governors' conference at Mackinac Island when Fred Green was host to other state executives will profuse wildly at the memory. Vnndenberg can speak!

One of Vandenberg's qualities is tolerance for others. This trait, combined with courage, has made him nn outstanding figure at Washington.

No one will accuse him of compromising issues with President Roosevelt, yet when the president spoke at Indianapolis in the 1936 presidential campaign, the latter said thnt he and Vandenberg were such good friends that if the Republicans had nominated the Grand Rapids senator the two candidates could have stumped the country from the same platform!

This prestige of oratory has helped Vandenberg in the past to remain in the voters' good graces. There has been a tendency to say that Vandenberg at Washington is an asset to Michigan. "He does the state credit."

Expert at Compromise

Called a genius at the art of offering workable compromises, Vandenberg is also respected for his unyielding opposition to things which he deems inimical to national interests. He led the fight on the Passamaquoddy project. He blocked the Florida ship canal. He assailed the multi-billion reserve fund created by the Social Security Act. He was the author of the amendment to the 1933 banking act which created insurance for bank deposits.

In foreign affairs he has been an isolationist, maintainlng that America entered the World war only beeause Wall Street wanted to save its neck.

What Michigan will do to his eareer is for the voters to decide next fall. In any event, Vandenberg will give the campaign a dash of prestige which the state committee openly welcomes. He is a national figure.

An article in The American Weekly with the August 4 issue of The Detroit Sunday Times, tells of efforts to protect the outstanding hens since scientific human brains have built them up from a measly 12 to 15 eggs a year to about one a day—and points out that hens' brains had nothing to do with it because the dumbest hen can lay the most eggs. and others who had seen it since inception acclaimed this year's the most spectacular. Interest in the affair appears to be growing each year.

The fishing picture has brightened up no little now that smallmouth bass have started "hitting." Lake Charlevoix is producing good catches and some limit strings are being taken from the channel outlets into Lake Charlevoix and Lake Michigan. It has all happened in the past few days. Joe Troyer und the Missus displayed four nice largemouth bass taken Sunday from Lake 26, and Clare Staley's two mackinaws, 13 and 17 pounds, caught in Lake Charlevoix, were beauties.

Lou Myers will vouch Courier want-ads pay! He lost a trench coat with valuable articles in the pockets. He ran a 20c ad offering $6 reward and along camo the coat and valuables intact. We're not bragging, just telling plain facts. And when thinking about want-ads it always reminds me of the luck Bill Fessenden had in locating the over-due stork. That's more proof.

One nice thing about a summer resort town is the many sights which take a fellas mind off his worries. It used to be necessary to go to the bathing beaches to see the costumes (or lack of such) but nowadays all a person has to do is set down town most any place und watch the parade.

Expenditures for more and better yacht facilities on Round lake harbor are being justified this season by the heavy increase in the number of yachts using them. Harbormaster Joe Howard reports that registrations show a 50% increase in new yachts making their first visit here, as well as a 60% increase in total registrations. These facts make the fellas responsible for such expenditures feel better, no doubt.

Despite the "peck" taken at the road commission because of lack of work on the Lake Michigan scenic drive, I'll have to confess the road from McKenzie's corner to Bell's Bay and then south to Inwood creek is in the best shape it ever has been. Wash-outs have been filled, holes repaired and apparently some gruding done. They've graveled a car-width lane from Bedford's cabin to Inwood creek, where excavation for a new culvert was completed before work stopped. It's a pretty nice drive by the route mentioned and let's all hope the work is continued so ourselves, and summer visitors particularly, can drive through to Norwood. Nothing in the north can surpass it for scenic beauty.

Heard the remark dropped among officials at the city hall that this was the first summer in many years that the council had not had to borrow money to keep the municipal wheels turning until taxes came in. The reason set forth was that tax notices were this year mailed and it is a distinct credit to our citizenry that they responded to the receipt of tax statements with prompt payment.

A Courier reader brought in the following item which is so full of truth it would be a shame not to print it:

"You probably have never seen a copy of the Wallace (Idaho) Miner. We hadn't until a friend brought it to our attention and we discovered a gem of an editorial about Mr. Hoover. Here it is:

"'An inspired piece from one of the New Deal propagandists says that 'Hoover was a complete failure.' So he was. He failed in a lot of things. He failed to draw out his salary of $75,000 a year while he was president, turning it all back into the treasury. He failed to have his sons organize insurance company firms to write insurance on government enterprizes. He built a Rapidan resort for fishing and recreation at his own expense and gave it to the government. None of his sons went racing through the divorce courts to the disillusionment of the public. He never hundled up a lot of government documents to sell as a book to the faithful at a huge profit to himself and he never sold himself into political slavery to a labor organization for a $500,000 campaign fund. He gathered a marvelous collection of war-stuff and built a museum for it, but failed to ask congress to pay the bill — he paid it himself. He didn't preach class hatred, nor try to pack the Supreme court. He did not plow up every third row of cotton and he did not promise the American people one thing while ut the same moment doing everything to accomplish the directly opposite result. He did not ask congress to assess the taxpayers a billion dollars every time some one shot off a firecracker in Europe, and he did not go on fishing trips on government warships, accompanied by a fleet of destroyers. Neither did he kill off all the farmer's little pigs nor encourage the importation of Argentine beef. In fact, there were a lot of foolish things that Hoover didn't do that some other people have done. There are a lot of constructive things he could have done if he had not had the opposition of a Democratic congress, but anyway, he did not leave the American people $45,000,000,000 in debt."

COAST GUARD ANNIVERSARY CELEBRATION SET

Two-Day Thrilling Program at Grand Havan, August 3-4

Grand Haven will celebrate the 150th anniversary of the founding of the Coast Guard service on August 3 and 4.

A sham battle between 1000 infantrymen of the 126th regiment, Michigan National guards and men of the Lake Michigan Coast Guard fleet will furnish all the thrill of battle without the terror, tragedy and travail of real war.

Big field guns, machine guns and hand grenades will be massed at Grand Haven state park together with the soldiers to repulse the water forces brought in by coast guard boats from pulling boats up to the Cutter Escanaba. The advance scout will be the amphibian in charge of Lieut. A. E. Hurned, only Coast Guard plane on Lake Michigan.

Saturday afternoon demonstrations of capsize drills, breeches buoy workouts, and pulling boat races will be held on Grand River and Lake Michigan. Oarsmen from east and west coast stations will race against each other on Lake Michigan over a mile course for valuable prizes. Rivalry is keen as crews are being selected from eliminations in all the stations of the Lake Michigan district.

A Venetian Night parade of over 100 boats, and fireworks shot from Dewey hill, 500 foot sanddune, will climax the Saturday program. Sunday will be memorial day fittingly celebrated when a bronze plaque, presented by the city, will be dedicated to the memory of Coastguardsmen who died in line of duty.

PETOSKEY TENNIS TOURNEY SCHEDULED AUGUST 5 TO 12

Petoskey's 6th annual amateur tennis tournament will be held August 5 to 12 under lights in Arlington Park. Competition is open to all amateurs of the northern resort region. Entries close at noon August 3rd.

BELVEDERE HOTEL ACTIVITIES

The Belvedere Hotel has engaged Jack Rosevear and his Syncoputors of Detroit to furnish dance music twice weekly commencing August 1st, in the Belvedere Casino.

Jack is widely known throughout the middle west as the "Clown Prince of the Keyboard." Among his recent previous engagements have been—Lochmoor Country Club, Country Club of Detroit, Grosse Point Club, Detroit Bout Club, Detroit Yacht Club, etc., in addition to private parties and most of Detroit's most fashionable debuts, weddings and receptions.

A new feature of Jack's orchestra, which has attracted wide attention, is his miniature grand piano with a keyboard of just 3½ octaves which he uses most successfully und on which he circulates among the guests followed by his orchestra.

Among the featured performers in the orchestra are Eddie Lane, who is said to be one of the finest accordianists west of New York, and John Stanton, who performs expertly on the sax und violin.

It can truthfully be said that if you have not listened or danced to Jack Roseveur's music, you have a real treat in store for you.

Come and bring a party—help to make our dances successful. The club is doing its part in furnishing this wonderful orchestra—now it is up to all of you to do your part. The management will appreciate your wholehearted cooperation.

The weekly bridge party was attended by a large group of Belvedere resorters, hotel guests and their friends. Attractive prizes were awarded to R. A. Buermann, Mrs. W. Lund, Mrs. Rice Miller, Harold Stoner, Mrs. F. Carpenter, Mrs. J. Hickey, George Snook.

Recent arrivals at Belvedere Hotel are Miss Julia C. Cronin, R. A. Sahefeld, Mr. and Mrs. James A. McCabe, Miss Helen Ingersoll, Mrs. A. I. Curradine, J. R. Conley, Miss Gertrude McClintock, Mr. and Mrs. B. W. Newell, Mrs. L. F. Collister, H. M. Taylor, Mr. und Mrs. E. A. Joces, Mrs. W. S. Tuttle, Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Houck and family, Mrs. L. W. CONGRESS APPROVES BRIDGE AT STRAITS

SENATE CONCURRENCE HOUSE AMENDMENTS AWAITED

War Department Consent, Necessary Before Building, is Expected to Be Given

The senate Tuesday had to approve only minor amendments in the Mackinac Straits bridge bill to, virtually assure Michigan of a connecting link between its upper and lower peninaulas.

The house approved the bill Munday afternoon after Michigan congressmen obtained special consent to debato the much-controverted measure. After the senate coneurs in the minor changes, the bill needs only President Roosevelt's signature to become law.

The measure authorizes construction of a toll bridge, or series of such bridges, between Mackinaw City and St. Ignace. Building funds would be advanced by the Reconstruction Finance Corporation and liquidated by tolls.

The first bill calling for a long series of spans across the Straits of Mackinac was introduced eight years ago by Sen. Prentiss M. Brown, D., Mich., who then was a representative, but the present plan was offered by Rep. Rudolph G. Tenderowicz of Detroit.

All members of the Michigan delegation with the exception of Reps. Fred Crawford of Saginaw and Geo. D. Dondero of Royal Oak, both Republicans, supported the measure. The four votes opposition was believed to be a result of political maneuvering to take credit from the Democrats for the bill's passage.

The final drive to bring the bill off the consent calendar was made by Democrats, with Rep. Fred Bradley a Republican from Rogers City, giving his support.

State Highway Department officials said Tuesday that consulting engineers would confer with army officials immediately on authorization to build the $26,000,000 bridge.

SAINTS' CHURCH REUNION SCHEDULED AUG. 9-18

Will Be Held at "Park of the Pines," Near Boyne City

The annual reunion of the northern and western Michigan district of the Latter Day Saints' church (with headquarters at Independence, Mo.) will be held August 9-18 at the Park of the Pines, located five miles north of Boyne City on Lake Charlevoix.

The daily program provides for a fellowship service followed by classes in religious education in the forenoon, recreation in the afternoon and preaching at night. Religious services will be held all day on both Sundays, beginning at 9 o'clock.

Fine music and good teachers and preachers are provided. Apostle F. H. Edwards, of Independence, Mo., will be in charge. The public is incited to attend the services.

LAKE TROUT FINGERLINGS ARE NOW BEING RELEASED

Michigan Patrol Boat Made Planting of 120,000 This Week

Release of fingerling lake trout reared at the federal fish batchery, started several weeks ago, is continuing this week.

Plantings are being made at intervals to relieve over-crowding in the troughs as the fish grow larger. Michigan Patrol Boat No. 1, commanded by Capt. Charles Allers, carried 120,000 fish to Hog Island Reef, Big Reef and Beaver Island head Monday and Tuesday, bringing the total plant to date up to 440,000 fish from the nearly a million originally placed in the hatchery.

The fish are fine, healthy specimens, averaging well over three inches in length.

Garden Club Plans Picnic

The Charlevoix Garden Club will have a picnic at Whiting Park, Tuesday, August 13. Members are to meet at Mrs. Ross Alexander's home at Ironton by 1:00 in the afternoon and should bring their own refreshments.

M-66 RELOCATION NOW IN PROGRESS

GRADING WORK STARTED WEST OF SEQUANOTA

State Highway Department Project Calls for Relocation and Surfacing of 3.314 Miles

Work has been started by the Bay City firm of Comstock & Terry on the relocation of M-66 from Ironton northwest to the corner opposite Loeb Farm barns.

The project calls for relocation of 3.314 miles with grading, drainage and stabilized gravel for future blacktop surfacing. South of this project into East Jordan the present road has been rebuilt by the state highway department as a WPA job.

When the relocation is completed and the gravel stabilized, plans have been made to oil aggregate the entire 10.9 miles. It is estimated the relocation work will cost $92,000 and the oil aggregate surfacing $80,000.

The contractors have established headquarters east of the Brock farm. At the present time the work consists of grading and making a cut east of the Sequanota road on the Flanders property which the highway intersects. It is expected a crew of between 50 and 60 workmen will be employed before the project is completed.

The project is under supervision of the State Highway Department with Arthur S. Taylor as project engineer. Mr. Taylor has established offices over the Dahlquist store.

INFANT, PRE-SCHOOL CLINIC HERE AUG. 15

Scheduled 1:30 to 2:30 in Afternoon at School Building

An infant and preschool clinic will be held at the Charlevoix school on Thursday afternoon, August 15, from 1:30 to 2:30 p. m.

At this time those children who were given the first dose of diphtherin toxoid a month ago will have an opportunity to receive the final dose. Vaccination for smallpox will also be offered to any children under six years of age. Those who did not previously avail themselves of a physical examination will be able to do so at this clinic.

RUSH FOR BIRTH CERTIFICATES ON

JULY SET ALL-TIME RECORD FOR THIS COUNTY

Applications for Citizenship Papers and Marriage Licenses Also Show Marked Increase

Issuance of birth certificates and applications for citizenship papers and marriage licenses has caused an unprecedented rush at the office of Fenton R. Bulow, county clerk.

Mr. Bulow stated that 106 birth certificates, more than would have been issued during a previous normal year, were issued during July, and that in addition, at least 100 more certificates were corrected and filed through the probate court. The number of certificates issued in July last year was 5, providing a startling comparison.

Eleven applications for citizenship will be heard at the August term of circuit court, a number cumparable to the May term, and representing a decided increase. Likewise, applications for marriage licenses showed a considerable gain during July over previous average months.

Requirement of birth certificates and citizenship for employment is cited as being responsible for the current rush of applications. The probability that married men will escape the now pending draft for army service is declared to be hastening Cupid's activities.

Fees in connection with services provided by the county clerk, aggregating a considerable amount, go into the county's general fund.

SPECIAL SOFTBALL ATTRACTION COMING HERE

Colored House of David Team Billed for Friday, August 16

Softball fans of Charlevoix and this region are looking forward with anticipation to the appearance here on Friday evening, August 16, of the Colored House of David team.

Scheduled to meet an all-star aggregation of Charlevoix players, the bewhiskered clan, the only colored whiskered team in the world, will provide one of the finest softball attractions ever to visit Charlevoix. The team played in 1939 before 300,000 people in 33 states, Canada and West Indies, winning 120 out of 175 games. They specialize in comedy in a big way besides producing a real quality of softball.

The contest, to be played at south side athletic field, will be called at 8:30 p. m.

SANITARY RESORT TO BE GIVEN A MARKING

New Road Signs to be Posted Showing Those Approved

Tourists looking for sanitary resorts in Michigan's vacation land will have an easier time of it starting this week when the first of the new black and white roadside signs will be posted at approved resorts by state and local health departments.

The sanitary inspection of cabin camps, trailer camps, resorts and other summer recreation centers in Michigan is rapidly being completed, according to John M. Hepler, engineering director for the State Health Department. The camps and resorts meeting the safe sanitary requirements outlined by the state will now be marked by a large black and white roadside sign reading "Sanitation Approved" in order that visitors will know where sanitary accommodations are available.

CHILD FALL FROM CAR, RECEIVED SCALP CUTS

NEW INDUSTRY TO LOCATE THIS CITY

FOSTER BOAT CO. MOVES PLANT FROM GRAND RAPIDS

City Purchased Parmelee Warehouse to Provide Factory Site; Enter Rental, Purchase Agreement

Extended efforts of the city council and board of commerce to bring an industry to Charlevoix met with initial success Thursday evening, when, at a special council meeting, negotiations under way for some time with the Foster Boat Co., a Grand Rapids concern, were brought to a conclusion.

Under the agreement between the city and Harry G. Foster, head of the firm which bears his name, the city purchased the old Parmelee warehouse on Ferry avenue from the Charlevoix Depositors' Corporation for $4,000 and agreed to spend $2,000 in repairs including painting, repair of roof, sprinkler system, plumbing and wiring.

Mr. Foster signed a lease agreement, with purchase option, to rent the building to house his boat manufacturing business for a two-year period If payrolls aggregate $1,000 per month, the rental figure is $15, if loss than $1,000, rental is $25 per month The purchase price prior to two years is $6,000. If, at the end of two years, payrolls have been $25,000, the purchase price is set at $4,500, if less than $25,000, the price is $6,000. The purchase contract calls for payment of $900 per year, payable in cash or credit of 3% of payroll. For example, if payrolls aggregate $30,000 yearly, the 3% payroll credit provides $900, amount of the contract agreement. Any amount the 3% payroll allowance is short of the required $900 yearly payment, must be met in cash.

The Foster Boat Co., formerly located at Fulton St. and Front Ave., Grand Rapids, manufactures and sells four models of pleasure craft—an outboard boat, snipe class sailboat, flat-bottomed rowboat in two sizes and a specialty craft built on pontoons for outboard motor. It has been in business several years.

ORANGE SMALL GAME TAGS, RED FOR DEER

Conservation Department Announces Tags for Hunters

Resident hunters will wear orange back tags in the small game season, red ones in the deer season this fall. Seven hundred thousand have been printed for the shotgun army and 240,000 have been run off to supply the northwoods riflemen.

These figures represent a 25,000 increase in the number of small game license blanks printed, and a 10,000 increase in deer hunting license blanks, as the conservation department prepares for continuance of the increase in the number of hunters that has occurred every year since the depression low point of 1932.

Together with game law digests from an edition that numbers more than a million copies this season, the license blanks and tags will be placed in the hands of more than 2,000 dealers throughout Michigan during September.

CHEBOYGAN WILL STAGE OPEN GOLF TOURNAMENT

The third annual Northern Michigan Open golf tournament will be held at Cheboygan Golf and Country Club, officials have announced. The tournament, consisting of 36 holes of medal play, will be held Aug. 25 and will be open to all Northern Michigan professionals and amateurs, officials said.

SHOT AT RANDOM

By Ken Usher

I witnessed an unusunl fishing incident Sunday. Miss Florence Sinclair, of Detroit, while trolling with Clarence Rumig from a motor boat, hooked nnd landed two smallmouth bass on a single plug near the entrance to the channel in Lake Charlevoix. The fish, weighing 2 and 3 pounds, put up a real battle before being netted. Making the incident more unusual was the fact that the plug was equipped with two single instead of the conventional treble hooks. Just to make the trip complete, Miss Sinclair landed two other bass and a large pike.

And while on the topic of fishing, might say that the Lake Charlevoix bass fishing is rapidly approaching par, mackinaws are still being caught in Lake Charlevoix and are to be had off the South Point reefs by those who go after them. Have seen some mighty fine bass come out of Lake Charlevoix during the past week.

The north side of Mart Block's AG store has been improved nicely with an attractive sign, a new coat of paint and the addition of three windows.

I certainly do wish those Traverse City wiseacres who said rearing mackinaw trout was an experimental failure could see the fish Lige

LANSING LETTER

By GENE ALLEMAN

Field Manager, Michigan Press Association

That's gold in a snappy sizzling heat wave!

And no one knows it better than the Michigan tourist promoter.

This individual is legion. He has a collective fortune invested in properties, equipment and land, while his payroll is big business itself.

Say what you will about wilting, withering, sultry, torrid weather in July or August, it's worth a cool million, believe it or not, to Michigan's second industry—the vacation business.

A cool summer means a loss of millions.

Contrary-wise, a hot one is worth a gold mine to the tourist people.

To put it briefly, Michigan's healthful and stimulating summer climate is appreciated most effectively when the temperature elsewhere skyrockets into the numbing nineties.

No-Minimum-Balance Checking Service

TO MAKE the facilities and services of this bank available to everyone, we are now offering a no-minimum-balance checking service. Under this plan a person may enjoy all the benefits of a checking account without being required to maintain any more money in the bank than is necessary to cover the checks which he writes. Inasmuch as we are unable to receive any compensation for our services through making use of a loanable balance in such an account, we make a small charge for each check drawn.

Thus for only a small charge you may have all the safety and convenience of a personal checking account, and you need not run the risk of carrying large amounts of money with you.

CAMP CHARLEVOIX WEEKLY COLUMN

Edited by Herbert W. Johnson

While an angry world outside arms and prepares itself for battle, we at Charlevoix learn to prepare ourselves to live with one another, to hope with one another, to play with one another. This isn't decadent democracy, but preparation for whatever may come: the opportunity to know how and what the other fellow thinks and does. To be less a boy and more a man: to be less a man and more "of men."

The camp's weekly program with its horse trips, track meet, sail trip barbeque, swimming meet, drama program, and chapel service gives every camper the chance to know his fellow campers better and helps to give us the unity we need for the good life here, and develops the spirit of cooperation and friendliness that we all will need for life elsewhere and everywhere.

Nine boys "roughed it" together on a long horse trip around the lake during the past week. Cowboy Bill Felts, Ed. Moran, and Alex Galton helped show the boys how horsemen live together and like it. The campers had a good trip and returned after three days of goodly fellowship. They were Dave Bennett, Dave Hunting, Doug Stock, Oliver Robinson, Selmer Sands, Stewart Austin, Jim Osmer, Al Birdsall, and Sarge Harvey.

The entire camp got out together on Wednesday for a track meet under Green and Gray banners. The events included broad jumps, shot put, 100 yd. dash, high jump, relays, and 51 yd. dash. The Greys won in the senior and intedmediate sections, but the Greens came out on top in the junior section. Some of the campers who won events for their teams were Bob Patterson, Bill Kerr, and Hal Caldwell, 50 yd. dash; Dick Abbott, Gene Chapman and George Keeler, 25 yd. dash for juniors; Ken Sands, Ken Vincent and Dean Hudnutt, senior 51 yd. dash; Herb Dow, Jack Kirsch, and Johnny Mains, senior 75 yd. dash; Jim Kendall, Sam Greenawalt and Jack Kirsch, broad jump.

This week others of the boys who had a chance to live and play together were those who went on the long sail trip during the week. Skippers John Hogan and Charles Marcus were in charge of the group which included Dick Tuthill, Jim Curtis, and George Osborne. The boys were out on the lake for three days and found much in the way of adventure. Another similar trip leaves this week with Bill Kerr, Bud Jenkins, Dick LaFever and Jack Kirsch. Ken Vincent will be the skipper.

A good gathering was held on Wednesday evening at the weekly camp barbeque. This is a great favorite here at camp, and the boys do their loyal duty to every good roast that is cooked and the good ice cream that comes their way. After the meal they gathered in the clubhouse to see others of their fellow campers give skits and plays in their honor. Some of the actors included Fred Mills, Jack Tanner, Bill Kerr, Arthur Schupp and Junior Green.

Another chance for the campers to learn about each other was at the swimming meet held in the somewhat rough waters of the lake on Saturday afternoon. Joe and Ed. Moran, who brought home the cups awarded in town last week, were in charge of the event. This was a Green and Gray match and was won by the Greens. Some of the top-notch swimmers were Dave Bennett, Dave Hunting, Allyn Wright, Bill Wilson, Barney Golivaux, Fritz Steketee, Herb Dow, Allen Hunting, and Sam Greenawalt.

The program in play production given in the clubhouse on Saturday evening included a play about the last World War and another by the famous Russian, Tchekov. Ken Sands and Charles Marcus played the male leads in the latter, while Dean Hudnutt, Herbert Johnson, Bill Hart, Larry Burdick, and Ed Gordon made up the other cast. It was received by a noisy, appreciative audience.

The Sunday morning chapel service has become important for the fine spirit of fellowship that is evident, probably enlivened by good music and the interesting talks by campers and counsellors alike. The music was furnished by a camper's choir. Counselor Joe Moran was the speaker on Sunday and through his message was the theme of this article: The opportunity for successful living with others.

The week ahead is a busy one for the camp. Most of the boys will be out in three or four day trips by sailboat, canoe or horseback. The all-popular Tahquamenon Falls trip goes out, as does the junior section's trip to Mackinaw Island. (Guess they saw those pictures in "Life"). We will write more about these for the next issue of the Courier.

So you see at Camp Charlevoix we are making the most of peace in the American way. Too bad the French hadn't heard of "roughing it."

BELVEDERE HOTEL ACTIVITIES

Mrs. Joseph Hickey, of St. Louis and Belvedere Club, was hostess to a large group of friends at a luncheon-bridge party last Wednesday. The table, which was set in the form of a large H, was most attractively decorated with low bowls of varied colored flowers, as well as many blossoms being intermingled with delicate ferns through the center of the table. The flower bowls were flanked by light green slender tapers, and dainty green nut cups were also used. After the luncheon hour, Mrs. Hickey and her guests adjourned to the solarium of the hotel where they whiled away the afternoon hours playing bridge.

The weekly bridge party was attended by a very large group of Belvedere cottagers, hotel guests and their friends. Attractive prizes were awarded to Mrs. F. Carpenter, Mrs. Edward Knotts, Mrs. Charles B. Fox, Mrs. Joseph Hickey, Mrs. Richard Moss, and Mrs. F. Lund.

Jack Rosevear and his orchestra were given a hearty welcome by the Belvedere resorters at the casino last Thursday night. This is one of the outstanding dance bands of the middle-west, and Mr. Rosevear continuously entertained his audience by his clever antics on the piano. Jack and his boys will play for dancing of the Belvedere cottagers, hotel guests and their friends every Tuesday and Thursday evening for the balance of the season.

Recent arrivals at the Belvedere Hotel are: Mr. and Mrs. W. Mashburn, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. James H. Ralston and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. M. M. Brohard and family, of Cincinnati; Mr. and Mrs. George S. I wouldn't be a very smart Mileage Merchant if I'd ever lose sight of one swell way to make you my steady customer. I couldn't keep you coming here by nothing but the polish on my manners. They'll stack up with anybody's, even if I say so myself, but that isn't much to you unless at the same time you notice all your swell mileage from my Conoco Bronz-z-z gasoline. I stick to the idea that you still want the mileage, no matter how much like a good hotel I keep both the restrooms, and no matter how bright I always shine up your windshield, not forgetting the windows. And I fill your radiator and tires exactly enough, but the thing you get with all the swell service here at my place is good high Conoco Bronz-z-z mileage. Please don't think I'm just talking, because I sure want to give you one of the Conoco Mile-Dials free—a neat certified instrument, installed in half a minute, to make your Conoco Bronz-z-z gasoline prove its own true mileage direct to your own eyes. I know the way consumers these days are wanting real dope on what they buy, and here is gasoline that gives it to you. POTATO DEALERS MUST RENEW LICENSES SOON

In a letter to all potato dealers handling potatoes for resale and to all potato graders, Commissioner of Agriculture Elmer A. Beamer this week pointed out that expiration dates on dealers and graders licenses are approaching and that renewal may be made on application accompanied by a one dollar fee.

Those who have discontinued either dealing in or grading potatoes should notify the department of agriculture so that proper notation may be made on departmental records.

EVER TRY COOKING A CUKE OR RADISH?

If your family is patient enough to try eating results of cooking experiments, then conduct a little culinary research by cooking such things as cucumbers and radishes and vegetable soybeans.

But, warn members of the home economics extension staff at Michigan State College, if the family objects to experiments and revolts against anything but good old standby foods, then the following suggestions may better be tossed out the window:

Unusual, for instance, is to take some of the garden surplus of radishes, try cooking and serving with a milk or cream sauce, or serve tender green onions on toast for something different in midsummer.

Or if the heat affects a cook to the extreme, here is another adventure that may surprise the dinner table occupants. This consists of fried, boiled or baked cucumbers. One experimentor suggests paring the cucumbers, cutting in half lengthwise and stuffing with tomatoes before baking.

Before the stuffing is put in, the boatlike halves are scraped to remove the center pulp and the shells then are parboiled for about 10 minutes. Cook some chopped onion and parsley in fat, add the cucumber pulp and some chopped raw tomatoes, bread crumbs and seasoning. Cook for five minutes, stuff the cucumbers, put in a baking dish with some water to prevent sticking and bake 15 minutes in a moderate oven. Then remember, it's an experiment and success depends upon a family's pioneering spirit.

Swiss chard is another unusual vegetable in that the white stalks need longer cooking than the leaves but are tasty when well prepared. Eggplant, kohlrabi and okra are other vegetables that fall into the pots that cook up preparations that are different.

Thanks to Lakes Michigan, Superior, Huron and St. Clair, Michigan's tourist sections enjoy an envious summer climate. To appreciate fully what we have, just travel elsewhere!

"Roof Garden DeLuxe"

For several seasons this column has proclaimed enthusiastically the many merits of the Upper Peninsula, "roof garden de luxe" of the Middle West.

North Michigan resort hoosters, instead of being envious or resentful, have welcomed our words of praise. The reason is unique, and it is largely geographical. Michigan is not one peninsula; it is two. The tourist must travel through the lower peninsula before he gets to the upper peninsula; thus a good word for one inevitably benefits both!

The cool and charming land of Hiawatha, once a center for mining and lumbering, has been having a steady comeback economically due largely to several factors: More automobiles, more roads, more leisure time for vacations, and more facilities to accommodate the American gypsies.

Another reason is relief from heat. The average temperature in this north country is 65 degrees, no matter how hot it is elsewhere.

If you had only two weeks' time for a vacation, how much of the upper peninsula could you visit/

George E. Bishop, secretary-manager of the Upper Peninsula Development Bureau at Marquette, sends us these suggestions: See the "Seven Wonders" of Hiawatha land!

When you glance at the map, the eighth wonder will be that it is possible for a traveler to cover so much territory. For after all, you'll need a few days — preferably more — to enjoy the wonders of the north Michigan country too! But here they are, and woe be to the person who doubts them.

At St. Ignace the visitor should climb Castle Rock for a fine view of the Straits. Next, visit nearby Evergreen Lodge and its log architecture. See Marquette's grave and the outlines of old Ford De Baude on the hill behind the park.

A visit to Michigan's "summer capital", Mackinac Island, will include old Fort Mackinac, Fort Holmes, Arch Rock, Sugar Loaf Rock, the Grand Hotel, and of course the Mackinac Summer Theatre and the Mackinac Summer School of Art.

Enroute north, you may go to the Les Cheneaux points—Hessel, Cedarville, DeTour and Old Fort Drummond on Drummond Island where the last British flag on American soil was hauled down in 1828.

Soo Ship Locks

Wonder No. 1 is the great ship locks in downtown Sault Ste. Marie, open daily and Sundays without charge from 9 a. m. to 7:30 p. m. until September 15.

For variety, skate on artificial ice at the Pullar Stadium; watch an afternoon military parade at Fort Brady. And don't forget, if you wish to visit Canada, there will be NO trouble about your re-entry at the border.

Westward on Highway M-28, you next visit Tahquamenon Falls, Wonder No. 2—a leisurely trip down Hiawatha's winding river. (If time permits, drive around through Newberry to the Lower Falls and the Bodi Pines, 1,700 acres of virgin timber.)

Pictured Rocks near Munising are Wonder No. 3. Other scenic lures are Grand Marais, Grand Sable Falls, the Nagow Wudjoo sand dunes, Miner's Falls, Lake Au Train and Grand Island. Nearby are the Marquette iron range cities—Ishpeming, Negaunee and Marquette.

Wonder No. 4 is the marvelous Keweenaw copper range with Brockway mountain drive, Fort Wilkins, Eagle Harbor, the Knights of Pythias foundation shrine and the miles of copper mine workings and reduction plants in the vicinity of Houghton.

New National Park

Isle Royle, Michigan's new national park, is the 5th Wonder. It is reached by swift cabin cruises from Copper Harbor or Eagle Harbor.

At least a day can be profitably devoted to the Porcupine mountains and the Lake of the Clouds (Wonder No. 6) at Ontonagon. With a little mountain climbing, a jaunt to the Victoria blow-off and dam and perhaps to Agate Falls climaxed by one of the famous Ontonagon whitefish dinners, it will be a big day, crowded with thrills.

Lake Gogebic, largest inland lake of the peninsula, lies amid the Gogebic iron range, the capital of which is Ironwood and its towering Mount Zion park. If time permits, visit King's Gateway, Michigan's own "Sun Valley" resort of lavish appointments and variety of recreation.

From Watersmeet to Iron River, Crystal Falls, Iron Mountain down to Menominee, you enjoy a constant vista of scenic beauty.

Highway M-35 along the bay shore to Escanaba and Gladstone brings you to US-2 to the astonishing Kitchiti-ki-pi Spring, last of the Seven Wonders.

Lack of space does not permit a complete listing of other points of interest during the above swing around the "Roof Garden." This rather hurried itinerary leaves out such grand sights as the Huron peninsula and the Huron mountains; the Sturgeon river gorge; the charming Big Bay region; Gwinn, the spotless town of Hiawatha land; gem-like Witch lake; Little Girl's Point, farther away from Detroit than is New York City; and many other things worth seeing.

It will be important to remember that the vast Lake Superior, extending 492 miles along Michigan's northern boundary, is the equalizer of the Upper Peninsula's summer climate. Hence take along your wraps! The evenings are always cool.

Editor's Note: Why not clip the above column and mail it to a friend in a nearby state? Michigan's best friends are her loyal boosters.

How New $6,700 Building Will Look

After forty years of existence independent of fund raising drives, the Petoskey District of the Salvation Army, embodying Emmet, Charlevoix, Antrim and Kalkaska counties, has started a campaign to replace the old headquarters on Mitchell street, Petoskey, with a new up-to-date building.

The old headquarters was deemed beyond repair and has been sold. Work has already begun digging the foundation for the new building. John Rhodes, public relations manager for the Salvation Army for the past few days, has been lining up the campaign.

A COMMUNICATION

Editor's Note:—This is the 1rst installment of a letter from Rev. and Mrs. Roland Armstrong, Presbyterian missionaries formerly located in Charlevoix, now stationed at Fairbanks, Alaska. The letter will be printed serially.

Fairbanks, Alaska, July 7, 1940.

Dear Gang:

Greetings from a couple of Alaska Cheechakas! A person is termsd a Cheechaka in Alaska until he has seen the ice come and go—only after that can he be called a Sourdough.

Alaska is grand! We came expecting to like it here, and we don't find it a bit hard to do. It is still hard to realize that we are really in Alaska—that little handle on the mup that was taught to mean a land of ice and snow. I would like to correct some geography books or some teachers.

It is hard to know just where to begin to tell things—there is so much to tell of these last two months. Fairbanks is a true pioneer town—wide open. The listed population of a little over three thousand is increasing by leaps and bounds. All of this new national defense is bringing men to this section by the hundreds. The Ladd Air Base being built under Army appropriations is three miles out from town—and the Fourth of July payroll for unskilled labor only was $72,000.00. Flood control and mining also boost the ranks of employed. We have just been given a box in the postoffice, und we got it through pull for the church—the large new potoffice in the Federal Building is about 250 boxes short and there are over three thousand there. For weeks we stood in a line extending to the sidewalk, waiting for our mail — a regular bread line. After mail service the office does not open until eleven u'clock—and to know that one had mail coming in and not be able to get it! At the time that we came the mail came in twice a week by plane and twice a week by train—and went out the same. June 20th saw the establishment of the Alaska Clipper Air Mail Service—two days to Seattle instead of eight as formerly by train and boat. The P.A.A. Electra leaves Fairbanks via Whitehorse and connects with the clipper at Juneau. Enclosed clippings will show you the type of schedule which we follow on trains and planes. The Brill cars are diesel engines—usually one car—which comes straight thru from connecting with the boats. They bring perishables and such passengers as wish to come. The regular train makes frequent stops, stops at McKinley National Park, and stop over night when darkness overtakes it—or at the time darkness should overtake it.

And speaking of daylight—sleeping on night duty has nothing on this place. The first night I carefully raised the window shades and started to raise the windows—then I thought "No, that isn't right"—and pulled the shades to the hottom. Open windows and closed shades don't make sense, so I opened the door and 'port holes.' When I first walked into the house I thought, "Goodness, how many stoves they have had—one or two in every room." I soon learned that the openings were not stovepipe holes, but openings for ventilation. The summer is alright but one just doesn't open windows in the winter time.

We didn't sleep too well these first few weeks, bat we nre getting accustomed to it now. And too, how is one to know when to go to bed? It is light enough to read all night, the stores are open until the wee sma' hours, and the streets are filled with people. We have just learned to roll up the manse sidewalk at about the usual time. But again, life doesn't begin very early in the morning here. Our first morning we started for a grocery to buy something for breakfast. We found one after another closed, and when one proprietor appeared about 8:30 we remarked that we had about given up hope. "Oh," said he, "newcomers here." And you should have seen how little we got for $4.55.

As to the said prices—they really are high, we are told, due to "the high freight rates." As several have said, however, it doesn't seem right that the freight for an entire case should be tacked onto ench article contained within that case. One lady told me that I would almost starve my husband for a couple weeks—everyone does. I haven't though, for we realize that one must eat, one must pay the price or go without, and one does learn to forget the price and feel just as thriftily happy over a few cents saved on Saturday specials as "back in Americn." Bread is 25c a loaf (we have bought only one loaf—I bake) milk is 25c a quart, currots, at the time that we came, four for 25c—they are cheaper now, apples 55c to 65c a dozen, watermelon 19c a pound, etc., etc. But we aren't losing any weight.

To help in the eats situation one is entitled to three caribou in a season and a hunting license costs only a dollar after the first year—fifty dollars before thnt. Needless to say someone is going to shoot our caribou for us this first year. They come down from the mountains in herds in the fall. People do not shoot them on the lower side of the highway for that simply means that they must be carried up to the car. This year they must be shot at least a half mile from the highway — quite a hardship. They are brought into ones backyard and hung up for the winter—what is left when it begins to thaw, is canned. We had canned caribou steak a few days ago. It tastes very much like beef but does not have the same food value due to their diet of moss with which Alaska tundra is covered. A hunter is also entitled to one moose (hard to get) and one sheep (harder to get). So we shouldn't starve! There is no charge for a fishing license here. We have had a mess of grayling although we did not catch them. Salmon do not come in this far. Meat from the butcher shop leaves little desire for more. It is frozen until it must be cut with a band saw, and in addition is treated with what Rolland insists is formnldehyde — mummified meat, he terms it.

We have u lovely little church, u homey manse, and a grand group uf people with whom to work. The main part of the church is fairly new and has been added on to the old building which is used for Sunday school rooms and kitchen — a very well equipped kitchen. The church is a cream colored frame building, on a corner, and has four white birch trees in front of it. Rolland has a nice study in the church, and is he thrilled!

The manse is next door to the church, and is a two story white frame huilding. It has been newly decorated for us, and some new furniture bought tu replace what the Youels owned. On the first floor is a hall from which the stalrway goes up, a very large living room, a dining room, kitchen, and a storeroom—a cache as it is called here. Upstairs is our bedroom, a guest room, a room I use as a sewing and work room, and a bathroom. There are clothes closets in each room, and a large closet off the hall—I must write to Carl about my closets and cupboards. An attic covers the main part of the house, and a basement underneath. And do I love storage space. My clothes line is a circular affair on top of the cache and garage. It appears impossible to get a car in the garage as it was built before the church was added to. We have a coal furnace, a coal range, and a kerosene stove. Coal, n lignite variety of Alaskan origin, is about ten dollars a ton. It is soft and not particularly good, but when one remembers that it has been available only a few years, one is properly grateful for it. Just imagine the price of shipped in coal. Kerosene is fifty cents a gallon—and how I used to douse it on to start a fire!

We have n very nice garden, small but good soil. We have thirty hills of strawberries which are bearing well now, two hills of rhubarb, and one root of horseradish. The garden is surrounded on two sides by native delphinium—we measured some last Sunday that were eight feet, four inches tall. We have planted radishes, lettuce, peas, turnips, beets, carrots, spinach, cabbage plants, leeks, nnd celery plants. We planted radishes on Monday and they were up the next Friday—peas up on Sunday. We had radishes four weeks from the time we planted them. I have made sixteen jars of wild strawberry jam. Blueberries are just coming on, and they will be followed by high and low bush cranberries. Tomatoes and cucumbers are raised in hothousese. One of our church ladies has a nice greenhouse—sells tomatoes at forty cents a pound—cucumbers two or three for a quarter.

Clear air every day for whole cities. Bad weather shut out where it belongs; no hay fever to rack victims, no more colds to cut down working hours, comfortable climate for everybody at maybe $15 per person per year. Don't miss this interesting article in The American Weekly, the magazine distributed with next week's Sunday Chicago Herald-American.

Shrubs are being planted at considerable cost along main highways, to benutify them, while some counties und townships still are paying to huve them cut down on little used country roads, where they provide good game cover without the hazard of heavy traffic.

Mr. X was a victim of a Michigan windstorm in 1939; his house, worth $3,600.00, was wrecked beyond repair. More tragic than this, Mr. X carried no windstorm insurance.

Mr. X could have averted this loss, completely, by investing $6.00 a year in windstorm insurance. $6.00 a year for $4,000 worth of windstorm insurance is a good investment . . . when it is pointed out that destructive windstorms will raise havoc in Michigan this year as surely as they did last year; the State Mutual Cyclone Insurance Company's claims, for 43 years, prove this conclusively.

Nobody can afford to be without windstorm insurance when you can buy $1,000.00 worth of protection for $1.50 a year . . . from the reliable State Mutual Cyclone Insurance Company. Don't wait 'til it's too late! See your local State Mutual Cyclone Insurance Company agent today.

FARM TOPICS

MORTGAGE DEBT SHOWS DECLINE

Farm Liens Are the Lowest In Twenty Years.

The farm mortgage debt atands at approximately $7,000,000,000 it is reported by the bureau of agricultural economics. This is the smallest figure in 20 years, and compares with the high record of nearly $11,000,000,000 in the early 1920s.

Officials said the debt has been reduced markedly during the current decade—from $9,631,000,000 in 1930 to $7,071,000,000 in 1939—but is still much higher than in the years immediately preceding the World war a quarter century ago. Much of the reduction during the early 1930s was the result of foreclosures and distresa transfers. In recent years principal repayments have been of increasing importance.

The way in which the debt increased and declined in the last three decades, and the conditions affecting these movements are discussed by Donald C. Horton in a recent issue of the bureau's publication "The Agricultural "Situation." The peak in farm mortgage debt during the last 30 years was in 1922-23, about 172 per cent above the 1910-14 level. The debt has declined in each subsequent year except 1927.

The debt increased in all major geographic divisions of the country from 1910 to 1920, and there was a further rise in all areas for some time during the early 1920s. For all geographic decreases liquidation or a much retarded rate of growth followed the increases of the early 1920s, and varying amounts of debt liquidation resulted from the post-1929 depression in all areas.

Marked regional differences in debt trends occurred in the late 1920s and early 1930s. The continued downward trend for the west north central states, for example, stood in sharp contrast with the continued upward trend for the Pacific states during this period. In the west south central states deot continued to increase from 1925 to 1930, whereas in the south Atlantic and east south central states the upward movement after 1925 continued only to the middle af thia five-year period.

In four geographic divisions—New England, Middle Atlantic, Mountain, and Pacific—farm mortgage debt rose for a time after 1930. In all of these regions mortgage debt had either risen or changed little during the latter part of the 1920s.

During 1932 and 1933 the decline was general for all areas, but in the following two years there were again widely divergent regional movements. There was a continued rise in New England during the years 1036, 1937 and 1938. Changes were small during this period in the middle Atlantic, east south central and Pacific states.

There was a considerable decrease, however, in the west north central states. The largest decrease for any state in 1938 was 9.4 per cent for North Dakota, the largest increase was 3 per cent for Massachusetts.

Many Silo Accidents Are Found Avoidable

Far too many serious accidents occur in connection with silo filling, most of which can be prevented by exercising even a small amount of care. Probably the most common is that of falls from the silo in putting up or taking down the filler pipes or in putting in the doors. Even a 10-foot fall may be very serious if one strikes on his head, falls with a leg or arm underneath, or falls on the cutter or other machine.

Also many lose a hand or an arm by trying to crowd the corn into a cutter which is partly choked. Keep the hands at least a foot away from the feed rolls; and if closer crowding must be done, use a forked stick.

Be careful that the cutting knives are properly adjusted and the adjusting bolts and locking nuts properly secured. Any clicking or tapping should at once be investigated by stopping the cutter and testing the knife adjustments and lock nuts, and these should be gone over each half day before the cutter is started up.

Do not run the cutter faster than called for in the manufacturers directions. Experimental work shows that excessive speed not only is dangerous but that it wastes an enormous amount of power and that usually just as good results will be obtained at the lower speeds.

Australia Erosion

Farmers from all parts of Australia attended the country's first soil erosion exhibition, held in Sydney recently. Arranged by the new soil conservation service, whose slogan is "Farm the soil—don't mine it," the exhibit included photographs illustrating that the best farming and grazing districts in New South Wales are becoming a desert. Remedies suggested were checkerboard and contour plowing and planting the right trees and grasses.

LEGAL NOTICES

Registration Notice
For General Primary Election
September 10th, 1040

To the Qualified Electors of the City of Charlevoix, State of Michigan.

Notice is hereby given that in conformity with the "Michigan Election Law", I, the undersigned city clerk will, upon any day except Sunday and a legal holiday, the day of any regular or special election or primary election, receive for registration the name of any legal voter in said city not already registered who may apply to me personally for such registration. Provided, however, that I can receive no names for registration during the twenty days preceding any regular, special, or official primary election and the day of such election.

The day doy for general registration does not apply to persons who vote under the Absent Voters' Law. (See Registration by Affidavit.)

Notice is hereby given that I will be at the city hall Wednesday, August 21, 1040, the twentieth day preceding said election, as provided by Sec. 3, Chapter 3, Part II, Michigan Election Law — Revision of 1936, from 8 o'clock a. m. until 8 o'clock p. m. on said day for the purpose of reviewing the registration and registering such of the qualified electors in said city as shall properly apply therefor.

Notice is hereby further given to the qualified electors of this city that I, the undersigned clerk of said city, will register qualified electors who may apply at my office on any business day in the year up to and including Wednesday, August 21, 1940—last day, for general registration by personal application for said election, from 8 o'clock a. m. to 8 o'cock p. m.

The name of no person but an actual resident of the city at the time of registration, and entitled under the constitution, if remaining such resident, to vote at the next election shall be entered in the registration book.

Provision in Case of Removal to Another Precinct

Any registered and qualified voter who has removed from one election precinct to another election precinct shall have the right, on any day previous to election day, on application to the city clerk, to have his or her name transferred from the registration book of the precinct from which he or she has removed to the registration book of the precinct in which he or she then resides. Such elector shall have the right to have such transfer made on election day, or primary election day, by obtaining from the board of inspectors of election of the precinct from which he or she has removed a certificate of transfer, and presenting the said certificate to the board of election inspectors of the precinct in which he or she then resides.

Dated August 5th, A. D. 1940.

Ray S. Hamilton, City Clerk.

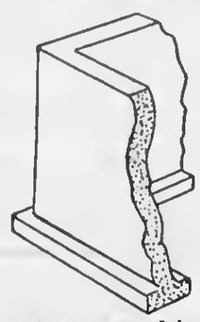
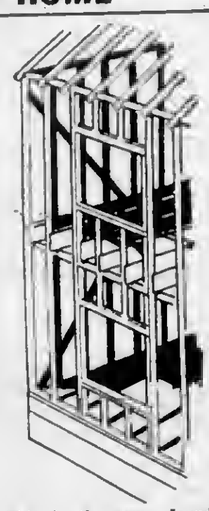
DON'T NEGLECT FUNDAMENTALS IN YOUR NEW HOME



1 This is a corner of the foundation and footings. Your whole house rests upon it. It can never be replaced.



2 This is the same foundation with timber skeleton now in place. Again here is a part of your home that can never be replaced.

3 Here is a rough window opening from the inside. Notice how the framing members are doubled all around the opening. Dark shaded portions show insulation in place between the studding.

Glitter of Gadgets Often Distracts Builder From Quality Where It's Needed Most

Are you building a house for the first time? Then chances are you are in kind of a daze. There are so many things to decide, so many things to buy, so many more things you want and can't buy because there is just so much money. Now there's nothing less glamorous than the concrete footings and foundation. One doesn't show them off to one's friends, but if you skimp on either, you'll be busy for years to come trying to cover up cracked walls that all your friends will see.

Don't Skimp on Framework

Likewise the timber skeleton or frame of your house is going to be all covered up, but if you skimp on it you'll have sagging floors that squeak at every step.

And how about those great big holes in the wall, the rough window openings. You can buy windows and window frames to fill these holes pretty cheap. And you'll pay for them for years to come in heat lost, drafty floors and wet walls. Or, you can buy carefully designed, precision built and factory fitted windows and window frames complete with weatherstrip that will be a joy and a comfort every year that you live in your house. Yes, and you'll find that the extra cost was money well spent because of heat bills, repair bills and redecorating bills saved.

Can't Replace Windows

Good windows are a permanent part of your walls. They protect your investment in insulation and quality construction. Any home without weathertight windows is only one-half insulated. So when you build, get down to fundamentals. Always remember—you can add the gadgets any time, but you can't replace footings or timbers or windows. They've got to be good right from the start.

E. C. Scheidenhelm, Dairy Specialist, to Meet With D. H. I. A. Members

The membership of the northwest Michigan D. H. I. A. is invited to attend the annual meeting to be held on Friday night, August 9th, in the Hoyne City postoffice building beginning promptly at 8:00. E. C. Scheidenhelm, dairy extension specialist from the Michigan State College, will be present and discuss dairy items of special interest to cow test association members.

Denzil Gibbard, tester in charge, will give the report of last year's results.

Grasshopper Mixing Station Closed August First

This year's county-wide grasshopper control program was concluded on July 31st when the station was closed for the balance of the year. Approximately 30 tons of the wet bait were used by farmers as compared with 20 tons in 1939 and 133 tons in 1938.

Potato Tour Being Planned for Thursday, August 15th

Of great interest to all producers and buyers of certified seed potatoes is the announcement that Emmet and Charlevoix counties are conducting potato tours on Wednesday and Thursday, August 14th and 15th. The tour in Emmet county will be on the first day named and will include outstanding potato fields in the Pellston and Levering area.

County agents of southern Michigan counties are invited and are inviting growers to accompany the tour and really see certified potatoes at their best. A good delegation from Jackson and Ingham counties is expected. A cordial invitation is extended to the Charlevoix county farmers to avail themselves of this opportunity of seeing some of our best fields.

H. C. Moore, in charge of certified seed potatoes, and J. H. Muncie, plant pathologist, will be present to discuss proper methods of raising potatoes and potato diseases. The first stop will be at the farm of Lee Sneathen, Charlevoix, at 9:30 Thursday morning, August 15th. He lives about one mile south of the Maple Grove Grange Hall in Hayes township. He has a wonderful field of Russets and also Irish Cobblers. Last year he had one of the outstanding fields in Michigan.

The next stop will be at the home of Howard Stephens, Charlevoix, who lives one mile west of Horton's Bay. Here you will see Russet Rurals grown under the best of conditions and in the best of vigor. For many years these two farmers have been producing certified seed potatoes.

The noon day meal will be in Boyne City between twelve and one o'clock. Three modern, up-to-date restaurants will give the folks a wonderful choice for their lunch.

The last stop in the afternoon will be at the farm of LeRoy Hardy, on the Deer lake road about seven miles south of Boyne City, at 1:30 p. m. This is the third year that Mr. Hardy has been raising certified seed and he really has a splendid field to see.

DISTRICT HEALTH UNIT

The Hay Fever Problem

During the months of August and September many people suffer from hay-fever in one form or another. Most of these attacks are caused by the common ragweed. According to some authorities, there are more than one hundred varieties of that pest, botanically speaking, which may produce the pollen which causes so much mischief among susceptible people.

According to the house organ of one prominent drug house, these weeds may range all the way from a cocklebur to a marsh elder. The most trouble, however, comes from the ordinary type of common ragweed. If complete destruction of all forms of the ragweed could be brought about in the month of July every year, there would be little hay fever in the late summer and fall in Michigan. So far, this ideal has been impossible to achieve. The ragweed is prolific and bears a large amount of seed and spreads rapidly under favorable circumstances. Northern Michigan occupies an enviable position in that these weeds are in the minimum.

Eradication of ragweed may be compared to the eradication of rats in a town. In a town of 10,000 population and overrun with a plague of rats, the Biological Department of the Federal government cooperating with the states have many ways to put on rat campaigns and practically eradicate the breeding places and destroy the rats. One thing, however, is necessary. Every individual citizen in the place must cooperate. If all the people in every residence and all the business part of town do their part, save one place, maybe an old warehouse or maybe a store, that is left out, within a few weeks the rats will be just as plentiful as ever.

If all the tenants and lot owners in every town and the farms surrounding could thoroughly eradicate the ragweed before it blooms and eradicate it out beyond the range of the winds, protection would be secured, but if one lot remains on which the weeds are undestroyed, every susceptible individual in the whole town will soon or later become infected before the fall is over. The infection, however, may be reduced by each individual citizen cleaning up his own surroundings and inducing his neighbors to do likewise. If this could be done, much relief would be experienced in such neighborhoods.

This is one plague we cannot blame on Europe or Asia. Most of our crop and fruit plagues have been imported, but ragweed is one of our own products and is strictly a native plant.

For the most modern treatment of this condition, both preventive and curative, the reader is referred to any good competent practicing physician who, it is hoped, will do the best he can.

Heartaches of a Famous Boy Giant Over at Last

An article, in The American Weekly with the August 11 issue of The Detroit Sunday Times, reveals how a real life Gulliver, tried, unhappily, to make the best of it. . .but he was different from everybody else, needing special clothes, shoes (at $100 a pair) and everything else, and finally a special coffin. AT THE MOVIES

Anna Neagle, Ray Milland Co-Starred in Lavish, Gay, Filmusical, 'Irene'

Bringing its popular tunes to the speaking screen for the first time, RKO Radio's film version of "Irene," will be shown at the Palace Theater, August 11, 12, with Anna Neagle, the famous British star, and Ray Milland sharing stellar honors, and with such favorites as Roland Young, Alan Marshal, May Robson and Billie Burke in prominent roles.

Both on Broadway and on road tours "Irene" won a lasting place with theater-goers as one of the most entertaining and best-liked of all musical comedies, and the picture version is heralded as being even more charming.

The plot deals with the scintillating career of a little Irish sales-girl who is catapulted into a fame she doesn't want.

Mickye Rooney Crashes Cafe Society in "Andy Hardy Meets Debutante"

Lewis Stone, Mickey Rooney and the rest of the Hardy Family, plus golden-voiced Judy Garland, come August 15-17 in the Palace Theatre in the ninth and latest of the popular series, "Andy Hardy Meets Debutante."

The story takes them to New York where Andy Hardy, son of the family, is faced with a problem very serious to him but full of laughs for everyone else.

Judy Garland appears for the second time in the Hardy series as Betsy Booth.

Others in the cast are Diana Lewis as the dazzling debutante and Ann Rutherford as Mickey's Carvel sweetheart. The picture was directed by George B. Seitz, who has piloted all the Hardy films save one.

"LOWER COST TO ADVERTISER"

One of the consistent users of newspaper advertising space from coast to coast is Montgomery Ward & Co.

Here is what William H. Howard, retail sales manager of the company, says about the newspaper as the medium for retail advertising:

"The newspaper reaches the public at lower cost to the advertiser per individual than any other medium. It offers the widest regular market coverage of any advertising medium for the retail store."

Geer and his crew have raised at the federal hatchery. The nearly a million tiny starting fry have reached a length averaging better than 3 inches with only a very slight percentage of loss. Plantings have had to be made at intervals lately to prevent over-erowding in the rearing troughs. And are they lively, healthy specimens! The "experimental failure" is going to mean almost a million fish to replenish the rapidly diminishing commercial supply, while at the same time providing more fish for trolling sport.

And it is not too early to remind summer residents and tourists that Charlevoix is going to put on a Fishing Festival this fall. The event will be staged with advent of the fall perch run — a time of year when steelhead fishing is at its best and a novelty in the form of night fishing for smelt off the docks of Round lake and Lake Charlevoix is available. Will say right here that a smelt run which actually produces smelt will be a novelty in itself and Charlevoix stands to guarantee visitors all the smelt they want. Now is the time to "talk it up" among your summer friends and tourist acquaintances.

In case you might not of suspicioned as much, that "Battle of Pine River" memorial dedicated July 27th was Earl Young's idea. Earl brought the stone to Boulder Purk two years ago, brought up the idea of having the monument, donated the stone and generally engineered the whole thing. Just the stone itself wus a dead giveaway, if you ask me.

It gives me a lot of satisfaction to say Charlevoix has obtained its first industry. The Foster Boat Co., expected to furnish employment for as high as 30 men, is moving from Grand Rapids to locate in the old Parmelee warehouse on Ferry avenue, which the city council bought and has furnished on a lease and purchase agreement for this manufacturing concern. It is a small start, to be sure, but let us hope it is the beginning of better things for Charlevoix.

Mrs. Albert Balch, of Marion township, has submitted for publication a photograph of a five generation group in her family, and it is to be regretted we do not have the facilities to reproduce it for printing. We are very pleased to acknowledge this unusual incident, however. In the photo are Mrs. Eliza Dixon, 86, of Detroit, great-great-grandmother; Mrs. Mary Jane (Albert Balch, 61, Marion township, great grandmother; Mrs. Florence Jackson, 42, of Ironton, grandmother; Mrs. Hilda Clark, 21, of Ironton, mother of little Betty Lou Clark, age 10 months. Our congratulations!

Despite the great surprise it must have been to him, so far as we have heard, President Roosevelt has stood the shock of being "drafted by the people" quite well.

Having noticed in a recent magazine how they grafted frogs together to make them Siamese twins, it just occurred to what a blessing it would be if someone figured out a way to produce a chicken with about six legs so as to satisfy he kiddies in big families who all want a drumstick.

Note with interest that France, now under Nazi domination, is changing its instructional methods for girls from compulsory mathematics and Latin to home economics and child-rearing. It may be a far cry from our democratic ideals to make such instruction compulsory, but regardless, a little of that type of old-fashioned training wouldn't do any harm in this day and age.

MRS. JENNIE MAY BIXBY IS TAKEN BY DEATH

Funeral Services for Aged Local Woman Were Conducted Monday

Mrs. Jennie May Bixby, 74, died Friday at her home on Carpenter avenue, after an illness of one week.

Jennie May Van Nardstrand was born October 9, 1865, in Cass county. She married VanDorn Bixby at Wakely, Mich., September 12, 1886. He died August 4, 1929 at Cadillac, their home for more than twenty years.

Mrs. Bixby had made her home in Charlevoix since 1932.

Mrs. Bixby was a generous, wurmhearted woman, respected by all who knew her.

Surviving are one daughter, Mrs. William Taylor of this city, a son, VanDorn, of Elberta, four grandchildren, a brother, John VanNardstrand of Cassopolis, and a niece.

Three brothers, William, Isaac and Frank, and an infant sister, Permilla, preceded her in death.

Funeral services were conducted by Rev. H. J. Pulsipher from the See Funeral Home at 1:00 o'clock Monday afternoon, August 5. Interment was at Maple Hill Cemetery, Cadillac.

KIWANIS NOTES

Dr. Marshall R. Reed, Governor of the Michigan District of Kiwanis, who is vacationing on Lake Charlevoix, is expected to be present at the next meeting of the club.

Songs hy Miss Dorothy Morris, music by Harry Bliss and his orchestra; dancing and a "Dance Quiz" by Miss Gertrude Scott and Arthur Alexander provided delightful entertainment for the weekly meeting held August 6th, at the Beach Hotel.

Dr. F. W. Young and Don Herrick tied for first prize in the "Dance Quiz". Drawing first choice, Dr. Young decided in favor of free dancing lessons; and Don had to be content with a solid silver cigarette case. Several other members won a lesser number of dancing lessons.

Guests ut the meeting were: C. L. Hoyt, Iola, Kansas; Gertrude Scott and Arthur Alexander, Detroit; James L. Culp, Ann Arbor; Chester G. Sudman and Ernest Lancashire, Allen Park; W. J. Nevin, Pontiac; William H. Helrigel, Traverse City; and Verner J. Hoffman, Muskegon.

MANY SEEK COAST GUARD PLANE BASE

EXPECT SURVEY COMPLETED BY OCTOBER 1ST

Six Planes and Crew of 75 Men Required by Base—Congress Has Appropriated $750,000 for Purpose

State aeronautics commission officials expect the U. S. Coast Guard to completo its three-month survey for a suitable service base on the lnwer Michigan peninsola hy October 1st.

The current session of congress appropriated $750,000 for estublishment of a base on either Lake Michigan or Lake Huron above the Bay City-Muskegon line, but did not name the site at which the prnject was to be built.

The coast guard was instructed by the bill to make a survey of all available locations and to select the most suitable for congressional approval.

The coast guard began survey operations July 1, and established a working base at Traverse City, with Lt. A. E. Harned and a crew of three making daily flights over the territory.

Lt. Harned said the station's main requirement was a tract of 500 acres next to a body of water of not less than the same size. He added that six planes, including both seaplanes and amphibians and a crew of approximately 75 would be assigned to the unit when it is established which probably will be next summer.

Eighteen towns have officially asked for consideration as the site for the proposed air station. They are: Ludington, Fremont, Manistee, Frankfort, Traverse City, Elk Rapids, Charlevoix, Petoskey, Harbor Springs, St. Ignace, Chehoygan, Rogers City, Alpena, Oscoda, Detour, Sault Ste. Marie, Milwaukee and Michigan City.

Use of the base in the national defense program if an emergency arose, state aeronautics department officials said, would be inevitable. Strategically located wherever the final site might be, they said, the unit in all probability would be called upon to patrol the Sault Ste. Marie locks and the industrial-water front at Detroit.

It will be October before Lt. Harned can complete his sorvey of these places.

PARMELEE WAREHOUSE UNDERGOING REPAIRS

Contract for Painting Awardad; Boat Concarn to Build 1,500 Units

Repair of the Parmelee warehouse, recently acquired by the city, is under way in preparation for occupancy by the Foster Boat Co.

Workmen employed by the city council are patching up siding, repairing the roof, sprinkler and lighting systems. Contract for painting the exterior was awarded by the eouncil Monday night to Harold Pearl. This work will be started at once.

It is expected the Foster Boat Co. will soon move machinery from its Grand Rapids plant for installation here. A recent article in the Grand Rapids Herald stated the eoncern had a huilding schedule of 1,500 units for the coming year.

GAYLORD 4-H CLUB AWARDS ANNOUNCED

SIX CHARLEVOIX CO. YOUTHS RECOGNIZED

Trips to State Fair at Detroit Givan for Accomplishment at Annual Northern Camp

(By B. C. Mellencamp)

At the Caylord Clüb camp last week Charlevoix county club members gave a splendid account of themselves. Six 4-H club members won trips to the State Fair in the various contests and demonstrations.

Clare McGhan, Charlevoix, won in the achievement booth competition, thus Clare has another opportunity to come to the front. He has a list of achievements not duplicated by any other member in northern Michigan.

Betty Strehl, East Jordan, won her trip in being chosen to style her dress in the dress revue competition.

Albert Routley and Clair Williams gave a poultry demonstration which was placed first at the camp and thus they will be seeing the sights in Detroit before long.

Another demonstration team, made up of Mason Clark and Harry Watson, East Jordan, won out with their handicraft demonstration on saw filing.

Thus we have six young folks who will have the opportunity of competing at Detroit for trips to Chicago and visiting the State Fair for two or three days.

Mrs. Leatha Larson, club leader from East Jordan, and Betty Strehl, elub member of East Jordan, were taken into the Service Club, an honorary organization made up of outstanding club leaders and members from northern Michigan.

CAMPAIGN TO AID BRITAIN STARTED

HELP SUMMER AND LOCAL RESIDENTS SOLICITED

Funds for "Committee to Defend America by Aiding the Allias" Will ba Received Here

Charlevoix lucal und summer residents will be afforded an opportunity this week to give material and moral assistance to the nution-wide "Committee to Defend America by Aiding the Allies."

The campaign is introduced locally by Mrs. Ernest L. Ives, a summer resident of Charlevoix for 40 years, who is soliciting the cooperation of other summer residents, as well as local persons.

On Friday and Saturday, August 16 nnd 17, contribuiions to be turned over to the ahove named committee to finance its work will be received at the Board of Commerce information boreau. At this time the porpose nf the committee's efforts will he explained. It is the hope that a permanent local organization will result from this initial effort—one which will carry on even after the summer season is past.

A page advertisement captioned "Why Aid Britain," appears in this week's edition of the Courier in support of the campaign. It is a duplicate of advertisements placed by the commitee in publications throughout the United States. It shows by illustration the comparative naval strengths of the United States nnd dictator-controlled nations, and stresses particularly the overwhelming superiority in number of vessels which would accrue to the Dictators should the British fleet fall under German control.

The committee specifically urges three methods of aiding Britain as follows: Authorize sale of an adequate number of old destroyers to England; authorize American ships to bring English children, mothers and aged to America; change cash and carry provisions to permit sale of food to England on a credit basis.

AUGUST 31 DEADLINE FOR HALF-YEAR PLATES

Six Hundred in Charlevoix District Have Not Obtained Licanses

Motorists are reminded by Fenton R. Bulow, manager of the local hranch office of the Secretary of State, that August 31st is the deadline for half-year auto plates and that no extension of time will be granted.

Mr. Bulow stated today that approximately 600 motorists in this district must yet obtain plates for the last half-year and warned that congestion can only be avoided by obtaining them hefore the last minute.

Molorists need not bring in old plates, but are asked to destroy them. Applicants for passenger car lieenses must bring their title, those for commercial plates their registration card.

Parade Friday Afternooo; Rodeo Aonounced as Principal Faature of Sunday Program

(By Herbert W. Johnson)

It's here, the annual Camp Charlevoix Carnival and Rodeo to he given on the camp grounds this Saturday and Sonday afternoons.

The big parade will be held nn the streets of Charlevoix, Friday afternoon. Beginning at 3:00 Saturday the concessions will open, stressing games of skill nnly such as targets, ring the bell, thruwing darts at balloons, feats of strength and hit the nigger baby. Besides these there will he thrilling sailboat rides, horseback rides and a side show.

The entire camp will turn out for the big parade on Friday. The camp's riding horses will be ridden by the hest and most colorful camper-cowhoys in cowhoy dress and under the direction of Bill Felts, native cowboy from Arizona.

The camp trucks will be used as floats created by the eampers. The yoonger boys will ride in decorated cars driven by the counsellors.

On Suhday at 3 p. m. Bill Felts, the horsemaster, will put on an exciting rodeo. There will be bronco riding, steer riding, calf roping, team roping, relay race, exhibition jumping, trick riding and roping, boot race and n bare-back wrestle. The show will display all the color of early western pioneer days.

Parents of the eampers from all over the state have been invited to attend, and citizens of Charlevoix and neighboring towns are most welcome at both events.

Proceeds of the carnival and rodeo will be turned over to n local charity. Last year the proceeds were used for purchasing athletic eqoipment for the rurnl schools in the community.

NO CAMPING AT ROADSIDE PICNIC PLACES

Highway Department Raquests Motorists Observe Order

The State Highway Department this week appealed to tourists to refrain from overnight parking in roadside picnic park sites.

State Highway Commissioner Murray D. Van Wagoner said that maintenance units had been instructed to post new signs at all picnic park sites warning tourists not to use them as camp sites. The new signs will be of rustic type to match the theme of these developments.

"It is not the desire of the department to handicap tourist visitors in their enjoyment of Michigan highways," Van Wagoner said. "But roadside tourist parks are intended to be merely stopping places for tourists enroute where they can enjny a picnic lunch, a refreshing drink of water, and a short stroll in pleasant surroundings. These areas have not been equipped and are not intended to be uvernight camping spots."

The department now has more than 150 picnic parks and several thousand picnic table sites on state highways throughout the state.

BURNS POND PROJECT GIVEN AID

COUNCIL APPROPRIATED $300 FOR CONSTRUCTION

Charlevoix Sportsman's Club Seeks Further Financial Help to Supply Fly Fishing Water

Early start on the Charlevoix Sportsman's Club project of restoring the former Burns pond on McGeagh creek, at Barnard, is expected following action of the city council Monday night in appropriating $300 for a construction fund.

The club's request was made to the council hy Earl H. Miller, president, and Roy Rauger, who has been active in sponsoring the project. With the council funds as a nucleous, it is planned to ask donations from sportsmen, both local and summer resident, to provide necessary financing. It is estimated $500 will be required to complete the project.

The contemplated dam will be approximately 8 feet high and 175 feet wide, forming a pond three-eighths of a milo long. Water rights for a period of 25 years have been obtained from owners of the property to be flooded. It is planned to release fish raised in the Stover creek rearing units in the pond for stocking purposes. Trout native to the stream will also aid in stocking.

Restoration of the Burns pond is aimed primarily to prnvide fly fishing wnter for local and summer resident sportsmen. In earlier duys, when the Burns pond was used to orovide water power for a sawmill, it was one of the finest pieces of trout water in this section. Return to that status is hoped for and, if successful, may lead to the estublishment of ponds on such streams as Stover, Loeb and Horton creeks.

Assistance in a finaneial way will be gladly received by officers of the Sportsman's Club.

BELVEDERE CLUB ACTIVITIES BEGIN

ANNUAL TENNIS TOURNAMENT OPENED TUESDAY

Dates Set for Golf Tourney, Masquerada and Cabaret Parties, Annual August Events

The annual Belvedere Club tennis tournament opened Tuesday, inaugurating a series of sports and entertainment features held regularly by this summer colony during the month of August.

The tennis tournament, providing men's, women's, boys', girls' and junior singles and doubles, also mixed doubles, is scheduled for August 13-17 under the direction of Sproe Wright, tennis professional. A large field entered play Tuesday.

The annual golf tournament will he held the week of August 19th. Qualifying round of 18 holes is scheduled next Monday, with the eight low entering the championship flight. Play will be from scratch as a year ago instead of handicap as in previous years. Others qualify for subsequent flights of eight on a handicap basis. King Ludington Jr., of New York, was the 1939 championship flight winner. Mrs. Florence Ingham of Buffalo, N. Y., won the 1939 women's title.

Another event of the present week is the annual masquerade and children's party, scheduled for Thursday evening. The program, providing children's party at 8:15, masquerade a 9:30 and floor show at 10:30, will be under the supervision of Miss Calla Travis. The event presents the pupils of Miss Travis' dancing classes in featured numbers, and a floor show in which artists from the summer colony and visiting talent participate. Jack Rosevear and his Syncopators, who are proving very popular with the Belvedere Club colony, will provide music and specialty numbers.

The annual cabaret party, a benefit affair for the casino fund, is scheduled for Friday evening, August 23. The usual outstanding program of entertainment is being arranged for this affair.

On Wednesday evening, August 28th, a card party for benefit of the American Red Cross is scheduled at the casino. Reservations in advance are requested.

CIRCUIT COURT TERM ADJOURNED AUGUST 20

Non-Jury Matters Disposed of at One-Day Session Monday

Following a one-day session Monday, the August term of circuit court for Charlevoix county was adjourned until Tuesday, August 20, by Judge Parm C. Gilbert.

At Monday's session, nine petitioners were admitted to citizenship, two were continued to the next term of court, one divorce was granted and other non-jury matters disposed of.

Louis Genson, of Boyne City, pleaded guilty upon arraignment to a charge nf robbery armed. Sentence was withheld until court re-convenes.

Petitions for citizenship were granted to Agnes Bauman, Vasile Nechita, Beatrix Prohaska and Olga Kobernik, of Boyne City; Christiana Jones Noble, of Charlevoix; Anna Skop, Wasyl Kosc and Marta Tymoc, of Boyne Falls; Peter Boss, of East Jordan. Petitions of Richard Schoen, Walloon Lake, and Anna Czerkis, Boyne Falls, were continued.

Engagement Is Announced

Mrs. O. W. Trayte announces the engagement of her daughter, Miss Hilda Marie Roen, to Charles Asher, of Detroit. The wedding will take place at two o'clock Saturday afternoon, August 24, at the Methodist church.

SHOT AT RANDOM

By Ken Usher

When a character in a recent movie remarked "If n butler told everything he knew, society would be a shambles," it reminded me that if a newspaper publisher published all he knew, there'd probably be a new grave at Brookside.

And when an unusually sharp bit of wit caused a generous ripple of laughter in the audience, a patron seated just ahead remarked: "It doesn't take much to arouse the humnr of this audience," or words to that effect. I thought to myself if wealth and social position makes one's life such a bore, I'm lucky to be just an ordinary person.

What is believed was northern Michigan's largest wheat field, a 53-acre tract on the Loch Farms, wns harvested last week by Art Geer with one of those combination outfits that cut, threshed and bagged the grain all in one operation. It provided natives an opportunity to view a near approach to western harvesting methods. It was quite n sight!

Sportsmen, both local and summer residents, now have an opportunity to help themselves obtain trout fly fishing water close to home by giving financial aid to the Charlevoix Sportsman's Club projeet of restor-

The primary next month is Exhibit A of the American helief, prevalent since the days of Andrew Jackson, that a popular election is a certain cure for all ills of government.

Nine persons seek party nomination for governorship. Twenty others aspire for the lieutenant governor position on the ballot.

Compared with the previous record of 190 aspirants for state jobs, this year's political crop brought 240—an all-time high for Michigan. In Wayne county the primary ballots, blanket-size, will contain 509 candidates! It prompted one metropolitan daily newspaper to wonder what was worse—a hoss-ridden convention in which slates were fixed in "smoke filled bank rooms" or a confusing primary ballot containing so many names that a voter was inclined to throw up his hands in utter helpless-

MICHIGAN BELL TELEPHONE COMPANY

CAMP CHARLEVOIX WEEKLY COLUMN

Edited by Herbert W. Johnson

"My heart is warm with friends I make,
And better friends I'd not be knowing;
But there isn't a TRIP I wouldn't take—
No matter where it's going.

This bit of modern verse has in it the feeling around the camp for the past week. (That is, the few of us that were left in camp.) Most of the membership were off on three day trips by sailboat, auto and horseback to Mackinac Island, Lake Superior, Norwood or the famous Tahquamenon Falls.

This trip to the Falls is one looked forward to by every boy in camp. "Chief" has had to restrict it to the boys who first place in their enrollment for the camp season. This year the group consisted of Allyn Wright, Herb Dow, Sandy McDonnell, Billy Wilson, Bob Kerr, Barney Golinvaux, Jim Kendall and John Mains. Counsellors John Hogan and Wiley Hitchcock were in charge of the group who manuevered their canoes in grand style along the Tahquamenon River to the Tahquamenon Falls. They were reminded that they were visiting the original Hiawatha hunting grounds, and could imagine the spirits of old Nakomis, the lovely Minnehaha and other Indian characters which haunt the locality. Deer, bear and muskrats and beaver were seen along the river, as well as ducks and geese. Otter and moose are in that country too. And strangely enough, there wasn't a hot-dog stand or a gas station to mar the scenery.

Another trip that was out for three days was under the direction of Cowboy Bill Felts. Some ten of the campers had a chance to really ride on a trip covering some fifty miles. Their tour included Norwood, unique fishing village, Ironton and its Playhouse, the Loeb farm and the city of Charlevoix itself. The boys who were along and have been walking around with their legs "in parenthesis" ( ) ever since are Joe Manning, Bob Armstrong, Gratton Gray, Ken Sands, Allan Hunting, Larry Burdick, Dean Hudnutt, Dave Bennett, Jack Wooley and "Junior" Green.

The trip to Mackinac Island gave over thirty boys the chance to live at that famous resort center for three days. They found that as "Life" reported in a recent issue, "the island has stubbornly refused to allow cars to be used. Tourists can get around by carriage, by bicycle, by wheel chair or they can walk." They saw the largest porch in the world at the Grand Hotel; they visited old Fort Mackinac, first fortified by the British in 1780; they walked under Arch Rock, up the Giant Stairway, into Echo Grotto and around famed Sugar Loaf. It was a great trip and all of the campers who went along from the Junior Section, and George Renick and Jim Howlett, who helped the boys along, agreed that it was a good idea to "See America First."

Another gang of boys left camp last week with cameras slung across their shoulders. (So much better than guns!) They were out "shooting" picturesque spots from Camp Charlevoix up four hundred miles to Lake Superior and back, for three days. Chief of photographers, Clarence Fleming, drove the boys in his car most of the way. Every so often they would get out and "rough it." They visited the Soo, Newberry and magnificent Schoolcraft county. They brought back a group of pictures that make the best looking enlargements yoo have ever seen. The campers on this trip included Ed. Gordon, Charlie Bachman, Jack Tanner and Fred Millis.

Now that most of the trips are back all is activity here planning for the big carnival and rodeo to be held this Saturday and Sunday at 3 p. m. All the parents and friends of the campers are invited to both events. They are well worth it.

Other special activities for the campers still on the calendar after the rodeo will be the annual birthday party for campers who have summer birthdays, the Green and Gray banquet given to the winning team by the losers, and the final council ring, when announcements are made of the boys who have excelled in various activities here during the season. Then on Tuesday, August 27th, at 6 p. m., the final banquet will be held to which parents and friends are once more invited. Immediately afterward the boys will begin to leave by boat, by train and by auto, and "with their hearts warm with friends they've made."

HOW TO MAKE A MEAL A FEAST!

Surprise the family tonight with appetizing blueberry muffins. Simple to make, different to taste! You'll hear howls of delight and hearty demands . . . for more of these delicious fruity muffins made the Occident way. Here's the recipe: 2 cups Occident Flour (sifted), 3 teaspoons baking powder, ¼ cup sugar, ½ teaspoon salt, 1 cup milk, 2 eggs, ¼ cup shortening, 1 cup fresh blueberries. Sift dry ingredients together. Add blueberries. Beat eggs. Add milk and combine mixtures lightly. Add melted shortening. Fill greased pans half-full and bake 30 minutes in moderate oven. Tests show Occident Flour keeps baked goods fresh twice as long as other widely sold flours . . . thus you save time, increase leisure. It goes farther, too, so you save money.

You know how important flour is to fine baking. That's why the story of Occident—the flour that keeps baking fresh twice as long—is news! Tests show Occident surpasses other widely sold flours in 3 vital ways: contains more protein for nourishment (14½% more than most other flours) . . . makes 13 to 28 ounces more bread (per 49-lb. sack) . . . holds baking freshness twice as long because of Occident's extra gluten content which holds more moisture. Laboratory-controlled blending of most carefully selected wheat and meticulous care in milling account for this extra quality. Money-back Guarantee you'll like it better!

Party August 15th, Religious Festival September 15, Planned

St. Mary's Parish will celebrate its fiftieth anniversary this year with two big festivals, one on August 15, the other on September 15.

On Thursday, August 15th, the Parish will sponsor a Golden Jubilee Festival at the Lakeview Inn, with a bingo and dancing party. The public is invited to participate in the celebration, which begins at 8:30 p. m.

Details of the big religious festival on September 15th will be announced later.

Boat Caught Fire Sunday

Occupants escaped injury and slight damage was caused to a motorboat owned by Theodore Rassieur when it caught fire from a motor back-fire Sunday evening. The boat was tied to the Belvedere swimming pier while the party was swimming.

KIWANIS NOTES

Dr. Marshall R. Reed, Governor of the Michigan District of Kiwanis, was guest speaker at the regular meeting of the Charlevoix Kiwanis Club, held Tuesday evening, August 13th, at the Beach Hotel.

With "Compensations of being a Kiwanian" as his subject, Dr. Reed talked of the benefits to the individual member and his community. In a world where at least one in twenty individuals crack-up under the strain of rushing events, attendance each week at a Kiwanis meeting provides a much needed break in the pressure of everyday life.

Splendid community work can be done in almost any field, because Kiwanis recognizes no distinction of race, creed or nationality, said Dr. Reed.

Guests at the meeting were: Dr. Marshall R. Reed, Albert Schaerer, Archie H. Stabler and Jack Rosevear, Detroit; H. G. Bird, Traverse City; F. W. Frostic, Wyandotte; Vern Breitmayer, Jackson; John Bos, Atwood; Chester G. Sudman, Allen Park; Lewis Reimann, Ann Arbor.

Public Auction

of Beautiful

CHICKAWAGO LODGE

and Furnishings

On Tuesday, August 20, 1940, at One O'clock P. M., I will offer for sale at Public Auction, my property known as Chickawago Lodge, together with furnishings and 80 acres of land, located on County Highway No. 593, three miles south of Charlevoix, Mich.

THE LODGE

Located on a high hill, the Attractive Lodge Building commands a view of seven lakes, including Lake Michigan and beautiful Lake Charlevoix. The building, which was originally intended for a private club, embodies 14 well appointed bedrooms, a large dining room and a spacious living room with a mammoth fire place, in addition to a unique rathskeller, with fire place. All rooms have running water and the lodge is provided with 5 baths. The spacious porches make the Lodge Building an inviting structure. In addition there is a 5-car garage.

GOLF FACILITIES

But a few minutes drive from the Lodge, are Charlevoix's two unexcelled 18-hole golf courses. Of these Belvedere Club is famous as the finest resort course in the United States.

SPORTSMAN'S PARADISE

On every side of Chickawago Lodge numerous inland lakes provide excellent bass and pike fishing, and too, Lake Charlevoix's famous steelhead fishing and trolling for mackinaw trout in Lake Michigan are always available.

COMPLETELY FURNISHED

The facilities offered by Chickawago Lodge and its ideal location, make it an exceptionally attractive offering for a family summer residence: a Sportsman's Club; a Summer Camp or a Sanitarium, in the heart of America's pleasantest vacation land.

You are urgently invited to inspect this property prior to date of sale by appointment. Address all inquiries to

Northwest Michigan D.H.I.A. Elects Officers and Engages Tester for New Year

At an organization meeting of the Northwest Michigan Dairy Herd Improvement Association, held last Friday night in the Boyne City postoffice building, a board of directors was elected for the ensuing year. John Tillotson, Ellsworth, was elected president; Sam Straw, Charlevoix, vice president; Charlea Mascho, Charlevoix, secretary-treasurer; H. E. Sommerville, Boyne City, and B. C. Reberg, Petoskey, completing the board of directors.

E. C. Scheidenhelm, dairy specialist from the Michigan State College, spoke to the group and discussed the many interesting accomplishments obtained through membership in the D.H.I.A. The group was favorably impressed with the baby bull project which is being developed at the present time. A goal has been set to purchase twenty young bulls (purebreds), by as many dairymen in the county, this summer.

Denzil Gibbard, East Jordan, was hired to do the testing this year. It was decided to have five dollars turned in to the secretary each month and then at the end of the year the tester would receive 90% of this fund as a bonus for successful and efficient operation of the association.

LEGION BRINGS CARNIVAL FOR WEEK'S STAND

Capitol Amusement Co. Located at South Side Athletic Field

The Capitol Amusement Co., providing various types of mechanical rides for children and concessions, opened a week's stand Monday at south side athletic field under auspices of the American Legion.

The amusement feature, owned by Ray Myers, of Detroit, and H. R. Mosher, of Port Huron, came from a previous engagement at Boyne City. It is unique in the respect that no games of chance or other objectionable features are present.

The carnival will remain in Charlevoix through Saturday, August 17.

AT THE MOVIES

Zanuck's "Maryland" is Spectacular Film in Technicolor

The romance, beauty and traditions of the proud South, climaxed by the most spectacular Steeplechase in America, The Maryland Hunt Cup Race, are highlights of Darryl F. Zanuck's Technicolor production of "Maryland," new 20th Century-Fox picture which comes to the Palace Theatre on August 18-19.

Walter Brennan, Fay Bainter and Hattie McDaniel, academy award winners, appear in the cast.

Brenda Joyce and John Payne, as the headstrong young lovers, torn by fierce family pride, share the romantic lead. Others prominently featured are Charlie Ruggles and Marjorie Weaver.

Greer Garson and Laurence Olivier Co-Star in Comedy "Pride and Prejudice"

Greer Garson and Laurence Olivier picked up where they left og five years ago as reigning favorites of the London stage for their first co-starring film, the picturization of Jane Austen's romantic comedy, "Pride and Prejudice," which comes Tuesday, August 20, to the Palace Theater for an engagement of two days.

Hilarious comedy performances are given by Edwund Gwenn and Mary Boland, Edna May Oliver and Melville Cooper. Miss Garson's delightful sisters are played by Maureen O'Sullivan, Ann Rutherford, Marsha Hunt and Heather Angel. Others fentured in the notable supporting cast are Bruce Lester, Frieda Inescort, Karen Morley, Edward Ashley and E. E. Clive.

Ann Sothern at Palace in Latest "Maisie" Laughs

A new romantic team that squabbles more than it romances, makes its first appearance in "Gold Rush Maisie," which comes August 22-23 to the Palace Theater with Ann Sothern and Lee Bowman as its battling duo.

Third in the popular series dealing with the adventures of the stranded showgirl, "Gold Rush Maisie" presents Miss Sothern in her familiar characterization.

Why more boys than girls are born during wartime. Cautions old mother nature compensates for wholesale slaughter by speeding up production of male children during and just after hostilities. Don't miss this popular science article in which Dr. Donald A. Laird explains this odd fact, in The American Weekly, the magazine distributed with next week's Sunday Chicago Herald-American.

Mexican Bean Beetle Reported

Application of pyrethrum or derris dust to control the Mexican bean beetle reported in many Michigan localities, is recommended by Ray Hutson, Michigan State college entomologist.

WHY AID BRITAIN--

BATTLESHIPS TELL WHY

BATTLESHIPS THE BACKBONE OF A FLEET, ARE THE BEST YARDSTICK OF SEA POWER

1. WHEN THE BRITISH FLEET COMMANDS EUROPEAN ACCESS TO THE ATLANTIC

U. S. PROTECTS THE PACIFIC OCEAN

HERE IS SAFETY

2. IF THE BRITISH FLEET IS DESTROYED OR SCUTTLED

U. S. MUST PROTECT BOTH OCEANS

NOTE: The U. S. Battlefleet is arbitrarily divided here between the oceans for clearer representation of relative strengths instead of concentrated for defense of one ocean.

HERE IS PERIL

3. IF THE BRITISH FLEET FALLS UNDER GERMAN CONTROL

Inclusion of ships near completion would increase greatly the odds against us.

IF HITLER CAPTURED ENGLAND, THE DICTATORS AND JAPAN WOULD HAVE EIGHT TIMES THE SHIPBUILDING CAPACITY OF THE UNITED STATES

"Latin America—We shall create a new Germany there. We have a right to this continent. * * * We require two movements abroad, a loyal and a revolutionary one.

Do you think that's so difficult? I think we are capable of it. We should not be here otherwise. We shall not land troops like William the Conqueror and gain Brazil by the strength of arms. Our weapons are not visible ones * * * It will be a simple matter for me to produce unrest and revolts in the United States so that these gentry will have their hands full with their own affairs * * * We shall soon have storm troopers in America * * * we shall have men whom degenerate Yankeedom will not be able to challenge."

ADOLF HITLER.

World Naval Strength*

	German & Italian	British	French	Total	Japan	Grand Total	U. S.
Battleships	11	16	7	34	10	44	15
Cruisers	28	64	18	110	42	152	35
Aircraft Carriers	0	8	2	10	11	21	5
Destroyers	175	182	73	430	119	549	219
Submarines	181	56	77	314	62	376	95

Since the above was prepared, three French Battleships have been sunk, a part of the French fleet is in British harbors and the balance is under indirect German control.

This chart shows, in plain figures, that the United States Navy will be hopelessly outnumbered if any substantial part of the British fleet falls into the hands of the Nazis. We are planning the biggest navy in history, but it will take about four years to complete it and if England is lost, the aggressors will have EIGHT TIMES our shipbuilding capacity.

*Based on estimates at Navy Dept. at May 1, 1940.

It is reported that losses have reduced the British destroyer fleet to 150. It is reported that they would like to purchase, for the defense of the English Channel, at least 35 out of 109 old destroyers which the U. S. had out of commission for years. We have today 236 destroyers completed and 61 building. Isn't it good business, to sell old destroyers comprising less than 15% of our total, in order to hold our "first line of defense against aggression?" If British resistance breaks, we shall face the aggressors—ALONE.

HERE ARE TWO AMERICAN ANSWERS TO HITLER

*"In our unity, in our American unity, we will pursue two obvious and simultaneous courses; we will extend to the opponents of force the material resources of this nation and, at the same time, we will harness and speed up the use of those resources in order that we ourselves in the Americas may have equipment and training equal to the task of any emergency and every defense * * * We will not slow down or detour. Signs and signals call for speed—full speed ahead."*

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT.

*"Despite the views of the narrow isolationist, America does have a vital interest in the continuation in this world of the English, French and Norwegian way of life * * * If the totalitarian states prevail the odds are very substantial that we shall have to meet them in armed conflict when they have been victorious over the democracies * * * On behalf of our peace and security and our own spiritual values we should give the democracies such assistance as we can, short of war."*

WENDELL L. WILLKIE.

WIRE OR WRITE THE PRESIDENT, YOUR SENATORS AND CONGRESSMEN URGING THEM TO:

1. Authorize sale of an adequate number of old destroyers to England.
2. Authorize American ships to bring English children, mothers and aged to America.
3. Change cash and carry provisions to permit sale of food to England on a credit basis.

Help this Committee by your contributions and co-operation to combat Propaganda for Isolationism and Appeasement on which one Totalitarian government alone is reported to be spending $60,000,000.00 per year in the United States. What you do or fail to do now, may affect your whole future security.*

COMMITTEE TO DEFEND AMERICA BY AIDING THE ALLIES

CHICAGO OFFICE, 86 E. RANDOLPH ST., CHICAGO, ILL.

We Need You

Come to the Information Bureau

FRIDAY and SATURDAY, AUGUST 16 and 17

Right NOW we must speed up our production of planes and munitions, and must send help immediately to our first line of defense.

It was too late for Austria, Czechoslovakia, Poland, Norway, Finland, Belgium, Holland and France.

Are we going to be too tragically late?

An Invitation

ness.

It was the old-time party boss, who hand-picked the candidates for state contract reasons, that brought the party convention into ill repute and inspired the popular movement for selection of candidates by popular vote. Now, the other extreme is developing—a primary ballot of blank-ct size containing 509 candidates in one county alone. As the Detroit commentator wailed, "we merely jumped from the frying pan over to an equally hot griddle."

Democracy will have a tough test right at home!

A Compromise

And yet Michigan's system for selecting state nominees is a compromise between the primary election for all candidates and a convention for the same purpose.

Only two states, Rhode Island and Connecticut, retain the convention system of making nominations for all state offices. Utah in 1937 and New Mexico in 1938 adopted the primary plan, while both Rhode Island and Connecticut have bi-partisan state commissions which are studying the problem.

While many state primaries select all state nominees, Michigan limits its primary to the offices of governor, lieutenant governor, highway commissioner, superintendent of public instruction, and members of the state legislature. Following the primary election each party holds n convention to select, officially by delegates, the nominees for secretary of state, state treasurer, auditor general, and attorney general. As the highway commissioner and superintendent of public instruction are chosen at off-year elections, the 1940 primary will offer two chief state positions—governor and lieutenant governor—in nddition to the United States senate nomination.

But even the lists for these positions are formidable. They place a heavy load on the intelligence of the voter, let alone an assumption that he is willing and ready to investigate the merits of each aspirant and to act accordingly.

Imagine the popular dismay if there were four more rows of candidates on the primary ballot for the remaining four positions! Yes, it could be worse.

Dickinson's Rivals

In the apparent belief that 1940 is a "Republican year" and that a popular pendulum will carry all party nominees to victory, seven Michigan men are contesting for the Republican nomination for the governorship. Gov. Luren D. Dickinson, seeking re-election after six terms as lieutenant governor, is opposed by State Treasurer Miller Dunckel, Attorney-General Thomas Read, and State Tax Chairman Melville B. McPherson—all from the official family at Lansing. Others are O. L. Smith, Detroit attorney; Ernest T. Conlon, former state senator from Grand Rapids; and Charles Renaud, Detroit perfume manufacturer. Petitions of Roscoe Conklin Fitch of Ludington, a former newspaperman, have been held invalid.

Murray D. Van Wagoner, state highway commissioner, drew a last-minute opponent for the Democratic nomination for governor in Eugene I. Van Antwerp, member of the Detroit city council.

Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg of Grand Rapids is also practically unopposed, politically speaking. His ballot opponent for the Republican nomination is Bowen Gover, a Detroit salesman who ran three years ago for three offices, all at the same time.

Democratic candidates for the Vandenberg seat are five in number: Ralph W. Liddy, common pleas judge; Frank Fitzgernld, attorney, and Sid A. Erwin, assistant prosecutor—all from Detroit, and Michael J. Hart of Saginaw, former congressman, and Louis B. Ward of Pontiac.

Lieutenant Governor

Not in many a moon have so many people had the same idea at the same time—running for lieutenant governor. The woods are full of aspirants.

Ten Democrats and nine Republicans are among the official hopefuls.

Republicans—Horace T. Barnaby, Grand Rapids; Rep. Elton R. Eaton, Plymouth; Sen. Felix H. H. Flynn, Cadillac; the Rev. R. N. Helsaple, Cass City; Eugene C. Keyes, Dearborn; Arthur F. Moore, Melvindale; George W. Schudlich, Detroit; James Thomson, Jackson; and Arthur E. Wood, Detroit.

Democrats — Horace T. Barnaby, Grand Rapids; Frank Berka, Saginaw; Don W. Canfield, Detroit; Edward T. Kane, Algonac; Sen. David Martin, Flint; Frank Murphy and James L. Murphy, Detroit; Arthur C. E. Strom, Detroit; Charles J. Rzdzewski, Algonac and Anthony J. Wilkowski, Hamtramck.

The sudden death of Frank Fitzgerald elevated 80-year-old Luren D. Dickinson into national prominence as governor of Michigan. The large lists for this office prompted Stuart Perry, editor, Adrian Telegram, to comment approvingly at the increased interest. Perry pointed out that Governor Dickinson, if re-elected, is mathematically more likely to die in office than a younger man would be. The logic is irrefutable.

"Open" Primary

One of the acts of the Murphy administration was to eliminate a test of party affiliation from the fall primary.

This trend toward what is known as an "open" primary—whereby anyone can vote for a nominee regardless of his party activity—took place in Idaho, North Dakota, Utah and Michigan. In 1939 the Michigan legislature amended the law to require rotation of different party ballots so that each party ticket will be on top an equal number of times. Another amendment has made it necessary for a new party to file petitions signed by 4 per cent (formerly it was 1%) of the vote for the successful candidate for secretary of state. (California requires 10%).

The 1938 primaries in Kentucky and Missouri led News-Week magazine to declare that effective state political machines were just as successful in primary fights as they were previously in controlling conventions. The July issue of the Political Science Quarterly noted that state-wide direct primaries were gaining ground despite criticism here and there. The other trend was toward the "open" primary, authorized here in 1937.

It is hard to tell very much about the size of our church during these summer months as this is supposed to be the slack season—everyone goes "to the lake", "tn the creeks", and "outside." Our Sunday morning services have been running about 65 to 70, Sunday school 70 to 80, and the evening services have grown from about 20 to 35. We have a fine Christian Endeavor—as lively a group of young people as one could wish for. I attended only one Aid meeting before they stopped for the summer — a large and active Aid. They held their annual Wild Rose Tea the second week we were here—and of which I was the guest of honor—and took in $37.65. The Circles—East and West Side—disbanded for the summer after one meeting. The congregation held a reception for us the first Tuesday we were here—a pnt luck supper, and a lovely time. The people are so nice to work with. It seems strange to have one group with which to spend our time. I find myself wondering whether I can attend this or that—and then realize that that is all I have to do. Rolland's home church gave him money which he put into a robe, and he does look nice in it. We have a nice choir and some real talent.

We certainly saw country between April 24th and May 31st—our date of arrival. We left "Sophia" in Detroit and took the bus from there to New York and on to Rhode Island. We went into New York by way of Ontario, Canada—entering at Windsor and leaving at Buffalo. We missed Niagara Falls by about twenty-five miles. We had a fine visit with Dr. King, and sight-saw a good bit. While there we attended a gala performance for raising funds at the Metropnlitan Opera House. From the top-tier we looked down on Kriesler, Swarthout, Barbarroli, Spalding, Robertson, etc., etc. Grace Moore was supposed to be there but was ill. Were we ever tickled to get seats that we were financially up to at such a late hour. I even had a gardenia.

We had a nice visit in Rhode Island, and saw many of Rolland's old pals. Mother took our leaving very nicely—scarcely realized how far we were coming. We stopped in New York on our way back, stopped for a visit with Rolland's cousins in Philadelphia, picked up the car in Detroit, and un to Colorado for another visit with home folks. We had about a week in Canon City, and then my sister and her boy came as far as Livingstone, Montana with us — a grand trip through Yellowstone Park. After she started back, we headed straight for Seattle, through Idaho. We enjoyed the trip but were glad to get to Seattle, get the car on the boat, and set back and relax—and let somebody else drive—or steer. It was a long trip, and we were anxious to reach our destination. And thanks, Harold, for that last minute cruting. —I should say so!

The trip on the "Yukon" was all that we hoped for. The Inside Passage is lovely beyond description. We spent most of our time on deck—afraid we would miss something. And such appetites! We ate and retained all meals! We had three or four hours of rough water, but not too rough. The gulf, the dreaded portion of the trip, was as quiet as a mill pond. At some points we were far from the shore and at others we could almost touch the heavily wooded shorelines. We just got through the Wrangell Narrows before the tide went out—otherwise we would have been obliged to wait for higher water. We had long stops at Ketchican, Wrangell, Petersburg, Cordova, Juneau, and got oe at Valdez. The trip, over the highway—"the Trail", as the Richardson Highway is called, was a scenic trip from beginning to end. We saw three main glaciers on our trip—Mendenhall Glacier at Juneau, Columbia Glacier, a live glacier between Cordova and Valdez. The water around it was filled with small icebergs, and the whistle of the boat loosened many more. Mendenhall is a dead glacier—no longer moving. On the highway we saw the Black Rapids Glacier. Three or four years ago this glacier moved six and one-half miles in five and one half months. It is still moving, though slowly.

I must stop, but there is so much to tell. As our well is in our basement it freezes on the average of every fourteen days winter and summer—due to the frost in the ground which never thaws for more than three feet down. We put a hose from the hot water tank down the 158 feet of the well and thaw out the ice. We are good and keep a jump ahead of it—thaw it before it freezes solid — about every twelve days.

On June 24th we drove 107 miles to Eagles Summit to see the midnight sun. On that day the sun was scheduled to set at 10:48 and to rise again at 12:58. We saw it go through the motions without ever going below the horizon. We were above Alaska timberline at a little over 3400. The mossy tundra was carpeted with flowers—we picked fifteen varieties.

June 21st we attended the annual midnight ball game. The game started at 10 p. m. and ended at midnight. The sunset faded and merged into sunrise as we sat on the bleachers.

Good night and goodbye for this time. It isn't dark yet—11:15 p. m.—but I am sleepy.

The Alaska-Armstrongs.

LEGAL NOTICES

Registration Notice

For General Primary Election
September 10th, 1940

To the Qualified Electors of the City of Charlevoix, State of Michigan.

Notice is hereby given that in conformity with the "Michigan Election Law", I, the undersigned city clerk will, upon any day except Sunday and a legal holiday, the day of any regular or special election or primary election, receive for registration the name of any legal voter in said city not already registered who may apply to me personally for such registration. Provided, however, that I can receive no names for registration during the twenty days preceding any regular, special, or official primary election and the day of such election.

The day day for general registration does not apply to persons who vote under the Absent Voters' Law. (See Registration by Affidavit.)

Notice is hereby given that I will be at the city hall Wednesday, August 21, 1940, the twentieth day preceding said election, as provided by Sec. 3, Chapter 3, Part II, Michigan Election Law — Revision of 1936, from 8 o'clock a. m. until 8 o'clock p. m. on said day for the purpose of reviewing the registration and registering such of the qualified electors in said city as shall properly apply therefor.

Notice is hereby further given to the qualified electors of this city that I, the undersigned clerk of said city, will register qualified electors who may apply at my office on any business day in the year up to and including Wednesday, August 21, 1940—last day, for general registration by personal application for said election, from 8 o'clock a. m. to 8 o'cock p. m.

The name of no person but an actual resident of the city at the time of registration, and entitled under the constitution, if remaining such resident, to vote at the next election shall be entered in the registration book.

Provision in Case of Removal to Another Precinct

Any registered and qualified voter who has removed from one election precinct to another election precinct shall have the right, on any day previous to election day, on application to the city clerk, to have his or her name transferred from the registration book of the precinct from which he or she has removed to the registration book of the precinct in which he or she then resides. Such elector shall have the right to have such transfer made on election day, or primary election day, by obtaining from the board of inspectors of election of the precinct from which he or she has removed a certificate of transfer, and presenting the said certificate to the board of election inspectors of the precinct in which he or she then resides.

Dated August 5th, A. D. 1940.

Ray S. Hamilton, City Clerk.

KNOW YOUR BANK

Does a Banker Grant a Favor When He Makes a Loan?

NO. Profits are essential to sound banking, and a bank's profits come through having its loanable funds employed. Credit is part of a bank's stock in trade, and so the banker is as eager to extend credit through making sound loans as a merchant is to sell his goods.

The prospective borrower should no more hesitate to request a loan for a sound purpose than he would hesitate to purchase a suit of clothes. By borrowing from the bank he becomes a purchaser of credit and the bank becomes a seller of credit.

The chief difference between the banker and the merchant is that the banker does not sell the funds outright, but merely sells their use. Consequently he must use care in granting a loan because the money he lends belongs to the bank's depositors.

ing Burns pond on McGeagh creek at Barnard. The city council gave the project impetus Monday night by appropriating $300 towards the estimated $500 construction cost. The pond, which will cover an area three-eighths mile long, will be stocked with German brown and brook trout.

Inasmuch as the newspaper office is one of the first places visited by aspiring political candidates, the editor is thus provided an opportunity to meet them all and judge pretty well the characteristics of each. This being election year, is no exception, and in connection would venture the remark that Russell Bolton, of Empire, seeking the Republican nomination for representative in the Charlevoix-Leelanau district, appears like an ambitious young man whose desire, if nominated and elected, would be to give this district the aggressive sort of representation it is entitled to and has not had too much of in the past.

I have u communication from a subscriber whom I am glad to know reads and enjoys this column, compluining about the $1.50 minimum electric light charge for township residents and attributing the city's excellent current financial position recently mentioned in this column, to the extra revenue resulting from a raise in rate from $1 to $1.50. I cannot wholly agree with this person. The writer spoke of their dependence upon a 5-month resort job and I would like to remind this person that while they reside in the township and enjoy the privilege of an extremely low property tax rate, it is the city resident who pays 15 mills to provide a resort city whose summer residents ure responsible for this 5-month job. If this grievance is the best the communicant can find to complain about, it would be best for all concerned if they did "take out the meter and go back to tallow candles and the old flat iron."

Clarence "Buster" Bartlett, caretaker of the Charlevoix Tourist Camp, comes in for some fine praise from C. J. McCaffrey, of Omaha, Neb., for his courtesies shown during a recent visit by Mr. McCuffrey at the camp. The incident particularly referred to occurred the night of July 19th when u heavy wind storm and downpour of rain threatened a group of 17 Omaha Boy Scouts, their leader, Dr. Arlo Ounn, his wife and two children. When the wind upset their tents during the night Mr. Bartlett obligingly provided accommodations for the group in the caretaker's quarters. The letter, directed to Don Herrick, city superintendent, further lauded the camp facilities, which, compared to other resort camps along the lake, were said to be outstanding.

Harry Bingham writes from Gobles, Mich., as follows: "Monica and I recently returned from a trip to Washington, D. C. and New York. We carried the green and white 'Charlevoix-the-Beautiful' sign 3,010 miles. There ure muny sections making their bid for tourist business. We were in Ohio, Kentucky, Tennesse, North and South Caralina, Virginia, Marylund and New York. The rather warm climate encountered most of the time made us think of the air-conditioned coolness of Charlevoix and its three lakes."

PROGRAM COUNTY PICNIC IS READY

ANNUAL LABOR DAY EVENT AT WHITING COUNTY PARK

Boxing Bouts, 4-H Club Exhibits, Sports and Contests Are Among Entertainment Features

(By B. C. Mellencamp)

Plans are now complete and program arrangements have been made for the 18th annual County Picnic to be held at Whiting Park on Labor Day, September 2nd. Weather permitting, one of the biggest crowds in the history of the event is expected to be present.

The program will start promptly at 1:00 with running races for both young and old as well as some novelty swimming contests. At 2:00, four boxing matches will be staged, the contestants being well-matched local county golden-gloverS. Each match will consist of three rounds.

Due to the fact that two ball games have been scheduled, the first must start promptly at 2:15. This first will be a softball game between the Charlevoix Independents and the Boyne City Independents. There is a lot of rivalry between these two teams and it should be a well-contested battle. At 3:30 Barnard will play the East Jordan Juniors in a hardball game of seven innings. Both teams have been playing "big league ball" this year and this event will pack a lot of interest.

There will be an exhibit, by the county 4-H club members, better than forty dairy animals, around five hundred quarts of canned fruits and vegetables, and baked goods exhibited by food preparation club members. These exhibits will be located on the east end of the picnic grounds and competent judges have been obtained to place the exhibits.

Don't forget the basket picnic dinner, with free coffee, sugar and cream to be furnished by the management. Concessions, sponsored by the Junior Farm Bureau and the American Legion Posts, will be present to supply those who fail to bring their picnic lunch.

Throughout the course of the afternoon, the Charlevoix Band will be on hand with the splendid music that they are noted for producing.

Plan to spend the entire day at Whiting Park. There will be something of interest from the beginning. It is expected that the dairy animals and other 4-H club exhibits will arrive at the park by ten o'clock and it will be well worthwhile to watch the boys and girls prepare their exhibits. Join the crowd and meet your old friends and neighbors at Whiting Park on Labor Day.

DR. GEORGE BUTTRICK HURT IN AUTO MISHAP

Prominent New York Minister a Summer Resident at Sequanota

Rev. George A. Buttrick, D. D., pastor of the Madison Avenue Presbyterian church in New York City, and a summer resident of Sequanota Club, was seriously injured Friday in an automobile accident near Pittsburgh, Pa.

Dr. Buttrick was enroute home to New York City when the accident occurred. Reports from the scene indicate a large truck crashed into the minister's car.

Mrs. Buttrick left Sequanota Friday to be at her husband's bedside.

BENEFIT CONCERT PROGRAM SEPTEMBER 9TH

Reese Veatch to Direct Pupils at Congregational Church

The music committee of the Congregational church, consisting of Mrs. Marguerite Swinton, Mrs. Archie L. Livingston and Mrs. Floyd Fessenden, chairman, announces a concert to be held in the church auditorium Monday evening, September 9, at 8:15, under the personal direction of Mr. Reese Veatch.

The program will consist of vocal, organ and instrumental numbers by pupils of Mr. Veatch from Charlevoix and Grand Rapids, assisted by Petoskey, Ironton, Boyne City and Charlevoix musicians.

The entire proceeds from the concert will be donated to the music department of the Congregational church. Admission will be without charge, but will be by ticket only. Tickets may be secured from members of the music committee or from the pastor. A paper money offering will be taken, but those with silver money will not be turned away. Even a little child who loves music will be admitted if he has a penny in his hand.

ST. LOUISAN BELVEDERE GOLF WINNER

J. C. PENNEY TOPS THE CHAMPIONSHIP FLIGHT

Mrs. Grace Lortz, St. Louis, Is New Women's Champion—Other Flight Winners

J. C. Penney, of St. Louis, Mo., won a leg on the Belvedere Club golf tournament trophy in the championship flight finals last Friday, succeeding E. King Ludington, Jr., of New York City.

Penney defeated Charles B. Fox, Jr., another St. Louisan, 5 and 3, after earlier disposing of Louis B. Morrow, of Oklahoma City, Okla., the tournament medalist, by a score of 3 and 2. Fox entered the finals by eliminating Gordon Geilfus, of Cincinnati, O., 1 up in 19 holes.

The new champion was among four carding 82's in the qualifying round. Morrow, champion in 1938, had won the play-off to take low medal honors. Others competing in the championship flight were Carl G. Stifel, S. R. Leatherman, Richard M. Moss and Jack Penney Jr.

The women's championship went to Mrs. Grace Lortz, of St. Louis, Mo., victor over Mrs. Florence Ingham, of Buffalo, N. Y., the 1939 champion.

Other flight winners were:

Women's class A — Mrs. Charles Upson, Cincinnati, O., winner over Mrs. Robert Morrow; Men's class A —C. W. McGuire, Jr., victor over Sam Boucher; men's class B—Dr. C. E. Irwin, Warm Springs, Ga., winner over C. B. Fox, St. Louis, Mo.

Trophies were awarded winners at the annual cabaret party held Friday evening at the casino.

BRANCH AUTO LICENSE BUREAU OPEN SATURDAY

County Clerk F. R. Bulow has announced that his office in the courthouse will remain open until five o'clock Saturday afternoon, so that anyone wishing to purchase a full-year license may do so. The office will not be open Monday.

All other courthouse offices will close Saturday noon for the Labor Day week end.

Clarence Mills, whose beautiful summer home is the former Pillsbury place on the south arm of Lake Charlevoix, tells me Beaver Island is the place to go for bass. He says that both Font and Geneserath lakes are full of big Lake Michigan smallmouths taken from commercial trap net fishermen by the conservation department and released in these inland lakes. Bays around Garden and Hog islands also provide some excellent bass fishing, he stated. Incidentally, the 4-pounder caught by Mrs. Mills and recently display at Staley's, was caught on a trip to the islands.

CRUISE SHIP TO BRING 500 HERE NEXT SUNDAY

Str. South American to Make 4-Hour Stop-Over in Charlevoix

An estimated 500 persons, making a holiday cruise out of Detroit on the Str. South American, will spend four hours in Charlevoix on Sunday evening, September 1.

The excursion ship is expected to dock here at around 7:30 o'clock, coming from Harbor Springs. Arrangements are now under way by the board of commerce to entertain the visitors. A request has been made for 25 courtesy cars to be made available to the cruisers. It is suggested those Charlevoix merchants so desiring have their business places open.

The Charlevoix city band will play a concert program at Harbor Springs earlier in the evening during the stop-over at that resort city and furnish music aboard ship while enroute from Harbor Springs to this port.

Through courtesy of the board of commerce, a greeting card, which will also outline entertainment available in Charlevoix, will be handed each person as they leave the boat.

SIXTH ANNUAL COOKING SCHOOL SEPT. 13-14

Courier Brings Mrs. Helene Sailer for Another Two-Day Event

Under sponsorship of the Courier, a two-day cooking school will be conducted here on Friday and Saturday, September 13 and 14, by Mrs. Helene Sailer, noted home economist and head of the Helene Sailer School of Cooking and Home-making.

Classes will be held Friday afternoon and evening and Saturday afternoon at the high school gymnasium and women are asked to attend each session as entirely different programs will be presented each day. There will be no admission fee to the school and, in addition, free gifts will be distributed each day. The only requirement for winners of gifts is their attendance at the school sessions.

Housewives of Charlevoix and vicinity are asked to keep the date in mind and plan on attending the instructive sessions.

CARAVAN PLAYERS TO GIVE BENEFIT PLAY

Present "No More Ladies" at Beach Hotel Friday Afternoon

A benefit matinee performance by the Caravan Players of "No More Ladies," a comedy by A. E. Thomas, will be presented under the direction of Norman MacDonald at the Charlevoix Beach Hotel, Friday afternoon, August 30, at 2 o'clock.

The cast will include the entire company with Susan Thompson and Tyler Leeper playing the leading roles. Following the performance there will be a reception and tea in the solarium where guests may meet members of the group.

Mrs. Emil Pollak will preside at the tea table and Miss Corrine Ochs will pour. Admission will be by invitation only.

MRS. LOWENSTEIN RETAINS TENNIS TITLE

Results of Charlevoix Open Erroneously Announced Last Week

Due to erroneous information obtained regarding finals in the Charlevoix open tennis championships, it was announced that Mrs. Justine McCarthy won the women's title through victory over Mrs. Richard Lowenstein. The results were just reversed, Mrs. Lowenstein, the 1939 champion, defeating Mrs. McCarthy to retain her title. We exceedingly regret this error.

ARMY EQUIPMENT DISPLAYED HERE SATURDAY

Recruiting Party for United States Army Visited Charlevoix

A searchlight that throws rays more intense than the sun was demonstrated here Saturday by a United States Army recruiting party.

Lieut. Harold Maloney of the 61st coast artillery, brought the party of four trucks and 10 men into the city on a state-wide tour and the public was afforded an opportunity to examine the equipment while parked on Bridge street.

A machine gun used in anti-aircraft work was demonstrated along with various other pieces of armament. The searchlight, which is rated at 850 million candlepower, could not be given full demonstration because of daylight. It was claimed the light could pick out an airplane in the sky at 28,000 feet.

Much interest was manifest by the public in the display.

PROMINENT SUMMER RESIDENT SUCCUMBS

Mrs. Jesse Myer Died Tuesday Evening in St. Louis, Mo.

Both Charlevoix local and summer residents will learn with great regret of the death at 10:30 Monday evening at St. Louis, Mo., of Mrs. Jesse Myer, age 28, member of one of Charlevoix's prominent summer families.

Mrs. Myer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alvin D. Goldman, returned to St. Louis about three weeks ago because of ill health, after spending the early summer weeks at the family's Michigan avenue cottage.

Surviving her are the husband and two children, Jesse Jr., age 5, and Blanche, age 2½ years; her parents and two brothers, Lesser and Jack Goldman.

Funeral services were held at 10:30 Wednesday morning in St. Louis.

GEORGE EAGLETON, PIONEER RESIDENT, IS DEAD

Succumbed August 20 at Chattanooga, Tenn.; Funeral Here Friday

George Eagleton, 85, a Charlevoix pioneer, whose death occurred August 20 at Chattanooga, Tenn., was buried Friday afternoon at Brookside Cemetery.

Rev. G. R. Parker conducted a simple committal service, formal services having been previously held at Chattanooga.

Mr. Eagleton was a well known former Charlevoix resident, residing on Mason street until moving to a farm south of the city. Two years ago he went to Chattanooga to make his home with a nephew.

Surviving are a son, Edward, and a brother, Richard, the latter of Traverse City.

ARGONNE WILL PRESENT POPULAR DANCING TEAM

Maxie & Jackie Billed for First Appearance Thursday Night

Acclaimed as one of the finest entertainment features of the current season, The Argonne, popular local night club, will present Maxie & Jackie, a comedy dance team, beginning Thursday evening, August 29.

This sensational act was given top billing during the Florida winter season, according to W. J. Kerns, Argonne manager, and their popularity has been proven in the north by reception given them on appearances in the resort region.

WOMEN'S CONSERVATION SCHOOL SEPTEMBER 25-26

Two Hundred Expected to Attend 7th Annual Petoskey Meeting

The State Department has announced that the seventh annual conservation school for women will be held September 25 and 26 at Petoskey. More than 200 women from all parts of the state are expected to attend.

The meeting is sponsored jointly by the Federated Garden Clubs of Michigan and the State Conservation Department, and designed to offer women first-hand knowledge of conservation practices and an opportunity to see outstanding projects and scenic features.

The scheduled program includes a trip to Cross Village, visits to the Indian handicraft project at Cross Village and talks on water and stream control, soils and other conservation topics.

Included on the conservation school committee are Miss Clara Limkert of Grand Rapids, Mrs. Ormond Hunt of Detroit and Mrs. Audrey DeWitt of the conservation department's educational division.

55TH ANNUAL FAIR OPENS SEPT. 10TH

MANY FINE ATTRACTIONS ARE OFFERED THIS YEAR

Improved Grounds, Numerous Free Acts, Horse Racing and Exhibits Insure Plenty Entertainment

The 55th annual Charlevoix county fair, conducted by the Charlevoix County Agricultural Society, opens Tuesday, September 10, at East Jordan, and closes Friday evening, September 13.

The 1940 attractions will be presented on grounds which a year ago were improved through a $25,000 program including repair of buildings, re-surfacing of race track, improved ball diamonds.

Fair officials assure the public one of the finest programs ever staged at East Jordan. Features include a large midway with carnival shows and numerous mechanical rides for children; Gus Sun's Swing Band will play Wednesday and Thursday evenings; a varied program of slack wire riding and balancing, sensational teeter board and acrobatic stunts are scheduled afternoon and evening of Wednesday, Thursday and Friday; balloon ascensions and parachute drop; stock parade; sports for men, women, boys and girls; $100 in cash prizes each day; three days of horse racing with $500 in purses; baseball games three afternoons.

Lorence O. Isaman, secretary, has stated this year's attractions are the finest obtained in recent years, also that the number of agricultural, livestock, canning and handicraft exhibits will be unusually large and fine in quality.

It is urged all Charlevoix county residents attend the fair. Thursday, September 12, it is understood, is "Charlevoix Day" at the fair. It is customary for business places to close during the afternoon to allow employes to attend.

REPUBLICAN WOMEN PLAN SPECIAL MEETING FRIDAY

The Woman's Republican Club will hold a special meeting at the community room, next Friday, August 30, at 2:30 p. m.

The discussion of the qualifications of out-county candidates was adjourned to this date. Prosecuting Attorney C. M. Bice will speak. Visitors are welcome.

Ask your merchants for tickets on the cash drawings at the Charlevoix County Fair at East Jordan, Sept. 10, 11, 12 and 13. They are given free with each $1.00 cash purchase.

IMPROVEMENT US-31 NORTH IS PROMISED

CHARLEVOIX-BAY SHORE PIECE SLATED FOR WORK

Highway Commissioner VanWagoner Gave Information at US-131 Fife Lake Dedication

Speaking Monday at ceremonies dedicating the new US-131 pavement between Walton Junction and South Boardman, State Highway Commissioner Murray D. Van Wagoner promised important northern Michigan highway improvements in 1941.

He stated completion of hard-surfacing US-131 was planned for next summer and, of particular importance to local residents, was a promise of extensive work on US-31 between Charlevoix and Bay Shore. He stated some of the concrete must be widened and the rough, crooked blacktop must be replaced with a modern pavement.

As for US-131, the highway commissioner stated hard-surface would be extended from Elmira to join the concrete between Boyne Falls and Walloon Lake and that a temporary hard-surface will be applied between Boyne Falls and Elmira.

Relocation of US-131 between Walton and Kalkaska will enter its final stage this fall when laying of concrete is started on a new relocation between South Boardman and Kalkaska. The Walton-South Boardman piece has been completed. The entire relocation saves motorists 12 miles by cutting out the old roundabout route. A new grade separation was built under the Pennsylvania railroad southwest of Fife lake for added safety.

Workmen under direction of the maintenance department of the county road commission have the past summer widened the shoulders of a great portion of US-31 between this city and Bay Shore, probably as preliminary work to improvements planned for the 1941 summer season.

REPUBLICAN WOMEN HEARD CANDIDATES

Several Speakers Present at Club Meeting Last Friday

Candidates for county and state legislative offices were speakers at the regular meeting of the Women's Republican Club last Friday afternoon.

Those heard were Norman D. Ance, of Boyne City, former local resident who is seeking nomination to the office of prosecuting attorney; Ira Bradshaw, of East Jordan, Republican incumbent candidate for road commissioner, and Dr. George F. Lister, of Hillman, candidate for state senator from the 29th district, who was introduced by Rev. James Cobb, also of Hillman.

A highlight of the meeting was a talk by Mrs. Ira Campbell of New York City, chairman of the campaign committee of the Women's National Republican Club, who spoke of her meeting with Republican Presidential candidate Wendell L. Willkie and Mrs. Willkie.

Lack of time prevented discussion of qualifications of out-county candidates. A special meeting will be held Friday afternoon, August 30, at 2:30 in the community room, for this discussion. Charlevoix County Prosecuting Attorney C. M. Bice will speak at this meeting, to which visitors are invited.

FUNERAL SATURDAY FOR WILLIAM TEMPLE WILES

Masonic funeral services were held at the See Funeral Home last Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock for William Temple Wiles, 85, long-time resident of Norwood township, who died last Thursday at Detroit. Burial was at Brookside cemetery.

LANSING LETTER

By GENE ALLEMAN

Field Manager, Michigan Press Association

Decentralization of the 1940 presidential campaign will be the result of the federal Hatch Act limiting national committee expenditures to $3,000,000.

Michigan party leaders have been advised not to look to national headquarters for financial aid. If money is to be spent in Michigan to re-elect President Roosevelt or to elect Wendell L. Willkie, then it must be Michigan-raised funds.

The Republican national committee has relayed word that Willkie insists on a strict compliance to the spirit of the Hatch act, and when you recall that the Republicans in 1936 spent $8,893,000 to the Democrats' $5,651,000, this "purity in politics" restriction begins to hurt. Henry P. Fletcher, counsel for the Republican National Committee, has opined that the law's limit of $3,-

COMMUNICATION

To: The Public
From: Leslie T. Shapton Post No. 226, American Legion
Subject: Conrad H. Sternberg

The Secret Committee for Defense, operating in this district, has reported to me relative to certain rumors indicating that Conrad H. Sternberg, a resident of Charlevoix for the past fourteen years, has been guilty of subversive activities of a pro Nazi nature.

The committee, after a thorough investigation, has reported that the rumors are without foundation and their circulation hos been malicious.

The committee has further reported that Conrad H. Sternberg is an honorably discharged veteran of the world war, saw combat service in the Meuse-Argonne offensive and is just as loyal to the Nation now as he was when he offered his life in France more than twenty years ago. Mr. Sternberg is a member of the Leslie T. Shapton Post No. 226 in good standing.

It is unfortunate that the committee should find it necessary to defend a loyal citizen from false attack. We of the American Legion appreciate the work of the committee and we shall give it our full cooperation in doing justice as well as in uncovering disloyalty. Conrad H. Sternberg has always been active in Veterans' affairs and we regret exceedingly that his business has been injured by the mouthings of irresponsible rabble-rousers.

Yours very truly,
HAROLD F. LAMB,
Commander, Leslie T. Shapton Post No. 226, American Legion.

Long Jumps between pumps

A sort of private "Gasoline Mileage Contest" has long furnished fun to a good many tourists. On their Touraide* maps, showing Conoco Mileage Merchants along their route, they'd mark off the farthest one they figured on reaching, with whatever amount of Conoco Bronz-z-z they'd bought. This made quite a game for any number in the car. Too bad to spoil it, but today there's not even the shadow of a guess in figuring Conoco Bronz-z-z mileage. This is the gasoline that now fearlessly reports its own true mileage to you—on a neat certified dashboard instrument called the Conoco Mile-Dial, installed for you instantly by any Conoco Mileage Merchant... FREE. He's gamely inviting you to turn up your own accurate information on the mileage you get from his Conoco Bronz-z-z—the gasoline that voluntarily puts full mileage information right at the consumer's finger-tip. Your Mileage Merchant can still supply your Conoco Mile-Dial free. Ask him this very day.

CONOCO BRONZ-Z-Z

*CONOCO FREE TRAVEL SERVICE

furnishes you with any route information you request—assembled in a flat-opening, permanent "memory book," with your own name on the cover. That's the famous Conoco Touraide — accurate — complete — easy to handle. Includes camps, hotels, rates, resorts and what'll you have? Just tell it all to Your Mileage Merchant and he'll get your custom-made Conoco Touraide for you—free.

CIVIL SERVICE SEEKING ELIGIBLE TYPISTS

Examination for Positions Will Be Opened Soon by Commission

The State Civil Service Commission is now looking for 150 typists and stenographers to fill positions in the state service which are vacant or filled by temporary employees. Most of the present vacancies are in branch offices and must be filled by residents of the county or district in which the office is located.

Announcements of examinations for Typist Clerk C and Stenographer Clerk C have been posted in the county clerk's offices and in the offices of the State Employment Service. Application blanks may be obtained from these offices or by writing to the State Civil Service Commission, Lansing. Candidates must have had courses in typing or stenography.

These positions offer a starting salary of $80 per month and opportunities for promotion to higher paying positions in the same or related lines of work.

AT THE MOVIES

Code of Honor Provides Exciting Drama in 'Tom Brown's School Days'

The loyalty of a schoolboy to his fellow students' code of honor makes for the dramatic and exciting conflict in "Tom Brown's School Days," Thomas Hughes' classic best-seller, coming to the Palace Theater August 31, with Sir Cedric Hardwicke in the top featured role.

Jimmy Lydan in the title role, Freddie Barthlomew as East, Josephine Hutchinson, Billy Halop as Flashman, Ernest Cossart, Gale Storm and Hughie Green are principally cast in support of Hardwicke, who depicts the stern but sympathetic headmaster, Dr. Thomas Arnold, a historic figure whose methods first introduced at Rugby about a century ago are still the foundation of modern educational systems. Gene Towne and Graham Baker produced for RKO Radio Pictures.

"The Return of Frank James" More Exciting and Colorful Than the Great "Jesse James"

Filmed in spectacular Technicolor, the exciting and stirring climax to the daring exploits of the world's most famous outlaws comes to the screen of the Palace Theatre September 5, 6 and 7 in the 20th Century-Fox production, "The Return of Frank James."

The millions of moviegoers who thrilled to last year's "Jesse James" will find this new Darryl F. Zanuck production even more colorful and action-packed. These same millions will also find many familiar faces in the cast, for "Jesse James" players fill most of the important roles.

Henry Fonda, who created the part of Frank James, Jesse's grim older brother, is cast in the title role. Others appearing in the production, who were also featured in "Jesse James," include Henry Hull, John Carradine, J. Edward Bromberg, Donald Meek, Ernest Whitman, Charles Tannen and George Chandler.

The cast is completed by Gene Tierney and Jackie Cooper, who are featured, and such popular favorites as Eddie Collins and George Barbier.

MIDNIGHT SATURDAY IS AUTO PLATE DEADLINE

Quarter Million Motorists Still Must Obtain Licenses

Midnight this Saturday is the deadline on first half year auto license plates, and Harry F. Kelly, secretary of state, estimates that with only two days to go, there are still close to 250,000 cars without full year plates throughout the state.

All offices are prepared to handle last minute crowds and will remain open as long as there are customers to be served.

"Elimination of the trick or special favor plates, in favor of the uniform, scientifically designed 1940 plate, has enabled my offices to speed up service to plate buyers in rush periods," said Mr. Kelly. "The average waiting time we have found is four minutes per applicant. Formerly, search for special numbers slowed up the lines and caused much waiting and inconvenience to the public. Bookkeeping and all other operations have been simplified and we have strictly adhered to the rule that the applicant gets his plate from the top of the stack and in numerical order. One man as good as the other, and no favorites—that is our unbroken law. This has meant not only greater speed all the way around, but a considerably lower overhead."

The law does not permit an extension of time on the first half year plate deadline, and car owners operating with these tags after September first are subject to prosecution.

MARRIAGE OF IONE SMITH AND MAX SMITH A PRETTY EVENT OF LAST SATURDAY

In an outdoor ceremony at the beautiful summer home of Mr. and Mrs. Harry J. Smith, at Central Lake, at noon on Saturday, August 24th, their daughter, Inne Louise, became the bride of Max Hastings Smith, of this city.

Rev. G. R. Parker performed the ceremony, at an altar of white gladinli against a background of cedars overlooking Torch lake. Wedding music was played by Mrs. Lorenzo A. Roeller, of Bay City, at the organ.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was gowned in frosted organdy. She carried a shower bouquet of pink rosebuds surrounded by old-fashioned flowers, with pink phlox and blue delphinium tied on the white ribbon streamers. Miss Margaret Smith of Erie, Penn., who attended her cousin, was in frosted green organdy. Her bouquet was of pastel-shaded flowers. The bridegroom was attended by Colin W. Robertson of East Lansing.

Luncheon was served to the forty guests, following the ceremony, at small tables on the lawn overlooking the lake. The bride's table was centered with a four-tiered wedding cake. Pink, blue and white garden flowers in low bowls were on the tables.

Mr. and Mrs. Smith will be at home in Charlevoix after September 15th, following a wedding trip in the upper peninsula.

Mrs. Smith is a graduate of Bay City Junior College and of the University of Michigan, where she received her M. A. degree this summer. For the past three years she has taught in Charlevoix high school, and was principal of Junior High last year. Mr. Smith, school and city band director for the past four years, is a graduate of Michigan State College.

Bridal showers given for Mrs. Smith included a garden party at the home of Mr. and Mrs. M. G. Smith, a party given by Mrs. Wayne Childs at the home of Mrs. Cora Fox, another at the home of Mrs. Roeller in Bay City, and a breakfast at the home of Mrs. Cora Fox.

Out-of-town wedding guests were Miss Lois Smith, Chicago, sister of the bridegroom; Mrs. Selina Rowden, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Rowden, daughter Zelda and son Francis, of Auburn; Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Rowden, sons Robert and Glen, of Detroit; Mr. and Mrs. Lorenzo A. Roeller of Bay City; Dr. and Mrs. C. G. Robertson and son Ian, of Sandusky; Miss Nancy Northrup, of Lansing; Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Ruhstofer, Mrs. Dufoe, and Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Cram, of Traverse City; Miss Muriel Fox of Chicago; Mrs. Clair Pickens of Grand Rapids; Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Fails and son Clarence, Jacksonville, Fla.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Holmes and Miss Alida Holmes left Friday for Almont, Mich., to attend the golden wedding anniversary celebration of their brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Alva Holmes. Of interest is the unusual fact that, many years ago, Mr. Holmes' parents also celebrated their golden wedding. Miss Ernestine Chew and Mrs. Datus Dean, of Ironton, accompanied them to Flint to spend the week end with Mr. and Mrs. Vern Shepard.

Miss Esther Lou Fochtman returned Tuesday from Custer, S. D., where she had attended a ten-day national convention of Pi Kappa Sigma sorority as representative of Alpha chapter, Michigan State Teachers College, Ypsilanti. Guests for the day at the Fochtman home were her companions on the trip, Miss Florence Kaufman of Muskegon, Miss Grace Tyler and Miss Dorothy Burt of Detroit, and Miss Dawn Petermann of Ann Arbor, who continued to their respective homes.

A dinner party was given Sunday evening at the Lakeview Inn, in celebration of the birthday anniversaries of Adelbert Matchett of Miami, Fla., his sister, Mrs. Walter Taylor, and her daughter, Dorothea. Other guests were Mrs. Mary D. Harmon, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Matchett, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Matchett, Walter Taylor and daughter Elaine, Mrs. George Trimble, all of this city, Mr. and Mrs. Lee Shapton of Hillsdale, Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Hurd of Boyne City, and Mrs. Adelbert Matchett and son Robert.

The Charlevoix Junior Farm Bureau held their annual picnic with the Traverse City Junior group, last Wednesday, with a good attendance from both organizations.

At a regular meeting Monday night, it was voted that all members who have been married within the past year should be given a gift from the Junior Farm Bureau.

Plans were made to have a stand again at the Labor Day picnic at Whiting Park, to sell soft drinks, ice cream and candy bars. The stand will be erected Saturday night, and after it is completed there will be a weenie roast at Boyne City, at the park by the lake.

Safe Milk Promotes Health

Milk is an excellent food because it is n natural food, its constituents are well balanced and it is easily digestible. Milk consumption at present is far below nutritional standards. Children need at least a quart a day, while adults should have a pint along with other foods. Much less than these amounts are used in northern Michigan.

Great care is necessary in the production of milk for food; since many diseases are easily carried in it. The most common of these diseases are septic sore throat, undulant fever, scarlet fever, and tuberculosis.

To be as sure as possible that milk is safe it must not only be carefully handled, but also must be pasteurized. Pasteurization is a process which in no way changes the taste or nutritive value of milk, but kills disease-producing organisms by heating to 143½ degrees F., and maintaining that temperature for thirty minutes.

Carefully controlled experiments over a period of time by the U. S. Public Health Service on a group of 3,700 children has shown that children who use pasteurized milk thrive as well as children who are fed raw milk, and that they contract communicable diseases less frequently than the raw milk group.

In towns and cities there is no excuse for not using pasteurized milk. The problem becomes more difficult in rural areas, however. It is possible to obtain through the State Health Department instructions for making and operating a simple and inexpensive pasteurization equipment. One member of the family should be entrusted with the responsibility of treating all milk consumed. In this manner a definite barrier to disease can be erected and the family will find it will have much less time lost from work and school because of illness.

Infantile Colic

Babies in the second to fifth month of life, who tend to cry suddenly and with apparent cause, particularly after eating, are generally said to be suffering from colic. This is an indefinite diagnosis and is nf no more help in instituting treatment than to say a patient is experiencing pain.

While the symptoms are not nearly as serious as they would seem to indicate and the condition tends to disappear nfter the fifth month, due to the growing maturity of the child's nervous system, it is advisable to call it to the doctor's attention. Much can be done to nlleviate the infant's distress if the cause is found. Old-fashioned colic remedies are still being administered despite the fact that they have been repeatedly proved ineffective.

Colic may be due to intestinal inflammation, to the presence of round worms, to the swallowing of foreign bodies, to over-feeding or underfeeding both in bottle-fed and breast-fed babies, to excess of sugar or prnteins in the milk or to decomposition in the digestive tract.

Mothers become frightened when, after n feeding, the child exhibits restlessness, eries as though from pain, expells considerable gas or curdled milk and exhibits a hard, full abdomen and eold hands and feet. These symptoms disappear, hut not for long, when food is given to the infant.

The first thought of the warried mother is to chnnge the bnby's formula if it is bottle fed. But this should never be done except on the advice of the doctor and he will not suggest it if the stools appeny normal. Changes in the diet rarely prove beneficial.

The breast-fed haby often owes its trouble tn a kind of vicious circle, particularly if it is the first child of a young and conscientious mother. The child cries—as all infants will, on occasinn—hecause it hears a loud noise or is startled by a hright light or for any nne of many reasons. The mother becomes undnly alarmed nnd her emotion nffects the quality or quantity of her milk. This in turn, leads to indigestion in the infant. It cries the more, this time frnm "colic"—and the mother hecomes more upset.

So-ealled colic is more easily prevented than cured. The mother's effnrt shnuld first be directed toward providing a proper envirnnment. The infant rests best in a quiet, darkened room. The use of low tones, in speaking to the child seems tn be soothing. Unnecessary handling should be avoided and under no circumstances should the child be jiggled, rocked or shaken. If it cries during the bath, this should be reduced to a few minutes and the baby returned to a well-ventilated, softly-lighted, quiet ronm.

If digestive disturbances nre present, the doctor will very likely preseribe a lactic acid formnla. He will find the weight chart fequently offers a elue to the trouble.

As a rule, colic tends to vanish after the fifth mnnth. If it does not, the family physician will consider a number of other conditions for which only he may prescribe proper treatment.

KNOW YOUR BANK

Three Bank Instruments Defined

THREE common instruments used to transfer funds are explained below:

A BANK DRAFT is an order drawn by one bank on another bank instructing it to pay money to a third party.

A CERTIFIED CHECK is a depositor's own check on which the bank has certified that the signature of the drawer is genuine and that the bank has set aside sufficient funds to pay the check. The check thus becomes an obligation of the bank instead of being an order on the bank.

A CASHIER'S CHECK is a bank's own check, drawn on the bank itself and signed by the cashier or assistant cashier.

An understanding of these forms may prove helpful to you.

LANSING LETTER

$00,000 per campaign and $5,000 per individual contribution applied only to national committees. Willkie, a newcomer in politics, brushed aside the Fletcher opinion with a flat declaration that "all" campaign expenditures should not exceed the three million mark. It left politicians gasping.

One net result, as already noted, will be the placing of more financial responsibility on the state central committee of the two leading parties. National and regional headquarters will lend a helping hand and free advice, but that's about all.

Pay-roll Prohibition

In several respects the 1940 campaign will establish historic precedents.

First, we have the astonishing situation whereby a former Democrat is running for president on the Republican ticket, while a former Republican is nominee for vice-president on the Democratic ticket. Other evidences of coalition in politics are the participation by two staunch Republicans — Stimson and Knox — in the Roosevelt cabinet at Washington. (Willkie-baiter Ickes was a Roosevelt Progressive in 1912). Senator Vandenberg's persistent cry for coalition in 1040 has a strange echo in contemporary events.

This daring disregard for traditional party responsibility has secretly disturbed many Michigan party die-hards.

Verily, the parties of Lincoln and Jackson would not recognize themselves in 1940.

Second, we have the reverse of the customed order of politics wherein pay-roll employees are expected to carry the torch. The Hatch act, which was supported vigorously by President Roosevelt, makes it a violation for any one of the nearly 1,000,000 federal government employees to engage in political activity. This extends even to state departments which receive federal aid from Washington. It prompted the resignation of G. Don Kennedy as Michigan deputy highway commissioner for the duration of the vote-getting drive. Kennedy is one of 500,000 employees in state governments who are thus affected.

Politicians cannot make use of the "per cent club" device whereby a percentage of pay-roll salaries is collected monthly for political purposes.

This once was a time-honored source of raising campaign funds, dignified in Indiana by Paul McNutt, now federal administrator of social security act. It has been used in Michigan in the past by both Republicans and Democrats. The foundations of political machines are pay-roll workers.

Individual Donations

The $5,000 ceiling on individual donations is not expected to work any hardship on Michigan state central committees. Neither is the "restriction" of $3,000,000 for the state campaign, for there isn't a Chinaman's chance of raising even one-tenth of this amount.

A third restriction makes it a violation for any contractor doing work for the federal government to contribute any amount to a political party. Here is a reform extraordinary, as any politician will admit. If it were extended into Michigan state politics, campaign funds would probably have to be put on a public subsidy basis unless citizens came to the rescue with greater pocketbook participation in party affairs.

There is no question but that the ideal state of political affairs would be a willingness of all citizens to make individual party contributions.

This would entail not only a desire to vote in the primary election, when good government is actually determined, but in the November election when the choice of future officials is usually narrowed down to two major parties.

How much did you contribute to the 1936 campaign fund? If you did not, who do you suppose furnished the money? You can "roll your own" answers.

A Remedy

David Lawrence, editor of the United States News, a weekly magazine at Washington devoted to affairs of government, offers this suggestion:

"First of all he (the citizen) should contribute to either party through a regularly established political committee. If he feels that this is not sufficient and wants to carry on an individual campaign in excess of $50 (only in case such activity extends "in two or more states") he can do so, but he should not distribute literature or statements that have not already been sent out by the respective headquarters."

Next after the individual contribution has been made, the citizen "should offer his services as a volunteer worker. There is no prohibition in the law against man-hours by volunteers."

In the judgment of this veteran Washington observer, "the 1940 campaign will probably include more persons actively engaged in campaigning than ever has been known in American politics. This is a healthy sign. The Hatch Act in this respect may accomplish affirmatively more for American democracy than negatively by prohibition of the scandalous misuse of public office and public funds."

In Michigan such political contributions by check or money-order may be mailed directly to "Treasurer, (Name of Party' State Central Committee, Lansing, Mich." Roosevelt and Willkie campaigns in Michigan will be financed nearly 100 per cent by Michigan-raised funds.

WPA and Election

If the record of other campaign years is any indication, this fall should see a sharp increase in federal spending for WPA. In 1930 expenditures in August totaled $153,000,000; in October, $180,000,000. In 1938 expenditures in January was $103,000,000; in October, $207,000,000.

Congress appropriated $975,000,000 to support WPA this year and, furthermore, provided that this sum may be spent in eight months instead of twelve.

It may be just a coincidence that the rise in WPA jobs and WPA spending will take place just before the election. Apparently there is nothing in the Hatch act to cover this indirect influence on the election of public officials.

No wonder Red Crown Gas is tops by 2 to 1*

It's mighty reassuring to know that the speed you need in the pinches is there, ready for instant action.

Quick responsive power—for the sprints as well as the stretches—is one of several reasons why midwest motorists show a 2 to 1 preference for Red Crown over the second-place brand.

Truly, you're missing something till you try a tankful of high anti-knock, low-cost-per-mile Red Crown gasoline.

to hospital attendants, by being a patient for arm fracture twice inside of three weeks. And I'm not bragging, either.

I longingly anticipated, after a belated summer made it necessary to stoke the furnace almost into July, that it wouldn't be necessary to do it again until late fall. Wrong again, for on August 23, 24 and 25, it was "build a fire or freeze."

Just a reminder: "Don't forget the Courier Cooking School on September 13 and 14 at the school gymnasium.

More orchids for "Buster" Bartlett. W. H. McMahon, Lansing, writes: "Just arrived back home from visiting your trailer camp and certainly want to compliment you on the layout and the attendant. It is all one could ask for, and the gentleman in charge certainly took care of things and was accommodating. It is the nicest camp we have seen in our trailer experience." This letter was addressed to the Board of Commerce.

A mackinaw trout weighing 23½ pounds is quite some fish, and if you don't believe it is, ask Lou Shapton, who wrestled in one that size last Sunday off South Point in Lake Michigan. Incidentally, Lou's fish is the largest brought in so far this season.

A Rude Shock—

The sweet young thing had never before seen an elephant. Therefore, when she looked out in her garden one day and saw one there, she became quite excited. Hurriedly calling the police, she exclaimed: "Oh, officer, hurry out here. There's a terrible looking monster out in my garden; he's pulling up all my vegetables with his tail."

"And what's he doing with them, Madam," asked the officer.

Oh! officer, you wouldn't believe me if I told you."

On page 3 of this issue is published a communication over the signature of Harold F. Lamb, Commander of Leslie T. Shapton Post No. 226, American Legion, contrudicting, after thorough investigation, rumors of subversive activities of a pro Nazi nature by Conrad H. Sternberg. It is the second incident of this kind during the present summer, a previous denial having been made of rumors concerning two prominent Petoskey physicians. It is deplorable, indeed, that it become necessary to publicly defend citizens accused through ugly, unfounded, untrue rumors.

MICHIGAN MEAT DISPLAY FEATURE AT STATE FAIR

State's Leadership in Production Is Basis of Display

Michigan's leadership over 34 other states in the production of meat is the basis for an educational meat exhibit at the Michigan State Fair at Detroit, August 31 to September 8th.

The exhibit is to be set up by the National Livestock und Meat Board with the cooperation of Michigan State College and the State Fair management.

Stretching food dollars will be one phase of the meat show. Another will include meat dishes for parties. Sausage is to get another section of the show, us well as lard and the use of meats in reducing diets.

Beef, pork and lamb cuts are included io the thrift exhibit, explains Paul Goeser, member of the staff of the Livestock and Meat Board. Beef cuts include blade steak and crosscut shanks. Economical pork cuts will include butterfly ham slices and cushion pork shoulder, and the lamb economies will be displayed by cuts of rolled lamb shoulder and lamb trotters.

STRAITS BRIDGE SEEN BOOST TOURIST TRADE

Would Be World's Largest Span and Attraction to Vacationists

Tourist trade in the upper peninsula of Michigan would be greatly stimulated by the construction of the proposed Mackinac Straits bridge, by increasing accessibility to the scenic and vacation areas of the peninsula, according to James H. Cissel, professor of structurnl engineering at the University of Michigan.

Time spent in crossing the straits would be reduced from the present ferry time of an hour and a half to twenty minutes needed to drive across the bridge, Professor Cissel stated in an intecview.

Tourist traffic has reached sufficient volume, Professor Cissel believes, to warrant construction of the 26-million dollar bridge on a self-liquidating bond basis.

When built, the bridge would experience a high initial volume of traffic, predicted Professor Cissel, since the bridge would include the longest suspension span in the world. Following this spurt, he foresees a slump for a few years, during which the bridge might even operate at a loss.

Soon, however, Professor Cissel predicts, the traffic volume would build up steadily to the maximum limit and the people of Michigan and bordering states become aware of the increased accessibility of the upper peninsula.

Prove Good Bulls Best

In Michignn's 87 dairy herd improvement associations, 95 per cent of the herd owners used registered bulls in breeding to improve their herd productions of milk and butterfat, it is reported by A. C. Baltzer, extension dairyman at Michigan State College. Each year the average member of an association obtains nearly three times the profit over feed cost obtained by the average Michigan dairyman throughout the entire state.

A few valuable vestiges of a glorious past are being salvaged in war-torn Europe. A recent release in the New York Times stated that old manuscripts and records of Dr. Robert Koch, discoverer of the tubercle bacillus, have been found in war-ruined Poland, and will be preserved.

ROAN-ASHER WEDDING WAS PRETTY EVENT OF SATURDAY, AUGUST 24TH

Miss Hilda Marie Roen, daughter of Mrs. O. W. Trayte of this city, and Capt. John Roen of Sturgeon Bay, Wis., became the bride of Charles W. Asher, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Asher of Detroit at 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon, August 24, at the Methodist church. The ceremony was read by Rev. John W. Alexander in the presence of a hundred guests.

White gladioli and ferns decorated the altar of the church. Preceding the ceremooy, James K. Brody of Lansing sang "Beloved, It Is Morn", and "Because." Miss Betty Peterson, of Ishpeming, accompanied him at the piano and also played the wedding march and recessional.

The bride was given in marriage by her brother, Marquis Roen, of Sturgeon Bay, Wis. Her wedding gown was white chiffon, full-skirted, with a short train, short puffed sleeves, a square neckline outlined in lace. A Mary Stuart cap of tulle held her fingertip length tulle veil. She carried a shower bouquet of white roses and baby's-breath.

Gowns worn hy her attendants were of pastel chiffon, simply fashioned with boat necks, extremely full three-quarter sleeves, long, full skirts, and matching Mary Stuart caps of tuile. Miss Joann Horst of Detrnit, maid of honor, wore peach chiffon, and carried a bouquet of deep blue larkspur. Bridesmaids were Miss Margaret Gay and Miss Barbara Booth, also of Detroit, in aqua with bouquets of pink larkspur.

Robert Asher, brother nf the groom, was best man. Ushers were Cliftnn Allingham of Detroit, and Lyle Rockenhach of Crystal Falls, Ill.

Shoulder corsages of white orchids were worn by mothers of both bride and groom. Mrs. Trayte's costume was a blue and white print crepe with matching redingote. Mrs. Asher wnre a blue print dress, with sheer navy redingote.

Following the ceremony, a reception for sixty guests was reld at the Trayte home on Belvedere avenue. Refreshments were served buffet style. Centering the table was a three-tiered bride's cake, topped with a large bell in an arch of tulle and orange blossoms. Bouquets of white gladioli decorated the rooms.

The bride's going-uwuy costume was light green, with a darker green redingote, brown accessories, and a shoulder cursage of white orchids. After a wedding trip to the upper peninsula and Minnesota, the young couple will make their home in Brighton, where Mr. Asher will be high school athletic coach.

The bride is a graduate of Charlevoix High School, class of 1936, the groom of Cooley High School, Detroit, class of 1935. Both graduated this spring from Michigan State College. Mrs. Asher is a member of Alpha Xi Delta sorority, Mr. Asher of DZV athletic fraternity.

Out-of-town guests were Capt. John Roen of Sturgeon Bay, Wis.; Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Asher and sons Leroy and Howard, Mrs. Robert Asher, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Roberts, Mrs. Harry Sittloh, Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Booth, Mr. and Mrs. Alton Gay, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Mitchell and Miss Dorothy Mitchell, William Brady and Herman Klewicki, all of Detroit; Miss Barbara Stiles of Battle Creek; Miss Katherine Collick of Iron Mountain; Mrs. Belle Wilkshire of Cleveland, Ohio; Mr. and Mrs. A. O. Syke and two children, of Chicago.

PROGRAM COUNTY PICNIC IS READY

ANNUAL LABOR DAY EVENT AT WHITING COUNTY PARK

Boxing Bouts, 4-H Club Exhibits, Sports and Contests Are Among Entertainment Features

(By B. C. Mellencamp)

Plans are now complete and program arrangements have been made for the 18th annual County Picnic to be held at Whiting Park on Labor Day, September 2nd. Weather permitting, one of the biggest crowds in the history of the event is expected to be present.

The program will start promptly at 1:00 with running races for both young and old as well as some novelty swimming contests. At 2:00, four boxing matches will be staged, the contestants being well-matched local county golden-glovers. Each match will consist of three rounds.

Due to the fact that two ball games have been scheduled, the first must start promptly at 2:15. This first will be a softball game between the Charlevoix Independents and the Boyne City Independents. There is a lot of rivalry between these two teams and it should be a well-contested battle. At 3:30 Barnard will play the East Jordan Juniors in a hardball game of seven innings. Both teams have been playing "big league ball" this year and this event will pack a lot of interest.

There will be an exhibit, by the county 4-H club members, better than forty dairy animals, around five hundred quarts of canned fruits and vegetables, and baked goods exhibited by food preparation club members. These exhibits will be located on the east end of the picnic grounds and competent judges have been obtained to place the exhibits.

Don't forget the basket picnic dinner, with free coffee, sugar and cream to be furnished by the management. Concessions, sponsored by the Junior Farm Bureau and the American Legion Posts, will be present to supply those who fail to bring their picnic lunch.

Throughout the course of the afternoon, the Charlevoix Band will be on hand with the splendid music that they are noted for producing.

Plan to spend the entire day at Whiting Park. There will be something of interest from the beginning. It is expected that the dairy animals and other 4-H club exhibits will arrive at the park by ten o'clock and it will be well worthwhile to watch the boys and girls prepare their exhibits. Join the crowd and meet your old friends and neighbors at Whiting Park on Labor Day.

DR. GEORGE BUTTRICK HURT IN AUTO MISHAP

Prominent New York Minister a Summer Resident at Sequanota

Rev. George A. Buttrick, D. D., pastor of the Madison Avenue Presbyterian church in New York City, and a summer resident of Sequanota Club, was seriously injured Friday in an automobile accident near Pittsburgh, Pa.

Dr. Buttrick was enroute home to New York City when the accident occurred. Reports from the scene indicate a large truck crashed into the minister's car.

Mrs. Buttrick left Sequanota Friday to be at her husband's bedside.

Reese Veatch to Direct Pupils at Congregational Church

The music committee of the Congregational church, consisting of Mrs. Marguerite Swinton, Mrs. Archie L. Livingston and Mrs. Floyd Fessenden, chairman, announces a concert to be held in the church auditorium Monday evening, September 9, at 8:15, under the personal direction of Mr. Reese Veutch.

The program will consist of vocal, organ and instrumental numbers by pupils of Mr. Veatch from Charlevoix and Grand Rapids, assisted by Petoskey, Ironton, Boyne City and Charlevoix musicians.

The entire proceeds from the concert will be donated to the music department of the Congregational church. Admission will be without charge, but will be by ticket only. Tickets may be secured from members of the music committee or from the pastor. A paper money offering will be taken, but those with silver money will not be turned away. Even a little child who loves music will be admitted if he has a penny in his hand.

ST. LOUISAN BELVEDERE GOLF WINNER

J. C. PENNEY TOPS THE CHAMPIONSHIP FLIGHT

Mrs. Grace Lortz, St. Louis, Is New Women's Champion—Other Flight Winners

J. C. Penney, of St. Louis, Mo., won a leg on the Belvedere Club golf tournament trophy in the championship flight finals last Friday, succeeding E. King Ludington, Jr., of New York City.

Penney defeated Charles B. Fox, Jr., another St. Louisan, 5 and 3, after earlier disposing of Louis B. Morrow, of Oklahoma City, Okla., the tournament medalist, by a score of 3 and 2. Fox entered the finals by eliminating Gordon Geilfus, of Cincinnati, O., 1 up in 19 holes.

The new champion was among four carding 82's in the qualifying round. Morrow, champion in 1938, had won the play-off to take low medal honors. Others competing in the championship flight were Carl G. Stifel, S. R. Leatherman, Richard M. Moss and Jack Penney Jr.

The women's championship went to Mrs. Grace Lortz, of St. Louis, Mo., victor over Mrs. Florence Ingham, of Buffalo, N. Y., the 1939 champion.

Other flight winners were:

Women's class A — Mrs. Charles Upson, Cincinnati, O., winner over Mrs. Robert Morrow; Men's class A —C. W. McGuire, Jr., victor over Sam Boucher; men's class B—Dr. C. E. Irwin, Warm Springs, Ga., winner over C. B. Fox, St. Louis, Mo.

Trophies were awarded winners at the annual cabaret party held Friday evening at the casino.

BRANCH AUTO LICENSE BUREAU OPEN SATURDAY

County Clerk F. R. Bulow has announced that his office in the courthouse will remain open until five o'clock Saturday afternoon, so that anyone wishing to purchase a full-year license may do so. The office will not be open Monday.

All other courthouse offices will close Saturday noon for the Labor Day week end.

CRUISE SHIP TO BRING 500 HERE NEXT SUNDAY

Str. South American to Make 4-Hour Stop-Over in Charlevoix

An estimated 500 persons, making a holiday cruise out of Detroit on the Str. South American, will spend four hours in Charlevoix on Sunday evening, September 1.

The excursion ship is expected to dock here at around 7:30 o'clock, coming from Harbor Springs. Arrangements are now under way by the board of commerce to entertain the visitors. A request has been made for 25 courtesy cars to be made available to the cruisers. It is suggested those Charlevoix merchants so desiring have their business places open.

The Charlevoix city band will play a concert program at Harbor Springs earlier in the evening during the stop-over at that resort city and furnish music aboard ship while enroute from Harbor Springs to this port.

Through courtesy of the board of commerce, a greeting card, which will also outline entertainment available in Charlevoix, will be handed each person as they leave the boat.

SIXTH ANNUAL COOKING SCHOOL SEPT. 13-14

Courier Brings Mrs. Helene Sailer for Another Two-Day Event

Under sponsorship of the Courier, a two-day cooking school will be conducted here on Friday and Saturday, September 13 and 14, by Mrs. Helene Sailer, noted home economist and head of the Helene Sailer School of Cooking and Home-making.

Classes will be held Friday afternoon and evening and Saturday afternoon at the high school gymnasium and women are asked to attend each session as entirely different programs will be presented each day. There will be no admission fee to the school and, in addition, free gifts will be distributed each day. The only requirement for winners of gifts is their attendance at the school sessions.

Housewives of Charlevoix and vicinity are asked to keep the date in mind and plan on attending the instructive sessions.

CARAVAN PLAYERS TO GIVE BENEFIT PLAY

Present "No More Ladies" at Beach Hotel Friday Afternoon

A benefit matinee performance by the Caravan Players of "No More Ladies," a comedy by A. E. Thomas, will be presented under the direction of Norman MacDonald at the Charlevoix Beach Hotel, Friday afternoon, August 30, at 2 o'clock.

The cast will include the entire company with Susan Thompson and Tyler Leeper playing the leading roles. Following the performance there will be a reception and tea in the solarium where guests may meet members of the group.

Mrs. Emil Pollak will preside at the tea table and Miss Corrine Ochs will pour. Admission will be by invitation only.

MRS. LOWENSTEIN RETAINS TENNIS TITLE

Results of Charlevoix Open Erroneously Announced Last Week

Due to erroneous information obtained regarding finals in the Charlevoix open tennis championships, it was announced that Mrs. Justine McCarthy won the women's title through victory over Mrs. Richard Lowenstein. The results were just reversed, Mrs. Lowenstein, the 1939 champion, defeating Mrs. McCarthy to retain her title. We exceedingly regret this error.

ARMY EQUIPMENT DISPLAYED HERE SATURDAY

Recruiting Party for United States Army Visited Charlevoix

A searchlight that throws rays more intense than the sun was demonstrated here Saturday by a United States Army recruiting party.

Lieut. Harold Maloney of the 61st coast artillery, brought the party of four trucks and 10 men into the city on a state-wide tour and the public was afforded an opportunity to examine the equipment while parked on Bridge street.

A machine gun used in anti-aircraft work was demonstrated along with various other pieces of armament. The searchlight, which is rated as 850 million candlepower, could not be given full demonstration because of daylight. It was claimed the light would pick out an airplane in the sky at 28,000 feet.

Much interest was manifest by the public in the display.

PROMINENT SUMMER RESIDENT SUCCUMBS

Mrs. Jesse Myer Died Tuesday Evening in St. Louis, Mo.

Both Charlevoix local and summer residents will learn with great regret of the death at 10:30 Monday evening at St. Louis, Mo., of Mrs. Jesse Myer, age 28, member of one of Charlevoix's prominent summer families.

Mrs. Myer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alvin D. Goldman, returned to St. Louis about three weeks ago because of ill health, after spending the early summer weeks at the family's Michigan avenue cottage.

Surviving her are the husband and two children, Jesse Jr., age 5, and Blanche, age 2½ years; her parents and two brothers, Lesser and Jack Goldman.

Funeral services were held at 10:30 Wednesday morning in St. Louis.

GEORGE EAGLETON, PIONEER RESIDENT, IS DEAD

Succumbed August 20 at Chattanooga, Tenn.; Funeral Here Friday

George Eagleton, 85, a Charlevoix pioneer, whose death occurred August 20 at Chattanooga, Tenn., was buried Friday afternoon at Brookside Cemetery.

Rev. G. R. Parker conducted a simple committal service, formal services having been previously held at Chattanooga.

Mr. Eagleton was a well known former Charlevoix resident, residing on Mason street until moving to a farm south of the city. Two years ago he went to Chattanooga to make his home with a nephew.

Surviving are a son, Edward, and a brother, Richard, the latter of Traverse City.

WOMEN'S CONSERVATION SCHOOL SEPTEMBER 25-26

Two Hundred Expected to Attend 7th Annual Petoskey Meeting

Tha State Department bas announced that the seventh annual conservation school for women will be held September 25 and 26 at Petoskey. More than 200 women from all parts of the state are expected to attend.

The meeting is sponsored jointly by the Federated Garden Clubs of Michigan and the State Conservation Department, and designed to offer women first-hand knowledge of conservation practices and an opportunity to see outstanding projects and scenic features.

The scheduled program includes a trip to Cross Village, visits to the Indian handicraft project at Cross Village and talks on water and stream control, soils and other conservation topics.

Included on the conservation school committee are Miss Clara Limbert of Grand Rapids, Mrs. Ormond Hunt of Detroit and Mrs. Audrey DeWitt of the conservation department's educational division.

55TH ANNUAL FAIR OPENS SEPT. 10TH

MANY FINE ATTRACTIONS ARE OFFERED THIS YEAR

Improved Grounds, Numerous Free Acts, Horse Racing and Exhibits Insure Plenty Entertainment

The 55th annual Charlevoix county fair, conducted by the Charlevoix County Agricultural Society, opens Tuesday, September 10, at East Jordan, and closes Friday evening, September 13.

The 1940 attractions will be presented on grounds which a year ago were improved through a $25,000 program including repair of buildings, re-surfacing of race track, improved ball diamonds.

Fair officials assure the public one of the finest programs ever staged at East Jordan. Features include a large midway with carnival shows and numerous mechanical rides for children; Gus Sun's Swing Band will play Wednesday and Thursday evenings; a varied program of slack wire riding and balancing, sensational teeter board and acrobatic stunts are scheduled afternoon and evening of Wednesday, Thursday and Friday; balloon ascensions and parachute drop; stock parade; sports for men, women, boys and girls; $100 in cash prizes each day; three days of horse racing with $500 in purses; baseball games three afternoons.

Lorence O. Isaman, secretary, has stated this year's attractions are the finest obtained in recent years, also that the number of agricultural, livestock, canning and handicraft exhibits will be unusually large and fine in quality.

It is urged all Charlevoix county residents attend the fair. Thursday, September 12, it is understood, is "Charlevoix Day" at the fair. It is customary for business places to close during the afternoon to allow employes to attend.

REPUBLICAN WOMEN PLAN SPECIAL MEETING FRIDAY

The Woman's Republican Club will hold a special meeting at the community room, next Friday, August 30, at 2:30 p. m.

The discussion of the qualifications of out-county candidates was adjourned to this date. Prosecuting Attorney C. M. Bice will speak. Visitors are welcome.

Ask your merchants for tickets on the cash drawings at the Charlevoix County Fair at East Jordan, Sept. 10, 11, 12 and 13. They are given free with each $1.00 cash purchase.

IMPROVEMENT US-31 NORTH IS PROMISED

CHARLEVOIX-BAY SHORE PIECE SLATED FOR WORK

Highway Commissioner VanWagoner Gave Information at US-131 Fife Lake Dedication

Speaking Monday at ceremonies dedicating the new US-131 pavement between Walton Junction and South Boardman, State Highway Commissioner Murray D. Van Wagoner promised important northern Michigan highway improvements in 1941.

He stated completion of hard-surfacing US-131 was planned for next summer and, of particular importance to local residents, was a promise of extensive work on US-31 between Charlevoix and Bay Shore. He stated some of the concrete must be widened and the rough, crooked blacktop must be replaced with a modern pavement.

As for US-131, the highway commissioner stated hard-surface would be extended from Elmira to join the concrete between Boyne Falls and Walloon Lake and that a temporary hard-surface will be applied between Boyne Falls and Elmira.

Relocation of US-131 between Walton and Kalkaska will enter its final stage this fall when laying of concrete is started on a new relocation between South Boardman and Kalkaska. The Walton-South Boardman piece has been completed. The entire relocation saves motorists 12 miles by cutting out the old roundabout route. A new grade separation was built under the Pennsylvania railroad southwest of Fife lake for added safety.

Workmen under direction of the maintenance department of the county road commission have the past summer widened the shoulders of a great portion of US-31 between this city and Bay Shore, probably as preliminary work to improvements planned for the 1941 summer season.

REPUBLICAN WOMEN HEARD CANDIDATES

Several Speakers Present at Club Meeting Last Friday

Candidates for county and state legislative offices were speakers at the regular meeting of the Women's Republican Club last Friday afternoon.

Those heard were Norman D. Ance, of Boyne City, former local resident who is seeking nomination to the office of prosecuting attorney; Ira Bradshaw, of East Jordan, Republican incumbent candidate for road commissioner, and Dr. George F. Lister, of Hillman, candidate for state senator from the 29th district, who was introduced by Rev. James Cobb, also of Hillman.

A highlight of the meeting was a talk by Mrs. Ira Campbell of New York City, chairman of the campaign committee of the Women's National Republican Club, who spoke of her meeting with Republican Presidential candidate Wendell L. Willkie and Mrs. Willkie.

Lack of time prevented discussion of qualifications of out-county candidates. A special meeting will be held Friday afternoon, August 30, at 2:30 in the community room, for this discussion. Charlevoix County Prosecuting Attorney C. M. Bice will speak at this meeting, to which visitors are invited.

FUNERAL SATURDAY FOR WILLIAM TEMPLE WILES

Masonic funeral services were held at the See Funeral Home last Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock for William Temple Wiles, 85, long-time resident of Norwood township, who died last Thursday at Detroit. Burial was at Brookside cemetery.

LANSING LETTER

By GENE ALLEMAN

Field Manager, Michigan Press Association

Decentralization of the 1940 presidential campaign will be one result of the federal Hatch Act limiting national committee expenditures to $3,000,000.

Michigan party leaders have been advised not to look to national headquarters for financial aid. If money is to be spent in Michigan to re-elect President Roosevelt or to elect Wendell L. Willkie, then it must be Michigan-raised funds.

The Republican national committee has relayed word that Willkie insists on a strict compliance to the spirit of the Hatch act, and when you recall that the Republicans in 1936 spent $8,893,000 to the Democrats' $5,651,000, this "purity in politics" restriction begins to hurt. Henry P. Fletcher, counsel for the Republican National Committee, has opined that the law's limit of $3,-

COMMUNICATION

To: The Public
From: Leslie T. Shapton Post No. 226, American Legion
Subject: Conrad H. Sternberg

The Secret Committee for Defense, operating in this district, has reported to me relative to certain rumors indicating that Conrad H. Sternberg, a resident of Charlevoix for the past fourteen years, has been guilty of subversive activities of a pro Nazi nature.

The committee, after a thorough investigation, has reported that the rumors are without foundation and their circulation has been malicious.

The committee has further reported that Conrad H. Sternberg is an honorably discharged veteran of the world war, saw combat service in the Meuse-Argonne offensive and is just as loyal to the Nation now as he was when he offered his life in France more than twenty years ago. Mr. Sternberg is a member of the Leslie T. Shapton Post No. 226 in good standing.

It is unfortunate that the committee should find it necessary to defend a loyal citizen from false attack. We of the American Legion appreciate the work of the committee and we shall give it our full cooperation in doing justice as well as in uncovering disloyalty. Conrad H. Sternberg has always been active in Veterans' affairs and we regret exceedingly that his business has been injured by the mouthings of irresponsible rabble-rousers.

Yours very truly,
HAROLD F. LAMB,
Commander, Leslie T. Shapton Post No. 226, American Legion.

CIVIL SERVICE SEEKING ELIGIBLE TYPISTS

Examination for Positions Will Be Opened Soon by Commission

The State Civil Service Commission is now looking for 150 typists and stenographers to fill positions in the state service which are vacant or filled by temporary employees. Most of the present vacancies are in branch offices and must be filled by residents of the county or district in which the office is located.

Announcements of examinations for Typist Clerk C and Stenographer Clerk C have been posted in the county clerk's offices and in the offices of the State Employment Service. Application blanks may be obtained from these offices or by writing to the State Civil Service Commission, Lansing. Candidates must have had courses in typing or stenography.

These positions offer a starting salary of $80 per month and opportunities for promotion to higher paying positions in the same or related lines of work.

AT THE MOVIES

Code of Honor Provides Exciting Drama in 'Tom Brown's School Days'

The loyalty of a schoolboy to his fellow students' code of honor makes for the dramatic and exciting conflict in "Tom Brown's School Days," Thomas Hughes' classic best-seller, coming to the Palace Theater August 31, with Sir Cedric Hardwicke in the top featured role.

Jimmy Lydon in the title role, Freddie Bartholomew as East, Josephine Hutchinson, Billy Halop as Flashman, Ernest Cossart, Gale Storm and Hughie Green are principally cast in support of Hardwicke, who depicts the stern but sympathetic headmaster, Dr. Thomas Arnold, a historic figure whose methods first introduced at Rugby about a century ago are still the foundation of modern educational systems. Gene Towne and Graham Baker produced for RKO Radio Pictures.

"The Return of Frank James" More Exciting and Colorful Than the Great "Jesse James"

Filmed in spectacular Technicolor, the exciting and stirring climax to the daring exploits of the world's most famous outlaws comes to the screen of the Palace Theatre September 5, 6 and 7 in the 20th Century-Fox production, "The Return of Frank James."

The millions of moviegoers who thrilled to last year's "Jesse James" will find this new Darryl F. Zanuck production even more colorful and action-packed. These same millions will also find many familiar faces in the cast, for "Jesse James" players fill most of the important roles.

Henry Fonda, who created the part of Frank James, Jesse's grim older brother, is cast in the title role. Others appearing in the production, who were also featured in "Jesse James," include Henry Hull, John Carradine, J. Edward Bromberg, Donald Meek, Ernest Whitman, Charles Tannen and George Chandler.

The cast is completed by Gene Tierney and Jackie Cooper, who are featured, and such popular favorites as Eddie Collins and George Barbier.

MIDNIGHT SATURDAY IS AUTO PLATE DEADLINE

Quarter Million Motorists Still Must Obtain Licenses

Midnight this Saturday is the deadline on first half year auto license plates, and Harry F. Kelly, secretary of state, estimates that with only two days to go, there are still close to 250,000 cars without full year plates throughout the state.

All offices are prepared to handle last minute crowds and will remain open as long as there are customers to be served.

"Elimination of the trick or special favor plates, in favor of the uniform, scientifically designed 1940 plate, has enabled my offices to speed up service to plate buyers in rush periods," said Mr. Kelly. "The average waiting time we have found is four minutes per applicant. Formerly, search for special numbers slowed up the lines and caused much waiting and inconvenience to the public. Bookkeeping and all other operations have been simplified and we have strictly adhered to the rule that the applicant gets his plate from the top of the stack and in numerical order. One man as good as the other, and no favorites—that is our unbroken law. This has meant not only greater speed all the way around, but a considerably lower overhead."

The law does not permit an extension of time on the first half year plate deadline, and car owners operating with these tags after September first are subject to prosecution.

MARRIAGE OF IONE SMITH AND MAX SMITH A PRETTY EVENT OF LAST SATURDAY

In an outdoor ceremony at the beautiful summer home of Mr. and Mrs. Harry J. Smith, of Central Lake, at noon on Saturday, August 24th, their daughter, Ione Louise, became the bride of Max Hastings Smith, of this city.

Rev. G. R. Parker performed the ceremony, at an altar of white gladioli against a background of cedars overlooking Torch lake. Wedding music was played by Mrs. Lorenzo A. Roeller, of Bay City, at the organ.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was gowned in frosted organdy. She carried a shower bouquet of pink rosebuds surrounded by old-fashioned flowers, with pink phlox and blue delphinium tied on the white ribbon streamers. Miss Margaret Smith of Erie, Penn., who attended her cousin, was in frosted green organdy. Her bouquet was of pastel-shaded flowers. The bridegroom was attended by Colin W. Robertson of East Lansing.

Luncheon was served to the forty guests, following the ceremony, at small tables on the lawn overlooking the lake. The bride's table was centered with a four-tiered wedding cake. Pink, blue and white garden flowers in low bowls were on the tables.

Mr. and Mrs. Smith will be at home in Charlevoix after September 15th, following a wedding trip in the upper peninsula.

Mrs. Smith is a graduate of Bay City Junior College and of the University of Michigan, where she received her M. A. degree this summer. For the past three years she has taught in Charlevoix high school, and was principal of Junior High last year. Mr. Smith, school and city band director for the past four years, is a graduate of Michigan State College.

Bridal showers given for Mrs. Smith included a garden party at the home of Mr. and Mrs. M. G. Smith, a party given by Mrs. Wayne Childs at the home of Mrs. Cora Fox, another at the home of Mrs. Roeller in Bay City, and a breakfast at the home of Mrs. Cora Fox.

Out-of-town wedding guests were Miss Lois Smith, Chicago, sister of the bridegroom; Mrs. Selina Rowden, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Rowden, daughter Zelda and son Francis, of Auburn; Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Rowden, sons Robert and Glen, of Detroit; Mr. and Mrs. Lorenzo A. Roeller of Bay City; Dr. and Mrs. C. G. Robertson and son Ian, of Sandusky; Miss Nancy Northrup, of Lansing; Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Ruhstofer, Mrs. Dafoe, and Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Cram, of Traverse City; Miss Muriel Fox of Chicago; Mrs. Clair Pickens of Grand Rapids; Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Fails and son Clarence, Jacksonville, Fla.

The Charlevoix Junior Farm Bureau held their annual picnic with the Traverse City Junior group, last Wednesday, with a good attendance from both organizations.

At a regular meeting Monday night, it was voted that all members who have been married within the past year should be given a gift from the Junior Farm Bureau.

Plans were made to have a stand again at the Labor Day picnic at Whiting Park, to sell soft drinks, ice cream and candy bars. The stand will be erected Saturday night, and after it is completed there will be a weenie roast at Boyne City, at the park by the lake.

Safe Milk Promotes Health

Milk is an excellent food because it is a natural food, its constituents are well balanced and it is easily digestible. Milk consumption at present is far below nutritional standards. Children need at least a quart a day, while adults should have a pint along with other foods. Much less than these amounts are used in northern Michigan.

Great care is necessary in the production of milk for food, since many diseases are easily carried in it. The most common of these diseases are septic sore throat, undulant fever, scarlet fever, and tuberculosis.

To be as sure as possible that milk is safe it must not only be carefully handled, but also must be pasteurized. Pasteurization is a process which in no way changes the taste nr nutritive value of milk, but kills disease-producing organisms by heating to 143½ degrees F., and maintaining that temperature for thirty minutes.

Carefully controlled experiments over a period of time by the U. S. Public Health Service on n group of 3,700 children has shown that children who use pasteurized milk thrive as well as children who are fed raw milk, and that they contract communicable diseases less frequently than the raw milk group.

In towns and cities there is no excuse for not using pasteurized milk. The problem becomes more difficult in rural areas, however. It is possible to obtain through the State Health Department instructions for making and operating n simple and inexpensive pasteurization equipment. One member of the family should be entrusted with the responsibility of treating all milk consumed. In this manner a definite barrier to disease can be erected and the family will find it will have much less time lost from work and school because of illness.

Infantile Colic

Babies in the second to fifth month of life, who tend to cry suddenly and with apparent cause, particularly after eating, are generally said to be suffering from colic. This is an indefinite diagnosis and is of no more help in instituting treatment than to say n patient is experiencing pain.

While the symptoms are not nearly as serious as they would seem to indicate and the condition tends to disappear after the fifth month, due to the growing maturity of the child's nervous system, it is advisable to call it to the doctor's attention. Much can be done to alleviate the infant's distress if the cause is found. Old-fashioned colic remedies are still being administered despite the fact that they have been repeatedly proved ineffective.

Colic may be due to intestinal inflammation, to the presence nf round worms, to the swallowing of foreign bodies, to over-feeding or underfeeding both in bottle-fed and breast-fed babies, to excess of sugar or proteins in the milk or to decomposition in the digestive tract.

Mothers become frightened when, after a feeding, the child exhibits restlessness, cries as though from pain, expells considerable gas or curdled milk and exhibits a hard, full abdomen and cold hands and feet. These symptoms disappear, but not for long, when food is given to the infant.

The first thought of the warried mother is to change the baby's formula if it is bottle fed. But this should never be done except on the advice of the doctor and he will not suggest it if the stools appear normal. Changes in the diet rarely prove beneficial.

The breast-fed baby often owes its trouble to a kind of vicious circle, particularly if it is the first child of a young and conscientious mother. The child cries—as all infants will, on occasion—because it hears a loud noise or is startled by a bright light or for any one of many reasons. The mother becomes unduly alarmed and her emotion affects the quality or quantity of her milk. This in turn, leads to indigestion in the infant. It cries the more, this time from "colic"—and the mother becomes more upset.

So-called colic is more easily prevented than cured. The mother's effort should first be directed toward providing a proper environment. The infant rests best in a quiet, darkened room. The use of low tones, in speaking to the child seems to be soothing. Unnecessary handling should be avoided and under no circumstances should the child be jiggled, rocked or shaken. If it cries during the bath, this should be reduced to a few minutes and the baby returned to a well-ventilated, softly-lighted, quiet room.

If digestive disturbances are present, the doctor will very likely prescribe a lactic acid formula. He will find the weight chart fequently offers a clue to the trouble.

As a rule, colic tends to vanish after the fifth month. If it does not, the family physician will consider a number nf other conditions for which only he may prescribe proper treatment.

Merganser Gets Marked Trout

Tag No. 2071, placed on a 11½ inch brook trout released at Lincoln Bridge on the Pine river in November, 1938, by men of the conservation department's institute for fisheries research, was recovered recently from the stomach of a shot American merganser. This is the third such recovery of these tags in Michigan waters.

KNOW YOUR BANK

Three Bank Instruments Defined

THREE common instruments used to transfer funds are explained below:

A BANK DRAFT is an order drawn by one bank on another bank instructing it to pay money to a third party.

A CERTIFIED CHECK is a depositor's own check on which the bank has certified that the signature of the drawer is genuine and that the bank has set aside sufficient funds to pay the check. The check thus becomes an obligation of the bank instead of being an order on the bank.

A CASHIER'S CHECK is a bank's own check, drawn on the bank itself and signed by the cashier or assistant cashier.

An understanding of these forms may prove helpful to you.

LANSING LETTER

000,000 per campaign and $5,000 per individual contribution applied only to national committees. Willkie, a newcomer in politics, brushed aside the Fletcher opinion with a flat declaration that "all" campaign expenditures should not exceed the three million mark. It left politicians gasping.

One net result, as already noted, will be the placing of more financial responsibility on the state central committee of the two leading parties. National and regional headquarters will lend a helping hand and free advice, but that's about all.

Pay-roll Prohibition

In several respects the 1940 campaign will establish historic precedents.

First, we have the astonishing situation whereby a former Democrat is running for president on the Republican ticket, while a former Republican is nominee for vice-president on the Democratic ticket. Other evidences of coalition in politics are the participation by two staunch Republicans — Stimson and Knox — in the Roosevelt cabinet at Washington. (Willkie-baiter Ickes was a Roosevelt Progressive in 1912). Senator Vandenberg's persistent cry for coalition in 1940 has a strange echo in contemporary events.

This daring disregard for traditional party responsibility has secretly disturbed many Michigan party die-hards.

Verily, the parties of Lincoln and Jackson would not recognize themselves in 1940.

Second, we have the reverse of the customed order of politics wherein pay-roll employees are expected to carry the torch. The Hatch act, which was supported vigorously by President Roosevelt, makes it a violation for any one of the nearly 1,000,000 federal government employees to engage in political activity. This extends even to state departments which receive federal aid from Washington. It prompted the resignation of G. Don Kennedy as Michigan deputy highway commissioner for the duration of the vote-getting drive. Kennedy is one of 500,000 employees in state governments who are thus affected.

Politicians cannot make use of the "per cent club" device whereby a percentage of pay-roll salaries is collected monthly for political purposes.

This once was a time-honored source of raising campaign funds, dignified in Indiana by Paul McNutt, now federal administrator of social security act. It has been used in Michigan in the past by both Republicans and Democrats. The foundations of political machines are pay-roll workers.

Individual Donations

The $5,000 ceiling on individual donations is not expected to work any hardship on Michigan state central committees. Neither is the "restriction" of $3,000,000 for the state campaign, for there isn't a Chinaman's chance of raising even one-tenth of this amount.

A third restriction makes it a violation for any contractor doing work for the federal government to contribute any amount to a political party. Here is a reform extraordinary, as any politician will admit. If it were extended into Michigan state politics, campaign funds would probably have to be put on a public subsidy basis unless citizens came to the rescue with greater pocketbook participation in party affairs.

There is no question but that the ideal state of political affairs would be a willingness of all citizens to make individual party contributions.

This would entail not only a desire to vote in the primary election, when good government is actually determined, but in the November election when the choice of future officials is usually narrowed down to two major parties.

How much did you contribute to the 1936 campaign fund? If you did not, who do you suppose furnished the money? You can "roll your own" answers.

A Remedy

David Lawrence, editor of the United States News, a weekly magazine at Washington devoted to affairs of government, offers this suggestion:

"First of all he (the citizen) should contribute to either party through a regularly established political committee. If he feels that this is not sufficient and wants to carry on an individual campaign in excess of $50 (only in case such activity extends "in two or more states") he can do so, but he should not distribute literature or statements that have not already been sent out by the respective headquarters."

Next after the individual contribution has been made, the citizen "should offer his services as a volunteer worker. There is no prohibition in the law against man-hours by volunteers."

In the judgment of this veteran Washington observer, "the 1940 campaign will probably include more persons actively engaged in campaigning than ever has been known in American politics. This is a healthy sign. The Hatch Act in this respect may accomplish affirmatively more for American democracy than negatively by prohibition of the scandalous misuse of public office and public funds."

In Michigan such political contributions by check or money-order may be mailed directly to "Treasurer, (Name of Party' State Central Committee, Lansing, Mich." Roosevelt and Willkie campaigns in Michigan will be financed nearly 100 per cent by Michigan-raised funds.

WPA and Election

If the record of other campaign years is any indication, this fall should see a sharp increase in federal spending for WPA. In 1936 expenditures in August totaled $153,000,000; in October, $180,000,000. In 1938 expenditures in January was $103,000,000; in October, $207,000,000.

Congress appropriated $975,000,000 to support WPA this year and, furthermore, provided that this sum may be spent in eight months instead of twelve.

It may be just a coincidence that the rise in WPA jobs and WPA spending will take place just before the election. Apparently there is nothing in the Hatch act to cover this indirect influence on the election of public officials.

The sweet young thing had never before seen an elephant. Therefore, when she looked out in her garden one day and saw one there, she became quite excited. Hurriedly calling the police, she exclaimed: "Oh, officer, hurry out here. There's a terrible looking monster out in my garden; he's pulling up all my vegetables with his tail."

"And what's he doing with them, Madam," asked the officer.

Oh! officer, you wouldn't believe me if I told you."

It is the second incident of this kind during the present summer, a previous denial having been made of rumors concerning two prominent Petoskey physicians. It is deplorable, indeed, that it become necessary to publicly defend citizens accused through ugly, unfounded, untrue rumors.

MICHIGAN MEAT DISPLAY FEATURE AT STATE FAIR

State's Leadership in Production Is Basis of Display

Michigan's leadership over 34 other states in the production of meat is the basis for an educational meat exhibit at the Michigan State Fair at Detroit, August 31 to September 8th.

The exhibit is to be set up by the National Livestock and Meat Board with the cooperation of Michigan State College and the State Fair management.

Stretching food dollars will be one phase of the meat show. Another will include meat dishes for parties. Sausage is to get another section of the show, as well as lard and the use of meats in reducing diets.

Beef, pork and lamb cuts are included in the thrift exhibit, explains Paul Goeser, member of the staff of the Livestock and Meat Board. Beef cuts include blade steak and crosscut shanks. Economical pork cuts will include butterfly ham slices and cushion pork shoulder, and the lamb economies will be displayed by cuts of rolled lamb shoulder and lamb trotters.

STRAITS BRIDGE SEEN BOOST TOURIST TRADE

Would Be World's Largest Span and Attraction to Vacationists

Tourist trade in the upper peninsula of Michigan would be greatly stimulated by the construction of the proposed Mackinac Straits bridge, by increasing accessibility to the scenic and vacation areas of the peninsula, according to James H. Cissel, professor of structural engineering at the University of Michigan.

Time spent in crossing the straits would be reduced from the present ferry time of an hour and a half to twenty minutes needed to drive across the bridge, Professor Cissel stated in an interview.

Tourist traffic has reached sufficient volume, Professor Cissel believes, to warrant construction of the 26-million dollar bridge on a self-liquidating bond basis.

When built, the bridge would experience a high initial volume of traffic, predicted Professor Cissel, since the bridge would include the longest suspension span in the world. Following this spurt, he foresees a slump for a few years, during which the bridge might even operate at a loss.

Soon, however, Professor Cissel predicts, the traffic volume would build up steadily to the maximum limit and the people of Michigan and bordering states become aware of the increased accessibility of the upper peninsula.

Prove Good Bulls Best

In Michigan's 87 dairy herd improvement associations, 95 per cent of the herd owners used registered bulls in breeding to improve their herd productions of milk and butterfat, it is reported by A. C. Baltzer, extension dairyman at Michigan State College. Each year the average member of an association obtains nearly three times the profit over feed cost obtained by the average Michigan dairyman throughout the entire state.

A few valuable vestiges of a glorious past are being salvaged in war-torn Europe. A recent release in the New York Times stated that old manuscripts and records of Dr. Robert Koch, discoverer of the tubercle bacillus, have been found in war-ruined Poland, and will be preserved.

ROAN-ASHER WEDDING WAS PRETTY EVENT OF SATURDAY, AUGUST 24TH

Miss Hilda Marie Roen, daughter of Mrs. O. W. Trayte of this city, and Capt. John Roen of Sturgeon Bay, Wis., became the bride of Charles W. Asher, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Asher of Detroit at 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon, August 24, at the Methodist church. The ceremony was read by Rev. John W. Alexander in the presence of a hundred guests.

White gladioli and ferns decorated the altar of the church. Preceding the ceremony, James K. Brody of Lansing sang "Beloved, It Is Morn", and "Because." Miss Betty Peterson, of Ishpeming, accompanied him at the piano and also played the wedding march and recessional.

The bride was given in marriage by her brother, Marquis Roen, of Sturgeon Bay, Wis. Her wedding gown was white chiffon, full-skirted, with a short train, short puffed sleeves, a square neckline outlined in lace. A Mary Stuart cap of tulle held her fingertip length tulle veil. She carried a shower bouquet of white roses and baby's-breath.

Gowns worn by her attendants were of pastel chiffon, simply fashioned with boat necks, extremely full three-quarter sleeves, long, full skirts, and matching Mary Stuart caps of tulle. Miss Joann Horst of Detroit, maid of honor, wore peach chiffon, and carried a bouquet of deep blue larkspur. Bridesmaids were Miss Margaret Gay and Miss Barbara Booth, also of Detroit, in aqua with bouquets of pink larkspur.

Robert Asher, brother of the groom, was best man. Ushers were Clifton Allingham of Detroit, and Lyle Rockenbach of Crystal Falls, Ill.

Shoulder corsages of white orchids were worn by mothers of both bride and groom. Mrs. Trayte's costume was a blue and white print crepe with matching redingote. Mrs. Asher wore a blue print dress, with sheer navy redingote.

Following the ceremony, a reception for sixty guests was held at the Trayte home on Belvedere avenue. Refreshments were served buffet style. Centering the table was a three-tiered bride's cake, topped with a large bell in an arch of tulle and orange blossoms. Bouquets of white gladioli decorated the rooms.

The bride's going-away costume was light green, with a darker green redingote, brown accessories, and a shoulder corsage of white orchids. After a wedding trip to the upper peninsula and Minnesota, the young couple will make their home in Brighton, where Mr. Asher will be high school athletic coach.

The bride is a graduate of Charlevoix High School, class of 1936, the groom of Cooley High School, Detroit, class of 1935. Both graduated this spring from Michigan State College. Mrs. Asher is a member of Alpha Xi Delta sorority, Mr. Asher of DZV athletic fraternity.

Out-of-town guests were Capt. John Roen of Sturgeon Bay, Wis.; Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Asher and sons Leroy and Howard, Mrs. Robert Asher, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Roberts, Mrs. Harry Sittloh, Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Booth, Mr. and Mrs. Alton Gay, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Mitchell and Miss Dorothy Mitchell, William Brady and Herman Klewicki, all of Detroit; Miss Barbara Stiles of Battle Creek; Miss Katherine Collick of Iron Mountain; Mrs. Belle Wilkshire of Cleveland, Ohio; Mr. and Mrs. A. O. Syke and two children, of Chicago.

The Cooking School

The Charlevoix Courier wishes to express its grateful appreciation to the merchants of Charlevoix whose splendid cooperation has made possible the publication of this special Cooking School edition. It is our endeavor to send a copy of the special edition into every home in Charlevoix and rurals, thereby giving the advertising merchants a fine newspaper coverage.

The Cooking School, under the personal direction of Mrs. Helene Sailer, returning here for the 6th consecutive year, will be held in the Charlevoix High School gymnasium on Friday and Saturday, September 13 and 14, with sessions on Friday from 2 to 4 p. m. and from 7:30 to 9:30 p. m., and on Saturday from 2 to 4 p. m.

All sessions of the school are free to the public. Many local merchants will have displays in the gymnasium and their merchandise will be used by Mrs. Sailer in demonstrating numerous methods of preparing and serving delicious dishes.

The women of Charlevoix and Charlevoix county are cordially invited to attend. If you can't come to all three sessions, come to at least one; you will like Mrs. Sailer, for not only is she an expert home economist but she is a gracious and charming hostess. Bring your note books with you, take down the recipes as she demonstrates methods of preparing economical, tasty dishes, and then, when you return home, try them out in your own kitchen.

We ask you to look on this school as a community affair, to which every one of you is most cordially invited.

PLENTIFUL RAINFALL TO AID DUCK HUNTING

Flooded Pot-Holes and Marshes Should Attract Many Birds

Sportsmen should have reason to thank the weather gods who deluged Michigan with record August rains when duck hunting season opens October 1, according to men of the conservation department's game division.

As a consequence of heavy rains, pot holes and ponds that are ordinarily dry in fall months should attract waterfowl this season. The result will be that ducks will be more scattered, and more hunters will be able to enjoy their sport nearer home.

Indications are that wildfowlers' success will be at least as good during the approaching season as it was last year, a season that was generally regarded as the best in several years.

Duck hunters will enjoy a 60-day season this year, ending November 29th.

MRS. HELENE SAILER'S OWN RECIPES

My Fruit and Nut Angel Food Cake

1¼ Cups sifted beet sugar
1 Teaspoon vanilla
¼ Cup candied cherries quartered
½ Cup chopped nutmeats
¼ Cup cocoanut
¾ Cup sifted cake flour
4 Tablespoons cocoa
1¼ Cup egg whites
¼ Teaspoon salt
1 Teaspoon cream tartar

Method—Pour ½ the batter into ungreased angel food pan. Sprinkle fruits and nuts over it, then add the rest of the batter, spread it evenly with a knife. Run knife through to the bottom to mix the fruit and nuts evenly. Bake slowly at 275 degrees for one hour increasing the heat slowly to 325 degrees after 30 minutes. Remove from oven and invert the pan for about one hour.

Marble Cake

3 Teaspoons baking powder
1½ Cups water or milk
3 Teaspoons vanilla extract
2 Squares chocolate
¼ Teaspoon soda
¾ Cup lard
2 Cups sugar
4 Egg whites
3½ Cups flour
½ Teaspoon salt

Cream lard, add sugar gradually, and cream well. Add unbeaten egg whites one at a time and beat into the mixture. Sift flour once, measure and sift with baking powder and salt. Add sifted dry ingredients alternately with liquid to creamed mixture. Add flavoring. Add soda to melted chocolate. Divide batter in half and add chocolate mixture to one part. Drop batter by spoonfuls into a large greased and floured cake pan alternating white batter with chocolate batter until all is used. Bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees F.) 50 minutes or until done. Frost with Marble Frosting.

Marshmallow Icing

1 Tablespoonful gelatine
½ Cupful water
2 Cupfuls granulated sugar
Whites of 2 eggs
1 Teaspoonful vanilla or ½ teaspoonful almond extract

Soften the gelatine in a little cold water, dissolve the sugar in the half cup of water and bring to the boiling point, then cook quickly until the syrup drops heavily from the spoon, or until the syrup thermometer registers 240 degrees. Then pour it over the stiffly beaten egg whites, beating all the time. Meantime dissolve the gelatine over boiling water, then beat it into the icing. When nearly cold it is ready to use.

Soft Chocolate Icing

Melt six ounces (six squares) unsweetened chocolate in double boiler. Add three cups confectioner's sugar, stirring constantly. Add slowly three-fourths cup cream. Add three tablespoons boiling water and spread while hot on cake which has cooled.

CLUB AWARDS FROM PICNIC ANNOUNCED

ANNUAL LABOR DAY EVENT DREW ATTENDANCE OF 2,500

Outstanding 4-H Club Exhibits Were Feature; Fine Entertainment Program Presented

(By H. C. Mellencamp)

Fortunately good weather conditions made the 18th annual county picnic most enjoyable to an estimated 2500 attendance. After enjoying the noon day luncheon, supplemented by free coffee, sugar, and cream, the program got under way with races for the young folks. At two o'clock the Charlevoix City Band gave a half hour program of exceptionally fine music.

At 2:30 the boxing program was staged, made up of four three-round bouts. The first bout was between Sonny Hosler, of East Jordan, and Jim Martin, of Charlevoix. Next Warren Duplessis, Charlevoix, and Don Dexter, Boyne City, mixed it up in good shape. The third bout showed Clare Martin, Charlevoix, and Kid Kurchinski, Boyne City, and the last bout was between Bud St. Arno, East Jordan, and Junior Boss, Charlevoix.

Only one baseball game was played as one of the teams failed to show up. However, the one game provided many thrills as the East Jordan Juniors defeated the Barnard Independents 8-3. The game was much closer than the score would indicate and was a hotly contested battle.

The 4-H club displays were especially attractive. Thirty-four dairy animals were displayed by as many club members throughout the county. At the conclusion of the judging of animals a showmanship contest was held with all animals being paraded and handled by the club members. This contest was won by Elois Bunker, East Jordan; with Herman Fall, Boyne City, second; and Mack McDonald, East Jordan, third.

Thomas L. Thacker, Smith-Hughes instructor at East Jordan, judged the dairy animals with the following results:

In the Holstein class, under one year of age, Jerome Rayman, Charlevoix, Elois Bunker, East Jordan, and Billy Price, Bay Shore, won blue ribbons. In the Junior Yearling class Lyle Wilson, East Jordan, won a blue ribbon and in the mature cow class James Rayman, Charlevoix, won first.

In the Jersey breed blue ribbons were won by Franklyn Cellner and Clare McGhan, both of Charlevoix, and George Urman, Boyne City.

In the Guernsey class, under one year of age, a blue ribbon was won by Jack Urman, Boyne City. In Guernseys over one year, blue ribbons were won by Mack McDonald, East Jordan, and Albert Routley, Jr. of Charlevoix.

Other blue ribbons were won by Wm. Thayer, Boyne City, with a Brown Swiss calf, and Lawrence Speigl, Bay Shore, with a Hereford. A large crowd watched the judging of the animals with considerable interest.

In the canning and food preparation exhibits, a large number of awards were given by Miss Lois Lindsay, Boyne Falls, who judged the entire exhibit. In the food preparation club competition, first prize was won by the Jordanite Club, led by Betty Strehl, East Jordan; second place by the Undine Club, led by Muriel Stephens, Charlevoix; and third place by the Boyne City Club, led by Mrs. Ilah Walker, Boyne City.

In the first year individual display, first place was won by Carrie McClure, East Jordan; second by Gladys Reed, East Jordan, and third by Beverly Bennett, Boyne City, Michigan. In the second year displays first place was won by Marilyn Hair, Charlevoix; second by Mary Mellencamp, Boyne City; and third by Helen Tompkins, Boyne City. Fifth year food preparation was won by Muriel Stephens, Charlevoix.

In the canning exhibit, first place in the club exhibits was won by the Jordanite Club, led by Margaret and Betty Strehl, East Jordan; second place by the Jordan Happy Canners, led by Mary Jane Addis, East Jordan; and third place by the Boyne City south side club, led by Mrs. Mary Towne. First year individual canning awards were won by Dorothea Routley, Charlevoix; Elaine Olstrom, East Jordan; and Marie Wheeler, Boyne City. In the second year competition the top three places were won by Lucile May, Charlevoix, Beryl Bennett, East Jordan, and Betty Clute, Boyne City. Third year competition showed Betty Strehl, East Jordan; Margaret Strehl, East Jordan; and Mary Simmons, East Jordan, as the three highest. Fourth year competition showed Margaret and Betty Strehl, East Jordan; and Reva Addis, East Jordan, as the three highest.

In the fifth year class, Marjorie Hair, Charlevoix; Gladys Larsen, of East Jordan, and Myrtle Furgeson, Charlevoix, were the winners. Mary Jane Addis, East Jordan, won first in the sixth year competition.

In the sweepstakes awards, Lucile May, Charlevoix, had the best can of fruit (pears); Dorothea Routley the best vegetable (peas); Reva Addis, East Jordan, the best jar of meat (chicken); and Jean Dennis, East Jordan, the best glass of jelly. The best individual collection in the entire exhibit was that shown by Betty Strehl, East Jordan.

Come to the County Fair this week, where you will again see a splendid display by the 4-H club members throughout the county.

GOOD CROP GAME BIRDS PREDICTED FOR SEASON

Conservation Dept. Census Shows Game Plentiful

A "good crop" is the estimate by the conservation department's game division men of the production of pheasants, grouse and other upland birds for the 1940 hunting season.

Despite heavy rains at hatching and brooding time, large broods of three-quarter grown birds have been observed at Prairie Farm, Rose Lake and other stations by field men of the game division. Conservation officers in southern counties also report a good crop of pheasants.

Farley F. Tubbs, game division ornithologist, returning from a tour of northern Michigan, reports game area managers and conservation officers throughout the north country optimistic about the season's crop of upland birds.

In discounting the notion that the wet summer may have seriously reduced the crop of birds for hunting, game men point out that some of the wettest years in the past have been good bird years. The birds are believed in little danger of depletion between now and the hunting season opening October 15.

BLUE WING TEAL EARLIEST OF FALL MIGRATORY DUCKS

The blue wing teal is one of the earliest fall migrants among waterfowl which frequent Michigan lakes and marshes. By October 1, most of the blue wing teal have left the northern peninsula. During the last three seasons, only eight teal have been recorded among wild-fowl hagged near the stae park on Munuskong bay.

PROPERLY MANAGED, WOODLOT IS A GOOD INVESTMENT

Properly managed, a small woodlot, like a large commercial forest, can yield a constant crop of wood for fuel, posts, lumber and wild game. According to the national resources planning board this wood will rarely find its way into the regular markets for timber, and while it will not affect lumber prices, it will increase farm income considerably.

* HOME CANNING *
* NOW A SCIENCE *
* * * * * * * * * * * *

Science has reduced the failures in home canning, although the process is only a little more than a century in age. Greater appreciation of home canned vegetables has resulted.

For homemakers who want to be sure of their methods in home canning, home economists of Michigan State College recommend certain general rules.

First of all, be sure vegetables are fresh. Materials lose flavor and quality when they are held over for any length of time. Good quality vegetables are essential, because a bit of decay can be responsible for spoiling an entire batch.

Precook vegetables and have them hot when they go into the cans or jars. Precooking shortens the time of processing, and also saves the bother of "exhausting" the cans to get out the air before sealing them.

Fill only as many jars or cans as equipment permits processing at one time. If the cans of warm vegetables are allowed to stand long before processing, the bacteria in them will multiply very rapidly.

Use a steam pressure canner for peas, corn, snap beans, lima henns, and all nonacid vegetables. The only way to he sure of killing all the bacteria in these vegetables is to raise the temperature to 240 to 250 degrees F.

Be sure to label each can or jar nnd to keep complete records of each batch—the kind of food, the date canned, and the method of processing. Then if anything goes wrong, you can trace back and find the cause of spoilage. Use a timetable and exact directions to escape errors and failures.

A SAFEGUARD FOR DEMOCRACY

Where democracy has been crushed, taxes are exacted from citizens yet these citizens are not permitted to know what is done with the money they pay.

In the Charlevoix Courier subscribers will find publication of the proceedings and reports of various public offices. With such a public accounting there can be no question regarding the integrity of public officials, for honest officials are always anxious that a public accounting of funds should be made as often as is necessary to vindicate any accusation that might be wrongfully made against them.

Now and then there is some discussion as to whether the proceedings of the county board of supervisors, school councils, school boards and similar organizations should be published in the local home newspaper. Some persons think that the small cost of publication of such matters should be saved to the taxpayer.

Many years ago when this government was much younger thsn it is today, this matter was discussed and considered from every angle. After much carefnl controversy it was determined thst legal advertising is the cheapest and most effective insurance the taxpayers can ohtain on the ability and integrity of their elected officials. And from the officials' viewpoint, it constitutes proof of their honesty and integrity in office.

Public printing of receipts and expenditures relieves all question in the minds of the public ns to the integrity of an official.

Henry Woolfenden, Jr., executive secretary, State Bar of Michigan, emphasized this point recently when he declared: "Legal advertising is the cheapest and most effective insurance the taxpayers can buy on the ability and integrity of their elected officials." He also added: "The public accounting notice is the best protection which the taxpayer has against incompetent or unscrupulous public officials."

It is important that you read all public notices or legal advertising carefully. In a democracy a good citizen needs to be well informed.

START DRIVE AGAINST DEER LAW VIOLATIONS

Arrest of Three Marks Campaign in Northern Counties

A concerted drive on illegal deer and small game hunting being waged by Conservation Officers in Otsego, Cheboygan, Charlevoix, Emmet and Antrim counties, got under way last week with the arrests of one Michigan resident and two outstaters for making use of an artificial light to hunt and pursue deer.

The three men were arraigned before Justice Pierce at Mackinaw City and upon a plea of guilty were sentenced to pay a fine of $25.00 and costs each or serve 30 days in jail. The defendants, Norman Thilborn of Cheboygan, Harry Satchel of Columbus, Ohio, and Arthur Holtsclaw of Elwood, Indiana, all elected to pay the fine and costs.

The arrests were made by Conservation Officers Tom Koboski of Petoskey and Fire Warden Wayne Coffin of Levering.

Fire wardens and fire towermen released from fire duty on account of the low forest fire hazard are assisting the regular conservation officers in this drive on illegal hunters and persons apprehended may expect severe penalties due to public indignation over such poaching.

The general public is more and more coming to the realization that the tourist and resort industry, which in this state is second in importance only to the automobile industry, is dependant upon our game fish and natural resources.

Sportsmen and business men alike are therefore demanding that more severe penalties be imposed on convicted game and fish law violators. Justices of the peace throughout the district have agreed to cooperate and convicted persons can expect no leniency.

HOSPITAL NOTES

Admitted for treatment the past week: Miss Estelle Mitchell, who is employed at the Beach Hotel; Miss Katherine Canniff of Alden; William Sharrow; Charles Smith of East Jordan; Mrs. Claude White of R. F. D. 3, Charlevoix.

Maurice Burke, Elmira, underwent a major operation Wednesday.

Miss Grace Baker submitted to a major operation Wednesday.

Barbara Bice, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Bice, submitted to a minor operation Friday.

Billy Dye, son of Mrs. Dolly Lambert of Central Lake, was admitted Monday for treatment. Attempting to climb through a fence while carrying a gun, the gun discharged and severely wounded one foot.

MRS. HELENE SAILER'S OWN RECIPES

Orange Sponge Cake

1-3 Cup orange juice
1¼ Cups pastry flour
1½ Teaspoons baking powder
¼ Teaspoon salt
3 Eggs
¼ Teaspoon cream of tartar
1 Cup granulated sugar
2 Teaspoons grated orange rind.

Separate eggs; beat whites and cream of tartar until stiff and add the yolks one at a time, beating well before addition of each yolk. Add the sugar gradually, still beating with egg beater; remove beater. Add the grated rind and orange juice. Fold in flour, baking powder and salt sifted together. Bake in a moderate oven at 325 degrees F. in two layer cake pans for about 18 minutes.

Orange Filling

½ Cup orange juice
1 Egg yolk
2 Teaspoons butter
1 Teaspoon lemon juice
¼ Cup sugar
1½ Tablespoons flour
¼ Teaspoon salt
2 Teaspoons grated orange rind

Put sugar, flour and salt in top of double boiler and mix together thoroughly; add orange rind and orange juice. Add butter and egg ynlk and cook until smooth and thick. Remove from fire and add lemon juice. Spread between layers. Ice top and sides of cake with seven-minute icing. Grate a little orange rind on icing before it cools. Makes one two-layer cake (eight-inch tins).

Marble Frosting

2 Egg whites
⅔ Teaspoon peppermint extract
1 Squnre chocolate
1½ Cups sugar
5 Tablespoons water
1 Tablespoon white corn sirup

Combine all ingredients except flavorings in top of double boiler and mix well. Stir over hot water until sugar is dissolved. Beat with rotary beater over boiling water until frosting is fluffy and will hold its shape. Add flavoring and combine well. Reserve three tablespoons of frosting and spread the rest over top and sides of cake. Melt chocolate and add reserved frosting. Pipe this mixture across cake in one-fnurth inch strips about one inch apart. Then draw a knife across through the strips at one inch intervals. This gives a wavy marble effect.

Chocolate Angel Food

½ Cup cocoa
2-3 Cup cake flour
¼ Teaspoon salt
1¼ Cups egg white
1 Teaspoon cream of tartar
1½ Cups sugar
1 Teaspoon vanilla

Beat egg whites until stiff but not dry. Add cream of tartar while beating. Gradually fold in the sugar which has been sifted. Add vanilla. Fold in the flour which has been sifted with the cocoa and salt. Pour into an ungreased angel cake tin and bake in a slow oven (300 to 325 F.) for one hour, increasing heat after first fifteen minutes. Invert tin until cake is cool. Remove cake carefully with a spatula.

FARM SECURITY "THAWS" MILLIONS FARM DEBTS

Service Available to All Farmers Whether Members or Not

More than two and a quarter million dollars' worth of frozen debts owed by Michigan farmers have been "thawed out" since 1935 through debt adjustment services of the Farm Security Administration, Roswell G. Carr, state FSA director, said today.

In the five years the debt adjustment service has been in operation, 1,330 cases have been adjusted. As a result, $2,292,222 has either been returned in cash to creditors or definite arrangements for cash repayments have been worked out, Carr said. This amount represents 77.8 per cent of the sum owed before adjustment.

Outlining the situation which necessitated adjustments, Carr said: "At the time farm indebtedness had reached the highest point in our history—it increased 250 per cent between 1910 and 1930—farm prices reached their lowest point. In the early thirties, largely because of factors beyond individual control, the farmers' debt burden became unbearable, and farm foreclosures, canceled sales contracts, and forfeited equities reached an alarming figure.

"The farm debt adjustment service, which is available to all farmers, was established to bring creditors and debtors together and help them reach agreements based on present economic levels. The principle involved is very old. The Mosaic Code provided for a "year of remission" every seventh year, during which every debtor was bound by a solemn pledge to repay the fullest possible amount on his debts and the remainder, if any, was wiped out. Every fiftieth year, all unsatisfied debts on real estate were canceled and the properties returned to those who had encumbered them. Naturally, credit was very carefully extended, for the law of remission was inexorable.

"In modern times, we have no such brake on inflation of credit, and many farmers as a result are still trying to eke out existence under a terrific load of debt incurred during an era of easy credit and unprecedented inflation of values.

"The Farm Security Administration emphatically does not encourage or assist any person to avoid payment of his bona fide obligations, within his ability to pay. Instead, we analyze the individual farmer's situation, and determine by developing a sound farm and home plan the amount of indebtedness he is able to carry.

"In Michigan, the adjustment is worked out by a local committee, members of which are chosen for their standing in the community and their reputation for fairness and good judgment. The committee assists the county supervisor and the debt adjustment supervisor, and acts as a mediation board between the debtors and creditors.

"The creditor has a definite material interest in the debtor's financial situation and he usually is very anxious to see that the plan is workable. When he realizes that not only the debtor but he and the community at large will benefit, he takes an active part in getting the indebtedness adjusted so that the borrower will be able to pay it out.

"Debt adjustment services are available to all farmers, whether or not they are FSA borrowers, and applications may be made for them through the rural rehabilitation supervisor at the county office of the Farm Security Administration."

Delicious White Cake

5 Egg whites
1 Teaspoon lemon juice
1 Teaspoon flavoring
½ Teaspoon salt
½ Cup shortening
1 2-3 Cups sugar.
3 Cups flour
2 Teaspoons baking powder
1 Cup milk

Cream shortening and sugar. Sift flour and baking powder together four times. Beat egg whites fairly stiff. Add about 1-5 of beaten egg whites to creamed shortening and sugar, beat well. Alternate flour and milk. Add lemon juice and flavoring. Fold in beaten egg whites. Bake in oven at 350 degrees.

Filling—One-half stick of butter, 1½ cups confectioners XXXX sugar, 1 square of melted chocolate. Add milk enough to make smooth filling that spreads but does not run. Use half for filling and cover cake with other half.

Angel Food Cake

1¼ Cups sifted flour
1 Teaspoon flavoring
¼ Teaspoon salt
1¼ Cups egg whites
1 Teaspoon cream of tartar
1¼ Cups sugar

Beat egg whites until foamy but not too dry, and add cream of tartar. Add sugar slowly by tablespoonfuls. Add flavoring and lastly fold in flour gently. Pour batter into ungreased Angel Food pan and bake in moderate oven at 300 degrees for 50 minutes.

Chocolate Cake

½ Cup fresh buttermilk or water
1 Cup flour
1 Teaspoon cream of tartar
½ Teaspoon soda
¼ Cup butter
1 Cup sugar
2 Squares melted chocolate
2 Eggs or 4 yolks

Cream butter, sugar, add melted chocolate, then well beaten eggs or yolks, add ½ cup flour, then milk or water; sift cream of tartar and soda in ½ cup flour, add just before putting in pans; flavor with teaspoon vanilla. Bake in two layers.

Red Devil's Food

½ Cup cold water
1 Teaspoon vanilla
5 Tablespoons cocoa
6 Tablespoons boiling water
1 Teaspoon sodu
½ Cup fat
1 Cup sugar
2 Eggs
2 Cups flour
3 Teaspoons baking powder
½ Teaspoon salt

Cream fat and sugar and add beaten eggs; beat 2 minutes. Sift flour, baking powder and salt three times and add alternately with cold water; add flavoring. Mix boiling water, cocoa and soda and add to batter while still very hot; beat quickly; pour into well greased layer pans. Place into preheated oven set at 375 and bake 30 to 40 minutes.

Orange Cake

1 Cup chopped dates
2-3 Cup sour milk
1 Teaspoon soda
2 Cups flour
1 Cup sugar
½ Cup butter
2 Eggs
Grated rind of 1 orange

Bake in oblong cake pan.

Method—Cream butter and sugar. Add beaten eggs, dates, and orange rind. Sift soda with flour, alternate sour milk with flour. Place in 325 to 350 degree oven, bake 50 to 60 minutes. Serve with orange sauce, whipped cream, red raspberries or baked custard.

Emmet to Have Test Well

Emmet county will have a deep oil well test on the McPhee farm near Alanson in West Littlefield Township, Emmet county, it has been announced.

Prune Cake

2-3 Cup milk
1 Cup cooked, pitted and diced prunes
1 Teaspoon baking powder
1 Teaspoon cinnamon
1 Teaspoon soda
½ Cup butter
1 Cup sugar
2 Cups flour
2 Eggs
½ Teaspoon cloves
½ Teaspoon salt

Cream butter and sugar, add egg yolks. Sift, then measure and sift the flour again with all dry ingredients. Add alternately with the milk, mix into batter the 1 cup of prunes. Last fold in egg whites beaten stiff. Bake 25 to 30 minutes at 375 degrees.

Cocoa Icing

Yolk 1 egg
2 Tablespoons cocoa
Cream as needed
2 Tablespoons softened butter
1 Cupful confectioner's sugar
Vanilla or almond flavoring

Wash the butter to remove all salt, then cream well, add sugar gradually, then cocoa dissolved in the yolk of egg to which a little cream is added if necessary; cream till well, flavor and spread on cold or cool cakes.

The Cooking School

The Charlevoix Courier wishes to express its grateful appreciation to the merchants of Charlevoix whose splendid cooperation has made possible the publication of this special Cooking School edition. It is our endeavor to send a copy of the special edition into every home in Charlevoix and rurals, thereby giving the advertising merchants a fine newspaper coverage.

The Cooking School, under the personal direction of Mrs. Helene Sailer, returning here for the 6th consecutive year, will be held in the Charlevoix High School gymnasium on Friday and Saturday, September 13 and 14, with sessions on Friday from 2 to 4 p. m. and from 7:30 to 9:30 p. m., and on Saturday from 2 to 4 p. m.

All sessions of the school are free to the public. Many local merchants will have displays in the gymnasium and their merchandise will be used by Mrs. Sailer in demonstrating numerous methods of preparing and serving delicious dishes.

The women of Charlevoix and Charlevoix county are cordially invited to attend. If you can't come to all three sessions, come to at least one; you will like Mrs. Sailer, for not only is she an expert home economist but she is a gracious and charming hostess. Bring your note books with you, take down the recipes as she demonstrates methods of preparing economical, tasty dishes, and then, when you return home, try them out in your own kitchen.

We ask you to look on this school as a community affair, to which every one of you is most cordially invited.

PLENTIFUL RAINFALL TO AID DUCK HUNTING

Flooded Pot-Holes and Marshes Should Attract Many Birds

Sportsmen should have reason to thank the weather gods who deluged Michigan with record August rains when duck hunting season opens October 1, according to men of the conservation department's game division.

As a consequence of heavy rains, pot holes and ponds that are ordinarily dry in fall months should attract waterfowl this season. The result will be that ducks will be more scattered, and more hunters will be able to enjoy their sport nearer home.

Indications are that wildfowlers' success will be at least as good during the approaching season as it was last year, a season that was generally regarded as the best in several years.

Duck hunters will enjoy a 60-day season this year, ending November 29th.

My Fruit and Nut Angel Food Cake

1¼ Cups sifted beet sugar
1 Teaspoon vanilla
¼ Cup candied cherries quartered
¼ Cup chopped nutmeats
¼ Cup cocoanut
¾ Cup sifted cake flour
4 Tablespoons cocoa
1¼ Cup egg whites
¼ Teaspoon salt
1 Teaspoon cream tartar

Method—Pour ½ the batter into ungrensed angel food pan. Sprinkle fruits and nuts over it, then add the rest of the batter, spread it evenly with a knife. Run knife through to the bottom to mix the fruit and nuts evenly. Bake slowly at 275 degrees for one hour increasing the heat slowly to 325 degrees after 30 minutes. Remove from oven and invert the pan for about one hour.

Marble Cake

3 Teaspoons baking powder
1½ Cups water or milk
3 Teaspoons vanilla extract
2 Squares chocolate
¼ Teaspoon soda
⅝ Cup lard
2 Cups sugar
4 Egg whites
3¼ Cups flour
½ Teaspoon salt

Cream lard, add sugar gradually, and cream well. Add unbeaten egg whites one at a time and beat into the mixture. Sift flour once, measure and sift with baking powder and salt. Add sifted dry ingredients alternately with liquid to creamed mixture. Add flavoring. Add soda to melted chocolate. Divide batter in half and add chocolate mixture to one part. Drop batter by spoonfuls into a large greased and floured cake pan alternating white batter with chocolate batter until all is used. Bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees F.) 50 minutes or until done. Frost with Marble Frosting.

Marshmallow Icing

1 Tablespoonful gelatine
½ Cupful water
2 Cupfuls granulated sugar
Whites of 2 eggs
1 Teaspoonful vanilla or ½ teaspoonful almond extract

Soften the gelatine in a little cold water, dissolve the sugar in the half cup of water and bring to the boiling point, then cook quickly until the syrup drops heavily from the spoon, or until the syrup thermometer registers 240 degrees. Then pour it over the stiffly beaten egg whites, beating all the time. Meantime dissolve the gelatine over boiling water, then beat it into the icing. When nearly cold it is ready to use.

Soft Chocolate Icing

Melt six ounces (six squares) unsweetened chocolate in double boiler. Add three cups confectioner's sugar, stirring constantly. Add slowly three-fourths cup cream. Add three tablespoons boiling water and spread while hot on cake which has cooled.

CLUB AWARDS FROM PICNIC ANNOUNCED

ANNUAL LABOR DAY EVENT DREW ATTENDANCE OF 2,500

Outstanding 4-H Club Exhibits Were Feature; Fine Entertainment Program Presented

(By B. C. Mellencamp)

Fortunately good weather conditions made the 18th annual county picnic most enjoyable to an estimated 2500 attendance. After enjoying the noon day luncheon, supplemented by free coffee, sugar, and cream, the program got under way with races for the young folks. At two o'clock the Charlevoix City Band gave a half hour program of exceptionally fine music.

At 2:30 the boxing program was staged, made up of four three-round bouts. The first bout was between Sonny Hosler, of East Jordan, and Jim Martin, of Charlevoix. Next Warren Duplessis, Charlevoix, and Don Dexter, Boyne City, mixed it up in good shape. The third bout showed Clare Martin, Charlevoix, and Kid Kurchinski, Boyne City, and the last bout was between Bud St. Arno, East Jordan, and Junior Boss, Charlevoix.

Only one baseball game was played as one of the teams failed to show up. However, the one game provided many thrills as the East Jordan Juniors defeated the Barnard Independents 8-3. The game was much closer than the score would indicate and was a hotly contested battle.

The 4-H club displays were especially attractive. Thirty-four dairy animals were displayed by as many club members throughout the county. At the conclusion of the judging of animals a showmanship contest was held with all animals being paraded and handled by the club members. This contest was won by Elois Bunker, East Jordan; with Herman Fall, Boyne City, second; and Mack McDonald, East Jordan, third.

Thomas L. Thacker, Smith-Hughes instructor at East Jordan, judged the dairy animals with the following results:

In the Holstein class, under one year of age, Jerome Rayman, Charlevoix, Elois Bunker, East Jordan, and Billy Price, Bay Shore, won blue ribbons. In the Junior Yearling class Lyle Wilson, East Jordan, won a blue ribbon and in the mature cow class James Rayman, Charlevoix, won first.

In the Jersey breed blue ribbons were won by Franklyn Cellner and Clare McGhan, both of Charlevoix, and George Urmnn, Boyne City.

In the Guernsey class, under one year of age, a blue ribbon was won by Jack Urman, Boyne City. In Guernseys over one year, blue ribbons were won by Mack McDonald, East Jordan, and Albert Routley, Jr. of Charlevoix.

Other blue ribbons were won by Wm. Thayer, Boyne City, with a Brown Swiss calf, and Lawrence Speigl, Bay Shore, with a Hereford. A large crowd watched the judging of the animals with considerable interest.

In the canning and food preparation exhibits, a large number of awards were given by Miss Lois Lindsay, Boyne Falls, who judged the entire exhibit. In the food preparation club competition, first prize was won by the Jordanite Club, led by Betty Strehl, East Jordan; second place hy the Undine Club, led by Muriel Stephens, Charlevoix; and third place by the Boyne City Club, led hy Mrs. Hah Walker, Boyne City.

In the first year individual display, first place was won by Carrie McClure, East Jordan; second by Gloria Reed, East Jordan, and third by Beverly Bennett, Boyne City, Michigan. In the second year displays first place was won by Marilyn Hair, Charlevoix; second by Mary Mellencamp, Boyne City; and third hy Helen Tompkins, Boyne City. Fifth year food preparation was won by Muriel Stephens, Charlevoix.

In the canning exhibit, first place in the club exhibits was won by the Jordanite Club, led by Margaret and Betty Strehl, East Jordan; second place hy the Jordan Happy Canners, led by Mary Jane Addis, East Jordan; and third place by the Boyne City south side club, led by Mrs. Mary Towne. First year individual canning awards were won by Dorothea Routley, Charlevoix; Elaine Olstrom, East Jordan; and Marie Wheeler, Boyne City. In the second year competition the top three places were won by Lucile May, Charlevoix, Beryl Bennett, East Jordan, and Betty Clute, Boyne City. Third year competition showed Betty Strehl, East Jordan; Margaret Strehl, East Jordan; and Mary Simmons, East Jordan, as the three highest. Fourth year competition showed Margaret and Betty Strehl, East Jordan; and Reva Addis, East Jordan, as the three highest.

In the fifth year class, Marjorie Hair, Charlevoix; Gladys Larsen, of East Jordan, and Myrtle Furgeson, Charlevoix, were the winners. Mary Jane Addis, East Jordan, won first in the sixth year competition.

In the sweepstakes awards, Lucile May, Charlevoix, had the best can of fruit (pears); Dorothea Routley the best vegetable (peas); Reva Addis, East Jordan, the best jar of meat (chicken); and Jean Dennis, East Jordan, the best glass of jelly. The best individual collection in the entire exhibit was that shown by Betty Strehl, East Jordan.

Come to the County Fair this week, where you will again see a splendid display by the 4-H club members throughout the county.

GOOD CROP GAME BIRDS PREDICTED FOR SEASON

Conservation Dept. Census Shows Game Plentiful

A "good crop" is the estimate by the conservation department's game division men of the production of pheasants, grouse and other upland birds for the 1940 hunting season.

Despite heavy rains at hatching nnd brooding time, large broods of three-quarter grown birds have been observed at Prairie Farm, Rose Lake and other stations by field men of the game division. Conservation officers in southern counties also report a good crop of pheasants.

Farley F. Tubbs, game division ornithologist, returning from a tour of northern Michigan, reports game area managers and conservation officers throughout the north country optimistic about the season's crop of upland birds.

In discounting the notion that the wet summer may have seriously reduced the crop of birds for hunting, game men point ont that some of the wettest years in the past have been good bird years. The birds are believed in little danger of depletion between now and the hunting season opening October 15.

BLUE WING TEAL EARLIEST OF FALL MIGRATORY DUCKS

The blue wing teal is one of the earliest fall migrants among waterfowl which frequent Michigan lakes nnd marshes. By October 1, most of the blue wing teal have left the northern peninsula. During the last three seasons, only eight teal have been recorded among wild-fowl bagged near the stne park on Munuskong bay.

PROPERLY MANAGED, WOODLOT IS A GOOD INVESTMENT

Properly managed, a small woodlot, like a large commercial forest, can yield a constant crop of wood for fuel, posts, lumber and wild game. According to the national resources planning board this wood will rarely find its wny into the regular markets for timber, and while it will not affect lumber prices, it will increase farm income considerably.

* HOME CANNING *
* NOW A SCIENCE *
* * * * * * * * * * * *

Science has reduced the failures in home canning, although the process is only a little more than a century in age. Greater appreciation of home canned vegetables has resulted.

For homemakers who want to be sure of their methods in home canning, home economists of Michigan State College recommend certain general rules.

First of all, be sure vegetables are fresh. Materials lose flavor nnd quality when they are held over for any length of time. Good quality vegetables nre esscntial, because a bit of decny can be responsible for spoiling an entire batch.

Precook vegetables and have them hot when they go into the cans or jars. Precooking shortens the time of processing, and also saves the bother of "exhausting" the cans to get out the air before sealing them.

Fill only as many jars or cans as equipment permits processing at one time. If the cans of warm vegetables are allowed to stand long before processing, the hacteria in them will multiply very rapidly.

Use a steam pressure canner for peas, corn, snap beans, lima beans, and all nonacid vegetables. The only way to be sure of killing all the bacteria in these vegetables is to raise the temperature to 240 to 250 degrees F.

Be sure to label each can or jar and to keep complete records of each batch—the kind of food, the date canned, and the method of processing. Then if anything goes wrong, you can trace back and find the eause of spoilage. Use a timetable and exact directions to escape errors and failures.

A SAFEGUARD FOR DEMOCRACY

Where democracy has been crushed, taxes are exacted from citizens yet these citizens are not permitted to know what is done with the money they pay.

In the Charlevoix Courier subscribers will find publication of the proceedings nnd reports of various public offices. With such a public accounting there can he no question regarding the integrity of public officials, for honest officials are always anxious that a public accounting of funds should be made as often as is necessary to vindicate any accusation that might be wrongfully made against them.

Now and then there is some discussion as to whether the proceedings of the county board of supervisors, school councils, school boards and similar organizations should be published in the locnl home newspaper. Some persons think that the small cost of publication of such mntters should be saved to the taxpayer.

Many years ago when this government was much younger than it is today, this matter was discussed and considered from every angle. After much careful controversy it wns determined that legal advertising is the cheapest and most effective insurance the taxpayers can obtain on the ability and integrity of their elected officials. And from the officials' viewpoint, it constitutes proof of their honesty and integrity in office.

Public printing of receipts and expenditures relieves all question in the minds of the public as to the integrity of an official.

Henry Woolfenden, Jr., executive secretary, State Bar of Michigan, emphasized this point recently when he declared: "Legal advertising is the cheapest and most effective insurance the taxpayers can buy on the ability and integrity of their elected officials." He also added: "The public accounting notice is the best protection which the taxpayer has against incompetent or unscrupulous public officials."

It is important that you read all public notices or legal advertising carefully. In a democracy a good citizen needs to be well informed.

FARM SECURITY "THAWS" MILLIONS FARM DEBTS

Service Available to All Farmers Whether Members or Not

More than two and a quarter million dollars' worth of frozen debts owed by Michigan farmers have been "thawed out" since 1935 through debt adjustment services of the Farm Security Administration, Roswell G. Carr, state FSA director, said today.

In the five years the debt adjustment service has been in operation, 1,330 cases have been adjusted. As a result, $2,292,222 has either been returned in cash to creditors or definite arrangements for cash repayments have been worked out, Carr said. This amount represents 77.8 per cent of the sum owed before adjustment.

Outlining the situation which necessitated adjustments, Carr said: "At the time farm indebtedness had reached the highest point in our history—it increased 250 per cent between 1910 and 1930—farm prices reached their lowest point. In the early thirties, largely because of factors beyond individual control, the farmers' debt burden became unbearable, and farm foreclosures, canceled sales contracts, and forfeited equities reached an alarming figure.

"The farm debt adjustment service, which is available to all farmers, was established to bring creditors and debtors together and help them reach agreements based on present economic levels. The principle involved is very old. The Mosaic Code provided for a "year of remission" every seventh year, during which every debtor was bound by a solemn pledge to repay the fullest possible amount on his debts and the remainder, if any, was wiped out. Every fiftieth year, all unsatisfied debts on real estate were canceled and the properties returned to those who had encumbered them. Naturally, credit was very carefully extended, for the law of remission was inexorable.

"In modern times, we have no such brake on inflation of credit, and many farmers as a result are still trying to eke out existence under a terrific load of debt incurred during an era of easy credit and unprecedented inflation of values.

"The Farm Security Administration emphatically does not encourage or assist any person to avoid payment of his bona fide obligations, within his ability to pay. Instead, we analyze the individual farmer's situation, and determine by developing a sound farm and home plan the amount of indebtedness he is able to carry.

"In Michigan, the adjustment is worked out by a local committee, members of which are chosen for their standing in the community and their reputation for fairness and good judgment. The committee assists the county supervisor and the debt adjustment supervisor, and acts as a mediation board between the debtors and creditors.

"The creditor has a definite material interest in the debtor's financial situation and he usually is very anxious to see that the plan is workable. When he realizes that not only the debtor but he and the community at large will benefit, he takes an active part in getting the indebtedness adjusted so that the borrower will be able to pay it out.

"Debt adjustment services are available to all farmers, whether or not they are FSA borrowers, and applications may be made for them through the rural rehabilitation supervisor at the county office of the Farm Security Administration."

MRS. HELENE SAILER'S OWN RECIPES

Delicious White Cake

5 Egg whites
1 Teaspoon lemon juice
1 Teaspoon flavoring
½ Teaspoon salt
½ Cup shortening
1 2-3 Cups sugar
3 Cups flour
2 Teaspoons baking powder
1 Cup milk

Cream shortening and sugar. Sift flour and baking powder together four times. Beat egg whites fairly stiff. Add about 1-5 of beaten egg whites to creamed shortening and sugar, beat well. Alternate flour and milk. Add lemon juice and flavoring. Fold in beaten egg whites. Bake in oven at 350 degrees.

Filling—One-half stick of butter, 1½ cups confectioners XXXX sugar, 1 square of melted chocolate. Add milk enough to make smooth filling that spreads but does not run. Use half for filling and cover cake with other half.

Angel Food Cake

1¼ Cups sifted flour
1 Teaspoon flavoring
¼ Teaspoon salt
1¼ Cups egg whites
1 Teaspoon cream of tartar
1¼ Cups sugar

Beat egg whites until foamy but not too dry, and add cream of tartar. Add sugar slowly by tablespoonfuls. Add flavoring and lastly fold in flour gently. Pour batter into ungreased Angel Food pan and bake in moderate oven at 300 degrees for 50 minutes.

Chocolate Cake

½ Cup fresh buttermilk or water
1 Cup flour
1 Teaspoon cream of tartar
½ Teaspoon soda
½ Cup butter
1 Cup sugar
2 Squares melted chocolate
2 Eggs or 4 yolks

Cream butter, sugar, add melted chocolate, then well beaten eggs or yolks, add ½ cup flour, then milk or water; sift cream of tartar and soda in ½ cup flour, add just before putting in pans; flavor with teaspoon vanilla. Bake in two layers.

Red Devil's Food

½ Cup cold water
1 Teaspoon vanilla
5 Tablespoons cocoa
6 Tablespoons boiling water
1 Teaspoon soda
½ Cup fat
1 Cup sugar
2 Eggs
2 Cups flour
3 Teaspoons baking powder
½ Teaspoon salt

Cream fat and sugar and add beaten eggs; beat 2 minutes. Sift flour, baking powder and salt three times and add alternately with cold water; add flavoring. Mix boiling water, cocoa and soda and add to batter while still very hot; beat quickly; pour into well greased layer pans. Place into preheated oven set at 375 and bake 30 to 40 minutes.

Orange Cake

1 Cup chopped dates
2-3 Cup sour milk
1 Teaspoon soda
2 Cups flour
1 Cup sugar
½ Cup butter
2 Eggs
Grated rind of 1 orange
Bake in oblong cake pan.

Method—Cream butter and sugar. Add beaten eggs, dates, and orange rind. Sift soda with flour, alternate sour milk with flour. Place in 325 to 350 degree oven, bake 50 to 60 minutes. Serve with orange sauce, whipped cream, red raspberries or baked custard.

Emmet to Have Test Well

Emmet county will have a deep oil well test on the McPhee farm near Alanson in West Littlefield Township, Emmet county, it has been announced.

Prune Cake

2-3 Cup milk
1 Cup cooked, pitted and diced prunes
1 Teaspoon baking powder
1 Teaspoon cinnamon
1 Teaspoon soda
½ Cup butter
1 Cup sugar
2 Cups flour
2 Eggs
½ Teaspoon cloves
½ Teaspoon salt

Cream butter and sugar, add egg yolks. Sift, then measure and sift the flour again with all dry ingredients. Add alternately with the milk, mix into batter the 1 cup of prunes. Last fold in egg whites beaten stiff. Bake 25 to 30 minutes at 375 degrees.

Cocoa Icing

Yolk 1 egg
2 Tablespoons cocoa
Cream as needed
2 Tablespoons softened butter
1 Cupful confectioner's sugar
Vanilla or almond flavoring

Wash the butter to remove all salt, then cream well, add sugar gradually, then cocoa dissolved in the yolk of egg to which a little cream is added if necessary; cream all well, flavor and spread on cold or cool cakes.

START DRIVE AGAINST DEER LAW VIOLATIONS

Arrest of Three Marks Campaign in Northern Counties

A concerted drive on illegal deer and small game hunting being waged by Conservation Officers in Otsego, Cheboygan, Charlevoix, Emmet and Antrim counties, got under way last week with the arrests of one Michigan resident and two outstaters for making use of an artificial light to hunt and pursue deer.

The three men were arraigned before Justice Pierce at Mackinaw City and upon a plea of guilty were sentenced to pay a fine of $25.00 and costs each or serve 30 days in jail. The defendants, Norman Thilborn of Cheboygan, Harry Satchel of Columbus, Ohio, and Arthur Holtsclaw of Elwood, Indiana, all elected to pay the fine and costs.

The arrests were made by Conservation Officers Tom Koboski of Petoskey and Fire Warden Wayne Coffin of Levering.

Fire wardens and fire towermen released from fire duty on account of the low forest fire hazard are assisting the regular conservation officers in this drive on illegal hunters and persons apprehended may expect severe penalties due to public indignaation over such ponching.

The general public is more and more coming to the realization that the tourist and resort industry, which in this state is second in importance only to the automobile industry, is dependant upon our game fish and natural resources.

Sportsmen and business men alike are therefore demanding that more severe penalties be imposed on convicted game and fish law violators. Justices of the peace throughout the district have agreed to cooperate and convicted persons can expect no leniency.

HOSPITAL NOTES

Admitted for treatment the past week: Miss Estelle Mitchell, who is employed at the Beach Hotel; Miss Katherine Canniff of Alden; William Sharrow; Charles Smith of East Jordan; Mrs. Claude White of R. F. D. 3, Charlevoix.

Maurice Burke, Elmira, underwent a major operation Wednesday.

Miss Grace Baker submitted to a minor operation Wednesday.

Barbara Bice, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Bice, submitted to a minor operation Friday.

Billy Dye, son of Mrs. Dolly Lamhert of Central Lake, was admitted Monday for treatment. Attempting to climb through a fence while carrying a gun, the gun discharged and severely wounded one foot.

MRS. HELENE SAILER'S OWN RECIPES

Orange Sponge Cake

1-3 Cup orange juice
1¼ Cups pastry flour
1½ Teaspoons baking powder
¼ Teaspoon salt
3 Eggs
¼ Tenspoon cream of tartar
1 Cup granulated sugar
2 Teaspoons grated orange rind.

Separate eggs; beat whites and cream of tartar until stiff and add the yolks one at a time, beating well before addition of each yolk. Add the sugar gradually, still beating with egg benter; remove beater. Add the grated rind and orange juice. Fold in flour, bnking powder and salt sifted together. Bake in a moderate oven at 325 degrees F, in two layer cake pans for ahout 18 minutes.

Orange Filling

½ Cup orange juice
1 Egg yolk
2 Teaspoons butter
1 Teaspoon lemon juice
¾ Cup sugar
1½ Tablespoons flour
¼ Teaspoon salt
2 Teaspoons grated orange rind

Put sugar, flour and salt in top of double boiler and mix together thoroughly; add orange rind and orange juice. Add butter and egg yolk and cook until smooth and thick. Remove from fire and add lemon juice. Spread between layers. Ice top and sides of cake with seven-minute icing. Grate a little orange rind on icing before it cools. Makes one two-layer cake (eight-inch tins).

Marble Frosting

2 Egg whites
⅛ Teaspoon peppermint extract
1 Square chocolate
1½ Cups sugar
5 Tablespoons water
1 Tablespoon white corn sirup

Combine all ingredients except flavorings in top of double boiler and mix well. Stir over hot water until sugar is dissolved. Beat with rotary beater over boiling water until frosting is fluffy and will hold its shape. Add flavoring and combine well. Reserve three tablespoons of frosting and spread the rest over top and sides of cake. Melt chocolate and add reserved frosting. Pipe this mixture across cake in one-fourth inch strips about one inch apart. Then draw a knife across through the strips at one inch intervals. This gives a wavy marble effect.

Chocolate Angel Food

½ Cup cocoa
2-3 Cup cake flour
¼ Teaspoon salt
1¼ Cups egg white
1 Teaspoon cream of tartar
1½ Cups sugar
1 Teaspoon vanilla

Beat egg whites until stiff but not dry. Add cream of tartar while beating. Gradually fold in the sugar which has been sifted. Add vanilla. Fold in the flour which has been sifted with the cocoa and salt. Pour into an ungreased angel cake tin and bake in a slow oven (300 to 325 F.) for one hour, increasing heat after first fifteen minutes. Invert tin until cake is cool. Remove cake carefully with a spatula.

PUBLIC SCHOOLS OPENED MONDAY

REGULAR SCHEDULE CLASSES NOW UNDER WAY

Decided Enrollment Decrease Believed Due to Polio Scare; 35 Absent Elementary Grades

Charlevoix public schools opened Monday for the 1940-41 term and regular routine is now under way.

Monday's opening followed a consultation by Supt. O. P. North and school board officials with Dr. G. B. Saltonstall, local health officer, and Dr. Wallace M. Chapman, director of District Health Unit No. 3, over the polio situation resulting from two active cases in Charlevoix. Opening of schools was recommended.

Initial enrollment, expected to increase in subsequent weeks, was without doubt affected by the polio scare. A decrease of 57 students from last fall's second day enrollment was recorded approximately 30, Mr. North stated, being pupils of the elementary department out on that account. The senior and junior high schools had no enrollment of 296 as compared to 318 last year. The grade school enrollment totaled 236 against 271 a year ago.

Following is the enrollment by grades:

Grade	1939	1940
High School
12th grade	56	51
11th grade	60	46
10th grade	49	64
	165	161
Junior High
9th grade	74	69
8th grade	42	34
7th grade	37	32
	153	135
Elementary Department
6th grade	33	35
5th grade	36	35
4th grade	37	31
3rd grade	34	36
2nd grade	48	37
1st grade	42	28
Kindergarten	41	34
	271	236

Children attending school, especially those of the elementary department, are being checked carefully daily for any signs of illness. Ann Lawrence, county nurse, has given instructions to teachers and personally visits the grades each morning. Upon any sign of illness, children will be sent home and Miss Lawrence follows such cases into the homes. Parents who have kept their children out of school are advised to let them attend classes.

FIVE BUSINESS FIRMS MOVE TO NEW LOCATION

Result from Frank Novotny Purchase Maxbauer Creamery Building

Five local business firms are moving to new location this week.

Frank Novotny, who recently purchased the Maxbauer Creamery building on Clinton street, is moving his tinning business into the structure. Also moving to this site are Frank Coatta, whose partnership with R. J. Nowland in the Charlevoix Plumbing Co. has been dissolved, and Leo W. Powers with his sign business.

Preparations for moving the equipment of the Maxbauer Creamery into the Lewis building formerly occupied by the Model Home Laundry are under way.

CUT MUNICIPAL GOLF COURSE TO NINE HOLES

City Council Adopts Change to Eliminate Yearly Deficit

The 18-hole Charlevoix Golf Club course, operated as a municipal course since being deeded to the city by the Chicago Club several years ago, is being reduced to 9 holes.

That portion of the course east of the Durance road, will be discontinued. The contemplated 9-hole layout will include holes one, two, three, four, five, 14, 15, 16 and 18. The short 17th hole will be eliminated and combined with 18.

The program now under way includes moving several good greens on the discontinued portion to replace poor greens on the oew 9-hole lay-out, changing of greens to the more modern rolliog style, moving two nurseries maintained on the discontinued portion.

Operation of the course as an 18-hole lay-out has resulted in a heavy yearly deficit, a large portion of which will he elimioated by the new plan. It is believed that smaller course will meet public demand. No definite plan for use of the discontinued portion has been decided upon.

PLAN MEMORIAL TO DR. R. B. ARMSTRONG

CAMPAIGN OPENED TO PURCHASE X-RAY MACHINE

Summer Residents Pledge $3,000; Ask Local Residents Contribute $1,500 to Memorial Fund

Since the death of Dr. R. B. Armstrong it has heen the opinion and hope of the Charlevoix Hospital Board, its advisory board of summer residents and others, to establish a suitable and fitting memorial to his memory. Knowing Dr. Armstrong as we all did, and acquainted with his services and ambitions, we feel that no more fitting memorial could be had than a new modern and complete x-ray machine. A machine comparable to any in the most modern hospitals, and capable of taking x-ray pictures of every description.

Representative members from the Chicago Club, Belvedere Club and North Side Association have pledged to donate $3,000.00 if Charlevoix will raise $1500.00. These organizations have already obtained their respective amouots, and now the Charlevoix Hospital Board wishes to give the city, and its outlying communities, an opportunity of expressing their appreciation of what the doctor meant to them and to this community he loved so well.

Dr. Armstrong's life was one of service, sacrifice and love. We do not have to dwell upon that phase of his life, for it is well known to us all. Our hospital was the realization of his cherished hope and ambition. He had worked and strived to provide better means of service to his patients. The x-ray machine was of particular interest to him. The hospital is today using the machine for which he sacrificed to purchase about ten years ago.

ST. MARY'S PARISH 50TH ANNIVERSARY

CELEBRATION SUNDAY MARKED GOLDEN JUBILEE

Fr. Philip Zorn was First Priest; Franciscans Served Parish 45 Years; Church Begun 1890

St. Mary's Parish of Charlevoix celebrated its Golden Jubilee on Sunday, September 15th. Solemn High Mass at 10 o'clock was said by Rev. Fr. John W. Collins, assisted by two Franciscan priests from Petoskey. Fr. Eugene O.F.M., of Petoskey, historian, preached the Jubilee sermon. At 7:30 Sunday evening there was a Holy Hour and Solemn Benediction with fourteen visiting priests taking part in the service. Fr. Edward Neubecker, of Lake Leelanau, former Charlevoix pastor, preached. At 1 o'clock Sunday afternoon, a chicken dinoer was held in the school hall for members of the parish and their friends.

Colden Jubilee year gives us pause to reviow some of the salient events in the religious history of Charlevoix and St. Mary's parish. The city of Charlevoix was named for the French missionary, Fr. Francis Xavier Charlevoix, Jesuit priest from France who made a tour of Canada and Michigan for his government in 1721. Although the carly history of the Catholic church in this vicinity is unknown, it probably dated from that time.

The recorded chronicle begins on March 10, 1867, when Fr. Philip Zorn, came to this community. He continued his visits here at stated intervals until 1881, celebrating Mass and other services at the homes of the residents. Fr. Zorn was among the pioneer priests who amid great difficulties did an incredible amount of work for the salvation of souls. Born in Germany, he came to this country and was ordained a priest at Harbor Springs by Bishop Baraga in 1856. The first priest ordained in what is now the Grand Rapids Diocese, he cared for 21 missions. He died in 1900 after a fruitful ministry.

Fr. Gustax Graf, the first resident pastor at Petoskey, attended Charlevoix from 1881-84.

BLIGHT CAUSING DAMAGE POTATOES

MANY CHARLEVOIX CO. FIELDS ARE AFFECTED

County Agricultural Agent Mellencamp Advises Farmers on Methods of Harvestiog Crop

(By B. C. Mellencamp)

For the second year this county has been hit by late blight. In fact, present indications show ever greater damage than last year. Only the fields that have been properly sprayed are free from this diseuse. Many growers have sprayed from six to eight times and thus have prevented this great loss.

All potato growers in the county should take extra precaution at digging time to prevent losses in storage. A few suggestions are in order and if followed will save considerable worry:

Digging should only be done on bright, clear days when the soil is relatively dry and the potatoes should be allowed to dry for two or three hours before being picked up. Extra precaution should also be taken to prevent mechanical injury when handled. Unless the potatoes can be placed in an exceptionally cool, well-ventilated storage, they should be pitted in the field for around two weeks to allow the blight to show up. Please remember not to cover your pit with potato vines as moisture going through the vines will help spread the blight. It would be well to disinfect the storage with a solution of one pound of copper sulphate dissolved in ten gallons of water or one pint of formaldehyde in ten gallons of water. This solution should be sprayed or brushed on the floor, walls, and ceiling of the storage.

In any case it would be well to play safe and take all of the precautions you can in harvesting the crop this year. In regard to storage, if possible have your potatoes stored so that they will not come in contact with other lots of tubers. This works both ways: If your potatoes do not have blight, you certainly don't wunt potatoes that do have blight infect your clean seed and, on the other hand, if you do have blight, you do not wish this on your neighbors who might not have it.

PLAN SMALLPOX VACCINATION CAMPAIGN

Schedule for Charlevoix County Schools is Announced

A vaccination clinic will he held in four centers of this county on Thursduy, September 26th.

Vaccinatioo against smallpox will be offered to all preschool and school children in the surrounding territory as well as the immediate vicinity.

This protection is advised to those who have not had a vaccination within the last five years and especially to those who have never been protected.

The following schedule is announced by the District Health Department: Charlevoix school, 9:00 a. m.; East Jordan school, 11:00 a. m.; Boyne City school, 1:30 p. m.; Boyne Falls school, 2:30 p. m.

COOKING SCHOOL A SUCCESSFUL EVENT

LARGE ATTENDANCE PRESENT AT THREE SESSIONS

Fine Cooperation of Local Merchants Made School Possible—Numerous Prizes Given Away

Saturday afternoon's largely attended session brought to a close the sixth annual cooking school sponsored by the Charlevoix Courier.

Introduced in Charlevoix for the first time six years ago, the school has continued its popularity each year. Friday afternoon's opening sessioo drew well over two hundred women despite rainy weather. Slightly smaller attendance was recorded at the other two sessioos conducted by Mrs. Sailer.

The Courier is making an annual feature of the Helene Sailer cooking school, a demonstration which affords housewives of Charlevoix and vicinity a first-hand view of the proper methods of running that greatest of all businesses—the modern American home. Those attending unanimously expressed their satisfaction regarding Mrs. Sailer's methods, which, instead of long, dry lectures, provides practical demonstrations, step by step, in the revealing of secrets of successful cooking aod baking.

Features of the school were displays hy Wood Bros. hardware, who furnished Westinghouse electric equipment for the stage demonstration; demonstration and stage assistance by Miss Marion Rohns, representing Michigan Bakeries, Inc.; floor displays by Fessenden & Son, Pemberton Radio Service, Bogart's Grocery and Ingalls' Appliance Co.

PICKLE COMPANY GIVES GROWERS 10% INCREASE

Voluntary Advance Became Effective Monday, September 16th

Effective Monday morning, September 16th, the Charlevoix Pickle & Produce, through A. J. Stelter, owner, announced ao increase of 10% in sugar coupoos to its growers making deliveries to the company's 10 northern Michigan stations.

During 1938 and 1939, also early part of the 1940 season, the extra 10% was allowed on every fourth delivery, while the new increase is allowed on every delivery made during the remainder of the season.

CHARLEVOIX HAS TWO POLIO CASES

DR. RUSSELL M. CHAPMAN REPORTS ON SITUATION

Cases Only Active Ones in Four Counties of District, According to Health Unit Director

(By Dr. Russell M. Chapman)

Two cases of Poliomyelitis have beeo reported io Charlevoix during the past ten days. At the present time these are the ooly active cases in the four counties of Antrim, Charlevoix, Emmet and Otsego. One of the two cases, it is believed, contracted the infection outside the local area.

The best koowledge available at present iodicates that the virus which causes "polio" is fairly widespread throughout the nation. It seems to reside in the noses and throats of many healthy people. By being constantly in contact with people thus infected, and by receiving from them very mioute quantities of the virus, it is possible that a large proportion of the population becomes immunized or protected. This would explain the long distances which are often seen between one case and the next. It is seldom that one case can be traced back to contact with a previous case. There is no serum, nasal spray, or other immunization known at present which is of value in prevention or cure of the disease. However the disease seems to spread with difficulty, and relatively few of the entire population become infected even in the most intense epidemics. In this particular, Poliomyelitis differs from such diseases as measles.

Most of the outbreaks recorded recently have occured during vacation months, and they taper off rapidly with the arrival of autumn. Therefore it is believed that school has little influence in the spread of the disease.

It is advised that parents keep children at home who appear ill from any cause until they can be sure that "polio" is oot developing, since there is no early characteristic symptom.

GEORGE TRAMEL HOST TO INSURANCE AGENTS

Forty-Five From Chicago Office Attended Week End Party

George Tramel, prominent Belvedere Club summer resident and Chicago manager of Aetna Casualty, entertained a group of 45 office agents at his summer residence over the Labor Day week end.

The party, given agents in recognition of sales attainment, has heen an annual affair for several years. This year's attendaoce of 45 was twice as large as previous years.

The Insurance Exchange Magazine had the following article about the party: "George Tramel, Chicago manager Aetna Casualty, 637, was host to about 45 office agents and department heads at his summer residence in Charlevoix, Mich., for several days last week. This has been an annual event for several years hut the party last week was about twice as large as that of previous years. Mr. Tramel is a first citizen of Charlevoix and is perhaps its most enthusiastic booster."

METHODIST WOMEN'S CLUBS TO FORM NEW ORGANIZATION

SHOT AT RANDOM

By Ken Usher

If you happen to be one of those persons inclined to complain about taxes, just remember that "public indifference to government costs is the real cause of high taxes."

Ida Joe—"Mother, may I go out to play?"

Mother—"You may play with the little girls, but not with the boys; the little boys are too rough."

Ida Joe—"But Mother, if I can find a nice smooth little boy, can I play with him?"

The beautiful fall weather from Sunday through Tuesday was certainly a welcome relief from that of the preceding couple weeks. Too bad our summer residents weren't here to enjoy these kiod of wonderful autuoin days we so often brag about.

Wish someone could explain why it was that the steelhead stopped "hitting" so suddenly after wonderful catches up to last Friday. I was all set to do some high and mighty bragging about two parties taking seven beauties each, other catches of from one or two to a half dozen, when bang, they stopped almost entirely. Even went so far as to tempt my brother and two friends up here

By GENE ALLEMAN

Field Manager, Michigan Press Association

Riding on a well advertised slogan, "Keyes for Good Government," Dr. Eugene C. Keyes, a darkhorse candidate from Dearborn, provided a surprise feature of Michigan's primary election this month.

He led a field of nine men for the Republican nomination of lieutenant governor.

Virtually unknowo among party leaders, Dr. Keyes is today the coveted subject of attention by old-time politicians. Republican members of the State Senate are wondering "who" is next to Dr. Keyes and how they may fare in the next legislative appointment of committees. More than one schator is planning a trip soon to Dearborn, perhaps to visit Ford's Greenfield Village and then to "drop in" casually for a chat with the new state figure.

The Republican nominee has the

We would like to express our thanks for flowers received last Sunday from the following: Mrs. Hughey, Tilley school south of Mancelona; Mrs. Harry Batterbee, Bush school; Betty Gribi, Creswell; Mrs. Lancaster, Greenwood; Alice Meggison, Grand View.

The missionary program being put on by Clement Heydenburk at various rural Sunday schools this week is very good. The people at Creswell enjoyed very much the pictures and talk on his work of 22 years in Africa by Missionary Engleberg. A fair crowd was present. Though not so bad as the countries of Japan, Germany, Italy, Russia, and Spain, there is still need for much Christian work in Africa.

Among the sick: Mrs. Nemlee condition at Creswell remains about the same. Although suffering very much, she has been thankful for those making short calls. Mrs. Bessie Smith ut Creswell is improving from her injury. Alfred Brooks is gaining slowly under the care of a local physician. Many have been kept home from Sunday school on account of the flu which has been rather prevalent during the recent cold and rainy weather.

Rev. Harry Batterbee by request has been engaged to speak at Grand View rally day, and the Batterbee sisters will sing. Paul Gardner will be the speaker at Creswell, and the Emery sisters quartette will sing. Rev. Batterbee and girls will also be present at Greenwood at 1:00 p. m. Rev. Nelson will speak briefly at Turner and Mrs. Nelson will furnish mu-

KNOW ● YOUR BANK

Who Issues Money?

THERE is a widespread but incorrect belief that banks issue money. They do not. Money is issued only by the Federal Reserve banks and the United States Treasury under powers delegated to them by Congress.

Federal Reserve banks issue Federal Reserve notes which are our most common type of currency.

The Treasury issues silver certificates, silver dollars, subsidiary silver coin, minor coin, and United States notes, most of which is placed in circulation through the Federal Reserve banks.

All U. S. paper currency is printed at the Bureau of Engraving and Printing in Washington, D. C. and all U. S. coins are made at the Philadelphia, Denver, and San Francisco mints.

...BUT WHY COURT-MARTIAL THE WHOLE REGIMENT?

There are bound to be one or two bad soldiers in every regiment. But why court-martial the whole regiment?

The same applies to beer retailing. Out of hundreds of thousands of wholesome, law-abiding beer retailers, there is bound to be a small minority who disobey the law or permit anti-social conditions.

To protect your right to drink good beer, the Brewing Industry wants even this small minority of undesirable retailers eliminated entirely. Beer is a refreshing, appetizing beverage — the beverage of moderation. We want every beer retail establishment to be as wholesome as beer itself.

To that end, we have instituted a "clean-up or close-up" program — now in operation in some states and being extended to others. We'd like to tell you about it in an interesting free booklet.

"THE MIRAGE"

HUNTING SEASON OPENS OCTOBER 1

MAY KILL WILDFOWL, BIRDS IN UPPER PENINSULA

Sixty-Day Season This Year for Duck Hunters; Few Minor Changes in Small Game Laws

With opening of the fall hunting season in Michigan two weeks away small game hunters are beginning to turn from fishing to think in terms of pheasants, grouse, rabbits and wildfowl. And the prospects are, when the sun rises on the morning of Tuesday, October 1, sportsmen will start what is predicted as one of the best hunting seasons they have experienced in lute years.

Wildfowl, of course, come first, and this means ducks, geese, brant, coots, jacksnipes, ralls and gallinules. And instead of 45 continuous days of shooting, as was the case last year, hunters have been granted a full 60 days, running from October 1 through November 29, which includes eight full week ends.

Woodcock Hunting

Woodcock hunting is further restricted this year and our State Conservation Commission has no alternative other than to conform with the seasons set by the Federal Government. This will allow hunting in the upper peninsula from October 1 thru October 15 and in lower Michigan from October 15 through Octnber 29. The daily limit remains at four.

Don't forget the goose limit is now only three in one day instead of four and that woodducks, swans and Ross geese are still protected and hunters are allowed to shoot only three in the aggregate of canvasbacks, redheads, ruddy ducks or buffleheads.

All hunters of migratory waterfowl must huy a $1 duck stamp at their local postoffices before they can hunt.

With the exception of a few minor changes small game hunting in upland covers remains the same as to seasons and bag limits as last year. The changes include a closed season for one year on sharp-tailed grouse on the Beaver Islands and the extension of the muskrat trapping season in the Mnnroe marshes to January 31.

There will be 22 days of shooting on pheasants, ruffed grouse, sharptails, prairie chickens and fox squirrels in lower Michigan, except chickens and sharptails are protected below Townline 16 North.

Rabbit Shooting

Both cottontails and jack rabbits can he hunted under the same regulations as last year. This gives the hunters four months in the upper peninsula, October 1 to March; three and one-half months in lower Michigan above Townline 16 North, October 15 to January 31 and in the southern part two and one-half months, from Octoher 15 to December 31.

The pheasant and grouse seuson runs from October 15 through November 5 in lower Michigan but there is no pheasant hunting in the upper peninsula.

FREIGHTER DAMAGES LOWER WATER MAIN

Temporary Service to North Side Since Incident Sunday

Water service to the north section of the city is being maintained with two 2½-inch sections of fire hose following damage to the 10-inch main under the lower channel between Round lake and Lake Michigan, Sunday afternoon.

The main was broken by the Str. Robert J. Paisley, owned by the Morrow Steamship Co., of Wilmington, Del., while negotiating the passage enroute to Boyne City with a load of coal. According to city officials who investigated when the vessel docked at Boyne Cily, the ship was drawing 18 feet forward and 19 feet aft. The officially recognized channel depth is 18 feet.

The break, causing a 45 minute interruption in service while hose lines were connected, is the second damage to water mnins in little over a year. The upper channel main, broken last August by the dredge Meade, is still unrepaired. City officials have been awaiting receipt of a $3,100 damage claim awarded by the war department before awarding contract for repairs.

New kind of champion is Glenn R. Merithew, 16, about to give Edsel Ford a driving demonstration. Glenn won first place as Michigan's outstanding careful motorist in the Ford Good Drivers Lengue contest for boys of high school age. He is studying commercial art in Cass Technical High School, Detroit. His home is at 2476 Waverly Ave., Detroit. His father, Jerry Merithew, is an insurance inspector. Glenn, one of 6,000 Michigan contestants in the nation-wide trials, is a better-than-average tennis player. He learned to drive 15 months ago. Michigan's young champion will be taken to New York as a guest of the League, attend the Fair, be an honor guest at a banquet—and compete in the finals for the national championship, with a chance of winning one of a number of scholarships. Edsel Ford is president of the League

ST. MARY'S PARISH 50TH ANNIVERSARY

The chronicle of St. Mury's parish proper begins with the purchase of the present church property in 1889. Rev. Placidus Krekeler, O.F.M., with his committee, Messrs. M. Kehoe, William Woods and John Woods, collected sufficient funds to purchase an acre of ground. On August 25, 1890, under the new pastor, Fr. Bruno Torka, the corner stone of the new church was laid. The Most Reverend Henry Joseph Richter, Bishop of Grand Rapids, made his first visit to Charlevoix on that occasion. From 1890-93 services were held in Clarke's hall and the old town hall. In the spring of 1893 services were held in the new church once a month by Fr. Sabinus Mollitor, under whose direction it was completed. On May 31, 1894, the new church was blessed by Bishop Richter. This solemn and impressive occasion was witnessed by a large crowd and at that time 30 young people received the Sacrament of Confirmation.

In 1895 an addition to the church was built to serve as a vestry and temporary resident for the attending priest.

The first person baptised in the new church was Albert Durwood; the first funeral was that of a young man, Hugo Green; and the first marriage was that of John O'Niel and Sadie McDermott. There were 13 children in the first group to receive First Holy Communion. The first mission was held in 1890.

On August 29, 1896, lightning struck the church and caused considerable damage.

In 1900 an additional priest was given to the Petoskey Mission, leaving East Jordan and Charlevoix to the care of Fr. Alexander Dorenkemper, who had Mass here every other Sunday.

In 1902 the Catholic school was started and was completed in 1900. In that year it was opened with 65 students in six grades, with Sisters of Dominic in charge. During the ensuing years improvements were made and new furnishings provided for the church, sister's home and school.

One of the best remembered priests to care for St. Mary's was Fr. Ludger Wegemer, who was here from 1918-25. He was one of the ablest financiers the parish had, and during his stay here, funds for a Sisters home were raised and the home completed in 1925.

In 1929 the Franciscans completed 45 years of outstanding service of God for the salvation of souls in Charlevoix. Almighty God knows how difficult was their task and how nobly it was done.

The first resident pastor was Rev. R. E. Fitzpatrick, who remained two years. During his time here a beautiful new rectory was built on Garfield avenue. Fr. Edward F. Neubecker took charge of the parish in 1931. For 9 years he labored zealously to sanctify his people and to lift a burden from their shoulders. At the close of his stay in May, 1940, St. Mary's Parish was out of debt and greatly beautified for the Golden Jubilee.

Rev. John W. Collins took charge of the parish in July, 1940. He wrote the historical sketch from which this synopsis has been taken and hopes that the reading of it has been of interest to you.

32 Purebred Jerseys Shown at Northwest Michigan Jersey Parish Show Last Week

The Northwest Michigan Jersey Parish show was held at the Charlevoix County fair, East Jordan, last week with 32 animals shown by 13 different exhibitors. Each animal was purebred and was selected for type and quality.

The show was judged by Cyril Spike, manager of the Crovenworth Jersey Farm at Traverse City. H. E. Dennison, Jersey cattle field man, was also present and acted as superintendent of the exhibit. George Meggison, of Charlevoix county, had the largest number of animals in the exhibit and walked off with the most premium money. In this show each exhibitor won the same amount of money disregarding the placing, but of course the animal placed highest in each class received the blue ribbon which is greatly appreciated by the owner. The following exhibitors won first places in the various classes:

Bull, 3 years and over—Brown & Shepherd, Emmet county. Bull, 2 to 3 years—Charles Withers, Charlevoix county. Bull 18 months to 2 years—Lewis Fisher, Emmet county. Bull, 4 to 12 months—Harton Vance, Antrim county.

Cow, 5 years and over—H. Fielstra, Antrim county. Caw, 4 to 5 years—H. J. DeYoung, Antrim county. Cow, 3 to 4 years—George Meggison, Charlevoix county. Cow 2 to 3 years—George Meggison.

Heifer, 18 months to 2 years—Murilyn J. Brown, Emmet county. Heifer, 12 to 18 months—H. J. DeYoung. Heifer, 4 to 12 months—Kenneth Shepherd, Emmet county.

Get or Sire—George Meggison.

Produce of Dam—H. J. DeYoung.

County Herd—Charlevoix county.

4-H Club Exhibit at County Fair Attracted Much Attention Last Week

The 4-H club exhibits at the county fair again indicated the fine quality of work being accomplished by the young folks throughout the county. The display was most attractively arranged and received a great deal of attention. The display included clothing, handicraft, hot lunch, food preparation, garden, corn, beans, potatoes, poultry, sheep, and dairy exhibits.

Space does not permit giving the names of all top places so only the following first place winners are announced in the different classes:

Clothing: First year — Shirley Sinclair, East Jordan. Second year — Shirley Sinclair. Third Year — Betty Wolverton, Ellsworth. Fourth year — Bernice Olsen, East Jordan. Fifth year—Gladys Larsen, East Jordan. Sixth year — Margaret Strehl, East Jordan.

DISTRICT HEALTH UNIT

Measles Cases Rising; Safeguard Babies

Opening of school should cause parents to be on the watch for measles, which will strike Michigan with epidemic force during the coming winter, says the Michigan Department of Health. One case of measles may mean an exposure of all the children in a school room.

"The only outbreak of disease that we are able to predict is measles," says Dr. H. Allen Moyer, commissioner. "An outbreak is coming, such as we have every third year. Due to our warnings, more parents will obtain protection for young children after exposure to a case, for parents more generally understand that measles is a serious disease for babies and little children and one to be avoided or controlled."

In the last two measles epidemics, reported cases have been 80,000 compared with an off-year total of six or eight thousand cases. The monthly reports of measles are already higher than usual, but the peak is not expected until spring, when 25,000 or 30,000 cases may be reported a month.

If there is an exposure of susceptible child to a case of measles, an attack is almost sure to follow, but the family physician can give a treatment which will control the attack and make it mild. The child will recover in two or three days instead of two weeks, and there will be little or no fever. The controlled attack, however, will give the child lifelong immunity agains measles.

Babies and pre-school children are the ones who need the protection which the physician gives five or six days after the first exposure to measles, before symptoms develop.

"It's the six-year-old who usually brings measles into the home," says Dr. Moyer, "and the protective treatment is especially valuable in those homes which there are babies or young children who should have protection. Half of all measles and 90 per cent of the deaths occur in children under five."

MEATS IN LOCKER NEED GOOD CARE

It takes good management to use one of the cold storage lockers increasingly popular in Michigan. That deduction by staff members at Michigan State College coincides with experiments and research that is being conducted at the college to assist in the new development.

For Michigan now has or soon will have nearly 90 of these locker plants, ranging from units of 25 or 30 up to 600 and 700.

Research conducted by Leonard Blakeslee of the animal husbandry department of the college has led to these suggestions:

Rural patrons comprise approximately three-fourths of the locker systems in the state and the supplies these rural families are storing feature meat. Half a hog, half a veal calf or even a side of beef frequently goes into a locker.

Quality meat is essential, concludes Blakeslee. Clean butchering is necessary. Sharp freezing is next and good wrapping is one of the problems.

Wrapping should be with 40-pound paper, preferably waxed on one side. The waxed side is placed next to the meat. This reduces loss of moisture, lessens tearing and sticking of the paper to the meat and permits marking packages so that contents are known without unwrapping.

Temperatures of 15 degrees Fahrenheit or even lower seem to be best for storage after the sharp freeze. Pork should be used up within four to five months as the fat tends to become rancid in contrast to other meats. But even beef and veal usage is desirable, for greater turnover of the locker supply reduces the storage cost on each pound stored.

KEEP SICK CHILDREN HOME FROM SCHOOLS

Ask Parents Cooperate to Prevent Spread Communicable Disease

School bells calling a million Michigan children back to school this week also brought a request from the State Health Department for the cooperation of parents in protecting the health of school children.

Youngsters showing any of the early signs of illness should be kept at home and the family physician promptly called, declared Dr. H. Allen Moyer, state health commissioner. Contrary to the former policy of emphasizing 100 per cent attendance, school and health officials today realize that the health of the whole school popolation will be better protected if the sick child is kept at home.

Communicable diseases are most rapidly spread during the early stages before a medical diagnosis is obtained. For this reason youngsters should be isolated at home if they have the colds and fever which are frequently the beginning signs of many of the communicable diseases of childhood.

Dr. Moyer reported definite progress during the past year in the improvement of health instruction and health services in the schools. He attributed much of this improvement to the active leadership which is given to the school program by the State Department of Public Instruction.

EMMET COUNTY FAIR ATTRACTIONS ANNOUNCED

Standing on the front bumper of a stock automobile without any protection whatsoever, Earl Ducheny, the Canadian stunt star, will allow Nifty Farogo to drive him through a solid burning board wall at a mile a minute.

This is one of the twelve motor stunts which will be with Dick Rogers' All American Motor Maniacs when they show at the Emmet County Fair, Tuesday afternoon and night only September 17.

Jumping an automobile over six other automobiles is another of the thrillers in the show. Four feature clowns will keep the thousands of spectators laughing between the thrillers.

that of the manufacturer. If this cannot be done by parity prices, other means must be found—with the least possible regimentation of the farmer's affairs."

Would Not Pay for New Deal

In the calendar year 1938 the total income of all persons receiving $5,000 and over was $6,528,000,000. If all such income had been confiscated, it would have failed by one billion dollars to pay the Federal expenditures of 1938. It would not be sufficient by $2,600,000,000 to pay the Federal expenditures of 1939.

Did Not Work

That New Deal reciprocal trade agreements did not attract buyers is shown by the purchase, by countries with which these agreements were made, of meat products to the value of 17,644,000 pounds in 1935, before the agreements were made, and only 15,175,000 pounds in 1939, when all agreements were in effect.

TO UPHOLD AND DEFEND THE CONSTITUTION OF THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA

—From the Preamble to the Constitution of The American Legion

Membership in The American Legion is open to honorably discharged veterans of the World War. By associating in The American Legion, veterans can give meaning to their desire to support the first principle of the Preamble.

Because of our maturity and experience we realize what can happen in countries where the fundamental law of the land is overthrown by violence or circumvented by expediency. We know our National Constitution was produced by the supreme efforts of men inspired. It has been flexible enough to serve our people for 150 years and seems destined to serve our people as long as time endures.

The Constitution is our guarantee of liberty, freedom, and democracy. It is older than the fundamental law of any other modern nation. It has stood the test of time. We are proud as citizens and Legionnaires to reaffirm our allegiance to it every time we open a Legion meeting.

distinction of being a three-in-one professionally licensed physician, dentist and lawyer, all at the same time. His popular-price medical clinic at the automobile town in Wayne county is envied by rival practicioners for its profitable operation. And yet Dr. Keyes has never been a member of the state or county medical societies.

Because of the apparent cost of Keyes' primary campaign, more than one Lansing observer has wondered how it was being financed. From the friends of the Dearborn physician-dentist-lawyer comes the assurance that Dr. Keyes, a business success, has paid the bills himself. He made a vote appeal of the statement that he was independent of any group and hence was not pledged to factional commitments.

Among his opponents whose Lansing background include many years were the following: Felix H. H. Flynn, Cadillac, a state senator and president pro tem; Arthur Woods of Detroit, many-term state senator; Elton R. Eaton of Plymouth, a state representative, former sheriff of Kalamazoo county and also executive secretary to Governor Groesbeck; James Thomson of Jackson, past chairman of the Republican State Central committee and former commissioner of agriculture under Governor Fitzgerald.

True, Dr. Keyes was elected one year ago to the city council of Dearborn. But that is a long ways down the ladder from the office of lieutenant governor, glorified somewhat by the 1939 legislature which made it a $5,000-a-year job. The sudden death of Governor Fitzgerald had demonstrated the possibilities which this office offered, automatically elevating Luren D. Dickinson into the governor's chair. Because Mr. Dickinson is 81 years of age, it is inevitable that interest will center to a great degree on his running mate for lieutenant governor. This is not to allude that the governor isn't in the best of health; in fact, his physician pronounces him to be sound physically for the office's responsibilities. It is merely recognizing the fact thut life is more uncertain at 81 than it is at 42, the age of Dickinson's opponent, Murray D. VanWagoner.

A Primary Trait

If the nomination of lieutenant governor were to be made at a party convention, such as is the case for state treasurer, attorney general, secretary of state and auditor general, an independent candidate of the type of Dr. Keyes wouldn't have had the proverbial snowball's chance.

The organization custom is to recognize the loyal party worker whom the leaders feel can be trusted. Or perhaps the "powers that be" weigh the geographic, class and possibly religious factors at the ballot box and cut a deal which is henceforth relayed down to the rank and file. In the latter process the unknown may be given an opportunity, but it is usually for a reason known only to a select few.

But in the state primary the dark-horse is the equal of the favorite.

At least, his chances of winning are as good as his rivals'.

"Keyes for good government," emblazoned on a myriad of newspaper advertisements, billboards and direct mailing pieces, did what no party convention would have done for the Dearborn newcomer. The boys at Lansing are still scratching their heads and wondering how it could have happened!

One answer is: It could take place only in a primary election.

And so, if you aspire for state office, take comfort. If you deplore the breakdown of party organization and party responsibilities, read the news and weep.

Van Wagoner

No one doubted for a minute that the Democratic primary would produce any other nominee for governor than Murray D. Van Wagoner.

In party circles his nomination was conceded six months ago.

In fact, the Van Wagoner band wagon was being oiled up since spring thaws in anticipation of a fall race with Dickinson. G. Don Kennedy, his campaign manager, who resigned as deputy highway commissioner because of the Hatch act, indicated weeks ago that the contest against Dickinson would be fought cleanly on issues arising from the Republican administration's record.

To those who have observed the efficient functioning of the highway department, as nearly every state legislator will readily concede, the Democratic state campaign is expected to follow the established Van Wagoner lines of intense organization.

Charles Porritt, Van Wagoner's choice for state chairman, has a headquarters staff that even includes a publicity writer (something that the Republican staff does not have at present). Regardless of your party inclination, put it down in the hooks that the Democratic campaign will be waged vigorously. And that deslte the following observation made by the Associated Press bureau at Lansing:

"Political observers who scanned the returns for a straw to show which way the wind may blow in November found little that was conclusive save that the outstate, traditionally Republican save for its bolt to Roosevelt and the New Deal, again appeared to be safely within the G. O. P. fold."

Van Wagoner's aids would probably challenge this. They would merely recall that Michigan Republicans outvoted the Democrats two to one in the 1936 primary. After all, the chickens won't be hatched until November!

What's In a Name?

Another primary characteristic is seen in the Democratic nomination of Frank Fitzgerald and Frank Murphy for the office of United States senator and lieutenant governor, respectively.

Both men possess names famous in Michigan.

The Detroit Free Press comments: "A young lawyer by the name of Frank Fitzgerald, who has never been prominent in politics, walks away with the Democratic nomination for United States senator because of the similarity of his cognomen with that of the late Governor. And a Frank Murphy easily wins the nomination for lieutenant governor."

Recalling the faet that Franklin D. Roosevelt was aided at the beginning of his career by the magic name of Roosevelt, observers note that history is repeating itself in the rise of the new Fitzgerald and Murphy. Each is 43 years of age.

Will the magic of Fitzgerald and Murphy attract voters to the Democratic ticket in November? On the basis of the primary vote, such appears to be quite possible.

In the coming weeks the personal popularity of Dickinson and Van Wagoner, each one a powerful leader in his own party, will be put to a new test. We make no prediction other than this: The campaign will be colorful and interesting.

Why women will do things men won't. Dr. Donald A. Laird, internationally known American psychologist, analyzes the urge of some women to show off in useless and silly contests that men fight shy of, but promote. Read this amusing but sound explanation in The American Weekly, the magazine distributed with next week's Sunday Chicago Herald-American.

from Grand Rapids last Sunday with promises of the best fishing in recent years. We trolled 11 hours without a "hit" and I'm sure "in the dog house" with those boys. I blamed the weather and that excuse will have to stand until someone comes along with a better one.

They tell me Louie O'Neil and Ray Ashdon are plotting against the buck deer on Beaver Island and are making elaborate preparations for the approaching season. It may be their suspicious nature, but some of the postoffice "gang" are making sly remarks about the Ford Model A that Louie and Ray have bought to take with them, suggesting, of all things, that both will come back with a buck, but not the car.

An article elsewhere in this issue details plans of the board of trustees of Charlevoix Hospital to provide a memorial to the late Dr. R. B. Armstrong. Purchase of a modern x-ray machine is contemplated. To make such a worthy enterprise possible, Charlevoix's three summer resident groups — Belvedere Club, Chicago Club and North Side Association—have pledged $3,000 which they ask be matched by $1,500 in contributions from local residents. In addition to the $3,000 pledged for the Armstrong Memorial Fund, these summer resident groups have this year contributed $750 each, or a total of $2,250 to the hospital general operating fund. Thus fulfillment of the Armstrong Memorial plan, contemplated since the passing of probably the most beloved of our residents, is placed squarely up to local citizens. Don Campbell is chairman of the memorial fund committee. Contributions may also be turned over to any member of the hospital board of trustees.

Ideologies—

Here are a few examples of political and economic set-ups, expressed, to our way of thinking, quite clearly.

Socialism: You have two cows—you give one to your neighbor.

Communism: You have two cows—you give both to the government.

Fascism: You have two cows—you keep the cows, give the government the milk. The government sells part of the milk back to you.

Naziism: You have two cows—government shoots you, takes both cows.

New Deal: You have two cows—government shoots one cow, milks the other cow and pours the milk down a sewer.

Capitalism: You have two cows—you sell one and buy a bull.

Democracy: You have two cows, one of them gets sick; the bank rings up every fifteen minutes to see how it is—no foolin'. One cow dies, the bank seizes the other one, then asks you to send up the milk can, the churn, and if it does not smell too bad, the manure. In the meantime you go on relief.—The B & T Spokesman.

P. D. Campbell has been appointed chairman of the fund raising committee to raise $1500.00. Some generous donations will be necessary and appreciated. No donations will be too small. You can take them, or send them, to Mr. Campbell, or to any one of the Hospital Board members. We want this to be a community-wide expression of its people's loyalty and appreciation of our loved and honored Dr. Armstrong.

AAA OFFICERS NAMED AT ANNUAL MEETING

Walter Henley Re-Elected Chairman for Ensuing Year

The Charlevoix County Agricultural Conservation Committee for 1941 was elected last Saturday at a convention in Boyne City by delegates from all townships in the county.

Walter H. Henley, of Charlevoix, was re-elected chairman. John B. Taylor, of Boyne City, was elected as vice-chairman, and Lee E. Sneathen, Charlevoix, was elected as third member. Walter A. Goebel, of East Jordan, and Clyde Clute, of Boyne City, were chosen as alternates. The 1941 term of office began immediately upon election of the members to office.

Norrine L. Porter, of Boyne City, was re-appointed secretary-treasurer by the committee at the conclusion of the election.

Delegates taking part in the county convention were chosen at community elections on Friday. At these elections, community Triple A committees were chosen. The following community committeemen were elected:

Bay township—Chairman, John B. Taylor; vice-chairman, Carl Prohaska; third member, Paul Skornia; alternates: Tom Willis, Albert Skornia.

Boyne Valley, Chandler, and Hudson townships—Chairman, Peter D. Dobiniak; vice-chairman, Carl Clark; third member, Harry DeNise; alternates: Mike Sevenski and Lewis Magee.

Evangeline and Melrose townships—Chairman, Clyde Clute; vice-chairman, Melvin Somerville; third member, James Habasko; alternates: L. J. Fingout and Robert Tainter.

Eveline township—Chairman, Geo. C. Ferris; vice-chairman, Fred Crowell; third member, William Gaunt; alternates: Stanley Houghton and Amos Nasson.

Charlevoix and Hayes townships—Chairman, Lee Sneathen; vice-chairman, William Hair; third member, James O'Brien; alternates: Alfred Allison and David Smith.

Marion and Norwood townships—Chairman, Edwin A. Gregory, vice-chairman, Carlton Smith; third member, William Parsons; alternates: Frank Matchett and Wilbur Himebaugh.

Wilson township — Chairman, Claude Pearsall; vice - chairman, Ralph Lenoskey; third member, Dick Simmons; alternates, Carl Knop and Al Kerchner.

Beaver Island — Chairman, Frank D. O'Donnell; vice-chairman, William Schmidt; third member, Dan Greene; alternates: William Ricksgers and Dave Wilson.

South Arm township — Chairman, George Nelson; vice-chairman, Ira F. Lee; third member, Lawrence Addis; alternates: Ole Omland and Fred Alm.

The community and county committeemen were selected by farmers in the townships and county to cooperate with and assist the secretary of agriculture in the administration of the national farm program during the coming year.

Honored at Party

Mrs. Franklin Curtis (Ruth Ann Bedford) was guest of honor at a bridal shower given Thursday evening by Mrs. Helen Mary Lancto and Miss Genevieve Supernaw, at the Allen Campbell home. The thirty-two guests present played games, for which prizes were won by Mrs. Leroy Zelley, Mrs. Irving Racingnol, Mrs. Henry Buddy, and Mrs. John Cross. Lunch was served by the hostesses. Mrs. Curtis received a number of lovely and practical gifts.

To tell her she walks like an elephant is the greatest compliment you can pay a woman in India. The pachyderm's carriage is thought to indicate majesty and grace.

Appreciation

I am truly thankful for the support given me at the Primary, and will appreciate the continued support of the voters at the November Election for my re-election as Judge of Probate. Sincerely, Ervan A. Ruegsegger.—Adv. 38t1.

TEMPERANCE UNION PASSES RESOLUTIONS

Protection Citizens, Soldiers from Liquor Evil is Pledged

At the three-day convention of the Michigan Woman's Christian Temperance Union, held at Sault Ste. Marie, September 11-13, two resolutions of importance were adopted.

Text of the resolutions follows:

"Whereas, world conditions today challenge the United States to a defensive program, be it resolved that the Michigan Woman's Christian Temperance Union in annual convention assembled, urge the citizens of this state to include in all defense measures the protection of civilians and soldiers, whether enlisted or conscripted, from the ravages of alcohol.

"Be it further resolved that we reaffirm our faith in the value of total abstinence for all and pledge ourselves anew to the promotion of the basic principles of our organization."

MARY BREWSTER HARVEST DINNER DATE ANNOUNCED

Colonial Traditions to Be Carried Out at Annual Affair

Foster. He will leave in six weeks to complete his training at the Naval Training School at Pensacola, Fla.

AT THE MOVIES

"Boom Town" Coming to Palace

Revealing the entire story of the thrilling drama of oil for the first time, with a story that is entirely one of action and with a star group that includes Clark Gable, Spencer Tracy, Claudette Colbert and Hedy Lamarr, "Boom Town" will open at the Palace Theatre next Saturday, September 21 for an engagement of three days.

"Boom Town" is a cavalcade of oildom as "Test Pilot" covered the dramatic story of testing thrills in the skies. It is a dramatic story of two friends who carry on through reversals and successes even when one marries the sweetheart of the other.

"The Man I Married" Hailed in Advance

Joan Bennett, Francis Lederer, Lloyd Nolan and Anna Sten have the starring roles in the new 20th Century-Fox film, "The Man I Married," coming to the Palace Theatre on September 24-25. Advance reports herald the picture as surprising dramatic entertainment.

Revealing the amazing experiences of a beautiful girl with the husband she thought she knew, "The Man I Married" is a new and different kind of picture. Joan Bennett plays the wife of Francis Lederer, while Lloyd Nolan is an American correspondent. Anna Sten has a highly dramatic role worthy of her talent.

Others prominently featured in the strong cast of "The Man I Married" are Otto Kruger, Maria Ouspenskaya, Ludwig Stossel and Johnny Russell.

"Lady" is Tops in Romance

Love makes the world go 'round, and romance is not dead. That, obviously, was the message to be found in Columbia's delightful new comedy romance, "The Lady in Question," which stars Brian Aherne and Rita Hayworth at the Palace Theatre September 26-27. The season's most delightful adventure of the heart, a rich and rewarding experience for all incurable romantics, as well as all motion picture fans who want entertainment which evokes a blissful good humor.

To the Electors . . .

Sincere appreciation of your support at the Primary Election.

METHODIST WOMEN FORM SERVICE CLUB

ORGANIZATION MEETING HELD LAST THURSDAY

Mrs. Frank F. Bird Chosen President of Organization Composed of Church Women's Groups

Women of the Methodist church met at the church last Thursday afternoon to organize the new Woman's Society of Christian Service. Forty women were present, representing the Ladies' Aid, Literary Club and Missionary Society.

Officers elected were: president, Mrs. Frank Bird; vice-president, Mrs. A. C. Belding; recording secretary, Mrs. Clayton Trimble; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Arthur Edwards; treasurer, Mrs. LaVern McGhan; assistant treasurer, Mrs. Joe Williams; secretaries of missionary education, Mrs. Ernest Howe and Mrs. A. C. Hansen; secretaries of social relations and local church activities, Mrs. Lephia Hammond and Mrs. Clarence Withers; secretary of literature and publications, Mrs. Harrison Trimble; secretary of supplies, Mrs. M. B. Hooker; secretary of student work, Miss Susannah Metcalf; finance committee consists of the president, treasurer, assistant treasurer, and Mrs. Adah Beeman and Mrs. M. B. Hooker.

The membership roll was signed by nearly everyone present, in an impressive enrollment ceremony. After the "Charge to the New Society" was given by the new president, Mrs. Bird, greetings were brought to the assembly by Mrs. Raymond Wade, of Detroit, wife of the bishop of this area.

After the meeting a social hour was held in honor of the guest of the afternoon, Mrs. Wade.

This new society combines the work of the various women's organizations of the church, affording a fine opportunity for service to the community. It is one of many such organizations formed by Methodist women since the uniting of the Methodist Episcopal Church South, the Methodist Protestant Church, and the Methodist Episcopal Church.

The Ladies' Aid, Literary Club, and Missionary Society are being disbanded in meetings this week.

TEMPERANCE UNION OFFICERS ELECTED FOR YEAR

Mrs. Floyd W. Ikens Chosen President at Meeting Friday

W. C. T. U. members met Friday afternoon with Mrs. Ernest Howe, for election of officers and reports of recent conventions.

Officers elected were: President, Mrs. Floyd Ikens; vice-president, Mrs. Trina Nelson; corresponding secretary, Mrs. A. J. Usher; recording secretary, Mrs. George Burns; treasurer, Mrs. Brayton Saltonstall.

Mrs. R. C. Molet and Mrs. Nelson reported the district convention held at Gaylord on September 8th and 9th. Mrs. George Burns reported the state convention, held at Sault Ste. Marie, September 11-13. Mrs. Lota Coulter, Mrs. Molet, and Mrs. Pearl Webb had also attended the state convention.

The October meeting will be a tea, to which the public school teachers will be invited.

Legion Auxiliary Meeting

A meeting of the American Legion Auxiliary will be held Monday evening, September 30, with Mrs. Eva McGhan, 810 Bridge street. All members are urged to be present.

DUCK SEASON OPENS AT DAWN ON OCTOBER 1ST

Plentiful Rains, Good Breeding Season Promise Heavy Kill

Blasts from shotguns of tens of thousands of hunters on Michigan marshes at dawn next Tuesday will announce the opening of a 60-day season on waterfowl. Sportsmen are reading in the 15-day extension of the season by federal authorities and in the heavy rainfall of recent weeks which has refilled ponds and potholes, the promise of an abundance of ducks and good local shooting.

October 1 also marks the beginning of the season on shorebirds—coot, jacksnipe, rails and gallinules. For the upper peninsula it is the first day, also, of the small game season, allowing the first shooting of partridge, prairie chicken, sharptails, rabbits and snowshoe hares. Early estimates of the season's crop of grouse by men of the conservation department's game division and conservation officers have been optimistic.

The open season on pheasants and other small game in lower Michigan begins two weeks later, on October 15th.

US-31 IMPROVEMENT PROJECTS LISTED

PLACED ON PRIORITY LIST OF NEXT TWO YEARS

Three Bridges, 58 Miles Improvement, Include Charlevoix Bridge and Route to Bay Shore

Improvement of 58 miles of US-31 at a total cost of $4,250,000 and including three new bridges is on the state highway department priority schedule for the next two years, State Highway Commissioner Murray D. Van Wagoner revealed today.

"It is not at all likely that anywhere near that amount of money will be available for this highway, however," he cautioned.

"We have had only about $8,000,000 a year for construction along the entire state and federal trunkline system. Spending over half of it on one road, no matter how important, could not be justified in view of equally pressing needs in other parts of Michigan."

Following the scenic Lake Michigan shoreline from Mackinaw City to the Indiana border, US-31 is the shortest route from Chicago to the Straits and is on the War Department list of roads having military value, Van Wagoner added.

"Because of this fact, we are hopeful that part of the $200,000,000 special military highway fund which Congress is expected to appropriate soon can be obtained for US-31," he declared.

PIONEER AUTO BODY HAS NEW EQUIPMENT

Third Welding Unit Makes Shop Best Equipped in North

Installation of a new spot welding machine has added greatly to the welding service provided by the Pioneer Auto Body, owned and operated by Earl W. Miller.

The new equipment is used primarily in welding turret tops and door panels on all-steel bodied cars. In addition to the new equipment, Mr. Miller has a portable gas-driven welding machine and a small A-C machine for light arch welding.

Addition of the new machine makes the local concern one of the most completely equipped for welding work in this region.

RUSSIAN REFUGEE IS TO BE LOCATED HERE

Details for Removal from New York Completed Tuesday Night

The local European refugee committee has made contact with a refugee, and voted at their meeting Tuesday night to telegraph him to come to Charlevoix.

Committees appointed to make arrangements for receiving and establishing him in this community were: employment, O. P. North; housing, M. A. Levinson; social adjustment, Rev. John W. Alexander. City officials and organizations already contacted have responded generously to this cause.

Mr. Blinoff, the refugee, is a Russian. Forced to leave Russia at the time of the Communist revolution in 1917, he lived in France until September, 1939. At the outbreak of the present war, aliens became unwelcome in France, and he came to New York City. His wife is still in France, and efforts are being made for her to join him here. Mr. Blinoff is a violinist by profession, and both he and his wife are well educated. In Russia, he was a member of the Greek Orthodox Church, at that time the state religion of Russia.

The American Committee for Christian Refugees, Inc., in New York City, which has been active in re-settling refugees in America, will pay his fare to Charlevoix. If at the end of six months the family is not well-established and self-supporting, this organization will re-locate them in another city.

Mr. Blinoff is expected to arrive shortly after October 1st.

DEMOCRATIC COUNTY COMMITTEE ORGANIZED

Alonzo Powers, Charlevoix, Named Chairman Here Friday

Organization of the Democratic county committee was completed and delegates chosen for the state convention at a meeting held Friday evening at the city hall here.

Alonzo Powers was chosen to succeed himself as chairman, and Mrs. Clarence Bierlein, of Boyne City, was named secretary-treasurer. Vice-presidents chosen were Adolphus Allard, Charlevoix, and Vernon Lafreniere, St. James. District chairmen named were Harold Saffron, Boyne City; Calvin Bennett, East Jordan; Floyd Hausler, Boyne Falls.

James Wyers and Dan McCann, Charlevoix, Pat Lafreniere, St. James, and Mrs. E. Dean, Boyne City, were chosen delegates to the state convention held Monday and Tuesday at Grand Rapids.

INTENSIFY ACTIVITIES NATION'S BOY SCOUTS

Scenic Trails Council Troops Will Participate in Program

The Scenic Trails Council, Boy Scouts of America, has announced an intensified program of Scouting for all the troops in the area, in connection with the national program of the Boy Scout organization.

The program as established by the Boy Scouts of America is known as "Be Prepared" which is a program of action by the Boy Scouts of America for strengthening and invigorating democracy. Scout troops throughout the nation are taking part in this activity.

Report 30,000 Aliens Registered

The alien registration division of the Department of Justice reports that approximately 30,000 of Michigan's estimated 300,000 aliens—about one of every 10—had been registered and fingerprinted by postmasters throughout the state.

GREAT LAKES CLOSED SEASONS ARE LISTED

Lake Trout Ban in Lake Michigan Begins on October 10th

Continuing the policy of recent years no permits will be issued to commercial fishermen to fish for spawn in the closed seasons on lake trout, whitefish and chubs beginning October 1, the fish and field administration divisions of the conservation department disclosed today.

Closed seasons to protect spawning fish this year are: for lake trout (including siscowet)—Lake Huron October 1 to 31, Lake Superior October 10 to November 4, and Lake Michigan October 10 to November 10; for whitefish—Lake Huron November 1 to December 1, Lake Superior November 1 to 26, Lake Michigan November 5 to December 10, and Lake Erie November 5 to December 10; for chubs—October 15 to November 20 on Lakes Huron, Superior and Michigan. All dates are inclusive.

In certain localities it is expected some trout eggs may be taken after the season reopens. The Thompson, Harrietta and Oden hatcheries will handle eggs taken on Lake Michigan. Harrisville hatchery will handle trout eggs taken on Lake Huron, to the limit of capacity, while eggs taken on Lake Superior will be turned over to the U. S. Fish and Wildlife station at Duluth.

Where the number of eggs available does not warrant shipping, fishermen are requested to impregnate them properly and plant them back on the spawning grounds.

VAN WAGONER TO ADDRESS DEM. CO. RALLY

Appears Friday Afternoon at Community Room in City Hall

Murray D. Van Wagoner, state highway commission and Democratic nominee for governor, will address a Charlevoix county Democratic rally scheduled for 3:30 o'clock Friday afternoon, September 27, at the community room in the city hall.

The meeting, announced by Alonzo Powers, Democratic county chairman, is one of a northern Michigan speaking tour opening Van Wagoner's campaign for the governorship. He will address an Emmet county rally at Petoskey the same evening.

It is expected that on the program there will also be several other Democratic nominees selected Monday and Tuesday at the state convention in Grand Rapids.

BISHOP RAYMOND WADE TO SPEAK HERE SUNDAY

Address on Foreign Countries to be Given at Methodist Church

Bishop Raymond Wade, of Detroit, will speak at the Methodist church next Sunday evening at 8:00 o'clock.

For many years he has been bishop of the area which includes Finland and Norway, and is well-informed on present conditions in those countries. Appointed as bishop of the Detroit area last spring, he and Mrs. Wade have been at Bay View this summer. During this time, they have spent considerable time visiting the various churches in northern Michigan.

Everyone is invited to be present at the meeting and hear his lecture.

GARDEN CLUB MEMBERS TO MAKE TRAVERSE CITY TRIP

Charlevoix Garden Club members will go to Traverse City again next Tuesday, to pay another visit to "The Timbers," the Long lake estate of Mrs. J. Ogden Armour. The ladies are to meet at 10:00 a. m. at the home of Mrs. Glenn See.

POSTOFFICE RECEIVES FEDERAL DUCK STAMPS

Postoffice Only Place Where Hunters May Procure Them

Postmaster J. M. Foster has announced that this year's quota of federal duck stamps has been received at the local post office preparatory to opening of the duck and geese hunting season October 1.

The stamps, which cost $1 each, must be secured in addition to the regular small game hunting license. Only place in which duck stamps may be purchased is at the post office, and hunters are warned that they must have a federal stamp when hunting waterfowl or they will be subject to arrest and prosecution.

HARRY BOAK IS ACQUITTED OF MANSLAUGHTER CHARGE

Harry Boak, local Indian, was acquitted on a charge of manslaughter by a jury in Emmet county circuit court last Tuesday.

The case developed from the death of Walter Tate, of Grand Rapids, railroad employe, who died after a fight in which Boak participated. Rollie L. Lewis, this city, was Boak's attorney.

FOREIGN WAR VETS WILL HOLD RALLY

NINTH DISTRICT MEETING HERE THURSDAY NIGHT

Banquet at I. O. O. F. Hall, Session at City Hall Community Room Listed on Program

Veterans of Foreign Wars of the 9th district, comprising territory from Cadillac north to the Straits, will gather here Thursday evening, September 26th, for a district rally.

It is expected around 100 members of district Posts, together with department officers and department officers of the Ladies' Auxiliary will be present.

A banquet will be served by ladies of the Rebekah lodge at the I.O.O.F. hall, preceding a business meeting to be held in the community room at the city hall.

The program includes drill work by the Ludington team, Michigan champions. Among distinguished guests will be Department Commander Otto A. Silvers, of Detroit; Senior Vice-Commander A. C. Britton, of Benton Harbor; Junior Vice-Commander Mann, of Detroit; Department Adjutant Thomas, of Detroit; Department Inspector Rothwell, Detroit.

Oscar P. North, superintendent of schools and member of the Charlevoix Post, will act as toastmaster. City officials will be present at the meeting, extending welcome to the visiting delegates.

BELLAIRE POWER LINE DAMAGED BY LIGHTNING

Service Temporarily Disrupted by Electric Storm Saturday.

Electric service provided by the Bellaire hydro plant over the Bellaire-Charlevoix transmission line has been temporarily disrupted by damage caused from lightning.

Twenty-one poles were put out of commission, several being completely destroyed, when struck by lightning in a severe electric storm early Saturday morning.

The maintenance crew of the municipal utilities is repairing the damage this week.

FOOTBALL SEASON TO OPEN SATURDAY

RAYDERS BEGIN 6-GAME SCHEDULE AT MANCELONA

Light Squad to Take Field in Initial Contest; Tentative Line-up is Announced

Charlevoix high school's Red Rayders will inaugurate the 1940 football season Saturday at Mancelona in the opening contest of a 6-game schedule.

With two weeks of practice behind them, little indication of the strength of the squad is apparent. Six veterans from last year's team, and several who saw action in games during the 1939 season, will appear in the starting line-up.

A fairly heavy backfield has three veterans. They are Clare Martin, at halfback, Don Carey at quarterback, and Ernie Nowland at full. Jack Stewart, Leslie Shapton, Bill Rowe, James McDonald, Keith Ager and Lester Gallagher are available to fill the fourth position and no doubt all will see backfield service.

The line, considerably lighter than the average for recent years, has the veteran Bud Kohler at center. Carl Rowe, Jerry Novotny and Jim Martin, all either regulars or subs from last year, together with Jim Foster, a new-comer, are being groomed for end positions. Slated for tackle positions are Don Meggison, Jack Shockley and Sam Alexander, while guard duties will be divided between John Swanson, John Bissell, Elmer Poole and Cappy Hooker.

Charlevoix's schedule is confined to schools which are members of the Tip of Michigan class C conference. Three games are slated at home and as many away. The five contests following the Mancelona tilt Saturday are as follows:

Oct. 5—Boyne City there.
Oct. 12—Onaway here.
Oct. 19—East Jordan there.
Oct. 26—Harbor Springs here.
Nov. 2—Gaylord here.

BARNABY CHAMBERS VICTIM OF HEART ATTACK

Resident Here Past Twenty Years Succumbed Tuesday Afternoon

Burnaby J. Chambers, 62, a resident of Charlevoix the past 20 years, died of heart attack Tuesday afternoon. He had been in ill health for a considerable period.

Mr. Chambers was born June 9, 1878, at Mackinac Island. He married Mary M. Cleary on June 10, 1913, who preceded him in death. The couple came to Charlevoix about 20 years ago, Mr. Chambers following the plumbing trade.

Surviving are three sons, William and Barnaby Jr., of Detroit; Gerald, this city; a daughter, Mrs. Emerald LaBlunce, of Charlevoix; also a sister Mrs. Gertrude Stockwell, of Mackinac Island, and one grandchild.

Funeral services will be conducted at 9 o'clock Thursday morning from St. Anne's church, Mackinac Island. Burial will be at the Catholic cemetery at Mackinac Island.

BEAVER ISLAND GIVEN BROOK TROUT PLANTING

Over Thousand Legal Size Fish Released in Streams

More than 1,000 brook trout, ranging from 6 to 10 inches in length were taken to Beaver Island from the Oden fish hatchery and planted in nearby creeks. The fish, all in excellent condition, were carried on two trucks operated by members of the Beaver Island Gun Club.

The planting was the first of legal size brook trout ever made on Beaver Island. I. H. Bullis of the hatchery and Capt. C. J. Allers of the state patrol boat superintended the transfer and delivery.

Political fireworks will soon start popping.

With the Democratic ticket already completed and the Republican slate awaiting action at the Grand Rapids state convention, opening this Thursday, (Sept. 26), the campaign is expected to get under way vigorously.

Wendell Willkie, the Republican standard-bearer, invades Michigan on Monday (Sept. 30) for an address before the national convention of the Republican Women's clubs at Olympia in Detroit. And despite President Roosevelt's insistence that affairs of state will keep him from political engagements, Chairman Charles Porritt and his helpers haven't given up hope yet that the President may inspect Fort Wayne in Detroit or Silfridge Field at Mount Clemens on a national defense trip into the midlands.

MARRIED LIFE
A Picnic
"Let's jump into the car and go places," said Jack. So, quickly, I packed a picnic.
Luckily I'd just baked as a surprise. After a hike, Jack made for the lunch basket, hungrily . . .
"Say, these are the best sandwiches I ever tasted," he said. "This must be home-made bread!"
"Yes, darling, baked it myself. Occident flour makes wonderful bread, keeps it fresh longer, goes farther!"
Bake more appetizing breadstuffs. Taste show Occident keeps baking fresh much longer, contains more protein.

AT THE MOVIES

"Young People" Called "Rollicking Good Time"

"Mine are not the shapeliest legs in Hollywood, but they certainly carried me places."

And Charlotte Greenwood means it both literally and figuratively. Her latest picture is "Young People," the 20th Century-Fox offering opening September 28th at the Palace Theatre, in which she stars with Shirley Temple and Jack Oakie.

Screen Thrills Reach New High In Wanger Film

Breath-taking excitement, romance and drama, mystery and intrigue are unfolded in the thrill-packed story of Walter Wanger's "Foreign Correspondent," which was directed by Alfred Hitchcock with a prominent stellar cast and is slated for a gala premiere at the Palace Theatre on September 29th.

"Foreign Correspondent" has in its principal roles Joel McCrea, Laraine Day, Herbert Marshall, George Sanders, Robert Benchley, Albert Basserman, Edmund Gwenn, Harry Davenport and Edunrdo Ciannelli.

Lew Ayres in "The Golden Fleecing"

Machinations of racketeers are turned to hilarious use in the comical adventures of Lew Ayres among a group of the toughest denizens of a big city in "The Golden Fleecing," mirthful romance with Rita Johnson, showing at the Palace Theatre.

Rita Johnson plays the feminine lead. Others in the cast include Virginia Grey, Leon Errol, Nat Pendleton, Marc Lawrence, Richard Carle, George Lessey and Ralph Byrd.

Offering a powerfully dramatic triangle of the love of two sisters for the same man, "And One Was Beautiful" opens October 3rd at the Palace Theatre as a picture crammed with entertainment and boasting excellent performances on the part of Robert Cummings, Laraine Day, Jean Muir and Billie Burke. Based on Alice Duer Miller's novel, it tells the story of two sisters, one of them shielded by a man's admission of a crime; the other, knowing the truth, torn between love for the man and loyalty to her sister.

CORRESPONDENCE

Mrs. Vern Runberg left Wednesday for Bay City to visit her brother, Dr. C. J. McCann and family.

Farmers' potato fields have been hard hit by the blight, and it now appears as though most of the crops will be an entire failure. Wm. McLachlan nt Creswell has one of the best looking fields we have seen.

The men have been putting on the "blacktop" on this end of M-88 near Eastport, working east, and we expect to soon have a fine road to Mancelona. One half is put on at a time, so as not to interrupt traffic on the road.

Arthur Russell was at the Waring farm, Kewadin, to buy peaches this week and the DeWareers people last week. South Havens are being sold around here for $1 per bushel. There appears to be a plentiful supply this year.

Melvin Essenberg is laying the foundation this week for a new dwelling house at his service station nt Atwood. It will be about 20 by 30 feet, and is being built just back of his present residence. The Drenths are doing the work, we hear.

The sick: Ed. Yettaw is very much improved in health and nble to get around some; Zibe DeForest had a bad siege of the flu last week, but is now better; James Dawson has a very lame arm. A number of people have the flu. Chas. Morse has been enjoying it, too.

The death of Mrs. Nemec of Creswell occurred last Saturday morning. She had been a sufferer for about a year and a half. Funeral services were held from Dockery's funeral home at Elk Rapids last Monday afternoon. The family have the sympathy of many relatives and friends.

Mrs. Virginia Ohman Sommerville tells us of the bad accident that her mother, Mrs. Philip Ohman, had last week near Ludington, when Mrs. Ohman, Gladys and Rodney Ohman were in a collision with another car, run by a drunk driver. Rodney had a leg broken in several places, Gladys it was feared had internal injuries, as she was caught between the steering wheel and seat, and Mrs. Ohman was badly bruised. It is said the man is now in jail, but that doesn't help the injured. Of course it helps Roosevelt's plan of putting liquor back in sale, as there is some taxes for government expenses.

Maybe it's your wife who makes you sick. Maybe your midnight sneezing, or asthma, comes from your being "allergic" to her hair. So says science, which has discovered at last just what happens when you have "allergies," and has found some astonishing ways they make you miserable. Read this popular article by Robert D. Potter, Science Editor, in The American Weekly, the magazine distributed with next week's Sunday Herald-American.

, Mrs. Merl Gowman arrived Saturday to get her household goods as she is moving to Detrnit, where she will make her home.

Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence McDonough and Dave Pike mnde a motor trip to Grand Rapids last week to visit friends and relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. Ward Bennett arrived Saturday and are occupying their home on Lighthouse Point. Their many friends here are glad to welcome them back.

CENTRAL LAKE

The Heeres are putting up a new barn on the site of the one that burned down east of Atwood recently. A fine new silo has already been put up.

Jay Emory and family of Flint, have been visiting at the C. H. Morse home in Central Lake, and at the Emory home near Bellaire the past week, having a shnrt vacation.

REPUBLICANS IN CONGRESS AID DEFENSE

McNary and Martin Blocked Adjournment Effort Before Program Was Complete.

PREVENTED LONG DELAY

Two Leaders Paved Way for Needed Action Providing Arms.

New Deal efforts again to force an adjournment of Congress recall to mind that last June President Roosevelt brought pressure to send the national legislative body home. He declared he could see no good reason why Congress should not adjourn "except for the no doubt laudable purpose of making speeches."

This move was fought and blocked by House Republican Leader Joseph W. Martin, Jr., and Senate Leader Charles L. McNary, now the Republican nominee for Vice-President. With other Republicans in Congress they believed it was the duty of Congress to be on the job in such critieal times.

To the far-sighted statesmanship of these two Republican leaders now can go much of the credit for the legislation setting in motion the long delayed national defense machinery. Had Congress adjourned in June when Mr. Roosevelt wanted ta get rid of the legislators, there would have been a further delay of months in getting national defense preparations going and the country would be in a far more difficult situation.

For since that time Congress has enacted most of the legislation authorizing and appropriating money for the war ships, tanks, guns, and airplanes which Mr. Roosevelt now boasts are "on order." In addition Congress enacted the Conscription Act and the bill authorizing the President to mobilize the National Guard. It also passed the Alien Registration law and a bill taxing excess profits and liberalizing certain laws neccssary for the expansion of industry.

Martin and McNary remain opposed to the adjournment of Congress because they believe the legislators, under our system of representative, republican government, should stay on the job when there is business to be done. They do not believe in "one man government" here any more than they approve of it in Europe.

For instance, the two Republican leaders contend that Congress should complete passage by the Senate af legislation amending the National Labor Relations Act, already adopted by the House. This, they assert, would be a real contribution to economic recovery at home. The New Dealers, however, want to end the Congressional session in order to carry on their political campaigns. Their attitude is that recovery and national defense can wait until next year—and that is what they have been saying for seven years.

'NO WAR' IS WILLKIE PLEDGE TO NATION

Addressing an audience of his fellow townsmen at Rushville, Indiana, Wendell Willkie made the following unequivocal declaration:

"I shall never lead the United States into any European war.

"I believe completely that the United States should help Great Britain short of war, but when I aay short of war, I mean SHORT OF WAR."

Commenting on the charge of Henry A. Wallace that the Republican Party is "the party of appeasement," Mr. Willkie said:

"If appeasement means working out compromises with dictators; if Mr. Wallace intended to apply that to the Republican Party, he was 100 percent wrong, because if I am elected President of the United States there will be no appeasement with any dictator.

"But if Wallace meant to say the Republican Party is the party of peace, then he spoke the truth, because I shall never lead the United States into any European war."

WENDELL WILLKIE Says:

"The time has now come to reassert the principles of a limited federal government, because if this trend is not stopped the people will lose the powers that the Constitution gave them. They will lose them to an all-powerful central government."

The Federal Octapus.

"NO PASSING ZONE" ON SOME STATE HIGHWAYS

New Safety Measure to Augment Painted Yellow Lines

First application of a new series of "No passing zone" signs over an entire highway was completed this week by the state highway department.

State Highway Commissioner Murray D. Van Wagoner said that the new signs are placed at hills and curves and at other points where limited sight distance makes passing of a vehicle ahead a dangerous maneuver. The signs are placed in pairs; one indicating the beginning of a "No passing zone", and one indicating the end of the zone. The yellow lines on the pavement are continued but serve now as a supplement to the official sign designation.

Speaker Bankhead

Sunday morning, September 15, every member nf the house was stunned by the announcement that Speaker Bankheud had passed away. The Speaker was u friend of every member of the house. His was a noble character. Intensely partisan, nevertheless, William B. Bankhead, true to the traditions and precedents of the Speakership of the House of Representatives, gave to each member of the house—be he on the minority or majority side — every considerution and every right to which he was entitled. He was a great statesman und u real man. America has lost a true friend.

Congress Remains in Session

Early last June the normal work of Congress for the year was drawing to a close. Appropriations for the normal operation of the government to the tune of about 10 billions of dollars had passed both houses while the expectations for tax receipts with which to meet that enormous sum was about six billions. There was some concern over whether or not in this Congress, we would exceed the national statutory debt limit of 45 billions.

Despite the turn of events in Europe, the President—in a newspaper interview—stated that he saw no reason for the Congress to remain in session other than for "the laudable purpose of making speeches." Most members, and the public generally, felt thut the Congress should remain in session, ready to cope with any crisis that might evolve out nf the European situation. With the exception of a few recesses at the time of the two national conventions, and for one or twu other occasiosn—notably last week when the Speaker of the House passed away — the Congress has remained in session and most members have been very attentive to their duties here in Washington.

Since June, the Congress has appropriated, or authorized, the expenditure of roughly 15 billion dollars additional for natiunal defense. Most of this money has been appropriated with little or no debate. The country has demanded, and received, unity back of the President's defense program. It has been universally recognized that adequate defense costs money.

Now as this long session is drawing to a close, und as election time rolls around, many members are becoming jittery and in some instances are not staying very close to Washington. Most of those living along the Atlantic seaboard are back in their districts far more than they are in Washington. They are busy building their political fences. As u matter of fact, during the summer months when people are on vacation or out of doors a great deal, the office work drops considerably in most offices and requests from constituents for special services are at u minimum. Consequently, aside from important committee work, which a member might have, his presence is not constantly required in Washington, except when the house is in session and important legislation under consideration.

However, when the house is in session, the importance of a member's being present is often emphasized by peculiar conditions prevailing at the time. For instance, last week the house was in session but one day. Members had been told that nothing of importanse would come up; hence, but few members were in town. Then out of a clear sky, the house was asked to consider as an "emergency" piece of legislation an authorization for 350 million dollars with which to provide housing, sanitation and health facilities for the conscripts. No hearings whatsoever had been held on the bill, no adequate estimate had been drawn up by the army, no costs had been obtained and as a matter of fact the appropriations committee had not even held a meeting to consider this enormous expenditure. The bill was considered hy the house with but 40 minutes debate, allowed and passed by a voice vote.

Now, I consistently opposed peacetime conscription. I thought it totally unnecessary and unwise, and I still think so. However, the majority of the house and senate, having decided that it is necessary, I am of course willing to abide by that decision and above all realize that adequate housing facilities must he provided for these new troops. However, I do insist that when the house and senate had this bill under consideration for over two months, surely the war department had sufficient time to draft plans and specifications and to prepare and secure cost estimates on the housing facilities required, und it should have been properly submitted to the appropriations committee in time for them to give careful consideration to it before rushing it through the house as more "emergency" legislation.

In uddition to thnt, we now find that the President hns decided he requires another two billion dollars to cover the expense of drafting these new troops, and also the appropriations committee is considering an additional two billion dollars deficiency program to cover normal operating expenses of the government which have been over-expended as of this date, and a large item of which is the matter of relief funds. As happened in 1936 and again in 1938, relief funds are again being expended ahead of the schedule laid down by the Congress and hence a deficiency appropriation is in order.

Lastly, we learn that the President is now contemplating a 20 billion dollar spend-lend program, which we are told is for national defense. This is the old "Splend" program which we have previously defeated several times but which now comes before us again with the halo of national defense about its head, and its size tremendously increased. Where will it end?

DISTRICT HEALTH UNIT

A Serious Disease

More people suffer from gonorrhea than from any other dangerous disease. In some localities it is so common that no more is thought of it than of u common cold. Such a conclusion is far from the truth when one considers the thousands of people crippled each year because of this disease.

In Michigan gonorrhea is classified as one of the dangerous diseases, along with smallpox, poliomyelitis, diphtheria and others. As such it is subject to quarantine and isolation, when proper treatment is being avoided. By proper treatment is meant regular care by a physician and carrying out his instructions. Self treatment is worse than no treatment. Self treatment often leads to stopping of the discharges produced by the disease without killing the germs which cause them. Thus, the infection of the patient's own body may continue as well as the infection nf others, while he lives on in a false feeling of security.

Gonorrhea and syphilis are two different diseases; however they may both occur at the same time. One does not turn into the other. One attack of gonorrhea does not give any protection against another attack. Heavy lifting and straining do not cause gonorrhea, although they may prolong a case already started.

Gonorrhea is caused by a definite germ called "gonococcus" which can be plainly seen through a microscope. It is spread by direct contacts of germs from one person to another. Indirect infections are rare. This disease causes suffering, loss of working time, operations, sterility and blindness.

It can be cured through following competent medical care. Any suspicion that gonorrhea may be starting should be discussed without delay with a physician, for days of early treatment are far superior to weeks and months of later cure.

Largest white pine in Michigan is claimed by Luce county and is located near Betsy lake on the Grand Marais-Paradise road. Two men can't join hands around it.

TO MAINTAIN LAW AND ORDER

—From the Preamble to the Constitution of The American Legion

Members of The American Legion went to war to uphold law and order as a principle guiding nations. Today, their interest is intensified since they realize that devotion to law and order is vital to the maintenance of the rights of citizenship.

This does not imply that we are to attempt to take over the police duty in any community. To do so would violate the idealism of other portions of thia Preamble as well as rights of citizenship. It does mean, however, in clear-cut cases of necessity, such as disaster, or rehabilitation following disaster, that we should freely and willingly lend all possible assistance in caring for unfortunate victims. We should back up our law enforcement officers at all times in their just effort to enforce the law.

The Legion as an organization wisely sponsors strict neutrality concerning partisan politics, religion, and industrial strife. What one does in this regard as an individual is his own affair.

Land Planning Meetings Being Held With Granges

Satisfactory progress has been made in assembling data and statisties in connection with the County Land Planning Project. During the last two months no meetings have been held with farmers due to the exceedingly busy time of year. At the present time a series of meetings is being scheduled with the varioua grangea in the county to acquaint rural folks of the importance of land planning and to discuss the various features of Charlevoix county that pertain especially to its agricultural development.

Considerable information has been gathered in regard to the uses being made of the land at the present time, the assessment totals per section, and the latest classification of land types. In addition, W. S. Harrison, in charge of the County Land Planning Project, has accurate information relative to crop records, productivity indexes, and other factors that are corrolated with land types. All of the farm buildings in the county have been classified in regard to their general appearance and utility value. Of special interest is the new land type map that has just been completed. On thia map the many different soils have been grouped together so that there are only eight recognized groups which makes the map of far greater use and of greater value.

Last week Friday night Marion Center Grange met and discussed the information revealed by County Agent B. C. Mellencamp and Assistant Agent W. S. Harrison. Then on Saturday night a similar meeting was held at Rock Elm Grange with the same plan followed. In order to have proper representation on a county committee, each grange will select two members to act on a county committee when policies and decisions will be made in regard to agricultural development. You will he interested in attending your nearest meeting. Plans are also being made for the county-wide meeting around the first of Octoher when a progress report will be given to the county land planning committee.

Big County-Wide Dairy Day Being Planned for October 9th

Plans are rapidly going forward for a big dairy day to be held on October 9th. The big feature of the days activity will bo the displny of some 25 young hulls that have been recently purchnsed by dairymen to improve the production of their herds. Seven farmers have alrendy sent in requests for young sires which will be delivered and distributed on this day.

In addition, an effort is being made to contact eighteen other dairymen who have purchased young sires durling the winter and early spring. These young animals come from southern Michigan herds and have excellent records back of them and are eligible for registration. The two Smith-Hughes agricultural departments in East Jordan and Boyne City have actively conperated in purchasing these splendid young animals for farmers within their areas.

It is expected that one or two contests will be staged and that these young sires can he judged for type and quality. It is a well-known fact that the most efficient and inexpensive way to develop a highly productive herd is by using a sire of known production hack of him. In every case the dams of these young sires have produced 400 pounds of fat and over, which is a pretty good guarantee.

Further details concerning plans for this hig day will be announced next week but by all means mark the date of October 9th aa you certainly will want to see this exhibit of young purebred sires that will soon he making history.

Both state headquarters are officially optimistic, of course.

It's going to be a colorful party, if Mr. and Mrs. John Puhlic will only take their minds off the European tug-of-war. Therein is another story.

Anti-War Sentiment

Word from Washington's congressional row is to the effect that recent mail from the home precincts hns been running heavily anti-war.

To give you an idea how Michigan home folks feel about it, here is the roll call on the compulsory military service hill: Against it—Senators Arthur Vandenberg (R) and Prentiss Brown (D); Representatives Blackney, Bradley, Crawford, Hoffman, Jonkman, McLeod, Michener, Shafer, Wolcott and Woodruff (nll Republicans) and Democrats Dingell, Lesinski, Rahaut, and Tenerowicz.

Out of Michigan's delegation of 17 congressmen, three did not vote: Republicans Dondero and Engel and Democrat Hook. The score, in reality, was an overwhelming protest against conscription, like it or not.

It merely illustrates the observation, oft mnde, that congressmen nre responsive to the feelings nf the folks back home. In this case, the mail has been heavy anti-conscription and anti-war. An election is looming, too. Memory is also fresh that Senator Vandenberg, opposed to conscription, won a smashing primary victory.

Public Opinion

If the congressionnl vote and the mailhag trend is any accurate index of Michigan public opinion, the anti-war state of thought may have a hearing on the November election.

Both party nominees are busy trying to pin the appeasement label on the other, while both have also nnnounced in unmistaken words a pledge not to send American sons overseas again to fight on foreign soils.

Hadley Cantril, director of the Princeton Puhlic Opinion Research project, has been lahoring since the outhreak of the war on an intensive study of the American mind with respect to neutrality and war. Alded by a grant of funds from the Rockefeller Foundation, Dr. Cantril has come to some definite conclusions, as given in the current issue of Public Opinion Quarterly. As they have a relation to the Michigan senatorial and congressional attitude, we will review them briefly.

War's outbreak in September, 1939, found an overwhelming majority of American people utterly confident that England and France would win, as shown hy George Gallup polls at the time. By late summer, 1940, more people believed the Germans will win than those clinging to hopes of an ultimate Allied victory.

As of August 1, hopes were rising that the British, after all, might stave off immediate military defeat long enough to get an ultimate triumph due to their economic blockade. Yet, while a large majority of Americans want Washington to do more to assist the British, they also balk at anything that might embroil us in the conflict. Certainly, both nominees are pledged not to send the Yanks "over there," although it will be recalled that President Wilson was re-elected in 1916 on a record of keeping us out of war—and we went to war the very next spring.

Isolationists

Dr. Cantrill makes the observation that about one-quarter of our populatinn adhere to an isolation view "It is more important tn keep out of war than to help England."

Also, a majority of the isolationists believe that Germany will win the war. Of possible interest to our women readers is Dr. Cantril's observation that the Gallup polls show there are more women in this isolationist group than men; also more poor people than those who are well-to-dn.

The younger Americans tend to believe cynically that the war is largely a contest between the British and Germans over power and wealth rather than over democracy.

A second group is made up of the interventionists whn, as we enter the fall season, make up a good third of the country's population. These citizens favor conscription; they fear a German attack on this country. They feel we should go to the limit in helping beleagered England, even at the risk of involvement in the war ourselves.

This group comprises many people over 30 years of age in the upper and middle income groups; they take an educated long-range view, possess greater stability of opinion, and are fully aware of the economic consequences of war dislocation.

Sympathetic Group

A 40 per cent group (No. 3) is sympathetic with England, but agree with the isolationist group that it is more important to keep out of war than to aid England.

With regards to the pnssibility of a Germnn victory, the sympathetic group is about half-way between the isolationist and the interventionist segments.

At the present time, when new British pleas for military assistance are arrising at Washington, the nation finds itself in a contradictory state of public opinion: Aid England but keep out of war, first and last!

It is this maority viewpoint, as analyzed by Michigan congressmen whether in the senate or in the house, that was behind the almost solid anti-conscription vote last week.

KNOW ● YOUR BANK

How to Fill Out a Deposit Slip

1. Print your name at the top of the slip to safeguard your banking signature.
2. Write figures clearly.
3. List each check separately and opposite each amount write the transit number of the bank (which is found after the name of the bank on the check). This number identifies the bank on which the check is drawn and is useful in case of loss.
4. Be certain the totals are correct.
5. If you make a mistake destroy the slip.

Depositors should not request the teller to make out their deposit slips but should make them out themselves, first, for the protection of both the depositor and the bank in case of an error in the handling of the deposit, and second, to be fair to the other depositors waiting in line at the teller's window.

net result is that more ballots are spoiled, it takes more time to vote and longer to coool the ballots, not to mention the fact that printing separate ballots for each party and then stapliog them together costs the counties probably triple what the former primary ballots did. Then what a joke the non-partisan ballot is! It's really funoy this trying to kid ourselves ioto believing the puhlic doesn't know the party affiliation of candidates for judicial offices after their political careers have been an open book to all for years. And that set-up requires printing a separate ballot, too. The public was fooled into approving the non-partisan proposition as a Constitutional amendment. Several amendments will come up for vóte in November and our advise now is to vote "NO" on all of them.

According to a Conservation Department bulletin, only three other inland lakes in Michigan are larger in area than Lake Charlevoix. They are Houghtoo, covering 30.8 square miles, Torch with 28.5 square miles, and Bart with 27.8. Lake Charlevoix's given area is 26.7 square miles.

It appears two present state officials bowed out of the Michigan political picture when they gambled their positions in an unsuccessful attempt to wio the Republicao gubernatorial nomination from the aged Luren D. Dickinson. State Treasurer Miller Dunckel has formally announced he would oot be a candidate for re-nomination, and Governor Dickinson has publicly announced that while he would not oppose Attorney General Thomas Read, he did not expect Read to seek re-oomination. Dickinson's statement can only be construed as a polite way of letting Read know he is not waoted. Politics are that way!

Duck season is the next thing on the program for sportsmen and even if we dido't know the season opened next Tuesday, October 1, we'd surmise it was close at hand by the goings oo of "Bill" Fessenden aod Earl Miller, who right at the present time are busy making decoys and getting their equipment in shape. The upland game season in the upper peninsula opens October 1st, too, and probably the first Sunday will see the usual cootingent of local fellas heading across the straits. The lower peninsula season opens October 15 and just in case you're not right up to the minute on your dntes, the deer season is exactly 49 days away.

Men, women and kids are getting a great "kick" out of smelt fishing at night off docks on Round lake aod Lake Charlevoix. On some of the warmer nights last week, standing room was at a premium and it seems everybody was able to get a good catch. This sport will be one of the features of a pending Fall Fish Festival to be staged by the Charlevoix Sportsman's Club and board of commerce, probably the first or second week in October. They're waiting for the perch "run" to start in earoest before announcing the event. That shauldn't be long naw, for perch are biting, though not consistently yet. Steelhead ùshing, while a trifle spotty, isn't so bad, either. I never can pass up the opportunity to remark that it will be an agreeable surprise to down-state sportsmen to come north for smelt ùshing and really be able to get 'em.

If the conscription law which is now in effect carries on long enough, it will be one means of solving the unemployment problem, if nothing else.

BRADLEY ASKS SECOND LOCKS ON GREAT LAKES

Connected Lakes Superior and Michigan as Defense Measure

Through introduction of a bill asking for a survey of a canal praposed to connect Lakes Saperior and Michigan, Congressman Fred Bradley of the 11th District directs attention to the importance of the Soo Locks in the Nation's defense program. Through these locks come lake carriers bearing 86 per cent of all the iron ore essential to the operation of the steel mills which provide the material for the manufacture of guns, ships, trucks, tractors, tanks and everything else required by the modern mechanized army.

If through sabotage or by attack of an enemy nation the Soo Locks were put oat of operation, the manufacturing program would be delayed and handicapped.

National attention was directed in recent months to the need for a third set of locks at the Panama canal, and Congress readily granted the authorization for such construction. The expenditure was said to be justified as a defense measure.

The same justification might possibly be applied to a second or alternate roate for lake shipping between Lakes Superior and Michigan. Congressma Bradley believes the possibilities should be looked into at this time. The proposed route, running from Lake AuTrain west of Munising to the head of Little Bay de Noquet at the head of Lake Michigan, would not only provide an additional measure of safety, but also would shorten the distance for Lake Michigan traffic from Lake Superior by 360 miles. Army engineers, in an examination authorized by the August, 1935 River and Harbor Act, reported that the Au Train canal would cut the time of shipping between points on the two lakes by not less than 14 hours.

STATE DELEGATES NAMED BY COUNTY REPUBLICANS

Over Hundred Attended Enthusiastic Meeting Here Wednesday

With all of Charlevoix coaoty's 100 Republican delegates present either in person or by proxy, the Charlevoix County Republican committee chose delegates to the state convention at a meeting held last Wednesday evening at the Charlevoix city hall.

E. K. Reuling, of East Jordan, acted as chairman, and Fay A. Bradley, this city, served as secretary.

The resolutions committee report, prepared by Arthur L. Fitch and members of the resolutions committee, pledged united and vigoraus sapport of national, state and county Republican nominees.

The spirit of enthusiasm prevailing was reflected in the large number of persons showing willingness to attend the state coovention at Grand Rapids, September 28. Twenty delegates nnd an eqaal number af alternates were chosen as follows:

Charlevoix—Delegates: Fenton R. Bulow, A. L. Fitch, Mrs. Leo Carey, Mrs. Floyd Ikens, H. A. Craig; alternates: Fay A. Bradley, Floyd W. Ikens, Mrs. Allen Campbell, Mrs. E. E. Stroad, Archie Belding.

East Jordan — Delegates: Barney Milstein, E. K. Realing, Mrs. Ole Hegerberg, S. E. Rogers, Mrs. John Porter; alternates: Dr. G. W. Bechtold, W. J. Aldrich, John Porter, Guy Watson, Clarence Healy.

Boyne City—Delegates: Dr. Guy C. Conkle, S. A. Tokoly, Alex Heller, Art Rouse, D. D. Tibbits; alternates: Norman Ance, Mrs. Edward Lorch, L. H. White, Mrs. Maud Kightlinger, D. W. Dicken.

Delegates at Large: Jnmes H. Gallagher, W. J. Pearson, Mrs. Brayton Saltonstall, Haroid Hallett; alternates: W. J. Gallagher, Fred Denise, Wm. M. Sanderson, Carl Goodman, Frank F. Bird.

DOROTHY PAULUS AND JOHN CLARK WERE WED SATURDAY AT PETOSKEY

The wedding of Miss Dorothy Paulus, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Paulus, Sr., of Petoskey, and John R. Clarke of Highland Park, son of Mrs. Alice Clarke of Detroit, formerly of this city, was solemnized Saturday afternoon at Petoskey.

The ceremony was performed by Revs S. V. Mattson, at 4:00 at the parsonage of the First Christian church. The couple were attended by Miss Bertha Mindel of Petoskey and Carl Bogart of Charlevoix.

Mrs. Clarke is a gradnate of Petoskey high school, Mr. Clarke of Charlevoix high school. They will make their home in Highland Park.

The groom's mother, his sister, Patricia, and brother Channing, and Rodney Trimble, all of Detroit, were guests at the wedding.

The Baptist ladies will hold a rummage sale in the Brown building Saturday, Oct. 28.—Adv. 39t1.

US-31 IMPROVEMENT PROJECTS LISTED

The road is on the federal aid highway system and is eligible for improvement under the new two-year regular federal allotment to the highway department, he added.

"But we may have nothing to say about how this regular federal appropriation or the emergency military funds are spent," he pointed out. "Because of the national defense issues now involved in highway construction, the Public Road Administration for the next two years is reserving the right to designate, if it desires, just where all federal ald money is to be spent."

Van Wagoner said he doubts that difficulties will rise on that score, hawever. The state highway department always has had full co-operation from the public roads administration, he said, and US-31 undaubtedly will receive full consideration from federal agencies hecause of its military designation.

"The two most glaring weaknesses on US-31 as far as military requirements are concerned are the bridges at the Lake Charlevoix outlet and between Bentan Harbor and St. Jaseph," he asserted.

A new bridge at Charlevoix would cost about $200,000 and for the St. Joseph-Benton Harbor site, $600,000, Van Wogoner declared.

"I believe that if these bridges are to be built, US-31 should be relocated in both cases and the bridges tie in with the new locations," he said. "In both instances, the road alignment is bad and we might better baild bridges along new and more direct routes."

The Charlevoix bridge and relocation of 10 miles of the highway to follow the lake from Charlevoix to Bayshore would total $800,000, he estimated. The St. Joseph-Benton Harbor bridge and four-mile road relocation — also to follow the lake shore—would be about $1,000,000.

Seven miles of relocation and paving have just been completed between Shelby and Hart, with another four miles between Shelby and New Era now under contract, he said. The total cost in that area is near $350,000.

Other priority projects proposed by the highway department for US-31 include:

Reconstruction and repaving af 10 miles between Bratus and Levering. Cost, $400,000.

Six miles of paving nnd relocation of road north of Manistee. Cost, $300,000.

Reconstruction of six miles from New Era south to the county line. Cost, $250,000.

Relocation of 15 miles north from Ferrysburg to North Muskegon, to by-pass Muskegon on the east. It is not feasible to widen the existing 18-foot concrete in this area, Van Wagoner said. Cost, $850,000.

A new bridge on a relocatiao route by-passing South Haven. Cost $300,000.

"I realize that certain sections of the highway, notably a long stretch soath of Benzonia, are only 18 feet wide and should merit widening," Van Wagoner added. "But other sections involve more urgent needs and until they are taken care of, we have nothing else scheduled except regular maintenance work to keep surfaces safe and smooth."

RURAL ELECTRIC CO-OP. TAKES FIFE LAKE LINES

Plan Rebuilding Service in Central Michigan District

After taking over the interests of the Fife Lake light company a month ago, the Top O' Michigan Rural Electrification Co-operative Company serving Emmet, Charlevoix, Antrim, Otsego and Kalkaska counties, this week was supplying power and light to several hundred customers in the Fife lake area.

An announcement released at company headqunrters on N. Lake street, Boyne City, said that "as soon as possible the present system will be completely rehuilt to give the people of Fife Lake the kind of service they have a right to expect as well as a lower rate."

The consolidation of the Fife Lake system with the Top O' Michigan co-operative company jumps the total number of people receiving service from the company to "well over 1400" company officials said.

The first billing for electricity from the co-operative company in the Fife Lake district is under way.—Boyne Citizen.

POTATO BLIGHT CAUSES HEAVY STATE-WIDE LOSS

Between 50% and 70% of Michigan Crop Heavily Damaged

The late blight which has hit Michigans potato crop is threatening to destroy from 50% to 70% of the entire crop in the state according to latest reports received by the Department of Agriculture.

The blight has been caused by the late season and the very inclement weather during the growing season. It has struck all of the state's commercial producing areas and the degree of damage done varies according to its seriousness in different sections.

COAST GUARD BASE SURVEY COMPLETED

MANY COMMUNITIES AWAIT DECISION ON SITE

Charlevoix Officials Making Every Effort to Have Base Located on Portion of Loeb Farms

A three months' survey of the Great Lakes area for location of a permanent coast guard air base has beeo completed and numerous Michigan communities are anxiously awaiting results.

Lieut. A. E. Harned and crew of two men, who have been conducting the survey during the summer, left Sunday from their base at Traverse City for Elizabeth, N. J.

While conducting the survey, Lieut. Harned also engaged in regular patrol duty over the Great Lakes area. Several spectacular rescue flights included the saving of two commercial fishermen from a sinking boat in the Straits of Mackinac.

Upon the recommendation of Lieut. Harned will hinge the selectioo of the coast guard air base site. Some Great Lakes community will be given the choice for establishment of a base for a half dozen airplanes and quarters for pilots and ground crews.

The air station, it is understood, will have a payroll of approximately $10,000 a month and its facilities, such as shops and hangars are to be built at a cost of $750,000. The project represents the equal of a sizeable industry with a constant payroll not subject to fluctuations created by economic conditions. The city awarded the air base will gain much publicity as the center of coast guard air operations for the whole Great Lakes area and such a base would no doubt provide a very interesting tourist attraction.

The many friends of Dr. George Buttrick in East Jordan will he glad to know that he is steadily improving from the injuries of the automobile accident of August 23, in which there were broken ribs, a leg injury and concussion of the brain.

Rev. C. W. Sidebotham has received a letter from Mrs. Buttrick in which she states that Mr. Buttrick is making excellent recovery. It is slow and there are necessarily many more days of quiet and rest and patience ahead, but he is beginning to sit up for a short time each day. It will be a few weeks yet before he resumes his regular work.—Charlevoix County Herald.

CHARLEVOIX WINS OPENING CONTEST

DEFEATED MANCELONA BY 6 TO 0 COUNT SATURDAY

Intercepted Pass Paved Way for Lone Touchdown Late in Final Period —Boyne Here Saturday

Charlevoix high school's Red Rayders opened their 1940 football season Saturday afternoon with a 6 to 0 victory at Mancelona.

Ernie Nowland, captain and fullback, scored the lone touchdown in the final minutes of the fourth quarter after nearly two periods of play had witnessed several scoring opportunities lost.

Whatever advantage was npparent between the two fairly well matched teams was Charlevoix's. The first two periods of see-saw, scoreless play, saw Charlevoix inside Mancelona's 20-yard strip hut once and statistics reveal that the losers failed at any time during the contest to approach that close to Charlevoix's goal.

The lone and winning touchdown followed Clare Martin's interception of a Mancelona pass on their 30-yard strip. Carey, Stewart and Nowland alternated with line plays to put the ball in position for Nowland's touchdown dash. Nowland missed a try for extra point and the final whistle ended the contest minutes later.

Coach Ray Kipke used Rowe and Jim Martin at ends, Hooker and Meggison at tackles, Bissell and Swanson at guards, Kohler at center, Clare Martin and Stewart at halfback, Carey at quarterback, and Nowland at fullback. Foster and Novotny substituted late in the contest at ends, Shoekley at tackle, McDonald and Poole at guards.

Next Saturday the Rayders travel to Boyne City for a contest that will test the team's caliber. Boyne lost to Rogers City io their initial game, but last Saturday tumhled Petoskey's class B outfit hy a 13 to 0 score.

CHARLEVOIX PLANS FOR FALL FISHING FESTIVAL

Lake Trout, Steelhead, Perch and Smelt Fishing to be Offered

The following press release has been given state-wide distribution by the publicity department of the West Michigan Tourist & Resort Association:

"Don't put your fishing tackle in the moth balls yet. The big event is to come off up here.

"Late fall fishing for smelt ranks oow right along with winter fishiog for the silvery delicacies and is at its hest when the crisp fall nights arrive. The sportsmen's club and the board of commerce are cooperating to sponsor a fall fishing festival and arrangements are being made for floodlighting the Round lake docks to facilitate the nightly smelt fishing. No date has beeo set yet for the festival.

"In arriving at a date for the big fishing show the sponsoring bodies will choose a time when the perch, steelhead and lake trout fishing also are at their best.

"Boyoe City, at the end of Lake Charlevoix, also offers fall smelt fishing from their dock at the park."

DID YOU EVER?—

Did you ever see an old-fashioned Republican Pole-Raising, where father and motber and the boys and girls got together and discussed the state of the Union with free ice cream, pop corn, etc.?

Well, there will be one at Ironton, Saturday afternoon, October 12th, from 2 to 4. Watch later announcements!

Field Manager, Michigan Press Associatioo

Wendell L. Willkie and Governor Luren D. Dickinson have one trait in comoion: Neither man will make a political speech on Sunday.

When the Republican presidential nominee greeted audiences from the rear platform of his train on a recent Suoday, he said he did not intend to campaign on the Sabhath.

Well, Governor Dickinson doesn't either.

In fact, when an Upper Peninsula editor visited the executive office recently, Dickloson remarked he was not going to campaign in an old-fashioned barnstorming way.

Tha editor smiled in agreement, and then asked: "Aod how was the audience yesterday (Sunday) at Owosso?"

TO FOSTER AND PERPETUATE A ONE HUNDRED PER CENT AMERICANISM

—From the Preamble to the Constitution of The American Legion

One of the continuing tasks of The American Legion has been to combat the spread of alien ideologies that were brought to this land in the wake of the World War. By ceaseless vigilance to oppose those who are un-American, by purposeful education to guide those who are American; these are the Americanism aims of the Legion.

Americanism is an idealism concerning our American way of life. It implies a sincere faith and belief in a democratic, representative form of government with certain checks and balances to prevent usurpation of power that might impair our government of the people, by the people, and for the people.

It stands for individual rights, fair play, tolerance, justice, recognition of individual ability, and reasonableness in all phases of American living. We cannot condone Americanism as sponsored by intolerant secret societies. Neither can we accept as the American way selfish, unjust practices of powerful groups in our industrial life.

We must guard with all our energy the human rights guaranteed by the Constitution. Destructive theories fostered by foreign money and influence aimed at the possible weakening or overthrow of our form of government must be combatted with all legitimate means. Liberty under the law must not be extended to protect license, anarchy, or treason under the law.

In our efforts to combat un-American influence, we must not, however, become such self-righteous super-patriots that we interpret liberalism as un-American and thereby injure a loyal fellow citizen.

DISTRICT HEALTH UNIT

The Tired Child

Constant physical activity is so generally recognized as characteristic of a healthy, normal child that its marked absence may well warrant a consultation with the family physician. Yet the parent must recognize that activity may become over-activity leading to fatigue. The typically fatigued child is usually of slight build, appearing over-nervous, and with an ambition that is too frequently stimulated by unwise parents. It is extremely important that the parent recognize early the signs of fatigue and radically readjust the child's life. Otherwise, the condition may lead to tuberculosis, to the development of neurotic tendencies, possibly to postural deformities and almost certainly to a variety of vague illnesses in adult life which tend to impair efficiency.

The causes of fatigue in the child are many but the observing parent should have little difficulty in determining the inciting factors. A young child may be straining to keep up with older brothers and sisters in their interests and activities. It may be sleeping less than it should; until the age of six, a child should have 11 hours of sleep nightly while older children may do well enough with 10. Again, fatigue may have a physiological origin, and this can be determined only by the doctor. Areas of infection within the body, malnutrition, anemia and disease of the heart and kidneys are common to this group of children. An x-ray of the chest often discloses an unsuspected organic disorder.

Frequently, the cause is psychic. The child owes its fatigue in such cases to deeply-rooted feelings of resentment, to irritation, worry, fear or emotional tension. There are few children however gifted, who possess the physical stamina and the temperament to allow them to participate in concert work, dancing exhibitions or dramatic presentations. Parents of infant prodigies must assume responsibility for holding "talent" in check lest its too frequent public exhibition lead to impaired health or worse.

In many cases, environment may be blamed for the production of the tired child. Poor housing, lack of cleanliness and access to pure air and sunlight prevent normal growth.

Children who are set to work at too early an age or who are given tasks demanding long periods of activity without rest are usually found to be over-tired, presenting a dull-normal appearance.

Rest, proper diet and medication when indicated should restore the tired child. Rest alone may be all that is necessary to relieve acute fatigue and exhaustion since it will decrease the strain on the heart and blood vessels and thus diminish the energy output. In more advanced cases, rest alone may not suffice but it will aid materially in soothing the nervous system and relieving tension or excitement.

Wise parents will see to it that the child is given numerous rest periods throughout the waking day and thus prevent the unfortunate results of fatigue.

MacMurray Tops Big Western Cast In "Rangers" Film

A resounding tale of deering-do on the cactus covered plains of the Old West—of romance, flaming courage, and plain and fancy gun-fighting—is on its way to the Palace Theatre, where Paramount's "Rangers of Fortune," will make its bow on October 5-7.

Drama of this new adventure picture is wound about the fortunes of three tough-fisted, tender-hearted caballeros. They are played by Fred MacMurray, mastermind of the marauding trio; Albert Dekker, a brawling fool who never uses his gun where his hands will do; Gilbert Roland, a handsome Latin whose romantic heart gets him into more trouble than his friends can fight their way out of.

"Hidden Gold" Newest Hopalong "Western"

Hard riding and smoking guns will bang their way to the fore October 8-9 at the Palace Theatre, when Hopalong" Cassidy comes back with his pals "Lucky" and "Speedy" in his latest action-packed Clarence E. Mulford Western, "Hidden Gold."

New York's excitement-teeming waterfront, where things happen faster and funnier than anywhere else, is the backgrounnd for "Pier 13," new 20th Century-Fox film due October 8-9 at the Palace Theatre. Advance reports have hailed the picture as one of the season's outstanding pieces of all around entertainment.

Lovely Lynn Bari has the leading feminine part. Others in the east include: Lloyd Nolan, Joan Valerie and Douglas Fowley.

The area known as St. Clair Flats, the delta of the St. Clair river, is to be forever held in trust for the people of the state of Michigan.

Announcing the big

NEW 1941 FORD

In some years, some cars take a big jump ahead. The Ford does that for 1941.

It has jumped ahead in size. It's the biggest Ford we've ever built, inside and out. It's wider. It has a longer wheelbase. Its seating room is wider by as much as 7 inches. It has new wide doors and semi-concealed running boards.

You'll notice also a new beauty, achieved by a skilful blending of mass with longer flowing lines. Larger windshield and windows give better vision all around.

One of its biggest advantages is the new soft ride. New, slower-action springs give a slow, gentle, gliding movement. A newly designed stabilizer helps absorb road shocks, and maintains balance on sharp curves and in cross winds.

More rapid acceleration to match its familiar speed and power makes this new Ford an even livelier car to drive.

These are only a few of this new car's outstanding features. It represents all the rich experience gained in building more than 28 million motor cars.

Any Ford dealer can give you many good reasons for making this your 1941 car.

THE REPUBLICAN STATE CONVENTION

Editor's Note:—Upon request, the following article, giving the personol impressions of a Charlevoix county delegate attending the state Republican convention at Grand Rapids, has been written for the Courier. The article contains the human interest angles so lacking in dally reports of the convention, particularly regarding the masterly actions of Governor Luren D. Dickinson in the interests of party hormony.

In two outstanding aspects, the 1940 Republican state convention will take a marked plece in the history of the party in Michigan. Neither of these relate to speeches made by party notables, nor to the routine work of the convention and nominations to office. These are reported elsewhere in this issue of the Courier.

Twice before the solid, substantial Republicans from "upstate' hove rebuked and repudioted attempted one-man control of a convention by meuns of a huge, boss-controlled delegation from Wnyne county. Again at Grand Rapids, another attempt was made when 420 Bornard delegates marched into the convention to resist a like number of delegates which claimed to be the regularly chosen delegntion. A boss controlled stote centrnl committee recommended seating both delegntions with one-half vote each. A boss-controlled committee brought in a mnjority report with the some recommendation. Then eame the fireworks in the form of a minority report of the committee recommending the seating of the nnti-Barnard delegation, and a motion by former Governor Brucker to substitute it for the majority report. An aye and nay vote showing at least a 10 to 1 vote in favor of the minority report brought the announcement from the boss-controlled chairman that he was in doubt. A roll call by counties proceeded part way when Bornard capitulated and asked leave to withdraw his delegation—and he referred to it as "my" delegation.

But the real outstanding feature of the convention was the faith and confidence monifested by an overwhelming majority of the delegates in Governor Dickinson. The governor did not attempt to dominate the convention. He only stated in a frank and homely way his preferences and his opinions in view of the good of the party and the people. He did not mince matters but took the "bone in his teeth" and spoke his mind. He began by saying that he wished to speak upon "matters which he believed the delegotes wanted to know about." Naively and humorously he spoke of what "they" said of him, without stating who "they" were. He snid: "They say I nm too old and weak. Well, I have seen many governors come and go, and I know that I am working harder and longer hours than any of them." And then he ndded: "And I am gaining weight. I go home to my furm at night nnd go to bed and I go to sleep. I don't worry. They say I get other men to do my work. Sure I do. That is what I have them for and I see to it that things are done. If they don't work, I get rid of them." He said it was a pleasure to knock the "topknots" off some fellows in Detroit — meaning, of course, Sheriff Wilcox ond Prosecutor McCrea. He snid that state affairs were in good shape and that they would be improved. Then he said: "I do quite a lnt of 'snouping around' so as to know what is going on because thot is my duty and my job."

Then cume the most significant statement of all. He said: "They talk some obout my religious views, and about my seeking divine assistance. Well, I believe that a man who is not willing to ask for divine assistance in a time of stress is not ENTITLED TO HAVE IT." The response to this observation was electrifying. Over n thousand men and women, nt least two-thirds of whom might be rated us hard-headed politicians, or at nny rate not outspokenly religious, greeted it with resounding applause and approval. Think of it. The writer does not go to church very much but just the some he could not help feeling thut this episode was a splendid nnd encouraging sign, and u refreshing commentary on the caliber and quality of chosen delegates of a politicnl party. I confess that I wouldn't hordly have expected it of them.

So Governor Dickinson's so-cnlled "control" of his party as reported in so many of our state papers, was not really control at all. It was rather a magnificant exhibition of frankness ond mornl courage from a man standing as the titular leuder of his party speaking to the porty and the people. It disposed of once nnd for all the unfounded and silly chnrges concerning our Governor eminating from unfriendly and partison sources. Yes, folks, "Old Dick" can take cnre of himself pretty well. Mnke no mistake nbout that.

Concerning the Wayne county fiasco, just ask yourself u question. Why is it that at a time when the country is stunding at the crossronds of Democracy and the Republicnn party is making a determined effort to steer it way from dictutorships ond one-man control, that an avowed Republicnn like Ed. Barnard should want to control the votes of 420 other men? On what kind of meat does this man feed? Then why should 420 men—if they are ren men — submit to being herded and branded by one mun? Politics make strange bedbugs.

NEW FORD MODELS ON DISPLAY AT NORTHERN

Car Larger, Has Numerous New Features for '41

The new Ford line was released for public inspection Friday.

There has heen a lot of advance discussion of changes. And changes there are, starting off with a considerable increase in size for the Ford V-8's, DeLuxe and Super DeLuxe.

Designers have taken full advantage of increased wheelbase and overall lengths to give added spaciuusness, and Ford engineers have worked right up from bigger tires through to luxury seat cushions and new softer springs fur the snlid enhancement of rlding comfort.

A new four-cylinder truck and commercial car engine is part of the economy features included in the Ford working line.

The wheelbase of these big new DeLuxe ond Super DeLuxe Ford V-8's is longer and the overall length greater. The designers have taken odvuntage of this extra overall to increase the inside body length both in footroom nnd seating width. In fact, the front seat of the sedan is seven inches wider than last year. The head room is greater and the window area, nlready large in previous Ford cars, is even larger this year.

Running boards have practically disappeared from sight, due to the width of the new bodies. But they are there to step off when the doors are opened.

MINIMUM FOREST FIRE LOSS IS IN PROSPECT

Only Unusual Hunting Season Fires Can Prevent Record

Only an unusual number of hunting season fires can prevent the state's 1940 forest fire protection record from establishing a new minimum loss for game cover and timberland. At last count, 12,037 acres af state and private land had been burned over this season.

Weather conditions recently have been so favorable to forest fire suppression it is six weeks since the forest fire loss has exceeded six acres, and in the twenty-third week of the senson most of the few fires that started were put out before they had burned so much as one acre.

Hunting season, however, can still be a period of high fire hazard, if dry weather follows the frosts that klll ground vegetation, according to the forest fire service of the department of conservation.

RISE IN POTATO PRICES TO RESULT FROM BLIGHT

Tuber Fields Throughout State Are Affected by Disease

State agricultural department authorities predict u rise in potuto prices within the next few weeks as a result of u potato blight which in some regions has reached epidemic stage.

Areas most seriously affected are Lapeer, Oakland, and Mecosta counties and some sections of the Upper Peninsula.

Loss of parts of the potatn crop would cause producers to raise prices, the department said.

RAINBOW FISHING CONTINUES INTO NOVEMBER

Portion of Jordan River One Stream Specially Designated

Not all trout fishing ended on Labor Day.

On designated lakes and sections of streams in 14 northern Michigan counties, fishing for rainbow and steelhead trout with hook and line continues through September, October and November. Anglers will find the rainbow fishing grounds listed in the law digest issued by the conservation department with each license.

Among the streams having sections open to rainbow anglers are the Pere Marquette, Muskegon, White, Manistee, Indian, Sturgeon and Jordan rivers.

Carl J. Rudine, architectural engineer of the parks division, Michigan department of conservation, has been elected to membership in the American Institute of Architects.

STATE EMPLOYMENT SERVICE IS REORGANIZED

Personnel Petoskey Office Enlarged Aid National Defense Program

In order to be of maximum assistance to the national defense program as well as to the local communities, the office staff of the Petoskey office of the Michigan State Employment Service has been enlarged and reorganized.

Karl M. Harvey, office manager, who came from the Muskegon office in July, will contact employers and do veterans' placement work as well as attending to the administrative affairs of the office.

Cyril Smith, claims examiner for the past two years at Petoskey, also has charge of all disputed and irregular unemployment compensation claims and adjustment for the Traverse City office.

Harvard Smurt, assistant office manager, has charge of the interviewing and Junior departments as well as itinerant service to Charlevoix, Cheboygan, and Otsego counties.

Carl York, an interviewer recently transferred from a Detroit office, will have charge of registration of applicants for work and of filling employers' orders.

Miss Helen Gallagher, who has been with the Petoskey office since June, 1938, will have charge of secretarial and reporting work.

Miss Virginia Doran, transferred from the general offices in Detroit to fill a vacancy in August, has charge of employment and claims records, reception, and information.

All employees of the local office are on a civil service basis and hold their positions by virtue of having passed competitive examinations.

The main purposes of the organization are to obtain necessary skilled help for defense industries, to assist any local employer in getting any type of worker he needs, and to help the local unemployed to jobs in private industry. There is no charge to either the employer or the job seeker. Taking and processing of unemployment compensation claims is also a function of the office. All unemployed persons are urged to register at the office frequently in order that the service may be as efficient as possible. There is at present a shortage of domestic workers in the Petoskey vicinity.

Under the present program, the staff expects to be able to give the counties having itinerant service a much greater amount of attention than they have had in the past. The points served and the days on which service is rendered are: Charlevoix, City Hall basement on Tuesday morning from 9 to 11:30; Boyne City, Fire Hall on Tuesday afternoon from 1 to 3:30; Cheboygan, Courthouse on Wednesday morning from 9:30 until noon; and Gaylord, welfare office on Thursday from 9:30 until noon.

STACKING OF BEANS IS ADVISABLE THIS YEAR

Late Planting and Uncertain Weather Make Measure Ideal

With a short crop and "unusual weather" (apologies to California for any copyright on that phrase) the stacking of beans to cure them in the pod this fall is going to pay dividends to Michigan farmers.

Late planting and the uncertain weather this fall have puzzled the bean plants to such an extent that field stacks for curing will aid quality and make threshing easier, comments H. R. Pettigrove, Michigan State College bean growing authority.

"Rains and resultant new growth may cause the vines to remain green even after the pods are mature," says Pettigrove. "If the ends of the pods are in contact with the damp soil, damage will occur. Heavy dew or rain adds to harvest difficulties. Even cloudy weather slows up the drying process."

RAINBOW IN SALT WATER DESIGNATED STEELHEAD

Conservation Department Gives View on Controversial Question

When is a rainbow trout a steelhead? The answer is: when it gets to salt water.

This is no conundrum, but the answer of the conservation department's institute for fisheries research, final court of appeal for many a barbershop and country store argument among anglers.

In the western states, where Michigan rainbows and/or steelheads originated, the same fish known as rainbow in the streams become steelheads when they migrate to sea, and steelhead progeny become rainbows again when they are in the streams. Fish of this species in Michigan which cannot reach salt water remain rainbows all their lives, though potentially they are still steelheads.

So far as Michigan law is concerned, it makes no difference which common name is applied to the fish whose scientific title is salmo irideus.

OF INTEREST TO FARMERS

Twenty Young Sires Being Displayed on "Dairy Day," Wed. Oct. 9th

All dairymen in Charlevoix county will be interested in seeing the display of some twenty new sires that have been purchased this spring or are being distributed on the big "Dairy Day," Wednesday, October 9, beginning at 2 p. m.

The exhibit will be housed in Heaton's barn, two blocks north on North Park street, Boyne City. A. C. Baltzer, in charge of dairy extension, Michigan State College, will be present and guide the activities of the day. He will judge the display and recognize the top animals among this splendid group of young sires which within the next few months will be taking their places as heads of many herds in the county.

Already, as a result of the assistance from Howard Lytle and T. L. Thacker, Smith-Hughes instructors of Boyne City and East Jordan respectively, some eighteen young sires have been located in the county. All of these animals are from high producing stock, disease free and of wonderful type and quality. It will certainly be most gratifying to see these animals and to visualize the improvement that will take place in all of these herds. Each owner is willingly bringing his animal to this display so that the dairymen can see firsthand the type and quality making up the exhibit.

This program will be continued this winter and it is hoped that any dairyman, who desires a new sire, will attend this little show and be assured that if he places an order he will receive satisfaction. The seven new owners will see their animals for the first time. A little judging contest will be staged as an educational feature of the day.

Why not arrange your plans so that you can attend the afternoon program starting at two o'clock and look these young animals over carefully?

LEGAL NOTICES

Registration Notice For General November Election November 5, 1940

To the Qualified Electors of the City of Charlevoix, State of Michigan:

Notice is hereby given that in conformity with the "Michigan Election Law," I, the undersigned City Clerk will, upon any day except Sunday and a legal holiday, the day of any regular or special election or primary election, receive for registration the name of any legal voter in said city not already registered who may APPLY TO ME PERSONALLY for such registration. Provided, however, that I can receive no names for registration during the twenty days preceding and regular, special, or official primary election and the day of such election.

The last day for General Registration does not apply to persons who vote under the Absent Voters' Law. (See Registration by Affidavit.)

Notice is hereby given to the Qualified Electors of this city that I, the undersigned clerk of said city, will register qualified electors who may apply at my office on any business day in the year up to and including for General Registration by personal application for said election, from 8 o'clock a. m. to 8 o'clock p. m.

Wednesday, October 16, 1940— Last Day

The name of no person but an ACTUAL RESIDENT of the city at the time of registration, and entitled under the constitution, if remaining such resident, to vote at the next election shall be entered in the registration book.

Registration of Absentee by Oath

If any person whose name is not registered shall offer and claim the right to vote at any election, or primary election, and shall UNDER OATH, state that he or she is a resident of such precinct and has resided in the CITY TWENTY DAYS next preceding such election, designating particularly the place of his or her residence and that he or she possesses the other qualifications of an elector under the constitution; and that, owing to the sickness or bodily infirmity of himself or herself, or some member of his or her family or owing to his or her absence from the city on public business or his or her own business, and without intent to avoid or delay his or her registration, he or she was unable to make application for registration on the last day provided by law for the registering of electors preceding such election, then the name of such person shall be registered, and he or she shall then be permitted to vote at such election. If such applicant shall in said matter, wilfully make any false statement, he or she shall be deemed guilty of perjury, and upon conviction, be subject to the pains and penalties thereof.

Provided, That any city may provide by resolution approved by a majority of the members of its legislative body for the registration of such sick and absent voters on the last Saturday preceding any election or primary election at the places of voting in the several voting districts of such city, instead of on election or primary election day.

Provision In Case of Removal to Another Precinct

Any registered and qualified voter who has REMOVED from ONE ELECTION PRECINCT to another election precinct shall have the right, on any day previous to election day, on application to the city clerk, to have his or her name transferred from the registration book of the precinct from which he or she HAS REMOVED to the registration book of the precinct in which he or she THEN RESIDES. Such elector shall have the right to have such transfer made ON ELECTION DAY, or Primary election day, by obtaining from the board of inspectors of election of the precinct from which he or she HAS REMOVED a CERTIFICATE OF TRANSFER, and presenting the said certificate to the BOARD OF ELECTION INSPECTORS OF THE PRECINCT IN WHICH HE OR SHE THEN RESIDES.

Dated October 1, 1940.

RAY S. HAMILTON,
City Clerk.

World Fellowship Communion Sunday, October 6

Every member of every church in the Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America is strongly urged to be present in the Communion Service on Sunday morning, October 6th. Sunday is also Rally Day and all the local churches give you a hearty invitation to worship with them on this day.

CONGREGATIONAL CHURCHES

Charlevoix:
Sunday school, 10:00.
Morning worship, 11:00.
Christian Endeavor, 6:45.

Ironton:
Morning worship, 10:00.
Sunday school, 11:00.

Sunday morning in both churches we will observe Rally Day in the church and Sunday school. The Sunday school will have their service at 10 o'clock and after the program will have the regular S. S. lesson.

In the church at 11 the Rally program will consist of a sermon by the pastor, subject "A Stumbling Stone in the King's Highway." This will be followed by the World Wide Communion Service. During the service each member will be presented with a Loyalty Covenant with the request to sign same and hand back to the pastor.

The Christian Endeavor will hold its regular service at 6:45 p. m. At the meeting last Sunday two committees reported on program and activities for the year. If the program is carried out there will be some busy young people in our church.

A class of older young people is in the process of organization, to be taught by the pastor. This class will have its first meeting November 3. The regular Sunday school lessons will be the basis of study but there will be included a course on "Love, Courtship and Marriage." This should be more correctly stated: "Thinking about Marriage." Another course will be, "The Person I Hope to Become."

LANSING LETTER

cral thousand people were present. He said he had "visited" with quite a few.

For Sunday "visiting" during a political campaign, Dickinson's tactics are highly effective. He doesn't talk politics. He just emphasizes the value of personal character and public morality.

You can't argue with God; neither can you accuse the governor of being insincere.

It's one of those things.

Discipline

Last summer the state newspapers sponsored a national defense program at Port Huron. Among the speakers were Governor Dickinson and Murray D. Van Wagoner.

Because last-minute complications prevented a visit of Michigan editors to Canada, the enterprising Floyd J. Miller, daily publisher in Royal Oak, obtained as a pinch-hit attraction a Michigan-born newspaperman by the name of Fred Brace from Sparta.

Brace was a Paris correspondent of the New York Herald Tribune in 1919-20, and he had been with the American Chamber of Commerce at the French capital until its fall to the Nazi in 1940.

"Look at history," he said, "and you will find that it has been a constant swing of the pendulum of public opinion—either towards individual freedom or a disciplined state. France under tyrannical kings had a disciplined state; Bastile Day brought just the opposite—freedom for the individual which in its excess led to terrorism of the guillotine.

"Russia's history is almost parallel. Who can say that the dictatorship of a Stalin is not worse than the autocratic hand of a czar?

"Germany had disciplined control under Bismark and Kaiser Wilhelm. In the first and second reich the Germans had individual freedom, but they were not happy. Hitler restored the pendulum to its accepted course—that of a powerful central government of discipline, of law and order.

"In the United States we had individual initiative under Harding, Coolidge, and Hoover. Now we are getting a strong disciplined state under Roosevelt. If centralization of power goes too far, public opinion will demand a return to less regulation by Washington, more freedom for the individual."

A Slant on Dickinson

One of Lansing's close observers of public opinion, a staunch friend of Governor Dickinson, unknowingly applied the same philosophy in a recent analysis why the Republican nominee in such a consistent vote-getter.

"In this country today we have several groups of people. One group is bewildered at our technilogical unemployment, our industrial insecurity, the complexity of social problems at every direction. Then there is the disillusioned group—those who are disappointed at the failure of government to end unemployment, for example. Others remember that America fought 25 years ago to make the world safe for democracy. These people are plainly disillusioned. To them, change has not meant progress.

"In such a flux of attitudes, Dickinson appeals to these groups as a gibraltar of morality. To them he represents law and order, strong discipline, unyielding character.

"He has never imposed his personal likes and dislikes on others. As lieutenant governor he would never pack committees with drys just because he personally disapproved of the public sale of liquor. He was fair to both sides.

"In my judgment, there is the key to Dickinson's popularity.

Van Wagoner Personality

The famous Van Wagoner personality, which has made the highway commissioner such a consistent favorite even in arch Republican counties, is now being pitted against the astute, quiet-speaking Republican governor.

At the democratic state convention last week we watched the Democratic nominee in action. He was enjoying the show. Always possessed with a saving sense of humor, "Pat" laughed broadly when State Chairman Charles Porritt slammed the gavel and railroaded over a delegate chorus of prankful nayes, "the ayes have it!"

When the loud speaker system went hay-wire just as Frank Murphy II was making a maiden speech, "Pat" still was in good humor.

Two attractive girl entertainers came to the platform to provide an interim of relaxation, playing "Happy Days are Here Again." The Van Wagoner smile went into action, like FDR's charm and magnetism, and everybody was right at home.

This beaming personality is one of the nominee's chief assets. It proclaims confidence.

Federal Spending

Like the PWA and WPA federal grants to local governments, the national defense program has provided a new field for political cultivation.

Senator Prentiss Brown in his keynote address at Grand Rapids (incidentally delivered by someone else) pointed out that more than one-tenth of all national defense appropriations by the federal government (other than those for the navy) have been with Michigan industrial firms.

"Up to September 17, $275,000,000 of contracts have come to the citizens of our state," he pointed out. "We are proud, that we have the facilities, the capital, the labor to do our part in the defense program. We are also happy for the benefits which have come and will be so largely assigned to our state."

The rush to get political credit for the arms contracts is now on.

Rep. Paul Shafer, Republican critic of the New Deal, was not adverse to announcing an important contract with a Battle Creek firm.

Even the heralding news of Willkie's visit to Lansing was eclipsed, in the top newspaper headline at least, by word of a $9,500,000 contract to manufacture shells at the Capital city. Such is plain irony.

Peanut Deficit

At a time when the federal government is headed for a five billion annual deficit and Congress has approved a program calling for eight additional billions, Michigan's modest bookkeeping deficit of $29,000,000 is almost peanuts to state politicians.

The national debt is nearing 49 billions, and a 60 billion total is viewed as inevitable.

What the price of American participation in the war would mean financially is a subject to stagger the imagination. This country spent $6,148,000,000 for military purposes alone during the 1917-18 fiscal year; $11,031,000,000 in the 1918-10 year.

It makes the Michigan concern of a few millions a problem for Budget Director Gus T. Hartman and Auditor General Vernon J. Brown, but for very few others.

Hard-boiled Gus has taken on the state troopers, "fifth columnists" or not. "If the state police want money to finish out the fiscal year, they'll have to get it from the legislature by special appropriation," declared Hartman.

With one-tenth of non-naval arms expenditures already assigned to Michigan, popular spy fever should mount. We venture to guess that Oscar G. Olander, commissioner of state police, will get his money—if not from Hartman, from the next legislature.

tory habits. Perhaps one's patience wouldn't be quite so jittery were it not for the fact all this uncertainty is holding up our proposed fall fishing festival, which, according to all established precedences, should have been under way now. Maybe it's the lateness of everything this year. Will make that excuse anyways for lack of a better one. There's a lot of people waiting for the word "Go" and here's one person ready to announce it.

The Kiwanians are still soliciting contributions for their annual "White Elephant" sale to be held in the near future. If you have any articles not in use which you would care to donate, just get in touch with Otto Krueger or any other Kiwanis member. Proceeds of the sale go into the Kiwanis fund for under privileged children and to finunce numerous other benevolences.

Local residents will no douht be interested in knowing that G. Lewis Greenman, son of Mrs. Blanch Greenman, formerly of this city, heads the organization known as the First Presidential Voters - Young Willkie Volunteers in Pasadena, Calif. A newspaper clipping giving an account of Lewis' selection as head of this group was recently received by Mrs. Frank Kenyon and passed on to us for the information of our readers.

Son: "What's inertia, Dad?"

Dad: "Well, if I have it, it's sheer lnziness; but if your mother has it, it's nervous prostrntion."

Bad hundwriting costs the Amerlcun people npproximateiy $80,000,000 per yenr, according to the dead letter office of the Post Office department. That's the sum of the waste postuge, plus the vaiue of contents, plus the vaine of the stationery in the thousands of illegible letters dropped into letter-boxes each year.

I gratefully acknowledge receipt of u complimentary copy of St. Mary's School News, edited and published by 13-year-old David Hamilton. For one so young, his work is remarknble.

After three solid duys of foggy weather, suppose everyone would welcome a little sunshine. If nothing eise, it wouid help sweeten dispositions. Housewives were particularly ugiy because wnshings put out Monday wouldn't dry, and anyway, gloomy days most generally result in a gioomy outlook on everything.

There's been a lot of Charlevoix young folks and oldsters, too, who have gone to Detroit for the winter. Nearly a hundred, I understood, are working at one piace—the Continentai — where they were empioyed last winter.

Had hoped to pass out a little dope on results of Tuesday's opening of the duck season. However, the local fellows who went must have got lost in the heavy fog, for none of them are home yet. Ceiling was "zero" throughout this area hoth Tuesduy and today, so probably results were somewhere near "zero," too. Another group of four who went to the upper peninsula for bird hunting got five "pats." They reported numerous birds but foliage so heavy it wus almost impossible to get u shot. We can expect such results until a killing frost takes leaves off the trees.

Charlevoix is but one of dozens of Great Lakes cities that have high hopes of being awarded the proposed air base. A portion of the Loeb Farms, with frontage on Lake Charlevoix, is considered an ideal location for such a project. Every effort has been put forth by city and board of commerce officials to establish Charlevoix's position since the plan to laeate such an air base became known over a year ago.

PRESIDENT OK'S BILL FOR STRAITS BRIDGE

Permission of War Doparomont for Construction Now Nocossary

President Rooseveit last Thursday signed the Macklnac Straits bridge bill authorizing construction of a series of spans connecting Michigan lower and upper peninsulas.

In a statement issued Friduy, D. Donald Kennedy, deputy highway commissioner, stated presidential approval is only the first step toward actual construction of the bridge.

The highway department must next get approval from the war department, he said, before plans can he drawn up. A method of financing the structure, at an estimated cost of $24,340,000 plus interest charges during time of construction must then be found.

Kennedy said the highway department would "exhaust every source of federal aid" in financing the cost of the structure, inciuding revenue bonds, Reconstruction Finance Corporation loans, PWA and WPA grants and speciai funds which may be available under the national defense program. The state will bear the cost of the causeways approaching the bridge from the north shore without government aid, Kennedy said.

"We don't anticipate any trouble or delay in bringing the project to the point of construction," he said. "We're just going to take each step as it comes so we won't have to go back and do any of them over ugain."

Kennedy made no estimate as to when the bridge woubi he completed.

HEAVY FOLIAGE HAMPERING SMALL GAME HUNTER

Growth from Heavy Rains, Lack of Killing Frost, Real Causes

Rainy summer weather that produced nn ahundance of food and cover for game is proving not an unmixed hlessing to hunters already in the field in the upper peninsula, after ruffed and sharptailed grouse, prairie chickens, cottontail rabbits and snowshoe hares. The heavy foliuge is only now beginning to turn color and fall, muking shooting difficuit because of poor visibility now and promising noisy woods later. Conservation officers report supplies of game are generaiiy good.

While uplund bird hunters muy wish for frosts and windy wenther, wildfowiers are happy because mild weather has kept a plentiful supply of ducks feeding on marshes, lakes and potholes. Because of abundant rainfail, conditions haye been good for mallards and other local ducks, with many a pond and pothoie dry by this time in former years now sheltering Michigan nesting species.

The open seasons on pheasant, grouse, rahhits and squirrels begin in lower Michigan October 16.

Prospects for lower Michigan hunters have hrightened with the recent iifting of the dog quarantine.

WEDDING OF ELEANOR OLSZEWSKI AND PAT J. MORAN WAS SATURDAY

Miss Eleanor Olszewski, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Anton Olszewski of Traverse City, former local residents, became the bride of Pat J. Moran, son of Mrs. Percy Moran, at u nuptial mass at St. Mary's church Saturday morning, September 28, at 9 o'ciock. Fr. John W. Collins officiated.

Miss Ruth Olszewski, sister of the bride, was bridesmaid, and Muurice Foster was best man. The church was decorated with pink and white gladioli and white asters.

The bride's white satin gown was simply made, with a high neck, long sleeves, and a small train. A string of tiny pearis was about her neck. Her long tulle veil was held in place by a tiara, and she carried a shower bouquet of white roses.

Deep peach-pink taffeta was worn by the bridesmaid. The gown was fashioned with short puff sleeves and a square neckline, and on her head was a matching juliet cap. Her bouquet of gladioli matched the dress in color.

Vincent and Hubert Oiach, eousins of the bride, served as aitar boys.

A wedding breakfast was served at the Moran home on Clinton street, for the wedding party and their immediate famiiies. Dinner was served at 2 o'elock at the home of the bride's parents in Traverse City, with a tiered wedding eake centering the table. Bouquets of fall flowers decorated the rooms.

Out-of-town guests at the wedding included the bride's parents, her sisters, Margaret and Adeline, of Traverse City, and Robert Brecheisen of Petoskey. Those who attended the dinner at Traverse were the groom's mother, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Olach, sons Vincent and Hubert, and daughters Dorothy and Edith, and Mrs. Molly Smith.

The couple will make their home in Detroit, where Mr. Moran is employed.

In the town of Bloomfield, Nebr., everything is sold on a strictly cash basis.

MISS HELEN GALLAGHER AND IVAN PHILLIPS WED AT ST. MARY'S RECTORY

The wedding of Miss Helen Honora Gailagher, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Peter O. Gallagher, and Ivan Angus Phillips, son of Mr. und Mrs. Angus Phillips, was solemnized at 8 o'clock Saturday morning, September 28, at St. Mary's rectory. Fr. John W. Collins performed the ceremony in the presence of twenty-five guests.

The couple were uttended by Miss Helen LaFreniere, of Grand Rapids, and Danford Gallagher, brother of the bride. Bouquets of white asters decorated the rectory.

High Mass was said by Fr. Bernard Sikorski of Elk Rapids, at St. Mory's church, following the ceremony. Pink and white gladioli were massed about the altar, together with lorge bouquets of white asters and other baskets of gladioli in the sanctuary.

The bride's white silk crepe gown was floor-length, and had a high-necked jacket, with long-sleeves puffed at the top and fitted to the wrist. Orange blossoms were on the cap of her long tulle veil. She carried an arm bouquet of white gladioli.

Miss LaFreniere wore a gown of nqua crepe, floor-length, with a matching turban. She carried pink gladioli.

Mrs. Gallagher, mother of the bride, wore black velvet, with black and gold accessories. Mrs. Phillips, the groom's mother, wore blue crepe. Both had shoulder corsages of pink and white gladioli.

The wedding breakfast was served to the bridal party and members of their immediate famiiies, at the Gallagher home on Nichols street. In the afternoon, a reception was held there for one hundred fifty guests. At the reception, an eight-tiered wedding cake was served. The top decoration was a bell within an arch, above which was a dove.

Mr. and Mrs. Phillips left for a ten-day trip in the upper peninsula and Wisconsin. For traveling, the bride wore a princess style dress of hunter's green wool, with matching fitted coat, and black accessories. White gladioli made her shoulder corsuge.

After November 1, the young couple will make their home in Kalamazoo.

Out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. Mike Culi, Frank Gallagher, Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd McDonough, Bob McDonough, Miss Rita LaFreniere and David Pike, of St. James; Mr. and Mrs. Cyril Smith and Karl M. Harvey, of Petoskey; Lyle Riedmeir, of Sandusky, Ohio; Mr. and Mrs. Walters of Muskegon; Mr. and Mrs. Alwyn Sangster and Mrs. Wallace Burrell and son, of Cheboygan.

CHARLEVOIX COURIER

VOLUME 45 NUMBER 41 | EIGHT PAGES | THE CHARLEVOIX COURIER, WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 9, 1940 | PRICE $2.00 PER YEAR

MACHINERY FOR DRAFT COMPLETE

REGISTER AT ALL VOTING PRECINCTS OCTOBER 16

County Clerk Fenton R. Bulow Has Charge of Registration; Given Instructions and Supplies

Machinery for registration of all Charlevoix county males from 21 through 35 years on October 16 in accordance with the country-wide draft law is being set up by County Clerk Fenton R. Bulow.

Following instructions received last Wednesday, Mr. Bulow has notified city and township clerks to arrange to have the same election officials usually employed at each voting precinct to report for duty on October 16, from 7 a. m. to 9 p. m. The instructions further requested each precinct supervisor be named chief registrar with authority to secure the voluntary services of as many assistant registrars as circumstances require, all to serve without pay.

In accordance with this plan, supervisors of all county precincts will receive instructions and supplies and take the oath at the court house on Monday, October 14, opening day of the October session of the board of supervisors. The board will adjourn from Tuesday afternoon to Thursday morning, leaving Wednesday open for supervisors to conduct the registration in their respective precincts.

Immediately after the registration each registrar must report the number of registrations received at each precinct in order that the clerk may report to the governor the total number in each precinct. The various township registrars must return all supplies to the clerk immediately following the registrations.

The results from the various precincts after they have been compiled at the clerk's office are then turned over to the county draft board composed of Harold F. Lamb, Charlevoix, Dr. B. J. Beuker, East Jordan, and James R. Dean, Boyne City.

The instructions to the county clerk say that a report should be filed immediately as to any difficulty encountered in securing registrars and assistants. It is estimated that one registrar for every 200 people in a precinct is the basis for the number to comprise precinct registration boards.

The materials for county distribution arrived at the clerk's office last Wednesday. Mr. Bulow said that he had received no official notification of his appointment to the draft board, but that he would carry through the instructions sent him.

REPUBLICAN "POLE-RAISING SET FOR SATURDAY

Old-Fashioned Ceremony at Ironton Between 2 and 4 p. m.

Providing the initial pre-election activity of the Charlevoix county Republican Committee, an old-fashioned "Pole-Raising" is scheduled from 2 to 4 p. m. Saturday afternoon, at Ironton.

The affair is primarily a neighborly get-together with all county residents invited to be the guests of Eveline township. Instead of long speeches, it is aimed that citizens take this opportunity to get acquainted and discuss the issues of the day.

An especial invitation is extended to children. Ice cream and coffee will be served.

CONSERVATION PLANE SCOUTS NET GROUNDS

Pontoon-Equipped Ship Patroling Lake Michigan Operations

Pontoon-equipped, a state-owned airplane is carrying enforcement officers of the conservation department on an inspection tour of commercial fishing operations along Michigan's more than 3,000 miles of shoreline on the Great Lakes.

Flying at a height of 2,000 feet, officers can check location, closeness to shore and depth of nets, and, at need, the plane is landed alongside commercial fishing boats when nets are being lifted. Its approach is so swift, fishermen have no opportunity to drop nets, once the lifting operation has begun.

Captain C. J. Allers, commanding the department's biggest patrol boat, is directing the airplane checkup. The plane covers distances in a few days that would require weeks of cruising with the patrol boat.

POMONA GRANGE BAKING CONTEST

AFFAIR SUCCESSFUL EVENT OF LAST FRIDAY

Charlevoix Merchants Donated Prizes for County-Wide Affair — Winners Announced

The Charlevoix county Pomona Grange baking contest, held at South Arm grange hall Friday evening, October 4, was one of the outstanding Grange events of the year.

A long table at one end of the dining hall held the 31 entries from the several Granges. The golden brown loaves of bread, inexpensive yet tasty cakes, attractive cookies and pies all did credit to the farm men and women who made them. A list of the prize winners follows:

White bread: 1st, Mildred Fratrick; 2nd, Lucy Hardy. Yeast graham bread: 1st Alice Willis; 2nd, Genevieve McGeorge. White layer cake (2 eggs): 1st, Georgia Murphy; 2nd, Kathryn Barker. Spice cake: 1st, Mildred Fratrick; 2nd, Eva Falls. Chocolate cake: 1st, Marie Hilton; 2nd, Lola Hardy. White cookies: 1st, Josephine Dhasleer; 2nd, Mrs. Norman Crane. Molasses cookies: 1st, Annu Gornell; 2nd, Sidney Lumley. Hermits: 1st, Lucy Hardy; 2nd Mildred Fratrick. Apple pie: 1st, Josephine Dhasleer. Cherry pie: 1st, Georgia Murphy; 2nd, Lucy Hardy. White cake: 1st, Clyde Warner.

Marie Hilton's chocolate cake won her the grand champion prize, while Clyde Warner took the champion prize for men. The judges were Mrs. Doris Alhus, Mrs. Clara Liskum and Joseph Lew.

Much of the success of the affair was due to Charlevoix merchants who liberally donated prizes for the contest. Contributors were the Gamble Store, Wood Bros., Brown Mo-

UPLAND GAME SEASON OPENS OCT. 15

LOWER PENINSULA COUNTIES OPEN FOR 22 DAYS

Extended Rabbit Hunting Again This Year; Laws and Legal Limits Same as Last Year

Michigan's most popular hunting season opens at 7 a. m. next Tuesday morning, October 15, when the legal lid of protection is lifted from all common varieties of small upland game in the lower peninsula.

With the upland game season above the Straits and the duck season open since October 1, the October 15 opening in the lower peninsula will complete the release of an anticipated 600,000 hunters.

The species which become legal game October 15 are pheasants, partridge, woodcock, cottontail and snowshoe rabbits, fox squirrels, prairie chickens and sharp-tailed grouse. The latter two species are found only in the upper peninsula and northern section of the lower peninsula.

Fox squirrel may be hunted in all the lower peninsula from October 15 to November 5, or as long as the bird season lasts. Gray squirrel, however, may be hunted only in the northwest corner of lower Michigan. Officially, the territory is defined as that lying north of M-46 and west of US-131 and west of M-42 from junction with M-113 to Traverse City, and including Leelanau county.

Game laws, limits and seasons remain virtually the same as last year. All are simply explained in the 1940-41 game law digests which are issued with the hunting licenses.

Unless frost or rain brings the leaves down, foliage will make most small game shooting more difficult, especially partridge hunting early in the season. Prospects this year, according to reports, are good.

WOMEN'S GOP CLUB ENROLLS 7 NEW MEMBERS

Special Meeting is Called for Friday Afternoon, October 18th

Seven new members were added to the enrollment of the Wumen's Republican Club at their meeting last Friday, and attendance is increasing at every meeting.

Reports from the state Republican convention at Grand Rapids were given by the delegates, Mrs. Leo Carey, Mrs. Floyd Ikens, and Mrs. E. E. Stroud. Mrs. A. J. Usher led discussion on the topic of the third term.

A special meeting will be held at the community room Friday, October 18th.

BOYNE WINNER OF SATURDAY CONTEST

DEFEATED CHARLEVOIX BY 31 TO 0 COUNT THERE

Red Rayders Completely Out-Classed by Boyne Squad—Play Onaway Here Saturday

Boyne City high school's Ramblers handed Charlevoix's Red Raiders their first defeat last Saturday, winning 31 to 0 on their home gridiron.

Statistics reveal Charlevoix was badly out-classed throughout the contest. The Rayders were able to advance into Boyne's territory only in the final period against a substitute line-up.

Boyne scored two touchdowns in the first, as many in the second and one in the third period for a total of 31 points. They made good on one try for extra point.

The first touchdown ended a sustained advance on line drives from receiving the kick-off. Harper scored and passed for the extra point. In the same period Carey's attempted pass was ruled a fumble which Boyne recovered on Charlevoix's 30-yard strip. Harper again scored around end and the period ended with Boyne leading 13 to 0.

A series of long end runs culminated with a score early in the second period for the third touchdown, and the fourth followed interception of Nowland's forward pass and a 60-yard dash to Charlevoix's 1-yard strip. A line buck netted the goal.

The final touchdown came in the third stanza when Charlevoix fumbled deep in their own territory. A forward pass on the first play following recovery by Boyne was good across the goal.

Charlevoix held a complete Boyne reserve line-up on even terms in the fourth period, neither side scoring.

The Rayders make their first home appearance at south side athletic field Saturday afternoon. Onaway furnishes the competition.

GEORGE PAPINEAU, FORMER RESIDENT, IS DEAD

Succumbed Thursday at Boyne City; Burial Here Saturday

George Pupineau, 75, died Thursday at his home in Boyne City after an illness of several weeks.

Born in Charlevoix, he lived here many years. He is survived by his wife, the former Jessie Stafford of Charlevoix, and by three daughters, all of whom reside in Boyne City.

Services were held Saturday afternoon at the Stackus Funeral Home in Boyne City, and burial was made at Brookside cemetery, Charlevoix.

BOARD OF SUPERVISORS CONVENE NEXT MONDAY

Adjourn Annual Session One Day for Conduct of Draft Registration

The annual October session of the Charlevoix county board of supervisors convenes next Monday morning at the court house here.

First week of the session will be interrupted by adjournment from Tuesday afternoon to Thursday morning while supervisors of the 25 county precincts act as chief registrars for conscription to be held in voting precincts throughout the county on Wednesday, October 16.

Regular routine of reports, appropriations, etc., will continue when the board re-convenes following adjournment.

CHARLEVOIX LOSES PIONEER RESIDENT

HARRISON BEDFORD CLAIMED BY DEATH MONDAY

Was Former Retail Merchant, Operated Charlevoix's Oldest Hotel; Funeral Held Wednesday

The death Monday of Harrison Bedford, prominent pioneer Charlevoix businessman, took one of this region's earliest citizens. He had been in failing health for an extended period.

Mr. Bedford was born on Beaver Island, November 15, 1857, the son of Thomas and Ruth Ann Bedford. As early settlers on the island, his parents figured prominently in one of Michigan's early historical incidents, the Mormon rule of "King" James J. Strang, whose illustrious career ended with his assassination by Bedford and another of his unwilling subjects.

Thus Harrison Bedford in his early life saw many historical events of significance. At the age of 18 years he came to Charlevoix to work in the Carpenter & Bartholomew store in which he later became a partner through his faithfulness, honesty and reliability. In 1897 he entered business for himself, operating a grocery and shoe store. In 1905 he purchased the Fountain City House, took over its operation personally in 1907, continuing until his death. In 1914 he went to Grand Rapids, where he operated the Hotel Charlevoix until failing health caused him to sell out in 1922 and return to Charlevoix. During this period the Fountain City House continued under his management. Mr. Bedford was a life-long member of the Masonic lodge.

On March 14, 1883, Mr. Bedford married Minnie Cooper, daughter of Richard and Maryetta Cooper, original owners of the Fountain City House, which is the oldest summer hotel in Charlevoix and northern Michigan. Mr. and Mrs. Bedford celebrated their 57th wedding anniversary this year.

Surviving besides the widow are a daughter, Mrs. Mattie Barney, of Grand Rapids; a son, Harold, this city; a sister, Mrs. Julia Cram, this city; also six grandchildren.

Funeral services were conducted with Masonic rites at 2 o'clock Wednesday afternoon from the See Funeral Home, Rev. G. R. Parker officiating. Interment at Brookside cemetery.

"WILLKIE FOR PRESIDENT" HEADQUARTERS OPENED

Offices Located in Lewis Building, Old Postoffice Site

Established by the Republican County Committee, a "Willkie-for-President" headquarters is located in the Lewis building (old postoffice) on Bridge street.

A. L. Fitch, county chairman, states that the headquarters will be open every day in the week for the convenience of the public as a gathering place, distribution of literature, information and whatnot. Mrs. Charles Lamphear has been engaged as secretary in charge of the office.

The headquarters, according to Mr. Fitch, represents the voluntary contribution of interested Republicans of this city to provide a center for pre-election activities. "It is open to all, feel free to use it," he said.

BOY SCOUT CAMPOREE IS SCHEDULED FOR WEEK END

Boy Scouts of Scenic Trails Council will hold their first Council camporee from Saturday noon until Sunday afternoon of the coming week end at Camp Greilick, near Traverse City. Organized activities such as hikes and contests will make up the main part of the program.

The right road is usually up hill most of the way, pretty rough in spots and lined on both sides with folks who didn't make the grade.

You just couldn't imagine Pearl Johnson living any place where he couldn't fish and this following note by his Missus from Cutler City, Oregun, seems to justify such an assertion: "We sure are having a grand time out here in the west. Pearl is catching some nice big salmon. The weather is wonderful. How is everything at home? We enjoy the home paper. Loule See was in to see us and we gave him the Courier to read. Best regards from Mr. and Mrs. Pearl Johnson." Some guys always get the breaks!

Guess I better be more careful what I say in this column. Praised Ralph Hamilton's son David for his fine publication, the St. Mary's News, and be darned if Ralph didn't bill me for a vest and hat big enough to fit the kid. Well, praise where it is deserved is still a mighty fine thing!

LANSING LETTER

By GENE ALLEMAN

Field Manager, Michigan Press Association

When Michigan voters go to the polls November 5, they must make an important decision. They must decide whether or not the people can trust their legislature to carry out the popular will.

For many years it has been an old American custom, regardless of party, for legislators to proclaim: "To the victors, belong the spoils!"

Proposal No. 2 on the November 3 ballot is an amendment to the state constitution which would write civil service into Michigan's basic law and set up a four-member, bi-partisan commission to administer the merit system directly under the constitution.

The legislature would no longer have any practical authority in the civil service picture. Thus would pass away the traditional power of the elected representatives of the

Guests for Tea

Had Meg and my new neighbors in for bridge. You know how the talk goes — babies, husbands, food!
That was my cue to serve tea. "My dear," approved Mrs. Jones, "those orange tea cakes are delicious!"
"Do tell us how you get them so light, yet so fruity," they chorused. Glowing, I said . . .
"It's easy with Occident Flour — the high gluten content makes its dough especially fine for fruit cakes."

Occident keeps baking fresh much longer . . . contains more nourishing protein . . . goes farther.

TO PRESERVE THE MEMORIES AND INCIDENTS OF OUR ASSOCIATION IN THE GREAT WAR

—From the Preamble to the Constitution of The American Legion

Honorable, armed service to their country, in time of war, formed the basis for memorable incidents in which the World War veteran takes just pride. In countless thousands of meetings every year members of the Legion are giving expression to this principle. If you are eligible—join. It's a privilege that can't be purchased.

It is hardly possible that we could forget them. Whether we served on foreign soil or remained in camp here at home the incidents and memories of service life are very much a part of our living and thinking. The extent and variety of our war experience determine the richness of our present memories.

Those who have seen patients in veterans' hospitals know the strength of this appeal. The memories and incidents of the Great War are often the topic of conversation among the boys of 1917-1918 who are unfortunate enough to need hospitalization. To those permanently disabled the war will never be over. Our war memories remind us that the first duty of the Legion is to be continuously alert in helping these unfortunate comrades secure the medical care and compensation to which they are entitled.

OF INTEREST TO FARMERS

County Land Planning Committee Held Important Meeting October 2

The County Land Planning Committee met last week Wednesday in the Boyne City federal building and discussed many important factors shown in the progress report H. A. Berg, in charge of state land planning, Paul Barrett, state representative of the Bureau of Agricultural Economics, and John Stone, soil technician, were present and entered into the discussion.

The map showing the utilization of land or the present uses of land proved to be of great interest. Considering all of the land area in the county, it showed that 48.1% is being actively farmed, 3.8% occupied by rural residents who make their incomes off the farm but live in the country, 7% in recreational uses or held for speculation, 22% in forest and swamps, 13.8% state owned land, and approximately 5% idle or abandoned farms. Thus, roughly, half of our land is being actively farmed.

The new soils map of the county shows that our lands are grouped in eight different classifications. The level to rolling clay land makes up 12½%, the level, sandy loam to loam 11.1%, the rolling to hilly clay land 8.9%, the hilly, sandy loam land 14.1%, the hilly, sandy land 28.2%, the level sand valleys and sand lake benches 8.9%, the swamps and bogs 13.8%, and the dune sand 2.5%.

Other maps showed indebtedness factors and assessment values section by section for the entire county. For three hours time the county committee discussed the problems of Charlevoix county. They decided that whenever possible the extension agents should present this material to as many groups as possible thruout the county so that we can begin thinking more seriously about land planning. Already seven granges in the county have had the opportunity of meeting to hear the story. As soon as plans can be made some five or six other meetings will be held in the present series. Following this, township committees will be met and decisions made in regard to the proper uses of different types of land in the county. All state owned land is to be discussed and a recommended use determined. Up to the present time the majority of attention has been by necessity devoted to the development of facts and statistics. These are nearly complete so we are now at the point where the material is available and will serve as a basis for future agricultural and recreational development. If you have the opportunity to see the maps, charts, and illustrative material, don't fail to attend.

KNOW ● YOUR BANK

Why Interest is Not Paid on Checking Accounts

PAYMENT of interest on demand deposits by any insured bank is prohibited by law or regulation. The reason underlying this prohibition is that the bank can pay interest on deposits only out of earnings from the investment of those deposits in loans or securities.

The money in a checking account may be withdrawn at any time on demand. Consequently the bank must carry larger cash reserves to provide for possible withdrawals, leaving a smaller amount available for investment.

Also, if money invested is to earn a fair return the loan or investment must run for a reasonable length of time. This in turn means that deposits must be left with the bank a reasonable length of time.

TOURIST ASSOCIATION NAMES ITS DIRECTORS

Three From Charlevoix Chosen on Board for 1940-41 Year

Three Charlevoix businessmen were named among 76 directors of the West Michigan Tourist & Resort Association at its annual meeting held Friday, October 4, at Grand Rapids.

Those chosen were Mayor Robert Bridge, Fred E. Cartier and Clair S. Webster, whose duties will be to assist in the association's management policies during 1940-41.

Charlevoix was represented at the meeting by Don Herrick, secretary of the board of commerce, Earl A. Young, E. J. Smith and Harley Oehs, members of the board of directors.

Mr. Herrick appeared on the program Thursday, speaking on Charlevoix's annual summer Venetian boat parade. He also offered to the association's resolutions committee for presentation for Presidential approval, a plan to change Labor Day from the first to third Monday in September as a means of lengthening the resort season. Such a proposal, now being given serious consideration, would require a later opening of schools and the cooperation of all northern states in the country to bring about.

SHOTGUNS CAUSE MORE ACCIDENTS THAN RIFLE

Nimrods Urged to Use Caution to Prevent Mishaps

Duck and small game hunting seasons bring a reminder from the conservation department that last year shotguns proved more deadly in early fall than rifles were in deer season.

Small game seasons in 1939 saw 13 fatal and 57 non-fatal accidents while deer season had 10 fatal and 25 non-fatal accidents. There were 540,898 small game licenses sold, compared with 170,386 licenses (not counting archers') issued to deer hunters.

Typical of the thoughtlessness causing most hunting accidents was that befalling a crow hunter near Eastport, in Charlevoix county, just before the season opened. Dragging his shotgun through a fence after him, he shot away the front part of one leg, including part of the shin bone.

At the Monday night meeting of the Junior Farm Bureau, plans were made for the co-operative supper on October 24th, at Marion Center. A short program, and serving of the dinner, will be in charge of Farm Bureau members. The committee appointed was Lulla Mitchell, Fredn Willis, and Merle Blanchard.

At the next meeting, October 15th, Mr. Hiennick will be with us. Business to be transacted includes instnllation of new officers, selection of voting delegates to the state convention, study of our constitution, and appointment of committees to investigate possibilities of establishing Junior Farm Bureau groups in Boyne City and East Jordan.

ADDITIONAL LOCALS

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Stein and Miss Edith Wineman, of Chicago, and Jesse Myer, of St. Louis, Mo., spent from Thursday until Sunday as guests at the Arthur Ranger home. They also were at the Horton Bay cottage of Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Goldman, and enjoyed the fall steelhead fishing in Lake Charlevoix. Among several steelhead taken by the group was a 5½-pounder. They also had the unusual privilege of seeing a buck deer near the Goldman cottage.

DUCK HUNTERS REQUIRED TO PURCHASE DUCK STAMP

Each hunter must write his signature across the face of his federal duck stamp and carry it with him or paste it on his state small game hunting license to make the license valid for waterfowl shooting.

The same federal migratory bird hunting stamp will supplement the local license in any state, or in Canada or Mexico. The stamp is required of hunters who have passed their sixteenth birthday.

In Memoriam

In loving memory of Andrew Gallagher, who passed away one year ago, October 11, 1939.
Gone from us but leaving memories
Death can never take away.
Memories that will always linger
While upon this earth we stay.
Mrs. Andrew Gallagher and Family.—Adv. 41t1.

AT THE MOVIES

Wallace Beery Coming in "Wyoming," Pioneer Saga

Bringing thrills, action and comedy, "Wyoming," starring Wallace Beery in outdoor adventure, comes October 12-14 to the Palace Theatre, with a cast that includes Leo Carrillo, Ann Rutherford, Lee Bowman, Paul Kelly and other principals.

The historic figure General Custer is played by Paul Kelly, who leads his horsemen to rescue Ann Rutherford and Bobs Watson from an Indian attack on their ranch. Other players are Joseph Calleia, Henry Travers, William Tannen, Stanley Fields, Donald McBride, Clem Bevans, Russell Simpson, Addison Richards, Dick Alexander, Chief Thundercloud, Glenn H. Lucas, Dick Botiller, Sara Haden and Francis McDonald.

Blondie Runs into "Servant Trouble"

"Blondie Has Servant Trouble," latest of the olumbia charaeterizations of Chic Young's famous comic strip, opens October 15 at the Palace Theatre, with its original cast still intact. Arthur Lake is again harnssed Dagwood, Penny Singleton is his pretty wife, Larry Simms, their talkative Baby Dumpling, and Daisy, the ever-wistful pooch. Others in the cast are Jonathan Hale and Raymond Turner. Frank R. Strayer directed this sixth picture of the "Blondie" series.

"Mystery Sea Raider" Virile Film Fare!

If you have any intention of taking an European cruise in the near future, you'd better stop by the Palace Theatre first and have a look at "Mystery Sea Raider," the new Paramount picture featuring Henry Wilcoxon, Carole Landis and Onslow Stevens, which opens October 15th.

Maybe it's propaganda for "See America First," but we must admit that for pure unadulterated dynamite in the way of thrills, this film, based on three of the major naval incidents in World War II, you won't find much to compare with it this side of the international date line.

NOTICE

To the Electors of Charlevoix County—

In making my bid for your support on the Non-Partisan ballot, Tuesday, November 5th, there are a few facts which I would like to have you consider.

The qualifications for the office of Judge of Probate:

A few people have been given to understand that this office requires an attorney. This is not true. The Legislature has many times refused to make this any part of the qualifications. The real qualifications for this office are good judgment, common sense and fairness. Together with several years' valuable experience in public affairs, my work as Probation Officer and Friend of the Court, has been similar in some respects to that in the office of Judge of Probate.

Service at This Office in the Court House:

For many years this county office has been serving the public generally only 3 days per week. Do the people know and approve? How many call at the court house with Probate matters only to find that they arrived on the wrong day? Are the taxpayers not entitled to the same office time given by the other County Officers?

Personally, I feel that they are. If I am elected to this office, I will be at the court house every office day and give the people the best service possible.

Joint Deformities in Children

Three joint deformities are common in children and are amenable to correction if early treatment is given.

Most frequently encountered in children are flat feet. That attention is not more often given to this condition at an early age is, doubtless, due to the fact that it becomes painful in adult life and brings no complaint from the child. Nevertheless, it can be determined by a sinking of the longitudinal arch, a spreading of the forefoot and a turning downward of the toes. Generally, corrective shoes in some cases the Thomas heel, and exercises designed to strengthen the foot muscles is all that is required to prevent difficulties in later life. In a few rare cases the Achilles tendon is too short and must be lengthened by appropriate measures. Corrective exercises should be begun early—any child likes to pick up marbles with his toes.

Scoliosis is the name given to a lateral curvature of the spine and is no doubt influenced by heredity, general debility, rickets and rapid growth. It may also occur as the result of posture or occupation inducing bad posture, to a contraction of the chest following empyema (pus in the pleural cavity or in the chest) or to a contraction of the muscles on one side of the body after paralysis of the opposing muscles.

The condition is disclosed by the fact that the hips are not level, a shoulder markedly higher than the other or by prominence of the shoulder blades. Rest and building up of the general health are beneficial while simple exercises contribute to the correction. Sometimes it is necessary to encase the trunk in a plaster-of-paris jacket for varied periods. Surgery is not indicated.

The slipped femoral epiphysis is a condition which prevents the turning of the leg inward. It results from the fact that the top of the thigh bone slips from its position on the end of the bone. Rapidly growing children of the tall, slender type seem particularly susceptible.

The young child rarely complains only of a limp without fever but later may suffer from serious hip disease as the condition becomes progressively worse. This may be prevented by a relatively simple operation which fastens the head of the bone to its shaft and entirely corrects the deformity. Any child who limps should be examined immediately.

Nothing is to be gained and permanent disability may be incurred through neglect of these three common bone deformities of children.

Flying a Dive Bomber of the U. S. Navy

These dive bombers give the enemy plenty of punishment, but the men who pilot them also take plenty themselves. Commander Smith, one of Uncle Sam's dive bombing aces, tells about his experiences in this type of service and reveals how daring American aviators originated this kind of offensive. Be sure to read his article in This Week, the magazine with next Sunday's Detroit News.

COOK'S LANGUAGE IMPROVES FOODS

Modern scientific cooks know their words. They keep up with the fast-growing list of special terms used in cookery. They know the fine distinction between "panbroiling," sauteing," "frying," and bruising."

"Panbroiling" is one way to cook meat in a skillet on top of the stove. But home economics staff members at Michigan State College explain that the special point about panbroiling is cooking without added fat, without water, and without a cover on the skillet. It is the method to use for tender chops and steaks that have fat of their own and are quickly cooked. Pour off the fat as it renders out, so the meat will not be frying.

"Frying" is a different cooking process. It means actually to cook in fat. Sometimes the fat is deep enough to cover the food entirely, as in frying chicken or croquettes. But one can also fry with shallow fat in a skillet. Hash and meat patties are good examples of shallow-fat frying; and some meats, such as sausages and bacon, fry in their own fat.

"Sauteing" is another puzzler, all the more confusing because it comes from a French word meaning to jump. Sauteing is a cross between panbroiling and frying. It means to brown the food in a little fat and turn it often to keep it from sticking.

The word "braising" comes up again and again in meat cookery. To braise means to brown in a little hot fat, and then cook the meat in steam—with or without added liquid. Swiss steak and pot roast are good examples. These meat cuts are not so tender to start with, but, properly braised, can be cut with a fork when they come to the table.

LET ME TELL YOU
Says "Doc" Hanley

High up above the banks of the Yaqui River, State of Sonora, Mexico, I once had a job as camp boss during the reign of El Presidente Porifirio Diaz. Senor Diaz, you may recall, was the "indispensable man" of his time in Mexico, much as our Mr. Roosevelt of today. He, too, admitted it. There was a time, however, when Senor Diaz was just El Presidente but too much power inflated his ego and he set out to become a "Dictator." He made the grade too, as you may read in your history books.

Well, as I say, I had a job as boss of Camp 8 for the Cananea, Rio Yaqui E Pacifico Ry. and one day a fussy, little "shave-tail" with lots of brass buttons and an escort of peon soldiers drove up in a buck board, strutted into the 45x90 place housing my commissary, office and first aid station. "Produce your payroll," he demanded and when I countered with "how cam" I was informed that Senor El Shavetail was the election board and in order to count noses in my camp must see the payroll and that—"muy pronto" which same I allowed him to do. You just don't argue with dictators ar even their "shavetails." He counted my Mex. added what Yaqui Indians we worked and included the Manchurian Chinese who had been shanghaied from Vladivostok. "Eight seventy-two," he counts and opening a big book he casts 872 votes for El Presidente Diaz for the nth term. Just as easy as that— and he hadn't even seen a voter.

So what sez you? Well, friends, power feeds on power and you have it in your hands to stop budding permanency in your White House. You've paid him EIGHT HUNDRED THOUSAND DOLLARS in wages and expenses, furnished him with the most envied home in America and he wants YOU to continue to support HIM. Diaz, too, always had an emergency on tap till he gained the power to vote natives and aliens alike en bloc. Is that what you want? Do you want some Republican in the future to take three terms and then seek a fourth? Mexico stopped that foolishness by passing a law restricting a president to one term not even two in a row.

Now—I grant you that we may never go totalitarian to the extent that Mexico, Italy, Germany and Russia went but no country can exist half-totalitarian, half-democracy. It must be one or the other—it can't be both.

This is the world's last Democracy—save it by electing Willkie. Roosevelt votes his payroll parasites en bloc. The only way to stop that is to defeat him and elect Willkie.

WORLD LINE-UP

The three dictatorships, Germany and Italy and Japan, seem to have agreed to divide the world among them as the Roman dictators, Caesar and Crassus and Pompey, did 2,000 years ago.

That ancient treaty didn't last long. Soon one of the partners was squeezed out and the other two became involved in civil war, affecting all the known world. We might have something of the kind again, but scope and destructive power are immensely greater.

It is not a civil war now, unless you look at the whole world as a unit. Civilization is split. It is a great duel between two groups of nations and interests representing rival ways of life and thought. It is force against freedom, collective power against individualism, dictatorship against democracy. It is also a tremendous effort on the part of a few strong men to grasp the world's wealth and use it to hold their power when they have mastered the earth.

The three predatory dictators may have with them Communist Russia. That now seems unlikely, but whether Stalin will help the democracies is doubtful. He may prefer to see the world shattered and pick up the pieces.

At any rate, the saving of modern civilization as we have known it is now the definite task of a divided but co-operative race of free men, Britons and Americans, poorly prepared at present, but unafraid and with vast resources.

DODGE INTRODUCES '41 LINE OF MOTOR TRUCKS

Brown Motors, Inc., Local Dealers Announce Improvements

Modernly streamlined in styling and markedly advanced in design and engineering, the new 1941 line of Dodge Job-Rated trucks is by far the most complete in the history of the corporation, according to Benj. Brown of the Brown Motors, Inc., local dealers.

Offered in 112 standard chassis and body models, (an increase of 16 models since the outset of 1940) on 18 different wheelbase lengths and in 6 capacities ranging from one-half-ton commercial units to heavy-duty gasoline and Diesel-powered freight haulers, the new line is said to meet more than 97 per cent of all truck hauling requirements.

An impressive trimness and sturdiness characterizes the up-to-date appearance of these new trucks.

The new ½, ¾ and 1-ton models are available in a score of two-tone color combinations at no extra cost.

Registration Notice For General November Election November 5, 1940

To the Qualified Electors of the City of Charlevoix, State of Michigan:

Notice is hereby given that in conformity with the "Michigan Election Law," I, the undersigned City Clerk will, upon any day except Sunday and a legal holiday, the day of any regular or special election or primary election, receive for registration the name of any legal voter in said city not already registered who may APPLY TO ME PERSONALLY for such registration. Provided, however, that I can receive no names for registration during the twenty days preceding any regular, special, or official primary election and the day of such election.

The last day for General Registration does not apply to persons who vote under the Absent Voters' Law. (See Registration by Affidavit.)

Notice is hereby given to the Qualified Electors of this city that I, the undersigned clerk of said city, will register qualified electors who may apply at my office on any business day in the year up to and including

Wednesday, October 16, 1940—Last Day

for General Registration by personal application for said election, from 8 o'clock a. m. to 8 o'clock p. m.

The name of no person but an ACTUAL RESIDENT of the city at the time of registration, and entitled under the constitution, if remaining such resident, to vote at the next election shall be entered in the registration book.

Registration of Absentee by Oath

If any person whose name is not registered shall offer and claim the right to vote at any election, or primary election, and shall UNDER OATH, state that he or she is a resident of such precinct and has resided in the CITY TWENTY DAYS next preceding such election, designating particularly the place of his or her residence and that he or she possesses the other qualifications of an elector under the constitution; and that, owing to the sickness or bodily infirmity of himself or herself, or some member of his or her family or owing to his or her absence from the city on public business or his or her own business, and without intent to avoid or delay his or her registration, he or she was unable to make application for registration on the last day provided by law for the registering of electors preceding such election, then the name of such person shall be registered, and he or she shall then be permitted to vote at such election. If such applicant shall in said matter, willfully make any false statement, he or she shall be deemed guilty of perjury, and upon conviction, be subject to the pains and penalties thereof.

Provided, That any city may provide or by resolution approved by a majority of the members of its legislative body for the registration of such sick and absent voters on the last Saturday preceding any election or primary election at the places of voting in the several voting districts of such city, instead of on election or primary election day.

Provision In Case of Removal to Another Precinct

Any registered and qualified voter who has REMOVED from ONE ELECTION PRECINCT to another election precinct shall have the right, on any day previous to election day, on application to the city clerk, to have his or her name transferred from the registration book of the precinct from which he or she HAS REMOVED to the registration book of the precinct in which he or she THEN RESIDES. Such elector shall have the right to have such transfer made ON ELECTION DAY, or Primary election day, by obtaining from the board of inspectors of election of the precinct from which he or she HAS REMOVED a CERTIFICATE OF TRANSFER, and presenting the said certificate to the BOARD OF ELECTION INSPECTORS OF THE PRECINCT IN WHICH HE OR SHE THEN RESIDES.

Dated October 1, 1940.

people over this phase of state administration.

Would this transition be good or bad? That is the question the voters must decide, and it is admitted there is much to be said on both sides of the case.

Merit System

Probably the first question in the mind of the neutral voter is, Why is it deemed necessary to strip the legislators of this power?

The Michigan Merit System Association, sponsor of the amendment, has taken the stand that the legislature cannot be relied upon to give the state a real civil service, and the association leaders point to the state's three-year experience with the merit system as evidence that patronage governs the choice of state employees and disrupts efficiency.

It will be remembered that the 1937 Democratic legislature passed the bill setting up Michigan's first civil service. Frank Murphy, then governor, imported William Brownrigg from California to administer the system. Director Brownrigg proceeded to hew to the line so rigorously in choosing employees by question-and-answer tests and in governing employee relations according to the letter of the law, that a political reaction blew him out of office early in 1939.

At that time the newly elected Republican legislature revised the system by what critics termed a "rip per" bill. There were observers, in politics and out, who felt the liberalization was justified on the basis that Brownrigg had sought to do the impossible, namely, to reform government overnight.

8,000 Employees

The original act brought approximately 15,000 workers under civil service. At present there are only about 8,800 of the state's total of 17,500 employees under the setup.

All this will be changed if the amendment passes. So sweeping is the measure that only about 570 positions (elected officers, department heads, board, and commission members, employees of the legislature, and not more than two other positions for each elected administrative officer and each department, board, and commission) would be exempt.

Furthermore the amendment manipulates the state's pursestrings. It directs the legislature to appropriate not less than one per cent of the total state payroll for the merit system. This means considerably more money than civil service is now getting.

Many objections to the amendment have been raised. Various organizations which have supported civil service and which formerly backed the Merit System Association's program, are opposing the current proposal. They include the state department of the American Legion, Michigan Farm Bureau, Inc., Michigan Federation of Labor, and the Michigan Federation of Business and Professional Women.

The opposition centers on the argument that whatever corrections need to be made to civil service should be made by the legislature and not through constitutional alterations. If the law-makers are not now doing the will of the people, then the voters can elect legislators who will. That is the contention.

Pro and Con

There are other lesser objections, however. For instance, the various ex-servicemen's organizations are zealous to safeguard the advantages they have gained through the veterans preference act. The amendment would nullify that law and leave preference questions entirely up to the new commission. The commissioners, incidentally, would be appointed by the governor and serve staggered terms.

The Michigan Federation of Labor has attacked the amendment because it pre-allocates funds and on the ground it would jeapordize the bargaining rights of labor.

On the other hand, proponents of the amendment emphasize the efficiency angle. The words of Samuel H. Ordway, Jr., of New York City, president of the National Civil Service Reform League, illustrate this point.

"Each of us as citizen and taxpayer," he said in a recent talk in Lansing, "is concerned not only with getting a dollar's worth of service for a tax dollar paid, but, for the preservation of democracy itself, in seeing that all these services are as effectively rendered as skill, non-partisanship, and high morale can assure."

Democracy

Supporters of the amendment argue that the measure represents the very essence of democracy, in that the people thereby write their own law into the constitution. California and one or two other states are said to have used this means to safeguard civil service against legislative tampering.

This leads to the most serious objection made against the amendment, namely, the implications as to continuation of the American form of representative government. If the legislature cannot be trusted, and if civil service can more efficiently and more satisfactorily be administered by a small super-commission, why not finances, health matters, and everything else the legislature now handles? Why not gradually dissolve the legislature and let constitutional bureaus do the whole job? These are the questions being advanced.

It is further contended that the net result of adoption of the amendment would be a growing laxness on the part of the electorate. The need of watching legislators would be somewhat diminished, and a legislature now said to be weak would become still weaker.

Thus the people would be doing less than ever to govern themselves intelligently, it is argued.

Although neutral observers have been slow to take up the cries of alarm raised by some opponents of the amendment, it is freely admitted the proposal implies a modification in the traditional American pattern of government. Some observers regard this change as desirable, as one calculated to streamline and strengthen the familiar party system of representative government.

It is apparent that the amendment will be supported in November by many who feel that in no other way can a stable civil service be effected. It is also apparent, however, that the proposal will meet opposition on the ground that the legislature, with all its faults, should remain the administrative arm of the people.

News" written weekly by J. W. Morse. Mr. Murse died Wednesday morning at his home near Central Lake. A rural school teacher in Antrim county for over 35 years, Mr. Morse devoted his waning years to Sunday school work in which he was intensely interested. He arranged programs and contests, gave prizes for attendance and made it u point to persoually visit as muny schools as possible each Sunday. His column, written in perhaps homely, but very understundable phrases, expressed a deep understanding of local and national affairs. The passing of such men is regrettable.

Well, got the first Sunday of upper peninsula bird season out of my system, and that's all. Didn't find any "pats" to brag about, and with the foliage so heavy, couldn't have seen to shoot at 'em if we had found them. Intended to go after prairie chicken out on the plains in the afternoon, but that idea was rained out. The trip had its reward, however. Scenery in the upper peninsula now is beautiful beyond words to express. Such color cumbinations! It was well worth the effort involved to see this one of nature's wonders.

Charlevoix high school's Red Rayder football team play their first home game nt south side athletic field Saturday afternoon. Perhaps more home support than teams have enjoyed in the past night make a difference in what goes up on the score board. Let's give it a try!

Tomorrow, October 10th, is the last day one can legally troll for mackinaw trout in Lake Michigan until after the closed season, effective for one month. And they're still waiting for the perch "run" to start before beginning that proposed fall fishing festival. Tsh. Tsh.

The person who does not vote throws uway his right to choose the men be believes nre best fitted to administer the government. Just remember this, and if you haven't registered su you are entitled to vote, do su now!

Well, Cincinnati won the world's baseball championship, nnd just between you and me, it's a good thing somebody did pretty soon, because for a solid week it was almost necessary to do business alongside a radio between announcements. Maybe things will get down to normal again now.

Charlevoix county's Ironton ferry of Ripley "Believe It or Not" fame, was exploited hy picture and word in the rotogravure section of the Detroit News, issue of Sunday, October 6. Ferryman Sam Alexander, his residence and the ferry were shown in excellent photographs.

I'll confess Republican "Pole-Rnising" affairs were before my tender years, so I'm unable to explain what the doin's scheduled for Saturday afternoon at Ironton are nll about. It sounds interesting, though, so perhaps it would be a good idea to attend in order to see how they used to do things.

MISS GLORIA DICKIE AND CORNELIUS DeYOUNG ARE MARRIED FRIDAY EVENING

Miss Gloria Dickie, daughter of Mr. nnd Mrs. Robert Dickie, and Cornelius J. DeYoung, son of Mr. and Mrs. James DeYoung, of Grand Rapids, were united in marriage Friday evening, October 4, at 8 o'clock at the home of the bride's parents, Rev. H. J. Pulsipher read the ceremony. The room was lit with tall white tapers, and the wedding party stood beneath an arch of cedar boughs entwined with white dahlias.

Attendants were Miss Junnita Dickie, sister of the bride, and Minert Veenstra.

Mrs. Charles Struthers, at the piano, played the wedding march and accompanied the Misses Delorn and Edna Richardson, who sang "I Love You Truly."

The bride's gown was of navy fnille, street-length, with high neck, tight bodice and long sleeves. Yellow dahlias and blue forget-me-nots made her shoulder corsage. Her sister wore a dress of lighter blue, with a corsage of white asters nnd forget-me-nots. For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Dickie chose green crepe, with a shoulder corsage of lavender asters.

A reception for the thirty guests was held following the ceremony. The refreshment table bore a four-tiered wedding cake, topped by a miniature bride and groom. Tall candles and bowl of pastel flowers completed the lovely table setting.

Mr. and Mrs. DeYoung left for a short wedding trip to the upper peninsula. They will make their home in Grand Rapids.

MUSKEGON FIRM GIVEN CHANNEL MAIN REPAIR

Contract for Re-Laying Water Conduit Awarded Holthe & Shultz

The Muskegon firm of Holthe & Shultz was awarded contract Monday night by the city council for relaying of the upper channel water main between Round lake and Lake Charlevoix.

The firm's bid of $3,800 was low of those received for the work of repairing the damage caused late in the summer of 1939 by the dredge Gen. Meade. The main will be put down to a greater depth complying with the new water level established by the war department.

City officials have received a check from the War Department in the amount of $3,100 allowed upon the city's claim for damages caused by the Gen. Meade.

FORESTRY PROJECT BEGUN ON DIXON AVENUE

Elimination of Power Line Trouble and Proper Care of Trees is Aim

Trimming and care of trees on Dixon avenue is embodied in a project authorized by the city council and in progress for some time.

In reporting to the council on the work Monday night, City Superintendent Don Herrick revealed that the number of trees treated to date was 151, which included trimming 139, removing 8 and treating 15 for cavities.

The work is aimed to elliminate interference with power lines and place the trees in proper physical condition. The work is being done by the Associnted Graduate Foresters.

405 Bridge Street Charlevoix, Michigan

This house was bought one month ago . . .

ONE MONTH after this house was purchased, a Michigan windstorm damaged it to the extent of $3,900.00; and it was a $3,900.00 loss, literally, for the property wasn't protected by windstorm insurance. A $4,000.00 policy with the State Mutual Cyclone Insurance Company, costing $6.00 a year, would have afforded ample protection.

Nobody can afford to gamble against windstorms. They will destroy property in Michigan this year . . . as surely as they did last year; the State Mutual Cyclone Insurance Company's claims, for 43 years, prove this conclusively.

For $1.50 a year you can buy $1.000.00 worth of windstorm protection from the reliable State Mutual Cyclone Insurance Company. Don't wait 'til it's too late! See your local agent today.

Michigan windstorms occur annually: damage and destroy property worth hundreds of thousands of dollars. Windstorm insurance is the only protection. Write today for your free copy of "GAMBLERS BEWARE!" Address me personally, Home Office, Lapeer, Michigan.

SUPERVISORS IN OCTOBER SESSION

ADJOURNED TUESDAY NOON TO CONDUCT REGISTRATION

Re-Convene Thursday Morning to Continue Business of Session—No Banquat This Year

The 72nd annual session of the Charlevoix county haard of supervisors, which convened Manday morning, was adjourned Tuesday noon until Thursday.

Appointed Monday afternoon as chief registrars in their respective precincts for registration under the Selective Training and Service Act, supervisors returned home to conduct these duties. The board will reconvene Thursday morning to continae business of the session.

Prior to udjournment, tho board heard reading of correspondence, reports of departments, etc., and referred such matlers to proper committees for study and future report.

Hugh J. Gray reported activities of the West Michigan Tourist & Resort Association and requested the customary financial support. Other reports were given by Miss Douna Becker for the Michigan Childrens' Aid, Dr. Wallace Chapman for District Health Unit No. 3, Harry A. Craig for Charlevoix Hospital, Harold F. Lamb for the Charlevoix County Social Welfare Commission, Lawrence Isaman for the Charlevoix County Agricultural Society. In each instance appropriation of funds was requested as in the past. These reports were referred to various committees.

Contrury to the custom of previous years, no banquet for supervisors, county officers and business men of the county will be held this year. Interruption cnused by Tuesday's udjournment, together with a desire of solons to bring the session to a close as soon as possible, resulted in a decision to dispense with the banquet for this year as a means of saving time.

The hoard will continue its work of the session Thursday morning.

SCENES OF 1918 RE-ENACTED AT CITY HALL

Boards Holding First Paaca-Time Conscription in Voting Places Throughout County

Scenes reminiscent of 1918 were being re-enacted throughout Charlevoix county and the nation today as registration under the Selective Training and Service Act, first peacetime compulsory military trnining law, got under way.

Strangely coincident, with respect to Charlevoix in particular, was the presence on registration boards of numerous World War veterans who served their country 22 years ago and now are over the draft age limit.

Acting on the registration board in the community room of the city hall this morning were Charles Hamlin, Harold F. Lamb, A. L. Fochtman, Frank Poole, Arthur Bergeon, the Misses June Kibbe and Marjorie Webster and Mrs. Oscar Stroud. Others were to assist in the work during the day while registration is under way between 7 a. m. and 9 p. m. Their names are not available at this time.

Up to noon today (Wednesday) 171 between the ages of 21 and 35 had been registered. Similar registration is being held in regular voting places in townships and cities thruout the county. Full results of the registration will not he available for this week's issue.

ROAD HUNTING DANGEROUS AND ILLEGAL, TOO

Hunters Are Warned to Refrain from Shooting from Automobile

Besides being highly dangerous, "road hunting" involves trespass and therefore is illegal, men beginning their small game season in lower Michignn Tuesday are warned by the conservntion department.

Also, hunters eager to shoot at pheasants ulong tho roadside they see while driving are reminded that laws specifically prohibit the carrying of loaded guns in automobiles, und the shooting of game from an nutomobile. And according to an attorney general's opinion, the only right the public has on the highway is the easement to pass over.

Under the Horton trespass law, whieh is enforced by local peace officers, hunters may not go upon farmland or enclosed hunting club lunds without the consent of the owner or lessee.

Recently arriving here from New York, Mr. Blinoff expects to make his home in Charlevoix and give instruction to anyone wishing to master the fine art of the violin.

FISHING FESTIVAL INVITATIONS ARE SENT OUT

Influx of Sportsmen is Expected Over Coming Weak End

Five hundred letters inviting sportsmen to Charlevoix were issued Saturday by the hoard of commerce, marking the official opening of a Fall Fishing Festival for which plans have been under way for some time.

Lateness of the senson and uncertninty, particularly, of the annual fall perch "run" had held up issuance of announcements of the event. Responses to the invitntions have been received in quite large numbers this week, indicating an influx of fishermen fnr the coming week end.

The board of commerce, in cooperation with the Charlevoix Sportsmen's Club, is stressing steelhead fishing on Lake Charlevoix, night fishing for smelt and perch fishing. Lighting of docks on both Round lake und Lake Charlevoix has been provided.

NEW 1941 AUTO PLATES ON SALE TO MOTORISTS

Carl Bogart Listed as First Purchaser at Local Branch Office

Auto license plates for 1941 nre now on sale in all branch offices of the Secretary of State, according to Fenton R. Bulow, local manager, who stated the first set of plates were issued to Carl Bogart for a new Ford.

To stimulate the sale of new cars, Harry F. Kelly, secretary of state, authorized issuance of the new plates to coincide with the display of new models at the Detroit Auto Show.

The plates nre the same size as those of 1939 and the uniform letter and nameral system (two letters and four numerals) is retained.

The color scheme for 1941 is white letters and numerals on a muronn background, this cnmbination having been recommended hy nuto engineers, traffic experts, police, nuto club officials, and other interested parties after a series of visibility tests at the General Motors Proving Grounds, at Midland.

The new plates were placed on sale eight days earlier than in 1939 tn correspond with the earlier date of the nuto show this year.

KIWANIS TO STAGE FARM DAY PROGRAM

POTATO AND APPLE SHOW TO BE HELD NOVEMBER 2ND

Cooperation of City Council and Board of Commerce Expectad for Second Annual Event

(By B. C. Mellencamp)

The Kiwanis Club of Charlevoix is rapidly developing plans for a potato show und farmers night program tentatively set for Saturday, November 2nd.

It is expected that, in addition to the Kiwanis Club, the city of Charlevoix and board of commerce, supported by the merchants nnd businessmen, will cooperate in the same splendid way as last year when a most successful show was held followed with a highly attractive program in the high school gymnasium.

In addition to exhibits shown by adult exhibitors, all of the 4-H club members, with crops projects and forestry und conservation projects, will exhibit. Already the Smith-Hughes schools of Boyne City and East Jordan are selecting their show samples and getting things in readiness for Charlevoix county's full festival. A premium list, similar to last year's, will in all likelihood be made uvailable. This certainly will encourage some red-hot competition among our good potato growers.

The Kiwanis committee has informally advised that an unusual program is being developed that will be filled with splendid surprises. Several worthwhile prizes will be given to the holders of lucky tickets. Read the columns of your paper for further details but right now remember that the city of Charlevoix wants you to be their guests nt the potato show and wanls to entertain you in the evening with a program packed full of enjoyment.

CHARLEVOIX WON SATURDAY'S TILT

DEFEATED ONAWAY GRIDMEN BY 12 TO 0 COUNT

Two Touchdowns In Second Quarter Gave Raydars Second Conferanca Victory—Play Jordan Next

Charlevoix high school's Red Rayders chalked up their second conference football victory Saturday afternoon, winning 12 to 0 from a light but determined Onaway team. It was the Rayders' initial home appearance of the season.

Charlevoix scored both af its touchdowns in the second periad. Onaway fumbled a Rayder punt on their own 38-yard line as the initial period clased to provide the first opportunity. Rowe and Nowland alternated with end runs und thrusts through the line for the remaining distnnce, Nowland scoring from the 2-ynrd strip in the curly moments of the period.

The Rayders scored ugain the first time they obtained the ball after kicking to Onaway. A pass, Carey to Novotny, carried Charlevoix from mid-field to Onaway's 22-yard line. Rowe made 9 yards off tackle, Nowland cracked the line for a first down on Onaway's 4-yard strip and went over on the next jday. Both tries for extra point after touchdown failed.

Onaway made its strongest hid during the last two periods, but never advanced far into Charlevoix territory. Mudden, Onaway fullback, was the stand-out performer for the visitors, assuming a greater portion of the ball-toting and giving an all-nround good performanee.

Carey tossed five passes during the game. One was completed and this paved the way for a touchdown. Onaway never passed once, depending entirely upon end runs and line plays to gain distunce.

The two teams were very evenly matched in size and weight, bat Charlevoix presented a faster, more alert combinntion of ball-toters. Rowe gained ground consistently around the ends, as did also Carey. Nowland made numerous long gains through the line.

LANSING LETTER

By GENE ALLEMAN

Field Manager, Michigan Press Association

What is the capacity of an electorate to vote intelligently on complex issues at the polls?

This questinn is again being weighed by political observers as the November 5 election approaches with a ballot of statewide proposals that hits a new high in "bedsheet" proportions. Capitol authorities here say it is the longest ballot of its kind in Michigan's histnry. Previous ones have at times carried more individual propositions, but the four proposals on the current offering require more space in print.

Of course the size of a ballot is not in itself the real point. It is the implication that the long voting sheet with its confusing complexities will overwhelm the voter and result in a small and perhaps uninformed aggregate vote, that invites scrutiny.

It is not denied that the voter who

ARRANGING FOR MICHIGAN'S OBSERVANCE OF NAVY DAY, THURSDAY, OCTOBER 24

Left: D. Dwight Douglas, general state chairman for Navy Day; right, Captain R. Thornton Broadhead, high ranking officer of the Michigan Naval Reserve.

Governor Luren D. Dickinson has issued a proclamation urging the observance of Navy Day throughout Michigan on Thursday, October 24.

Normally Navy Day occurs on the anniversary of the birthday of Theodore Roosevelt, known as the father of the modern American Navy. That date this year falls on a Sunday, however, and the change was made accordingly.

D. Dwight Douglas, general chairman for the Michigan observance, and Captain R. Thornton Broadhead, head of the Michigan Naval Reserve, together with the Veterans of Foreign Wars and the American Legion, are working on the plans with a large general committee. Local chairmen will be named throughout the state and will announce their committees and plans shortly.

"Here's what I think—"

"I see by the papers that the Gallup poll shows one out of every three persons hasn't made up his mind whether to vote four years for Willkie or nine, ten, eleven and twelve years for Roosevelt.

"Well, if I were a veteran, I'd remember that Willkie volunteered within 24 hours after we got into the last war. He won his captaincy by overseas service on the front line, not by White House pull. He didn't warm a swivel seat at Washington, either.

"If I were a mother, I'd surely want to know how far the Brain Trust has involved us down a costly and bloody road to war. Who and where are those 2,000,000 American boys going to fight, anyway—in France again, or Japan?

"If I were a laboring man, I'd want a steady job with good pay and reasonable hours. I can trust a man like Willkie, who rose humbly as a worker himself, to responsibility as an employer of thousands of folks. He served even as legal counsel for labor unions, wants to preserve and extend our social security laws, and otherwise give the worker a real deal. I'd believe in a man who proved during the depression that it could be done—lowering consumer costs and putting more men to work, both at the same time! After all, you've got to have a job first before you can bargain with anyone.

"If I were a business man, I'd certainly remember the staggering debt of 60 billions spent in the past seven and a half years, the mounting burden of taxes, and the un-American inciting of class against class. Let's give business a chance!

"If I were a farmer, I'd think twice about today's low farm prices, our threatening national bankruptcy, and I'd support this next-door Hoosier just because it makes good horse sense. Here's a man who owns his own farms. You can't go wrong with Willkie.

"It was Churchill, a few years ago, who said Roosevelt had failed to solve the depression here and was hurting world recovery. What did the British do when Chamberlain got them into the middle of the stream, even after war was declared? Why, they turned to this man Churchill!

"I feel we're in the same fix now. It's high time we turned to our American Churchill, Mr. Wendell L. Willkie, while there is still time for us to keep out of war.

"Yes, they threw rotten eggs at him in some of the automobile towns. Well, some radical agitators threw more than that at the good name of Michigan in 1937, and you remember what we folks did in November, two years ago? We made no mistake then.

• • •

"Let's finish the job on Nov. 5!"

TO INCULCATE A SENSE OF INDIVIDUAL OBLIGATION TO THE COMMUNITY, STATE, AND NATION

—From the Preamble to the Constitution of The American Legion

Every program of The American Legion is in support of the idea that we shall depend upon the rule of the ballot rather than that of the bullet. The individual obligation is met year after year by the members of the Legion Post.

If we are to build a better Nation we must do it by developing better individuals. This obligation to us of the Legion is an individual matter. We cannot afford to sit back and let George do it. The influence of one life well lived in service to humanity will do more to help others of the community live a better life and will do more to help bring the Kingdom of Heaven here upon earth than all the speeches, laws, and regimentation of all time. If we are to bring about a harmonious balance in our community, state, and national life we must all develop a harmonious balance in our own lives.

The numerous educational, civic, social, and humanitarian phases of Legion activity offer opportunity to all for individual service. Let us all accept this challenge as an individual obligation and volunteer our services whenever needed.

AT THE MOVIES

Hollywood's Song-and-Dance Talent Garnered in "Strike Up the Band"

Mickey Rooney, Judy Garlind, June Preisser and other clever youngsters who rocked millions with laughter in "Babes in Arms" are at it again in "Strike Up the Band," merry musical of youth coming October 19-21, to the Palace Theatre.

This time Mickey and Judy organize a high school swing band and put on a show to raise money for a trip to Paul Whiteman's radio contest for school bands in Chicago. Mickey meets Whiteman (played by the orchestra leader in person), all is set for the trip, then one of their pals needs the money for medical aid to save his life, and they make the sacrifice. But thanks tn the town millionaire, they make the trip and win the contest.

Lovely Carole Landis Stars in "Turnabout"

Carol Landis has the feminine lead opposite John Hubbard in his production of Thorne Smith's mirthful comedy, "Turnabout," which shows October 22-23 at the Palnce Theatre thru United Artists release.

"Earthbound" Features Ghost Who Can't Die

The murdered man in "Earthbound" won't stay dead. He is Warner Baxter, who is 20th Century-Fox's surprising film which is coming to the Palace Theatre on October 22-23. He remains on after his death, in the form of a ghost-like apparition, through spectacular motion picture magic.

"The Quarterback" Is a Top Football Thriller

Wayne Morris covers himself with glory in a difficult role in Paramount's "The Quarterback," which npens October 24 at the Palace Thentre. He plays twins in this hilarious farce nf college football. It's a good story and well planned and the audience will enjoy every minute of its romance and comedy.

A large cast of excellent actors play featured roles with Wayne Morris, Virginia Dale nnd Lillian Cornell, William Frnwley plays the coach, Alan Mowbray the dean of the college, Jerome Cowun, Rod Cameron, Walter Catlett and Frnnk Burke, all have important roles. The picture was directed by H. Bruce Humberstone from an original screen play by Robert Pirosh.

Just 21 years ago the first state tax on gasoline, a mere 1-cent a gallon levy, was inaugurated by Oregon. In 1939, state gasoline taxes reached a record high of $816,433,000.

A FREE FUTURE

A mother of three said to the group gathered for a social evening, "Roosevelt has made a mess of things, I think. But there's no one can do anything about it. So let him keep on and try to settle things."

There spoke only one of thousands of people who today have that same outlook on the future—hopeless.

Can democracy survive if the people lack confidence in it? Absolutely not!

And what can we do to preserve a free future? Today we have a free vote!

We have chaotic world conditions to face today. We need a strong, united confident people to meet them. With that spirit we can overcome all peril from without.

Without it we will not survive as a free people.

Take your choice. Continue as we are and face a darker and darker future.

Or give America back to freedom-loving, confident Americans facing a free future with a man who believes that no man is indispensable in a democracy!

A noted lecturer has announced a series of lectures on "Language and Fact." Is there any connection between these two in a presidential election year?

My Message...

Tu the good people of Charlevnix County:

The dutics of my effice as Probate Judge de net permit me te make an active campaign fer re-electien next month; and the dignity of the office ferbids that I sheuld do so.

But I can give you this message for yeur consideratien:

1st. The office of Judge of Probate is not a clerical ner a political one requiring constant presence in the probate office. It is a JUDICIAL office quite similar to that of Circuit Judge. My office or clerical werk is comparatively light, when compared with the judicial duties, which cover all over the ceunty. True, mest hearings are had in the prebate office; but in the interests of economy and saving of taxpeyers' money, many matters are taken care of in East Jordan and Beyne City, and elsewhere in the ceunty; —thus saving witness fees and time and money for these interested. My travel expense costs the taxpayers nothing; and there has never been any charge to the county fer office rent or space, or for 'phone rentals, or for over-time work done.

2nd. The judicial duties of the Probate Court are varied and impertant; and not infrequently involve large sums of money. Within the past year one estate alone amounted to over a half million dollars; and several exceeded $50,000. Such estates requiro careful legal knowledge and experience as they always include many kinds of property. Then, too, there are the scores of small estates of $1,000 or less. They all require the samo care, as the few dollars are just as precious to the poor as the millions are to the rich. I am always glad to give free legal advice to all those interested in any matter in my court as to their rights in the matter.

3rd. Then there are the many guardianship cases, which always involve minors or incompetent persons,—and such proceedings require legal exactness, from start to finish, besides supervision of the property and investments of the ward's estate.

4th. Maoy adeption cases are also difficult and require careful study of the law to make them legal.

5th. And then thero are the scores of hospitalization cases of afflicted, crippled and injured children. They all require personal attention te weed out the unworthy, and keep within our allotment which has been reduced to about 20% in the last two years. We have been able to keep within our allotment, and also give good service.

6th. Then there are the many juvenile cases,—delinquent, neglected and dependent children. All under 17 years of age, are under the jurisdiction of the Probate Court, except felony cases. With the help of the County Agent, I have personally investigated every delinquent juvenile case, and have sought to require the child to right any wrong committed, and then keep him under probatien, either to myself or some good neighbor or friend. In this way, I believe we have salvaged 98% of these brought into court.

7th. In the above I have not mentioned the unfortunate widews. The law makes it the special duty of the judge to acquaint them with their rights, and to see that they aro protected.

8th. All of the judicial duties listed above, and many others, do require a lot of common sense, but also require a larger amount of legal education and experience, which I believo I have after 32 yeers as an active practicing lawyer. And I am frank to say that the services required uf the Judge of Probate, as abovo set forth, cannot be rendered by sitting in the Probate Office all of the time. The law itself only requires the Probato Court to be open "at reasonable times AS FIXED BY THE JUDGE." Our own Circuit Judge only spends from 20 to 30 days a year in his office here, and we do not complain about that.

9th. When not in the Probate office I am subject to call at any time, night or day, and maintain 'phones at my own expense for that purpose. I frequently attend to Probate matters in my home or office evenings, by appoiotment: aod I have always sought to handle all Probate matters in my court with as little expenso as possible, and at tho same time see that everything is legally done.

Lastly, I havo conscienciously tried to fulfill the duties required of mo as Probate Judge, efficiently, promptly, and with the dignity that the office requires; and if re-elected will continua so to do.

I want to thank the physicians of the county for their fino cooperation in the hospitalization of children; and my special thanks is given to all those, including the Kiwanis and Rotary Clubs, who have so cheerfully helped out in juvenile casos. So much could oot have been accomplished without their help.

Aod now, if for services heretofore rendered, I am deserving of it, I will be truly grateful for your support and veto at the coming election on the non-partisan ballot.

Most Sincerely,

ERVAN A. RUEGSEGGER

Judge of Probate.

HARRY KELLY STANDS ON RECORD IN OFFICE

Statistics Show Increased Production at Big Tax Savings

Accurding to Fenton R. Bulow, branch manager of the Secretary of State's office, in Charlevoix, Harry F. Kelly, secretary of state, will stand on his record during his first term in office, for re-election.

During this first term in office, Mr. Bulow says, Mr. Kelly has accomplished a great many economies in the administration of his department, which have produced a net savings to the state of more than a quarter of a million dollars. Mr. Bulow says further, that while making this enormous savings, Mr. Kelly increased the gross revenue of the department by over $15,000,000.

Harry F. Kelly

Summing up this situation Mr. Bulow says that by effecting a quarter of a million dollars in economy, and increasing the production by $15,000,000, Mr. Kelly has done a very creditable job.

Specifically, some of the accomplishments of Mr. Kelly are, the introduction of the uniform plate system, the replacement of the obsolete titles by the modern photo process titles, speeding up refunds to farmers on their gasoline tax, adding 223 new chain stores to the tax list, and collecting the tax for 1⅛ per cent which is the lowest collection percentage in the United States, according to Mr. Bulow.

Kelly is a prominent Detroit attorney and a veteran of the World War. His watchword is quoted as "Better government at less cost to the taxpayer."

DEMOCRATIC LAWYERS AGAINST THIRD TERM

Twelve Michigan Leaders Say U. S. Tradition Must be Kept

Twelve outstanding Democratic lawyers of Michigan took a stand this week agninst a third term for President Roosevelt as a violation of a great American tradition.

"We believe the danger to the welfare of our country and to the liberties of our people from a third term transcends all considerations of partisanship and requires us to speak out," the lawyers explain in a joint statement prepared for general circulation.

Participating in the pronouncement are: Arthur J. Lacy, Detroit; Louis J. Colombo, Detroit; Dean W. Kelley, Lansing; Joseph R. Gillard, Grand Rapids; Clarence K. Patterson, Pontiac; Kim Sigler, Hastings; John W. Adams, Kalamazoo; Marion S. Harlan, Detroit; James J. Noon, Jackson; Frank C. Golden, Detroit; Orla B. Taylor, Detroit; Edward A. Macdonald, Detroit.

They support their third term opposition with an exhaustive historical research, in which they attest findings of Thomas H. Reed, former professor of political science at the University of Michigan, that the great weight of opinion of American presidents and statesmen over 150 years has built up a tradition that should not now he violated.

Superb

Those who are urging us to get into the European war are merely pikers, from the viewpoint of Admiral Yarnell. This retired officer wants us to enter not only the European war but the war in China. He wants us to lead with a left at Japan while simultaneously dealing a right handed haymaker to Hitler. This confidence in the prowess of the United States is really superb.—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

Legion Auxiliaries Installation

American Legion Auxiliary members of Charlevoix, Boyne City, and East Jordan will hold joint installation ceremonies at the Charlevoix Legion hall Monday evening, October 21. Mrs. Emma Lund of Cheboygan will be the speaker. All members are urged to he present.

Before Uncle Sam sticks out his neck as a referee in the present European scrap, he should realize that the belligerents are throwing something more dangerous than pop bottles.

INSTALLMENT PAYMENT OF PHONE LINES O.K'D

Michigan Bell Announces New Ruling Governing Rural Extensions

The Public Service Commission this week extended the installment payment plan to the financing of rural telephone construction throughout the territory of the Michigan Bell Telephone Company.

That was accomplished through the issuance of an order approving a new rural telephone construction plan recommended by farm leaders and described by the Michigan Bell Company as the most liberal in the history of communications in this state.

The plan will permit applicants for rural service to pay for line extensions, beyond an initial non-chargeable allowance, in monthly installments over a 5-year period. Always in the past, these charges had to be paid in a lump sum in advance of construction.

POLICE CHIEF ISSUES HALLOWE'EN WARNING

Wants Kiddies Enjoy Themselves, But Will Allow No Vandalism

"It shouldn't be necessary every year but apparently it is," Police Chief Clarence Heise remarked, in sounding his annual warning to Hallowe'en pranksters.

Already, Chief Heise said, in spite of the fact that Hallowe'en is more than three weeks distant, complaints are being received from residents regarding damage done to property.

Chief Heise is not aginst permitting boys and girls to enjoy the senson, but warns that those damaging property will be dealt with severely. Officers are being ordered to be on the alert and apprehend any children in the act of damaging or removing property and are being instructed to deliver those responsible to juvenile court authorities.

GREAT LAKES FISH YIELD ABOVE AVERAGE

Over Two Million Excess from 20-Year Average is Reported

The State Conservation Department reports that Michigan's Great Lakes commercial fisheries produced 28,647,000 pounds last year, more than two million pounds over the annual average during the past 20 years.

The average for the period 1920 to 1940, the department's fish division reported, was 26,338,000 pounds, with a high of 32,000,000 pounds recorded in 1927. The average total return has been $2,359,160 per year. Last year's crop was slightly below the average, at $2,240,000.

The price per pound varied between the low of 7.00 cents in 1933 and 12.3 cents in 1929, with last year's figure at 7.82.

fails to familiarize himself with the issues before entering the polls is lost, so far as voting intelligently on them is concerned. He is left to the choice either of voting by pure guesswork, of balloting "no" on the general principle that he is oiways safe in defending the status quo, or of not voting at all. And it is open to question which is the lenst helpful.

On the groand that it's n good iden to look over all the issues before election day, here are the highlights of the foar state proposals:

Proposition No. 1

This is n proposed amendment to the state constitation. It is designed to make it easier for school districts to finance the construction or repairing of buildings, by enabling them to spread their taxes for bonding parposes over n 15-year instead of a 5-year period. The proposal has the support of the Michigan Education Association.

According to many school oathorities, it is practically impossible for some districts to enlarge their school plants or even to make necessary repairs because of the bonding restrictions of the 15-mill tax limit in the constitation. At present this allows a district to bond itself and levy taxes aggregating not more than 50 mills (or 5 per cent of the assessed valuation of its property) in any one year. And this increase is allowable for not more than five consecutive years.

The result, according to school men, is that some districts simply cannot afford to build new schools or add extensively to existing buildings. The tax load is too heavy during the five-year period, and they cannot extend the time. There are many districts on the outskirts of large cities where present buildings are so crowded that classes meet only for one-half or one-third of a day.

Genesee county has classes of 60 and 70 students to a teacher, which is considered far too heavy a load. The gymnasium platform in one such school has been turned into a classroom in the emergency. In Alpena the high school students are attending classes in various places because their building burned down and the district finds itself anable to finance a new structare under the present requirements.

These are the arguments advanced in favor of the amendment which was proposed by action of the 1939 legislature. In brief, the mensure would allow school district, for building and repair purposes only, to raise not more than 12 mills (instead of 50, as at present) each year for not more than 15 years. One objection heard is that the interest cost would be greater. That is regarded, however, as a necessary evil, as in the case of the man who buys a house on a long term plan because he would be anable to own one any other way.

Proposition No. 2

This is another proposed amendment to the constitution, placed on the ballot through petitions sponsored by the Michigan Merit System Association. Its passage would write civil service into the basic law of the state, strip the legislature of virtually all its traditional powers over state employment, and place this authority in the hands of a four-member, non-partisan commission functioning directly under the constitation.

The proposal was treated in detail in last week's column.

Proposition No. 3

This is an act of the 1939 legislature now being brought before the electorate for a referendum vote. It would remove the right of municipalities to operate buses beyond their own limits without being subject to state regulation.

Popularly this measure is known as the D. S. R. (Detroit Street Railways) act because it represents a fight between the city's lines and private bus interests over the suburban Detroit area. The D. S. R. is waging a vigorous campaign to defeat the measure. Bus tops and street cars in Detroit are painted conspicuously with "Vote No on Proposal No. 3" signs. The opposition, meanwhile, is plastering the area with "Vote Yes" placards.

Back of the controversy is the interesting story of a legalistic oversight which occurred during the 1939 session of the legislature.

By way of background it should be mentioned that for years the D. S. R. has had the benefit of certain privileges granted in the city charter. One of these permitted it to operate without state control in and for 10 miles outside of Detroit. However, if and when its buses should venture beyond that radius they would come under the jurisdiction of the public service (or utilities) commission.

This was the situation up to 1939, when the newly elected Republican legislature followed the dictates of the late Gov. Frank D. Fitzgerald and abolished the public utilities commission in order to remove some recalcitrant Democrats from office. The act which accomplished this purpose set up a brand new public service commission that was supposed to inherit all the important privileges and authority of the old P. U. C. There was one slip in the procedure, however. The legislators neglected to give the new commission the right to regulate municipal buses outside of city areas.

After the law took effect the howl went up from private bus lines who visualized the D. S. R. as being now in a position to spread out over all of eastern Michigan. And so the legislature passed an amendatory act to correct the situation. It is this measure that appears on the referendum ballot.

Briefly, it amends the state motor carrier act, which was originally designed to regulate privately owned lines, so as to include municipal buses. This would prevent the D. S. R. from operating more than two miles beyond the city limits of Detroit without a permit from the public service commission. In other words, the D. S. R. would be obliged to haul in some of its suburban lines or submit to state regulation.

According to the private bus firms the act would equalize competition by causing the D. S. R. and any other city lines operating outside their boundaries to pay equal taxes and meet comparable safety requirements. From the Detroit city viewpoint, however, the act is an attack upon home rule and an attempt to penalize suburbanites who now share in lower fares the D. S. R. has made possible.

Proposition No. 4

This is also an act of the 1939 legislature put on the ballot by petitions calling for a referendum.

It would provide for regulation of the practice of dentistry in Michigan. The act was sponsored by the Michigan State Dental Society and is similar to laws in effect in some other states. The aim of the measure is to raise the standards of dental practice, but some of its provisions, particularly those which deal with the right of a dentist to advertise as he pleases, have met opposition from newspapers and advertising dentists on the ground that the law would abridge individual rights.

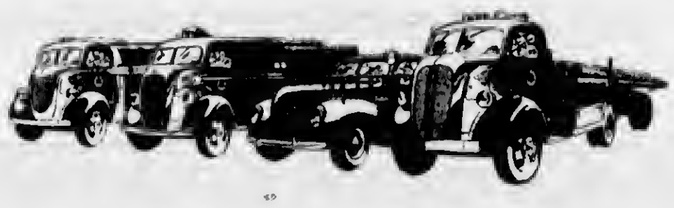
The society claims it has found upon investigation that so-called "bargain" prices offered by some dentists have the sole purpose of luring patrons to "cut-rate" offices where they are then victimized into paying more than the prices of ordinary practitioners. The society contends the act is necessary to correct such abuses.

It would prohibit dentists from advertising by means of large display signs and would outlaw, in newspaper advertising and on professional cards, all matter except such information as the dentist's name, degree, address, and office hours.

One of the latest scientific advances for measuring strain on automobile parts is to make a transparent plastic model of some highly stressed metal part—such as a gear or connecting rod — and to examine the metal by passing polarized light thru it. When the model is subjected to loads which represent the conditions of actual use, bright bands of color appear, like miniature rainbows, indicating the sections of greatest strain.

Thirty American circuses and some 300 carnivals now utilize motor vehicles in numbers ranging from several units to whole fleets. The first big circus to be completely motorized, about a decade ago, estimated that for each month it was on the road it saved $20,000 in operating expenses by using motor trucks.

MECHANIZED PREPAREDNESS



Mechanized and motorized forces are essential to telephone preparedness. In Michigan there are 1,275 telephone trucks and cars — most of them equipped with tools, power units and material. Their day-by-day work may not seem dramatic. But in time of emergency . . . flood, tornado, sleet storm . . . these mechanized forces can be mobilized like an army. For instance, following the 1938 hurricane in New England, Michigan's trucks and trained crews worked side by side in the storm area with others from as far west as Nebraska. Mechanized preparedness is but one of many reasons why this Company is ready to do its part in the program of national defense.

MORE VISION for drivers and passengers is one of the first things remarked by those inspecting tha new Ford V-8 line, Ford designars hava gone still further away from tha tendency in recent years to limit the view from a car's interior. This Super DeLuxe Tudor Sedan is an eapecially rugged body, but with lots of daylight inside. A two inch longer wheelbase, and newly engineered stiffer frame, bigger body, softer springs and sensitive shoek absorbers giva a degree of passenger comfort in front or rear seat that critics agree is remarkable. There is also increased head room.

NO THIRD TERM

"If the day ever comes when we have or imagine that we have but one man fit for the position of President of the United States, we may as well give up all pretense of being a representative republic . . .

"The tremendous power of the presidential office must never be forgotten. With the exception of the dictators, no chief of state in the world toddy has such power as the President of the United States. How greatly that power has been enlarged in recent years, I need hardly to remind you.

"Now I lay it down as irrefutable that any President possessed of these powers or even one-tenth of them . . . can cause himself to be renominated, not once or twice but as long as he chooses, if the basic law does not forbid. With the two-term tradition broken down, and no law to take its place, we have every reason to dread a future occupancy of the White House limited only by the ambition or the life of the tenant."

These are the words of John W. Davis, once the Democratic candidate for President of the United States.

Six Purebred Sires Distributed at Dairy Day

The "Dairy Doy" held last Wednesday at Boyne City attracted much favorable comment from approximately 75 dairymen who came to see the kind of young purebred sires being purchased by county duirymen. It was most gratifying to see the exhibit of nineteen animals, 15 of which were young boby sires that are being grown to maturity and which will greatly improve the producing ability of the offspring.

This importation of six animals was part of a group of over 50 young sires which were brought into these six northern Michigan counties. Under this plan orders were left with the county agent or Smith-Hughes teachers for the breed of animal, age, and price that suited the purchaser. The Dairy Extension Staff at the Michigan State College then personally selected the animals and worked out the details for transporting them to their new homes. All six animals distributed were of the Holstein breed and all were out of dams which produced over four hundred pounds of butterfat. All are eligible for registration and it is hoped that the new owners will hove them registered. A. C. Baltzer, dairy extension specialist, gave a splendid talk on the importance of cow test ossociation work, proper care ond feeding practices, and the opportunities ahead of county dairymen in developing their surplus stock in such a way us to attract the outside buyers.

Brief remurks were given by Thomas Thacker and Howard Lytle, Smith-Hughes instructors of East Jordan and Boyne City respectively, concerning their participation in the program. Judging from the interest shown by dnirymen, many more young sires will be ordered in the near future.

The new owners of these sires are; Otto Stolt, Petoskey; L. D. Pike, Boyne City; Armand Mayrand, East Jordan; August Knop, Boyne City; Fred Willis, Charlevoix; and Rollie Williams, Charlevoix. Including these last six animals, a total of 24 new sires have been imported into Charlevoix county.

Dental Hints for Prospective Mothers

Sound teeth and a healthy mouth are especially important for the prospective mother.

Pregnancy does not necessarily damage the teeth, but lack of proper care and proper diet may. Unusual demands are mude upon the system ond these demands must be met, both for the mother's sake and for the sake of the baby.

Even if one is not aware of any particular trouble with her teeth, she should see her dentist at regular intervals. It will save expense and probably much suffering. The cheapest, least painful and best work u dentist does is preventing hig cuvities, toothache and infection by filling small cavities, and these more often than not can be detected by the pntient herself.

But if toothache should occur do not run the risk involved in long suffering and abseess. Go at once to a dentist. If extraction is necessary and an anesthetic is nsed, there is no more donger than nt any other time. The anesthetic does not harm the child, but continuol pain and infection may.

Of course, when the patient goes to the dentist she should tell him her condition as he will give shorter appointments, be especially careful, and in some cases may do temporary work which will not take so long but will save the tooth until later.

Bight food helps to protect teeth ond to build strong teeth for the boby. The crowns of oll the baby teeth are formed before birth and buds of the first permanent ones are started. It is especially ngcessury that the diet should have plenty of minerals. The baby needs lime for building bone as well as teeth, and this may mean robbing the mother's system. The diet should supply enough minerals for both child and mother.

Milk und milk products, fresh fruils, green leafy vegetables, and whole grain foods contain these ninneral elements and vitamins so necessary to good teeth and health.

One tries to eat clean food from ilishes; but, be sure it is not maile unclean in the mouth from bad teeth and gums. Brush the teeth at least twice a doy. After the evening brushing rinse the mouth with warm salt water and massage the gums lightly with the brush or the hall of the finger. This will stimulate the circulation in the gums and help to keep them in a healthy conditinn. They are likely to become inflamed more easily at this time.

Be sure to visit a dentist at least twice during pregnancy.

Foods are the building materials for teeth; choose them wisely.

Keep the teeth clean.

DAIRY HERD IMPROVEMENT ASSOCIATION REPORT

Three hundred eleven cows in 23 herds were on test during September. The high cow of the month, owned by Clint Blanchurd of Charlevoix, produced 1449 pounds of milk and 53.6 pounds of butterfat. The second high cow, owned by B. C. Thompson of Petoskey, produced 1125 pounds of milk und 51.8 pounds of butterfat. The two high herds of the month were owned by B. C. Thompson and Frank Sluyter and Son, both of Petoskey. Thompson's herd averaged 738 pounds of milk and 34.0 pounds of butterfat. Sluyter's herd averaged 717 pounds of milk and 32.2 pounds of butterfat. Five low producing cows were culled during September.

We can't predict where the next Michigan windstorm will strike! It may strike your community! It may strike elsewhere! But we can predict, with absolute certainty, that Michigan will suffer thousands of dollars of windstorm damage in 1940 as surely as it did in 1939! State Mutual's claim payments, annually, for 43 years prove this conclusively!

Are you prepared, financially, to rebuild your home, barn, silo, windmill or implement shed . . . if it's demolished by a windstorm? Few people are. But everybody can protect himself from such a fate! Everybody can afford to pay $1.50 per year for $1,000.00 worth of windstorm protection . . . from the reliable, time-tested State Mutual Cyclone Insurance Company. Don't wait 'til it's too late! Insure now!

THE RECORD .... Facts That Concern You — No. 23 of a series

WOULD YOU CUT DOWN THE APPLE TREE?

You'll probably find a few bad apples in a bushel of good ones. That's the way it is with beer retailing in America.

There are hundreds of thousands of wholesome, law-abiding beer retail establishments that sell good beer—the refreshing, appetizing beverage of moderation. At the same time, there is a handful of undesirable, anti-social taverns. Unfortunately, these few outlaw establishments bring discredit to the entire beer industry.

To protect your right to drink good beer, the Brewing Industry wants such anti-social retailers eliminated entirely. It has instituted a "clean-up or close-up" program—now in effect in some states and being extended.

We'd like you to know about this socially important program. May we tell you about it in an interesting free booklet? Write: United Brewers Industrial Foundation, 19 East 40th Street, New York, N. Y.

NOTICE

To the Electors of Charlevoix County—

In making my bid for your support on the Non-Partisan ballot, Tuesday, November 5th, there are a few facts which I would like to have you consider.

The qualifications for the office of Judge of Probate:

A few people have been given to understand that this office requires an attorney. This is not true. The Legislature has many times refused to make this any part of the qualifications. The real qualifications for this office are good judgment, common sense and fairness. Together with several years' valuable experience in public affairs, my work as Probation Officer and Friend of the Court, has been similar in some respects to that in the office of Judge of Probate.

Service at This Office in the Court House:

For many years this county office has been serving the public generally only 3 days per week. Do the people know and approve? How many call at the court house with Probate matters only to find that they arrived on the wrong day? Are the taxpayers not entitled to the same office time given by the other County Officers?

Personally, I feel that they are. If I am elected to this office, I will be at the court house every office day and give the people the best service possible.

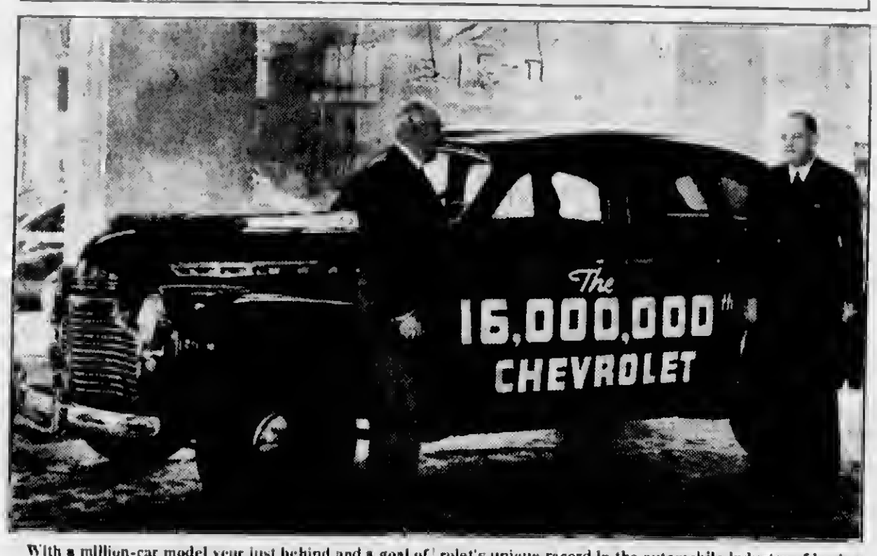
Chevrolet Builds 16,000,000th Unit



With a million-car model year just behind and a goal of 1,100,000 for the new selling year, Chevrolet announced production of its 16,000,000th unit, built in less than ten working months after No. 15,000,000. Announcement of this latest "milestone car" spotlights attention on Chevrolet's unique record in the automobile industry of having built and sold an average of a million units per year during the past seven years. Shown above (left) is M. E. Coyle, Chevrolet general manager, with W. E. Holler, general sales manager, beside the 16,000,000th car.

EDITORIAL

NO BLACKOUTS FOR AMERICA

Not long ago there was a man who set his outer cornfield ablaze to save his farm from a big prairie fire. But he didn't stop to figure that the wind was wrong and in the end his house, barn, cornerib and woodlot went up in smoke. You just know that farmer must have been an American. He could not have been anything else. We Americans are forever doing something that "sounded like a good idea at the time." Emotionally. Without thinking things through.

We are a hair-trigger people; forever going off half cocked. Most always it is on something a trifle funny and generous and lovably absurd, like taking up a collection to rehabilitate the town drunk and then handing him the money so he can get the D. T.'s all over again. Or building an eighteen-hole golf course for a whistle-stop town. Occasionally it is something tragic like lynching the wrong man.

But every now and then we really invite trouble. "We want to dive off the deep end without bothering to see if there is any water in the pool. Lack of common sense can be funny, all right. But when it hurts it ceases to be funny.

There has been no blackout of common sense in America yet. But issues are commencing to fog up suspiciously and that is a danger sign. Because when people get confused they are forever apt to go on an emotional jag as a way out, simply to end the torment of their own mental perplexity.

America's danger lies not so much in what it thinks—but in not bothering to think at all. Too many of us don't want to think; we'd rather talk crazy-talk instead. On the basis of some of the opinions you yourself may have handed out, can you blame your neighbor for seeing a fifth column in every bedpost or a Trojan horse under the bed?

There do happen to be things we all care about: being able to vote, live, earn, travel, read and pray any way we doggone please. The safety of the things we care about doesn't depend so much on any decision this nation may ever take as it does on the fact that there always be a decision—made by an informed people—calmly and quietly—on the basis of facts. We can't leave it up to the lads on the lunatic fringe and blame anybody but ourselves afterwards.

There must be no blackout of common sense, of clear thinking in America. So the next time a friend of yours bleats: "Emergency! Follow the leader . . . jail the dissenters . . . gag the press . . . throttle the opposition . . ." just tell him you want ALL the facts, not just one side of the case and remind him that well-intentioned folks have been hollering like that ever since Washington's time and then feeling mighty foolish afterward.

One nice thing about us Americans . . . we have got common sense. If we will only bother to use it. But if you don't believe we're mighty lazy about using it on occasion just watch and see how many people edge up and whisper "Fifth column," about us simply for running this editorial.

PIONEER SPIRIT

The Sioux City Journal bares the president's reversal of thinking in connection with the "pioneer spirit," return of which he says is now imperatively needed. As pointed out by the Journal, its need has been apparent for seven years in solving domestic problems. From the start of the new deal in 1933, so-called softness, the antithesis of pioneer pluck, was encouraged by government paternalism, short working hours and diminished production. The Journal comments in part: "Washington's attitude toward the depression and its accompaniment of unemployment was wrong from the beginning of the first Roosevelt administration. The government under the new deal behaved as if it had accepted as an indisputable fact the idea that the richest country on earth suddenly had become impoverished, that its resources in everything but money had been dissipated, that the fiber of the people had been worn out, that we had nothing in reserve, that we had lost our resiliency, that our courage had ebbed, that we no longer were virile and competent and self-reliant. Then began the practice of the most insidious paternalism known, perhaps, to history, and it has gone far toward breaking down the character of millions of people through making them dependents." — Wayne (Nebr.) Herald.

How Roosevelt and Willkie Stand Today

From now until election day, The Detroit News reports the comparative standings of the presidential candidates, as revealed by the America Speaks polls as conducted by the famous research authority, Dr. George Gallup. To keep abreast of public opinion on the candidates it will pay you to have The Detroit News delivered to your home daily and Sunday until election time since The News is Michigan's only newspaper carrying these results which have proven so accurate in previous elections.

Strange discoveries about twins and their problems. One set had 23 cavities in their teeth, each in the same place, another pair acted, thought and dressed alike though separated, the odd twin sisters who saw and heard each other, and the twin traffic cops who nearly drove the motorists crazy. Read all about them in the illustrated feature in The American Weekly, the magazine distributed with next week's Sunday Herald-American.

S'MATTER POP— We're Next, Pop!

By C. M. PAYNE

THIS WEEK IN WASHINGTON

By Your Congressman
Fred Bradley
11th District Michigan

Announcement last week of the transfer of 36 flying fortresses from the United States defense forces to the British again directs attention to the manner in which our nation is being dragged further into the European war without consulting Congress, as provided in the United States Constitution. And, perhaps more discouraging, is that again the news came first from London instead of from our own government officials.

Members of Congress, responding to the demands of the people, have remained in Washington in order to deal with any international emergency that might arise. The session has been kept alive despite strong efforts on the part of Administration leaders to bring about an adjournment. True, there have been times when less than a quorum of the members have been present, but the roll calls during such periods have been requested to embarass the absent members rather than to dispose of some of the important measures that should be brought up. Such were the underlying reasons for the quorum calls of last week when the leaders had reason to know that a majority of the members had returned to their districts to attend to engagements scheduled for the election campaign. A few hours' notice would have sufficed to cause a majority of the members to return to Washington. For my part I was prepared to get back any time I received notice that any legislative business was placed on the day's calendar. As it was I returned to Washington early this week to personally inquire relative to the program.

Opposed New Deal in 1938

When I became a candidate two years ago, I openly declared myself as opposed to the New Deal policies which sought to regiment our citizens. That is what Hitler has done in Germany. The majority of the voters who elected me supported such opposition by their votes and my stand on each bill that came before Congress was consistent with the declarations I had made while seeking the office. I have no apology to make. Despite careless and inaccurate statements of the New Deal opposition that I voted against all appropriations for the WPA and other measures intended for the benefit of the unemployed, the record will show that I voted for all such appropriations recommended by the Administration for existing agencies, while I did oppose increases proposed by organizations outside the government itself. Bad as it was, it was the only program offered by those in power.

More Power for President

One New Deal spokesman has gone so far as to charge me with being "un-American." I hardly believe that I need recognize such accusations, no doubt intended to place me on the defensive. One issue involved the granting of more power to a President who has already assumed more than was intended by the framers of our Constitution. In the case of the Monroe Doctrine declaration upon which Congress was called upon to act during a high point in the war hysteria, the measure as drawn permitted the President to decide what constituted a war emergency, without consulting the Congress. I was opposed to such extension of power. There can be no representative government unless the elected representatives of the people are given a voice in determining foreign policy, especially those which actually involve us in international conflict. I leave the matter to the good judgment of the people to decide whether such a belief is contrary to our national conception of patriotism.

Domestic Problems

Our country is still confronted with the unemployment problems and the maladjustment of our economic machinery which came to forceful attention starting late in 1929. Wild and reckless spending has failed to improve our situation. Over 23 billions have already been added to the national debt and this year the Congress has appropriated 17 billions more than will be collected. It is not to be wondered at that the Administration leaders, assisted by an army of bureaucrats, is using artful means of directing public attention away from domestic issues and is now engaged in emphasizing the war hysteria.

Michigan has been forced to accept federal grants because there has been no other alternative offered. Regardless of whether or not it accepted what was offered, Michigan will have to pay back in taxes approximately two dollars for every dollar it receives from the federal government. That is our share of the national burden, and either we will pay, and so will our children, or the nation will go into bankruptcy and its debts repudiated. Two dollars to be repaid for every dollar received. Keep those figures in mind when any one tries to impress you with the beneficence of a central government.

Just now we are enjoying a sort of "borrowed" prosperity due to expenditures for war preparation. Such advantage, if any, is only temporary. Some day we must still deal with the problems that remain unsettled. No one yet has found a way of spending a nation out of debt.

TO BIG SHOW

JOYCE, 15, and Margaret Heisler, 16 near Albion in Jackson county, are Michigan's entry to the national 4-H dairy foods demonstration contest to be held at the National Dairy Show in Harrisburg, Pa., October 12-19. • • • The girls demonstrate the uses of cottage cheese. First showing how the cheese is made, they describe its place in the diet, then prepare several dishes using the product. • • • As state winners the girls are given trips to the national contest by the Kraft Cheese Company, which also awards watches to members of the top team from each of the four extension sections. • • • Conducted by the extension service, the contest was started this year to teach youth to know and demonstrate the value of dairy foods.

REVISE LIGHTING IN RURAL HOMES

More light is possible in many rural homes with the rapid growth of rural electric lines. Where new power is lighting farm homes, most of the users are installing modern fixtures. But in homes where electricity has been available for some time many farm families can remodel their existing lighting system without much expense to provide better light with less glare, say home economics extension specialists on the Michigan State College staff.

Lighting experts now recommend more light and better distributed light in homes. It is better for the eyes, they say, if all light in a room is well diffused, with a minimum of glare, and with no sharp contrast between lighted objects and their background.

Possible improvements might include more convenient outlets and switches, more properly designed portable lamps, the shading of bare bulbs and more powerful light bulbs.

Double or triple convenience outlets in the living room increase the number of table or floor lamps the family can use for such close seeing activities as reading, studying, writing, or sewing. Similarly, extra outlets in bedrooms make it possible to have bureau and bed-side lights and a "reading in bed" light.

Ceiling fixtures, in which bare bulbs are used, may be converted into fixtures giving diffused light by covering the bulbs with individual shades or by using a diffusing bowl of translucent glass or plastic. For indirect lighting a metal bowl may be used.

Climbing a fence with a gun in one's hand is an act of negligence, it was ruled by a Pennsylvania judge in awarding $150 judgment for a hunting dog killed when the gun discharged. Said the judge: "Every person who assumes to handle a gun in the vicinity of other persons or of animals is chargeable with the knowledge of at least the elementary precautions to be observed. The rule formulated by sportsmen and rooted in common sense is that the gun must first be put through the fence and laid on the ground before any climbing is done." That is advise well worth remembering!

Do you remember that the rooftops were covered with snow when you got up a year ago Tuesday and that the preceding Friday and Saturday the Cadillac district had a 4-inch snowfall? Well, that was the truth!

A recent newspaper headline reading: "Congress Has Nothing to Do," referring, of course, to the foct Congress hns refused to adjourn or recess until after election as President Roosevelt would have it, could not have been farther oway from the truth. Congress does have something to do! It is, as it rightfully should be, on hnnd in Washington to protect public interests from a President who apparently does not believe it necessary to consult the people's representatives on matters of national import. When the country's welfare is being juggled by one who connot be trusted, then it is right and proper that Congress should be oo hand to protect its constituents.

The Michigan Bell Telephone marked another milestooe in its march of progress in northern Michigan with a cornerstone dedication of a new $100,000 exchange building Monday afternoon at Petoskey. Of all great Michigan corporations, there is none other as sound in its policy of promoting the interests of the commonwealth it serves than the Michigan Bell.

There is nothing like a political campaign to bring out the discrepancies in state financial affairs. Murray D. Van Wagoner asked what had become of $8,500,000 in state revenue under the present Republican administration. Republican Auditor General Vernon J. Brown accounted for the "unaccounted" funds and then turned around and asked Van Wagoner what he had done with the $409,000,000 that had passed through his hands since 1933. If all the facts come out, it should provide interesting reading.

This writer has in recent weeks advised a "No" vote on all amendments to be submitted at the November 5 general election. To make such a statement without explaining each proposition was perhaps rather a biased attitude, so in order that all may be able to understand the proposals, we ask that you turn to our weekly "Lansing Letter," written by Gene Alleman, field manager of the Michigan Press Association, which gives a complete, understandable explanation of proposals 1, 3 and 4. Last week Mr. Alleman explained proposal No. 2. After reading Mr. Alleman's column, vote as you see fit.

There's nothing like our two-party political system to keep public interest aroused in the issues of the day. I got wind of a good-natured argument between the rival political party headquarters here in Charlevoix and, upon asking the Republican party county chairman what it was all about, got this answer: "Oh, a conscienceless scamp of a New Dealer—there are still a few of 'em hanging around—tried to get our 'goat' by telling us that the black sign on our headquorters looked pretty common and tame beside the fancy red and neon signs of the Democrats. Well, we just reminded him that red ink was all the Democrats had in stock or ever used, whereas the Republicans believe in black ink and have been trying for years to get the country out of the 'red' and into the 'black', and, by Gosh, intend to do it this fall if we can."

CLINTON COOPERS CELEBRATE SILVER WEDDING ANNIVERSARY SATURDAY

In celebration of their 25th wedding anniversary, Mr. and Mrs. Clinton Cooper entertained forty guests nt their home Saturday evening, following a 6 o'clock family dinner at the Dilworth Hotel in Boyne City.

Miss Rosemary Cooper, student at Marygrove College, Detroit, was here for her parents' anniversary, as were Mrs. Cooper's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Kirchner, her brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. T. E. Kirchner, of Saginaw, and her sister, Mrs. J. H. Niver of Escanaba. Also at the dinner were Miss Olive Allen, and Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Conley. A wedding cake of silver and white was served. Table decorations were fall flowers, and silver tapers.

At the evening affair, refreshments were served buffet style, including another large wedding cake topped by a bride and groom and a silver bell. Colorful bouquets of fall flowers decorated the rooms, and on the buffet was a lovely arrangement of roses.

Mr. and Mrs. Cooper received many gifts, telegrams, and cards of congratulation.

MISS ELSIE RUMISEK IS BRIDE OF LEE ROHLOFF IN CEREMONY AT DETROIT

Miss Elsie Rumisek, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Rumisek, and Lee Rohloff, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Rohloff, were united in marriage Saturday, October 12, at Detroit. The nuptials took place nt the Nativity of Our Lord church, with Rev. Baumgartner officinting at High Mass.

Attending the couple were Miss Josephine Moday, of Kenosha, Wis., and Joseph Saltis of Chicago.

The bride was attired in soldier blue, with brown necessories. She wore a corsage of lilies-of-the-valley and sweet peas. Her attendant wore light blue with tan necessories, and a corsage of baby chrysanthemums and carnations.

After a short trip to northern Michigan and Chicago, Mr. and Mrs. Rohloff will make their home in Detroit.

GOV. DICKINSON AT PETOSKEY, SUNDAY, OCT. 20

Will Give Address Dedicating Salvation Army Citadel

Herman Meyer, president of the advisory board of the Salvation Army, has announced that arrangements have been completed for dedication of the Army's new citadel by Governor Luren D. Dickinson. Mr. Meyer also stated that executive army officers from Chicago and Detroit will be present for dedication services at the new citadel, located at East Lake and Bay streets, Petoskey, at 2:30 Sunday afternoon, October 20.

The present staff of officers in Petoskey consists of Capt. Leroy Gould and Lieut. James Ferguson, both of whom have been in the territory for some time, and have won the esteem and confidence of business and professional people, also members of Little Traverse Ministerial Association.

The Petoskey advisory board consists of the following men: Herman Meyer, president; Quinton Stone, vice-president; Walter R. Work, secretary; Chalmers Curtis, treasurer; Allen McCune, A. E. VanEvery, W. J. McDonald, George Ittes, Rev. S. V. Mattson, Norman Wells, Frank Jacobs, Donald H. Barnes; who with the Army officers have arranged the program for the dedicatory services.

Weather permitting, the major portion of the program will be held just outside the building. Otherwise, on the first and second floors of the building, with loudspeaker in operation. The general public is invited.

ARGONNE IS PROVIDING THREE SPECIAL NIGHTS

Orchestra Music for Dancing Thursday, Friday, Saturday Evenings

Dancing nightly, but with an orchestra three nights weekly, is the fall program under way at The Argonne, popular local entertainment place.

Bill Kerns, operator of The Argonne, states Thursday evening's program provides jitter-bug exhibitions and the awarding of bags of groceries as door prizes.

Friday night is known as "Recording Night," with an unusual variation provided through a recording device which records voices and produces records which may be taken home. Saturday night is carnival night with horns, balloons and novelties for all.

While chicken dinners are served at all times, specials have been planned for Thursday, Friday and Saturday evenings.

CHARLEVOIX WON SATURDAY'S TILT

For his starting line-up, Coach Kipke used Foster and Novotny at ends, Meggison and Poole at tackles, Bissell and Ager at guards, Kohler at center, Shapton, C. Martin, Bud Rowe and Nowland in the backfield. Carey later substituted for Shapton and took over the pivot position held by Rowe. Onaway's line-up was Haviland and Schuler, ends; Frier and R. Freel, tackles; J. Severence and Gilbert, guards, O'Mara, center; A. Freel, Smith, R. Severance and Madden, backfield.

Charlevoix goes to East Jordan for their next game Saturday. The contest is scheduled as a feature of the annual East Jordan alumni homecoming. On the basis of early-season performance, East Jordan might be given a slight edge over the Rayders, although improvement of the Kipmen since the season started is not to be discounted.

ELECTION OF OFFICERS HIGHLIGHT OF GAYLORD MEETING

The election of three directors will provide the main item of business to be transacted at the 6th annual meeting of the Gaylord Production Credit Association which is to be held Monday, October 21 in the Gaylord auditorium.

By way of getting started on a new year, the Charlevoix Junior Farm Bureau had Ben Hennick conduct the ceremony of installing our new officers at the Monday night meeting. President Carl Smith gave his office to Freda Willis; Elsie Hilton gave Vernon Cook the vice-presidency; Lulla Mitchell gave the secretary's job to Merle Blanchard; and Georgia Krchak took the publicity chairmanship from Freda Willis.

After much discussion, we decided to have 13 members and non-members from Charlevoix county go to our state convention, to have as our guests Mr. Baldwin, state extension director, and Mrs. Baldwin. The delegates will be selected at the next meeting.

Mr. Hennick showed moving pictures and slides of Camp Walden Woods, which was of great interest to members.

CONGREGATIONAL CHURCHES

G. Russell Parker, Pastor

Charlevoix:

Sunday school, 10:00.

Morning worship, 11:00.

Christian Endeavor, 6:45.

Mid-week service, Thursday, 7:30.

Ironton:

Morning worship (until Nov. 1st), 10:00.

Sunday school, 11:00.

Next Sunday morning the pastor will speak.

With the church-night cooperative supper of last week we began our mid-week services for the season. We appeal to every member of our church and those who look to the Congregational church as their church, to attend these services. The addresses will be under the general subject of "Rethinking the Christian Religion." We will begin at the beginning, look at the foundations from every angle, and try and find out what it is all about. If you have any questions or doubts or are confused because of all the "isms" and the failures of professed Christians to live the life as you understand it and have been taught, then you should attend these services—every Thursday night at 7:30.

Next week end, October 25, 26 and 27 a Youth Conference will be held at Chebaygan to which we hope a large number of our young people will attend. The speakers will be Rev. Horace White, colored pastor of the Plymouth Congregational church, Colored, of Detroit; Misses Margaret Rice and Dorothy Meeker. A party on Friday night and a football game on Saturday will furnish the entertainments.

COMMUNITY FARM BUREAU

Phelps Community Farm Bureau met Tuesday evening, October 8, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Withers, with nineteen members present. After the regular order of business, principles of democracy were discussed. Mrs. Walter Henley played two piano solos. A delegation of four members selected to attend the district meeting at Scottville, October 14, were L. E. McGhan, Walter Henley, Albert Carlson, and Charles Muscio. Mr. Powell, legislative counsel of the State Farm Bureau, talked to the group about the amendments which voters will decide on at the November election, also about state school money. Mr. Ogg, of the American Farm Bureau, gave a picture of the Farm Bureau organization, and touched on some bills recently passed, or soon to receive attention by that group. Mr. Jager closed the session with a pep talk on the Farm Bureau and its program. The next meeting will be with Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Ecklund on November 12th.

COMING ELECTION TO BE CONFUSING

THREE BALLOTS TO CONFRONT VOTERS NOVEMBER 5

General Election Ballots Bear Six Parties; Also Non-Partisan and Amendment Ballots

Voters interested in the fall election to be held November 5th will have three ballots to vote on that date: the general election ballot choosing national, congressional, state and county officers; the non-partisan ballot choosing Supreme Court Justice, county judge of probate; and the amendment ballot, which has on it four propositions which the voters are asked to pass upon.

The general election ballot is smaller than four years ago. It carries six tickets, compared to nine in 1936, but a recent act requires a blank column on the ballot so that it is but two columns less than four years ago. This year the voter can make his choice of Republican, Democratic, Socialist, Socialist-Labor, Prohibition and Communist tickets so far as party is concerned.

All tickets are complete or practically so, so far as presidential candidates, state candidates and candidates for United States Senator are concerned.

Four parties have congressional candidates in this district: Republican, Fred Bradley, Rogers City; Democrat, Wendell Lund, Escanaba; Prohibition, S. Basil Dickinson, of Boyne City; Communist, Raymond Anderson, of Escanaba.

For legislative and county offices only the Republican and Democrat tickets offer a choice. Naturally these offices will hold a great interest for the voter since the candidates are entirely local.

The non-partisan ballot, which appeared first in the primary, is new this election. There will be a non-partisan ballot too, at the general election. While it is a general election ballot it is practically a primary run-off.

The non-partisan ballot will bear the names of the major party candidates for the office of Justice of the Supreme Court, as nominated by the state conventions of the respective parties. It will also bear the names of Ervan A. Ruegsegger, incumbent, and Clarence B. Meggison, the two candidates for county Judge of Pro-

KIWANIS SPONSORS 2ND ANNUAL "FARMERS' DAY"

Produce Exhibit and Entertainment Set for November 2nd

Preparations are going forward rapidly for the second annual Kiwanis "Farmers' Day" program scheduled for Saturday, November 2.

Features of the event, which was instituted last year in place of a "Farmers' Night" banquet to which attendance was limited to as many guests as there are Kiwanis members, are a county-wide display of potatoes, apples, corn and beans, conservation project displays of 4-H Clubs and exhibits by East Jordan and Boyne Falls Smith-Hughes groups. Competition is county-wide with a $75 cash premium list to be divided among winners.

The exhibit will be placed in the community room of the city hall. Provision of prize money is divided evenly between the Charlevoix city council, a 4-H Club Department and Kiwanis.

An evening program of entertainment will be held at the school gymnasium in the evening, during which three valuable prizes provided by the Kiwanis will be awarded. The program is open to the general public of the county.

Full details of the event will be announced next week.

SUPERVISORS CONCLUDE ACTIVITIES

ADJOURNED 7-DAY SESSION TUESDAY AFTERNOON

Officers' Salaries Controversial Issue Monday—Usual Annual Appropriations Made

The annual session of the Charlevoix county board of supervisors was adjourned Tuesday afternoon following 7 days of work.

Committee reports were heard and adopted on a large scale the closing day after disposal Monday of a controversial officers' salaries matter.

Retention of a patrol deputy carried by a 19 to 6 vote, indicating a split in opinion. Salaries were left at the present figure with but one exception, an increase from $1600 to $1700 for the register of deeds and increase from $600 to $750 for the deputy in that office. Other salaries are: sheriff $1800, matron $100, patrol deputy $1200, prosecuting attorney $1900, treasurer $1900 and deputy $900, clerk $2000 and deputy $1200, friend of the court $300, school commissioner $1500 with $200 clerk hire and $250 car expense, janitor $600, newly elected road commissioner $500 for '41 and '42, $150 for subsequent years including 1946 to conform with other members, welfare director $1620 and mileage up to $200, welfare investigators $1500 and mileage up to $500.

The board named a county board of election inspectors composed of T. R. D'Aujau, Boyne City; Fay A. Bradley, Charlevoix; Bert Bennett, East Jordan. Compensation was set at $5 per day and mileage.

Howard P. Porter, East Jordan, was named member of County Park Commission for 5 years.

SHOT AT RANDOM

By Ken Usher

An open mind is fine, provided it isn't, like a funnel, open at both ends.

The best indication I know of regarding poor partridge hunting since the season opened October 15 is the lack of stories of limit bags. I haven't heard of a single, solitary person who has been able to get the limit or anywhere near that amount. The reason is apparently not so much a lack of "pats" as it is the extremely heavy foliage. Three of us bagged two partridge and one woodcock from daylight until dark last Sunday. We got up plenty of birds, but couldn't get shots at them. That's the general story you hear from all hunters. If cold weather over the week end brings the foliage down, hunting should be good during the remaining 13 days of the season.

She: What do I get if I cook a meal like that for you every day?

He: My life insurance.

KIWANIS HALLOWEEN PARTY ON OCTOBER 31

Free Movie for All Students, Dance for Students Upper Classes

The Charlevoix Kiwanis Club has completed plans for its fourth annual Halloween party for children, a plan instituted three years ago to provide entertainment in lieu of customary seasonal pranks.

On Thursday afternoon, October 31, at 3 o'clock, a free movie will be given at the Palace Theater through the cooperation of Mrs. Elizabeth Moon, for children up to and including the sixth grade. Favors will be presented and a refreshment served. In the evening at 7:15 o'clock the movie will be presented free to students of upper grades and will be followed by a dancing party at the Dairy Bar.

A Kiwanis committee composed of C. S. Webster, Robert Bridge and Fred Bancroft will visit the schools to extend to each child an invitation. As in previous years, children will be asked to sign a pledge showing willingness to cooperate by preventing and abstaining from Halloween pranks.

"NO THIRD TERM" DAY OBSERVED IN COUNTY

Cavalcade of GOP Supporters Tour Charlevoix, Antrim Counties

Participation of Charlevoix county Republicans in national "No Third Term" Day was signalized this afternoon by a motorcade touring Charlevoix and Antrim counties.

Sponsored by the Charlevoix County Republican Committee, in conjunction with similar observances held under auspices of the national Republican organization throughout the United States, nearly 20 automobiles bearing "No Third Term" banners left Charlevoix to be joined at East Jordan and Boyne City for a tour of those cities and to be joined by others. It was planned to visit all points in the county during the tour, also cities and villages in Antrim county.

Such construction will be on Hurlbut avenue between May and Alice streets, also on the east side of Burns street north of Petoskey avenue a distance of 160 feet.

The work will be incorporated in a city-wide WPA street improvement project with WPA labor being employed on the construction work.

HANSEN-ANCE WEDDING EVENT OF OCTOBER 12TH

Marriage of Former Local Youth at Chicago Is Announced

Announcement has been made of the marriage of Norman D. Ance, Boyne City attorney, to Miss Louise Hansen, of Chicago, on Saturday, October 12, at Chicago.

Mr. Ance, formerly of Charlevoix, won the Republican nomination for the office of prosecuting attorney at the September primary election.

The couple will reside at Boyne City.

SERVICE CLUBS THREE CITIES MEET AT BOYNE CITY MONDAY

A joint meeting of Charlevoix Kiwanians and Boyne City and East Jordan Rotarians is scheduled for Monday evening, October 28, at Boyne City. This is the third such joint meeting, others having been held in Charlevoix and East Jordan.

COUNTY RED CROSS CHAPTER IS ORGANIZED FOR '41

Mrs. A. C. Leslie, Boyne City, Retained as Chairman Coming Year

At a luncheon given by Charlevoix County Red Cross chapter, last Thursday at the Bartlett Hotel, officers of the past year were re-elected for another year's term of service.

Mrs. C. A. Leslie, of Boyne City, will again serve as county chairman, with Mrs. Paul Clark, of Boyne City as secretary, and Mrs. R. F. Sloan, of Charlevoix, as treasurer. Mrs. J. C. Dissette, Ironton, is county Roll Call chairman.

Sub-chairmen for each town and township in Charlevoix county are to be selected. The committee appointed for the city of Charlevoix consists of Mrs. L. S. Orlowski, Mrs. Harold Bedford, and Mrs. W. H. Supernaw.

Plans were begun for the 1940 roll call, which opens Armistice Day, November 11. It is hoped there will be a more generous response than ever before to the greater needs of humanity in this crucial year.

About forty women were present at the meeting. Entertainment was furnished by Nicholas Blinoff, who played two violin numbers, accompanied by Mrs. A. J. Stelter.

DRAFT BOARD FOR COUNTY ORGANIZED

OFFICE TO OPEN IN CHARLEVOIX OCTOBER 24

Regular Clerk Employed; Allocation Registration Serial Numbers Precedes National Lottery

Further activity in conscription proceedings, under which 1178 men in Charlevoix county have registered for possible military service, is underway.

Organization of the Charlevoix county draft board has been completed. Dr. B. J. Benker, of East Jordan, has been named chairman, and Harold F. Lamb, of Charlevoix, is secretary. The third member is James R. Dean, of Boyne City.

The office is expected to be located in the Charlevoix city hall. Fay Davis, of Boyne City, has been employed as clerk. He will be at the office regularly following its anticipated official opening on Thursday, October 24.

Registration cards which were under jurisdiction of the county clerk were taken over by the draft board today (Wednesday) to be given serial numbers. All cards which come under jurisdiction of other county boards will be sent to the proper destination, likewise cards of Charlevoix county residents who registered elsewhere will be returned to the local board. After shuffling, these cards will be given numbers from 1 up. This is what is known as serial numbers and represent those over which the local board has jurisdiction.

CHARLEVOIX LOST EAST JORDAN TILT

DEFEATED BY 27 TO 0 SCORE THERE SATURDAY

Jordan Aerial Attack Good for a Touchdown in Every Period—Harbor Here Saturday

Performing for the benefit of an alumni homecoming crowd Saturday afternoon on their home gridiron, East Jordan's Crimson Wave turned in a decisive 27 to 0 victory over Charlevoix's Red Rayders. The win revenged a 13 to 0 upset victory scored by Charlevoix a year ago.

An aerial attack that functioned with regularity proved Charlevoix's undoing. East Jordan scored on forward passes once in every quarter and made good on three out of four attempts for extra point by the same method. Statistics reveal the winners made good on six of nine passes while Charlevoix was completing three out of 12 attempts.

Charlevoix threatened East Jordan's goal but once, then in the first period when a pass, Carey to Novotny, provided what appeared to be a scoring opportunity. Deep in Jordan territory, Charlevoix lost the ball on downs through determined East Jordan resistance and never again threatened.

Green, Crimson halfback, was the outstanding player for the winners. His accurate passing, shifty return of punts and open field running accounted for the major gains of his team.

The line-ups:

Charlevoix		East Jordan
Novotny	le	Woodcock
Bissell	lt	Watson
Stewart	lg	Kemp
Kohler	c	Bechtold
Hooker	rg	D. Gee
Meggison	rt	Strehl
Foster	re	Malpass
C. Rowe	qb	V. Gee
Shipton	rh	Green
C. Martin	lh	McKinnon
Nowland	fb	Hayner

Charlevoix plays the first of two home games concluding their season's schedule at south side athletic field Saturday afternoon. Harbor Springs, defeated only by Boyne City by a single touchdown margin in the final moments of play, furnishes the opposition. In view of earlier season performance, Harbor has a decided edge over the Rayders.

LANSING LETTER

By GENE ALLEMAN

Field Manager, Michigan Press Association

What they're saying around the capitol is that Michigan is as likely to have a bridge over the Straits of Mackinac as it is a new state office building here. And this is intended to mean that neither of them is very likely in the immediate future.

But if one were to take stock in recent developments, it would appear that the bridge idea has the edge so far as possible early fulfillment is concerned. The least that can be said is that some of the obstacles in the way have been surmounted. Experts now say the span is feasible from an engineering standpoint, and congress only recently passed legislation which virtually authorized the state of Michigan to build such a bridge. Permission of the war department is still needed, but that is regarded by backers of the plan as little more than a formality.

A Creed Against Greed

When in the course of human events
The voter demands what a man represents
It's time that the voter be candidly told
In words unmistakably truthful and bold
What the people, in reason have a right to expect
From the man they would choose in the end to elect.
And so with no cards hidden up in my sleeve
I would deal in the open with things I believe.
When a measure comes up in the State Legislature
I believe in pursuing its purpose and nature
I believe in exposing as conscience may lead
Any tendency shown in the favor of greed.
I believe in protecting legitimate calls,
But my sympathies lie with the overalls—
Wherever they pass as an emblem of work
Performed with a disinclination to shirk.
I believe in democracy where it may be
A force in the struggle to make men free.
I believe in the people; have faith in their sense
To choose between one sitting straddle the fence
And he who in honesty sounds a clear note
In regard to the measures for which he will vote.
With favors to none and in service to all
I seek the support of the voters this fall
In a program that speaking in deeds eloquent
Leads upward and onward to good government.

Dr. J. M. Artman

Former Congregational minister, graduate of Indiana University and the Divinity School of the University of Chicago. He was Dean of the Y. M. C. A. College in Chicago, and professor of vocational training in the University of Chicago. For nine years he was general secretary of the Religious Education Association. He has been editor of the magazine "The American Citizen" since 1935. He is second vice-president of the National Congress of Parents and Teachers.

Dr. Artman is one of the members of an institute team that will visit seven localities in the state of Michigan beginning November 11 and continuing through November 19. This team will visit this northern section November 13 at Charlevoix in the Congregational church.

The cooperating agencies of this state-wide program series are Michigan Council of Church Women, State Department of Public Instruction, and the Michigan Congress of Parents and Teachers.

The other members of the team are Mrs. Edgar C. Thompson, Highland Park; John S. Haitema, Lansing, and Rev. and Mrs. J. Burt Bouwman, also of Lansing.

These programs are under the auspices of the Michigan Council of Churches and Christian Education and this council is calling these institutes character building through the cooperation of the home, church and school. Every person interested in the advancement of good character among our youth should be present. The program will begin at 9:30 and continue until 4:00.

For further information write Rev. G. Russell Parker, Charlevoix, chairman for this area. This area includes Grand Traverse and all territoty east to Alpena and north to the Straits.

Luncheon will be served in the Methodist church at noon. There will be no registration fee but an offering will be received for expenses.

NAVY BUYS TWO SMALL STATE AUTO FERRIES

Highway Department Authorized Purchase of Larger Boat

The state administrative board has authorized the sale of two small state ferries to the U. S. Navy and the purchase of a larger boat to replace them.

The state highway department, which operates the state ferry system, requested the action after the federal government negotiations for the steamers "St. Ignace" and "Mackinaw City," small passenger and car-ferries operating at the Straits of Mackinac.

The federal government, according to Harry C. Coons, deputy commissioner, contemplates use of the small boats for the U. S. naval service. The government has offered $75,000 for the small boats which originally were built by the federal government during the last war. The state purchased them for $155,000 each in 1929.

The highway department was authorized to purchase the "Pere Marquette 17," a train ferry operated by the Pere Marquette Railroad Co., for $65,000. The board also approved appropriation of $10,000 from state ferry funds to prepare the boat for immediate Straits service.

UNIVERSITY SCHOOL OF EDUCATION IS OFFERED

Organization of Course at Petoskey Scheduled October 30th

As a part of its program of service to the schools of the state, the University School of Education is providing a field course in education with sections in twelve cities in lower Michigan.

Petoskey has been chosen as one of these twelve places. It is anticipated that superintendents, principals, and teachers from a number of neighboring towns and cities will come to Petoskey to participate in the organization of the course on October 30. It is also hoped that a number of teachers connected with the Charlevoix schools will elect the course for University credit or as visitors.

The purpose of the University course is to help teachers and school administrators keep abreast of recent trends in education. The major emphasis will be placed on plans for training students in effective habits of study and on new plans for evaluating class room instruction. Admission to the course is restricted to those who are college graduates as the course carries two hours of graduate credit.

There will be nine sessions of the class, each meeting being about three hours in length. The meetings will be held on selected Wednesdays and the dates chosen for Petoskey are: October 30, November 13, November 18, November 27, December 4, March 19, April 23, April 30, and May 14. The instructors who will come to Petoskey for the University course will include Professors Geo. E. Carrothers, C. O. Davis, and Willard C. Olson. T. A. Treloar of the Petoskey schools has been named as the assistant in the Petoskey section. Further information concerning the plans for the course may be secured from Mr. Treloar.

DIRECTORS CREDIT PRODUCTION ASSN. ELECTED

Annual Meeting at Gaylord Revealed More Loans to Farmers

Growth of the Gaylord Production Credit Association, serving ten counties, was told an audience of farmer-members and farm lenders in this territory by A. J. Townsend, secretary-treasurer, at the annual meeting of the stockholders held at Gaylord, on October 21st.

It was pointed out that the association loaned $195,283.66 to farmers in this area in 1940 compared with $177,361.56 last year for livestock and general purpose farming, and that reserves built up from earnings in the 6 years of operations totaled $19,331.47. Repayments during the last year were more than $169,489.99. Losses through bad debts and otherwise were shown to be considerably less than one per cent of the volume loaned.

Charles Shepard, of Boyne City, and Arnold Ostrander, of Afton, were elected to the board of directors for 3-year terms, and David McConnell of Lachine, for 1-year term. Other members of the board whose terms carry over are Frank Sluyter, of Petoskey, and Leon K. Estelle, of Gaylord.

My Message...

To the good people of Charlevoix County:

The duties of my office as Probate Judge do not permit me to make an active campaign for re-election next month; and the dignity of the office forbids that I should do so.

But I can give you this message for your consideration:

1st. The office of Judge of Probate is not a clerical nor a political one requiring constant presence in the probate office. It is a JUDICIAL office quite similar to that of Circuit Judge. My office or clerical work is comparatively light, when compared with the judicial duties, which cover all over the county. True, most hearings are had in the probate office; but in the interests of economy and saving of taxpayers' money, many matters are taken care of in East Jordan and Boyne City, and elsewhere in the county; —thus saving witness fees and time and money for those interested. My travel expense costs the taxpayers nothing; and there has never been any charge to the county for office rent or space, or for 'phone rentals, or for over-time work done.

2nd. The judicial duties of the Probate Court are varied and important; and not infrequently involve large sums of money. Within the past year one estate alone amounted to over a half million dollars; and several exceeded $50,000. Such estates require careful legal knowledge and experience as they always include many kinds of property. Then, too, there are the scores of small estates of $1,000 or less. They all require the same care, as the few dollars are just as precious to the poor as the millions are to the rich. I am always glad to give free legal advice to all those interested in any matter in my court as to their rights in the matter.

3rd. Then there are the many guardianship cases, which always involve minors or incompetent persons,—and such proceedings require legal exactness, from start to finish, besides supervision of the property and investments of the ward's estate.

4th. Many adoption cases are also difficult and require careful study of the law to make them legal.

5th. And then there are the scores of hospitalization cases of afflicted, crippled and injured children. They all require personal attention to weed out the unworthy, and keep within our allotment which has been reduced to about 20% in the last two years. We have been able to keep within our allotment, and also give good service.

6th. Then there are the many juvenile cases,—delinquent, neglected and dependent children. All under 17 years of age, are under the jurisdiction of the Probate Court, except felony cases. With the help of the County Agent, I have personally investigated every delinquent juvenile case, and have sought to require the child to right any wrong committed, and then keep him under probation, either to myself or some good neighbor or friend. In this way, I believe we have salvaged 98% of these brought into court.

7th. In the above I have not mentioned the unfortunate widows. The law makes it the special duty of the judge to acquaint them with their rights, and to see that they are protected.

8th. All of the judicial duties listed above, and many others, do require a lot of common sense, but also require a larger amount of legal education and experience, which I believe I have after 32 years as an active practicing lawyer. And I am frank to say that the services required of the Judge of Probate, as above set forth, cannot be rendered by sitting in the Probate Office all of the time. The law itself only requires the Probate Court to be open "at reasonable times AS FIXED BY THE JUDGE." Our own Circuit Judge only spends from 20 to 30 days a year in his office here, and we do not complain about that.

9th. When not in the Probate office I am subject to call at any time, night or day, and maintain 'phones at my own expense for that purpose. I frequently attend to Probate matters in my home or office evenings, by appointment: and I have always sought to handle all Probate matters in my court with as little expense as possible, and at the same time see that everything is legally done.

Lastly, I have conscientiously tried to fulfill the duties required of me as Probate Judge, efficiantly, promptly, and with the dignity that the office requires; and if re-elected will continue so to do.

I want to thank the physicians of the county for their fine cooperation in the hospitalization of children; and my special thanks is given to all these, including the Kiwanis and Rotary Clubs, who have so cheerfully helped out in juvenile cases. So much could not have been accomplished without their help.

And now, if for services heretofore rendered, I am deserving of it, I will be truly grateful for your support and vote at the coming election on the non-partisan ballot.

Most Sincerely,

ERVAN A. RUEGSEGGER

Judge of Probate.

Willkie Charges New Deal Incompetence Leads To War.

Wendell Willkie

Wendell L. Willkie, returning to Philadelphia where in response to an unprecedented popular demand he was made the Republican nominee for President in June, warned the American people that they are drifting toward war under a government which is incompetent to build an adequate defense in these perilous times.

After citing specific instances of unpreparedness and incompetence, Mr. Willkie declared:

"We must stop this drift toward war. We must stop this incompetence. Fellow Americans, I want to lead the fight for peace. I know how to lead that fight. I will lead this nation back to work. The first step toward peace is to put a job in every home. The second step toward peace is to mobilize American industry for the production of armaments.

"There is a false notion that our defense problem is a recent problem; that it came upon us suddenly. The fact is that the New Deal has known for years that we were faced with this problem. The third term candidate told Congress in January, 1936, that America must save itself from foreign quarrels and foreign attack thru adequate defense. Today —nearly five years later—attack is closer than ever and America is still unsafe; our defense is still inadequate.

"What is the reason for our unpreparedness? The New Deal has not lacked information. Thru the state department and the army and navy, its total knowledge regarding foreign powers and military developments has been as good as any in the world. The New Deal has not lacked money. In these five years it has spent a total of 43 billion dollars. What then has it lacked? It has lacked the ability to get things done. It has lacked a fundamental understanding of the forces of production. It has lacked a fundamental regard for the forces that make democracy strong.

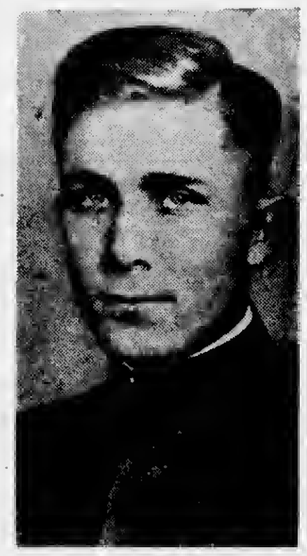
"The reason for our failure to build a modern defense system is that the New Deal theorists and the New Deal politicians blocked the creative forces of our people. They could have provided new jobs for thousands of young men by building American aircraft production up to defense requirements. Instead, they kept those thousands idle on the relief rolls. Relief was politically more attractive than defense.

"You know and I know that the system of free enterprise can outstrip any dictator on earth. The slave labor of modern Europe cannot compete with free men, well fed, well housed, and working reasonable hours. I have earned my bread both as a worker and as a manager. I know what free men can do. Given a chance to work, American labor and American industry can outstrip the world.

"So long as money and political power remain its only remedies, the Roosevelt administration will be incompetent to achieve defense. The able men on the national defense advisory council are handicapped because the third term candidate has kept all the power in his own hands. The longer the United States remains incompetent to defend itself, the closer we are drawn toward war. We must stop that drift toward war. We must stop that incompetence. I want to lead the fight for peace. I plead with you to join me in building a new America, so strong, so full of hope, that we can keep the peace that we want, the democracy that we want, and the liberties that we want."

Five feet of space is allowed for each horse entered in a horse race.

He Stands for Peace



This is how Wendell Willkie, Republican candidate for president, looked in 1917 when he volunteered for service as a private in the army one month after the United States declared war. After four months of intensive training he was commissioned a lieutenant, then spent a year in training camps in this country and served several months under fire in France.

Having first-hand knowledge of the horrors of war, Mr. Willkie has made this solemn pledge to the American people:

"If you elect me president I give you my word of honor I will never send an American boy to the shambles of the trenches of a European war."

More Jobs, Less Taxes Is Willkie's Pledge

"It is absolutely impossible," Wendell Willkie, Republican candidate for president, declares, "for a government to go on supporting a growing number of unemployed. Somebody has to pay the bill. And that bill is going to be paid by those who have jobs.

"The average income per individual in the United States last year was only $540. The average tax paid per individual was $110. One-fifth of our national income goes for taxes. And the biggest item on the tax bill, aside from defense, is relief for the unemployed. Taxes don't anywhere near cover it. So the New Deal borrows the money.

"In seven and one-half years it has borrowed $22,000,000,000. This can't go on indefinitely. The one and only remedy for this increasing public debt is jobs.

"Now what makes jobs? Business makes jobs. Little business, big business, corporations, partnerships and small companies. Under our system if we are going to have jobs we have got to have employment. Measured by the standard of our growth (1900 to 1929) we are short about 700,000 enterprises, short 700,000 employers."

"The New Deal has helped make unemployment by picking on business. Under the New Deal the employer who puts up money to make a profit has been in the dog-house. I am not interested in profits as such. I am not interested in employers as such. But I am interested in both employers and profits as a means of making jobs for those who are unemployed, better jobs for those employed."

On High Authority

A Democratic candidate for President, in an address delivered in New York on Nov. 3, 1932, said something which can hardly be improved upon as an answer to the New Deal's prize argument for the third term. "A great man," he declared, "left a watchword that we can well repeat — 'There is no indispensable man'." The "great man" referred to was Woodrow Wilson and the speaker was Franklin D. Roosevelt!

OLD BILL says "Here's what I think—"

"I have been watching, closely, the affairs of our state for twenty years. "Yes, in all that time there has never been a governor so determined to do the right thing for the people as Luren D. Dickinson. He has been as firm as a rock. His forthrightness has been amazing. In making decisions Governor Dickinson seriously and earnestly considers every side of every problem with a single thought—'What is best for the people?' Having made up his mind he drives a straight, clean furrow to his goal. No politician, no influence, can shunt him off the course.

"Without fanfare or hullaballoo Governor Dickinson has put every state department to work. He has ordered expenditures cut, and they are being cut. He is boring steadily into the towering deficit left by the previous New Deal administration.

• • •

"A governor, to deserve the office, must appreciate that 'all' the people are a part of Michigan. Some of the governors of the past seemed to think that certain groups were the whole state. Governor Dickinson has the fine faculty of recognizing his responsibility to every man, woman and child.

• • •

"No man ever had greater sympathy for labor. He wants workingmen and women to have jobs, at good pay and with decent hours. He wants them to have good homes, and good living. He has worked hard to keep them employed, and to smooth out disputes. Honest labor will get fat pay envelopes as long as Governor Dickinson has anything to say about it.

• • •

"In Governor Dickinson's administration there has been none of the fantastic experiments which discouraged business and industry and decreased employment. He wants labor to work, and prosper.

"The incumbent governor is a farmer, and he knows the problems of the farmer. He is the kind of a farmer who gets in the fields and works, and who earns a living from the land.

• • •

"He is a taxpayer, and he wants taxes reduced wherever possible. We don't have to worry about taxes being increased under Governor Dickinson. His philosophy of government is to eliminate extravagances so we may have ample funds to care for the needy and the aged, and still give those who must pay the bill a chance to keep their heads above water.

• • •

"The biggest items in Governor Dickinson's program for the conduct of state government are honesty and uprightness. They cover a lot of ground. They just about sum up everything that is necessary to good government. As I see it, we can feel very safe with the steady hand of a man like that at the helm.

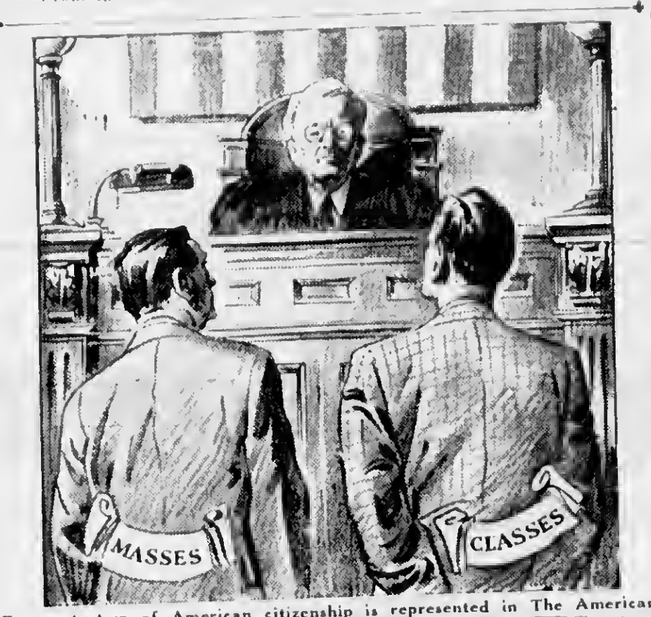
TO COMBAT THE AUTOCRACY OF BOTH THE CLASSES AND THE MASSES

—From the Preamble to the Constitution of The American Legion



Every stratum of American citizenship is represented in The American Legion. It is a broad and comprehensive segment of American society, wherein the autocrat has no hope of gaining a foothold.

America, composed as it is of all nationalities, races, creeds, as well as all economic classes, has long been called the great melting pot of civilization. In our efforts to help carry out this great experiment in human evolution we must assure all groups that we stand for reason and fairness in all human activities.

Individual initiative must not be stilled by any revolution of the human drones; neither can we afford to allow powerful overbearing special privilege groups to autocratically exploit the inarticulate masses. Our nation is large enough and rich enough so that all can live happily and well. If we permit autocratic control of one part of our people by another group we thereby nullify all of our democratic principles of fairness, freedom, and justice.

Let us remember that we represent a great cross-section of our national life. Whenever we have the opportunity we must insist that differences between groups be settled peacefully, reasonably, and with fairness to the general public as well as to both contesting parties.

We must do all we can to keep alive "The American Dream," the faith and confidence in the worthwhileness of the common man; the hope of opportunity, and freedom for the complete, balanced growth and development of each individual according to his vision, abilities and efforts.

LANSING LETTER

The big problem now is one of financing. The tremendous bridge would cost something like $26,000,000, which even the most optimistic supporter admits is a lot of money to raise. However, serious study is being given methods of getting that amount together and retiring the debt out of bridge revenue.

Responsibility for pursuing the idea is vested in the Mackinac Straits Bridge Authority created by the 1934 Michigan legislature. This authority was directed to investigate the feasibility of a bridge or other means of linking the upper and lower peninsulas, and it was authorized to issue tax exempt bonds which, however, must be payable from revenues only. Hence, if the war department were to approve the plan and a means of financing it were to be worked out, there apparently would be nothing to prevent the authority from proceeding to build the bridge.

There are many arguments pro and con as to whether the span is needed and whether it would be practicable. Some of the reasons are:

Arguments for

1. Idea is sound from engineering standpoint.
2. Bridge is necessary for economic reasons.
3. Ferry service is inadequate and certain to become more so as traffic across the straits increases.
4. Delay necessitated by long lines of cars is detrimental to tourist trade.
5. Unbridged water gap between two peninsulas has effect of dividing Michigan in two.
6. Ferries operating across straits at right angles to heavy boat traffic create a constant hazard.

Arguments Against

1. Bridge not necessary — would serve no economic purpose.
2. It would cost too much money to be practical.
3. Not a sound engineering project.
4. People like a boat trip better than a bridge ride.

So much for the Mackinac straits bridge—an imminent reality to some and just a pipe-dream to others.

Controversy

The state's office building problem is just as controversial. It doesn't involve as much money, but it goes back farther into history and generates sparks from the old conflict of interests between the state government and the townspeople of a capital city.

It was a generation or two ago when the problem of crowded state offices began to pinch. Without going into too much detail it may be said to have started not long after the present state capitol, now a time-seasoned mecca for tourists, was erected during the period 1873-1879.

At that time Michigan's state government was a comparatively simple business. There were offices in the capitol for all the elected state officials, and an unpretentious state office building was built nearby to house additional necessary departments. Everything was on a cozy basis. The basement of the capitol, now known to visitors as the place where they may see Civil war relics in the musty rotunda, was nothing but a stable. The elected officers drove their horse-drawn carriages under the steps into the building and left them there during the day.

Cramped Quarters

Before long the state authorities found themselves outgrowing their quarters. One thing led to another and each new service to the public called for more employees, more equipment, and more space. To help take care of the overflow, offices were built into the capitol basement and the horses and stalls were taken elsewhere.

Then in 1917-1922 the state erected an expensive office building two blocks away from the capitol. Many felt this structure, at last, would answer the problem. But still Michigan's government continued to grow, and some of the bureaus hardly had time to get settled in their new quarters before they were hustled out to make room for expanding departments. One of the first to be eased out was the adjutant general's staff, which was moved into a Lansing office building in 1927 and is still there.

One after another, established divisions were moved out or newly created departments or bureaus were given quarters in privately owned office buildings, until today the state is paying out about $200,000 a year in rentals throughout Michigan. About one-half of this sum is paid to Lansing landlords.

But even at this cost there has been no permanent solution. In fact, state authorities contend that today the condition is acute. Space in the office building is so much at a premium that the health department has set up desks in the corridors. A novel device tried last year by the senate to relieve crowding in the capitol was the building of a sort of balcony in one of the high-ceilinged clerk's rooms.

To relieve the situation, the health department is erecting a building outside the city of Lansing near its laboratories which, when completed next year, will house its offices. The exodus of this one department from the office building will, however, be but a drop in the bucket so far as the entire problem is concerned.

Some idea of the jumbled ramification of the state offices may be gained from the quandary of capitol guides. Sometimes they have been unable to keep track of shifting departmental divisions which are now here, now there, and have been embarrassed by the questions of visitors.

If someone asks for the unemployment compensation department, he is told that's in Detroit because there wasn't room available here. The civil service headquarters is in one Lansing office building. The welfare department is in another. The corporation and securities commission occupies still another. Conservation department divisions are scattered throughout three buildings. And so it goes.

From time to time during recent years someone has proposed that the state erect a new office building or add to the present one. The favorite suggestion is that the two blocks immediately west of the capitol be bought up and a grand new building erected, one that "would do credit" to the state. Such a structure would cost several million dollars.

Landlords Howl

A howl of protest from Lansing landlords and others interested in civic prosperity goes up each time such a proposal is made. The reasons for not putting up a new building pour in, and soon the proponents of the plan wearily give up and the talk dies down. It isn't easy to overcome the argument that the people won't vote a bond issue to finance such a project.

In 1934 the electorate overwhelmingly defeated a referendum on a bond issue which would have provided for an addition to the state office building along with other structures. This has discouraged some who favor the idea of a new building here.

Perhaps that shows the difference between the two proposals. Mention the office building scheme and the result is a sigh or two; mention the straits bridge idea and a controversy ensues.

OF INTEREST TO FARMERS

By B. C. Mellencamp

Strip and Contour Farming Visited on Farm Tour

Last week, under the supervision of Howard Lytle, Smith-Hughes instructor at Boyne City, a tour was organized to see firsthand a farm where strip and contour cropping had been carried on and to observe the many features of the plan. Some 33 farmers and Smith-Hughes students made up the bus load.

The farm of Neil Morrison, some five miles southeast of Elk Rapids, was visited. Mr. Morrison has cooperated with the soil conservation project in Grand Traverse county for three years and is greatly pleased with his efforts in preventing soil and plant food losses by erosion. A large per cent of his land has a moderate slope. We observed three or four gullies which were getting to be quite a problem until Mr. Morrison adopted methods of protection. Now, at short intervals, he has constructed dams of stones, fence, and sandbags. He believes that the best possible way is to use burlap sacks filled with sand and placed in the gullies. Where this has been done very little loss was observed and by placing sod in back of the dam wonderful sod growth has developed. In the course of time the burlap material will rot away and no further trouble will be encountered while, if you use stones, they will always be somewhat of a potential menace.

Mr. Morrison uses strips which extend around the contour of the slopes. One strip is made up of alfalfa sod while the next is cultivated and so on down the slope. In this way no soil losses occurred and the system did not prove to be inconvenient.

Every person seeing this farm came home with a greater appreciation of strip farming. In the near future many farmers in Charlevoix county will adopt this new practice which will go a long way toward preventing huge losses through erosion.

So well has the sharptailed grouse established itself in northern Michigan, some old timers are venturing the opinion that it will become the favorite bird of hunters in some areas, and that the partridge will be hunted less as logging roads where they have been hunted grow up in brush again.

MR. AND MRS. DON CAMPBELL OBSERVED 25TH WEDDING ANNIVERSARY FRIDAY

Mr. and Mrs. Don Campbell celebrated their 25th wedding anniversary Friday evening, at their River street home.

Seated at the table for dinner were friends who had been present at their wedding: Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Campbell, of Jackson; Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Wood, Mr. and Mrs. D. H. Wood, and Mrs. Laura Zipp. Miss Jeanne Campbell, student at the University of Michigan, Ann Arbor, was home for the occasion.

Tall white candles and white chrysanthemums were on the dinner table. Bouquets of fall flowers, many of them sent by friends in congratulation, decorated the Campbell home.

Open house for about thirty friends was held in the evening. A large silver-trimmed wedding cake, with tiny bride and groom atop, was on the refreshment table, which also bore white tapers in silver holders.

Gifts, telegrams and cards of congratulation were received by Mr. and Mrs. Campbell from their many friends.

Candidate for

JUDGE OF PROBATE

Non-Partisan Ballot

GENERAL ELECTION, NOVEMBER 5

I am placing my candidacy before the electors of Charlevoix county in as straight-forward a manner as possible.

There is no statutory requirement whatsoever making it necessary for a Judge of Probate to be an attorney. The duties of the office are clearly defined in the Probate Code, which covers all legal matters and which any person with ordinary sense of good judgment can fully understand. There are many Probate Judges and candidates for that office in Michigan, who, like myself, are not attorneys. Furthermore, probate mattars are largely handled on forms provided for such purpose and uniform throughout the state.

My duties as Friend of the Court and Probation Officer have placed me in close touch for several years with the delinquent children problem and have provided experience required in handliag juvenile cases.

My business experience over a period of 20 years has involved the handling of large sums of public money as well as properties, which could be considered comparable to estates involved in Probate Court.

Did I not feel fully qualified to handle the duties of the office, I certainly would not impose myself upon you for consideration.

I am not iacumbered with other business interests and if elected promise to give my entire, undivided time in service to the public in this office. If my past record of public service is the type you would expect of a county officer, I place it before you for considaration at this time.

COMING ELECTION TO BE CONFUSING

bate, who received the highest number of votes at the primary election. Selection of circuit court commissioner is also provided.

The secretary of state's office last week made public the captions which will precede proposed amendments to the constitution on which electors will ballot November 5th.

The statements were drawn up by attorneys who studied the proposals at length in order to simplify the questions to the satisfaction of opponent and proponents of the measures.

Proposal No. 1, if approved, would authorize the exceeding of the 15-mill limitation by school districts, in an amount not exceeding 1.2 per cent per year, for building purposes, and the issuance of bonds maturing a period not to exceed 15 years, as authorized by the qualified electors of the school district.

The caption will read: "Shall the constitution be amended to authorize the electors of the school district to exceed the 15 mill limitation for building purposes?"

Proposal No. 2, if approved, would create a new civil service system and establish a commission to classify all positions with the state civil service, fix rates of compensation and make rules and regulations to administer civil service employment.

The caption will read, "Shall the constitution be amended to establish a new system of civil service for state employment?"

Proposal No. 3, if approved, is self-explanatory in the caption, which read: "Referendum on Section 3 of Article 1 of Act 261 of the Public Acts of 1939, which amends the motor carrier act of 1933, to provide that no municipal corporation or any agency or instrumentality thereof, shall operate as a common or contract motor carrier for hire on the public highways of the state, except as provided in said motor carrier act, without first obtaining from the Michigan Public Service Commission a certificate or permit to do so."

Proposal No. 4 is a referendum restricting, in various terms, dental advertising. The caption will read: "Referendum on Act No. 122 of the Public Acts of 1939, being an act to regulate the practice of dentistry and dental surgery and to repeal certain acts and parts of acts."

GET UP NIGHTS? WHAT TO DRINK

Mild, fruit and vegetable juices. Very little coffee, tea or alcoholics. Drink lots of soft water if burning, scanty or frequent kidney elimination causes disturbed sleep, backache or rheumatic pain. They're Your Highways

PROTECT THEM!

VOTE YES ON PROPOSAL #3

THE CITY OF DETROIT has long enjoyed certain benefits and privileges. On November Fifth they are seeking through the Detroit Street Railways to further encroach upon out-state territory. Specifically, the City of Detroit wants to run its buses over state highways in or between any communities it may choose without subjecting itself to safety regulations and without payment of highway taxes.

You can stop this unfair practice by voting "yes" on State Proposal Number 3.

Proposal Number 3 provides that buses owned by a city or village must first get permission from the Public Service Commission in order to operate two miles beyond city or village limits on state highways. The law affirms the principles under which Michigan's great highway system has been built—that highway users shall pay highway taxes and that highway taxes shall be used for highways.

In fairness to everyone and above all to yourself, cast your vote on this special ballot at the election November Fifth. And be sure to vote "YES".

VOTE YES ON PROPOSAL #3

"HIGHWAYS USERS" SEEK AMENDMENT SUPPORT

State-Wide Campaign on for "Yes" Vote on Proposal No. 3

The Highway Users Conference of Michigan today launched an intensive state-wide campaign for a "yes" vote on Proposal Number 3 which will appear on the ballot November 5th.

Former Senator William Palmer, chairman, and Stanley M. Powell, secretary, of the conference, will organize all users of the highways of the state in behalf of the measure.

"Proposal Number 3," said Chairman Palmer, "is an amendment to the Motor Carrier Act of 1933 putting all commercial trucks and buses for hire, regardless of who owns them, under the same law when using the public highways of the state. It would bring municipally owned buses operating outside the city, within the various provisions of the act relating to payment of highway taxes; safety regulations, including inspection of equipment; and rules intended to prevent discrimination between communities as to rates, fares and practices. It would require Detroit to get a permit for all out-state operations from the Public Service Commission before using the highways of the state more than two miles outside Detroit."

AT THE MOVIES

Samuel Goldwyn's "The Westerner" Unfolds Sweeping Spectacle Drama

Action-filled scenes, suspenseful drama and romance with a punch sweep across the screen in Samuel Goldwyn's "The Westerner," which shows October 26-28 at the Palace Theatre, where it opened through United Artists release. "The Westerner" has Gary Cooper in the title role, and the supporting cast features such brilliant players as Walter Brennan, Doris Davenport, Fred Stone, Lilian Bond and Forrest Tucker.

Cooper plays the type of he-man under cole which has made him one of the screen's top-notch actors, portraying quick-on-the-trigger Cole Harder, who drifts into the wild and woolly town of Vinegaroon in the closing days of the '80's when there raged a bitter and long protracted battle between the cattlemen and the homesteaders. Cooper comes to grips with Walter Brennan, portraying Judge Bean, the vicious "Law West of the Pecos."

Edward Small's "Kit Carson" Thrill-Packed Epic of West

A stirring chapter out of the making of the West will be unfolded October 31 and November 1 when Edward Small's "Kit Carson" opens at the Palace Theatre. This new production, an epic of frontier life and bravery, concerns the adventures of Kit Carson, the famous Indian-fighter, in the days when America was young. The film features Jon Hall in the title role, with Lynn Bari, Dana Andrews, Ward Bond, Harold Huber, Clayton Moore and Rowena Cook.

The Stone Crabs is an organization of men who spend part of each year at Belleair, Fla. A requirement for membership is five years' pilgrimage to the place.

DRAFT BOARD FOR COUNTY ORGANIZED

As soon as these numbers have been given, the highest number in the county will be telegraphed to the governor, who in turn will wire the national office the highest number given in any county in Michigan. On October 29, the national lottery will be held in Washington. This consists of drawing numbers which run as high as any serial number used anywhere in the country. The number drawn first will be entered first on the national master list, likewise subsequent numbers as drawn. This national master list will be made public and local boards will give order numbers in accordance with that list. For example: If 248 is the first number drawn on the national list, all cards in the different counties having serial number 248 will be given order number 1; if the second number in the national list is 10, all cards having serial No. 10 will be given order number 2, and so on through the national list.

This order number is the order in which registrants will be sent questionaires for classification. Registrants may secure their serial and order number from the local draft board office after the board has had time to assign them following the national lottery on October 29. It will probably take two days following the national lottery for the draft board to allocate numbers.

Further details to aid registrants in following requirements of the draft will be published as made available.

Why Not Write I'p the Groom?

Mr. Ledger James Morgan, of Prentiss, Miss., became the bridegroom of Miss Laura Patti Kincanton, Saturday morning, June 3, at ten o'clock. The ceremony took place at the home of the bride and was largely attended.

As the groom approached the altar he was a cynosure of all eyes. Blushing prettily, he replied to the questions of the clergyman in low, but firm tones. He was charmingly clad in a three-piece suit consisting of coat, vest and pants. The coat of some light material was draped prettily about the shoulders and tastefully gathered under the arms. A pretty story was current among the guests that the coat was the same one worn by his father and grandfather on their wedding days. Mr. Morgan would not affirm or disaffirm this sentimental touch. The vest was sleeveless and met in the front with a most touching array of buttons. It was gracefully fashioned with pockets and at the back held together by a strap and buckle of self-material.

The groom's pants were of some light material and were suspended from the waist, falling in a straight line almost to the floor. The severe simplicity of the garment was revealed by his right pantleg which was caught up about four inches from the floor by a Boston Brighton worn underneath, revealing just an artistic glimpse of brown hole-proof above the genuine leather that was laced with strings to match. The effect was rather chic.

Beneath the vest the groom wore blue galluses attached to the pants fore and aft and passing in a graceful curve over each shoulder. His neck was encircled with a collar characterized by a delicate sawedge and round the collar the cravat was loosely knotted so that it rode up under the left ear which marked supreme artistry in dress.

The groomsman's costume was essentially like the groom's and as the two stood at the altar a hush of awed admiration enveloped the audience. Neither Mr. Morgan nor the groomsman wore a hat.

As the bride led the groom from the nuptials, it was noted that she wore orange blossoms.—Exchange.

Charlevoix county hasn't made any fuss over color tours, but I'd defy anyone to find any more beautiful scenery than those to be seen along county highways, and especially around Lake Charlevoix, than there is right now.

A mighty problem would be solved if someone could find a way to make fish bite at a time to correspond with a Fish Festival date. There were plenty of fishermen but few fish taken over last week end.

ANNUAL SCOUT MEETING AT TRAVERSE, NOV. 6TH

All Troops of Scenic Trails Council Expected to Participate

Boy Scouts and friends from 11 northern Michigan counties are expected to attend the annual meeting of Scenic Trails Council, scheduled November 6th at Central high school, Traverse City.

According to Council President Hugh J. Johnston, two dinners will be held in connection with the affair and officers for 1941 will be elected at the brief business meeting included on the program.

Superintendent of Schools G. E. Loomis, of Traverse City schools, heads the program committee, which has planned an outstanding program at 8:00 p. m., with Mr. Johnston presiding. The outstanding feature of the general program will be an address by Waldo W. Shaver, deputy regional executive of Region Seven.

The 11 counties included in the council are Antrim, Benzie, Charlevoix, Cheboygan, Emmet, Kalkaska, Leelanau, Grand Traverse, Manistee, Missaukee and Wexford.

RELIGIOUS COUNCIL OFFICERS NAMED FOR 1941

Rev. John W. Alexander Retained As President of Organization

Rev. John W. Alexander was re-elected president of the Charlevoix County Council of Religious Education, at the annual convention at Barnard Methodist church last Friday. Rev. C. W. Sidebotham, of East Jordan, was reelected to the vice-presidency. Lester Hall, Charlevoix, was elected secretary-treasurer.

Chief speaker of the session was John McCracken, field secretary of the Presbyterian board of education of Michigan.

About sixty ministers and delegates were in attendance at afternoon and evening sessions.

CONGREGATIONAL MISSIONARY AT LUNCHEON

Playlet Enjoyed at Annual Function Held Last Wednesday

The annual luncheon of the Woman's Missionary Society of the Congregational church was held last Wednesday at the church, with seventy-five ladies present.

The monthly business meeting and an enjoyable program followed the luncheon. A playlet entitled "I Never Knew That" was enacted by Amy Pedersen, Louise Young, Freda and Mary Willis, under the direction of Mrs. G. R. Parker.

SUPERNAW-SHAPTON WEDDING SOLEMNIZED AT ST. MARY'S RECTORY SATURDAY

At a wedding solemnized at eleven o'clock Saturday morning, October 19, at St. Mary's Rectory, Miss Rena Belle Marie Supernaw, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Supernaw, became the bride of Ralph Louis Shapton, of Highland Park, son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Shapton.

Fr. John W. Collins performed the ceremony in the presence of the immediate relatives. The couple were attended by Miss Helen Shapton, sister of the groom, and Charles Supernaw, brother of the bride.

The bride's gown was soldier blue, with matching accessories. Her corsage was a single lavender orchid, and she wore a string of pearls. Miss Shapton wore a dress of olive green with matching accessories, and a corsage of yellow pom-poms.

Luncheon was served to the wedding party and members of their families, at the home of the bride's parents. A three-tiered white wedding cake, with dainty bride and groom atop, was served. On the table were low bowls of asters in pastel colors, and bouquets of pink gladioli and pink dahlias decorated the rooms.

After a short wedding trip, Mr. and Mrs. Shapton will be at home at 239 Cortland avenue, Highland Park, Mich.

The board authorized purchase of an addressograph for the county treasurer's office to be paid for from fees of the office.

SHAKESPEARE CLUB EXPRESSES APPRECIATION TO NYA FOR LUNCHEON

Members of the Shakespeare Study Club wish to thank the girls of the NYA school for their efficient work in serving the club luncheon, held at the Bartlett Hotel last week.

The school, now located in the Bartlett, has offered the use of its dining room to organizations seeking a place for luncheons and dinners. This plan is not intended to offer competition to local restaurants and hotels, but is primarily intended to give the students experience for hotel work.

PUBLIC NOTICE

Republican signs and posters lawfully posted on private property along the highways in this county are being deliberately torn down and defaced by certain malicious persons with un-American and subversive tendencies. These acts are violations of law and punishable. The guilty miscreants are under investigation and when found will be vigorously prosecuted and there will be nothing funny about the outcome.

CHARLEVOIX COURIER

VOLUME 45 NUMBER 44 | TEN PAGES | THE CHARLEVOIX COURIER, WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 30, 1940 | PRICE $2.00 PER YEAR

NUMBERS DRAWN IN ARMY DRAFT

ERNEST LEROY BROWN, IRONTON, FIRST IN COUNTY

Unofficial First Ten Given Order Numbers Are Listed—Full List Available Next Week

Ernest Leroy Brown, of Ironton, held No. 158, first number drawn in the national lottery held Tuesday at Washington to determine the order in which draft registrants will be sent questionnaires for classification in selective military service.

Brown, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Brown, is employed on the Ironton ferry. He is married.

The foregoing and following information is unofficial in respect to being furnished by the local draft board and is published by this newspaper for its public interest. Harold F. Lamb, secretary of the Charlevoix County Draft Board, stated today that the board will await copies of the official list of numbers from Washington before making public the order numbers under which registrants would be sent questionnaires to determine classification. When this list is made available, the Courier will publish the same in its entirety, giving serial number, order number and name, probably in next week's publication.

The second number drawn from the fish bowl in Washington was 192, held in this county by John William Smith, married, of Boyne City. The 19th number drawn, No. 105, was held by Robert James Evans, of East Jordan; the 41st number, No. 188, was held by Maxwell Wesley Houck, of Boyne City; the 46th, No. 120, by Robert Edmond Reed, of East Jordan.

Others of the first 10 drawn from Charlevoix county are listed below, the order number preceding the name and serial number following:

No. 6—Maynard Victor Harrison, East Jordan, 846; No. 7—Claude Edward McCless, Boyne City, 161; No. 8—Wesley Edward Simmerman, East Jordan, 14; No. 9 — William Martin Rebec, East Jordan, 57; No. 10—Ernest Potter, Charlevoix Rt. 1, 153.

Leonard Thompson, 21, of Ironton, was the first volunteer for one year's army training. Holding No. 373 in the lottery, Thompson, providing he is classified in division A-1, signifying physical fitness and independent, will be the first drawn from Charlevoix county through preference of volunteering.

UNIQUE BOULDER PARK COTTAGE BEING FINISHED

Cornelius Geiken, Marquette, Awards Contract to Kit Carson

Contract has been awarded the Kit Carson Lumber Co. by Cornelius Geiken, of Marquette, to complete construction of what is known as the Young stone cottage, located just inside the east boundary line of Boulder Park.

Construction of the cottage, a bungalow type with foundation and walls of native stone, some weighing a ton or over, was started several years ago. The unusual design, the enormous boulders used and uniqueness of the entire design has since that time attracted untold thousands of sight-seers and has been the object of much curiosity.

Work on finishing the construction is now well under way.

AIRPLANE VALUABLE IN CONSERVATION PATROL

Sights Illegal Commercial Nets in Southern Lake Michigan Waters

Airplane reconnaissance flights over Great Lakes commercial fishing grounds are proving effective in controlling illegal fishing activity. Latest haul reported by the law enforcement division of the conservation department is the confiscation of approximately 11 miles of gill nets in the south end of Lake Michigan.

The nets had been set by out-state owners who were fishing illegally in Michigan waters and a part of the nets was of illegal size mesh.

A pontoon-equipped airplane is engaged in flights over fishing grounds in Lakes Michigan, Superior, Huron, St. Clair and Erie, and two-way wireless telephone communication allows observers to report illegal nets to patrol craft and shore stations.

HIGHWAY BRIDGE GIVEN APPROVAL

HIGHWAY DEPARTMENT ORDERS PLANS DRAWN

Construction Lift-Type Span to Cost $300,000 Planned, Also New Highway North on US-31

Alignment and construction of a new bridge on US-31 in the city of Charlevoix, estimated to cost $300,000, has been approved by State Highway Commissioner Murray D. Van Wagoner.

In announcing his action last week, Van Wagoner said consulting engineers have been ordered to prepare plans for the structure at once, with the hope it can be placed on the next construction program.

The new bridge, to be of the bascule, or lift, type, will span the Pine river and replace the existing swing bridge at that point. It will have a span of 90 feet and will provide a roadway of 40 feet.

The alignment, as approved, is approximately the same as that of the present bridge, it was said, with the exception of slight variations.

"While some desire had been expressed for relocating the bridge and highway through the city," Van Wagoner said, "it was found impossible because of right-of-way difficulties encountered, so the present location was decided upon."

It was stated, however, that relocation of US-31 north of the bridge for a distance of approximately three and one-half miles, together with five miles of new pavement, was under consideration at this time with the view of being undertaken as soon as possible.

While the proposed project has not been listed as a military priority by the War Department, its importance has been called to the attention of Federal authorities by officials of the highway department. As a result, it was said, it may win approval as a Federal Aid project.

FARMERS' DAY PROGRAM IS COMPLETE

SECOND ANNUAL KIWANIS EVENT TO BE STAGED HERE SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 2

County-Wide Potato and Apple Show, 4-H Club and Smith-Hughes Exhibits, Free Entertainment and Awarding of Prizes Among Outstanding Features

(By B. t'. Mellencamp)

Competition at the 2nd annual Kiwanis Farmers' Day exhibit to be held Saturday, November 2, promises to be keen in view of the number of exhibitors who plan on making displays.

The apple department should be a sight to behold. Color in apples is better than average this year. The young farmers are putting the finishing touches on their potato, corn, and bean exhibits. The Smith-Hughes students from East Jordan and Boyne City have their samples already selected and are getting them in readiness for the competition.

The Kiwanis Club is spending considerable time in developing an evening of entertainment and pleasure for the entire public. Music will be furnished by the high school band and the Kiwanis t'lub is practicing for one or two musical numbers. A roller skating act will be a specialty of unusual talent. Ray Murch, his daughter, Marcella, and Malcomb Gokee, all of Walloon Lake, will give you a rare treat. The Kiwanis Club members promise one or two surprises. Also don't forget that three or more special door prizes will be given out to the holders of lucky tickets.

The exhibit will be held in the community room of the city hall. All exhibits will be placed ready for judging not later than 2:30, and will be open for inspection until after the conclusion of the evening program. Ribbons will be given the winners in the various classes. The premium list includes perks of Russet Rurals, Chippewas, Kathadins, and any other variety of potatoes, with $2 award to the first place winner, $1.50 to the second place, $1 to the third place, 75c for fourth place, and 50c for all other places.

In the Junior Department the same awards will be given to both 4-H club members and Smith-Hughes students. The 4-H corn exhibits will be made up of samples of ten ears each with $1.50 for first place, $1 for second, 75c for third, and all others 50c. The 4-H bean exhibits are made up of two quarts of hand selected beans with the same premiums as for corn.

Much larger displays of 4-H conservation exhibits is expected this year. These exhibits will consist of bird houses, nesting shelves, feeding racks, conservation signs, and so forth. Premiums for each club or school exhibiting will be one dollar for first, 75c for second, 50c for third, and all others 25c.

In apples there will be two classes, one for plates and the other for bushels. Classes are provided for Delicious, MacIntosh, Northern Spy, Snow, Waggoner, Wealthy, Wolf River, Jonathan, and any other variety. First place in plates is 75c, second 50c, and all others 25c. In the bushel competition all varieties will be in one group with $1.50 for first place, $1.20 for second place, $1.00 for third, and all others 75c.

The Kiwanis t'lub and city of Charlevoix are greatly pleased to have the opportunity of entertaining their farmer friends. Make your plans right now to bring your family, see the splendid exhibit, and enjoy the evening program.

SERIES REVIVAL MEETINGS AT PHELPS CHURCH

OCTOBER COURT TERM ADJOURNED TO NOV. 7

One-Day Session Last Monday Occupied With Non-Jury Matters

Following a one-day session Monday, the October term of circuit court was adjourned to November 7 by Judge Parm C. Gilbert.

Monday's session was occupied with hearing of probationers, arraignment of calendar and divorce cases. A jury drawn for the term will be called when court reconvenes.

Peter Klekotka, of Boyne Falls, changed his plea of not guilty to a plea of guilty on a charge of leaving scene of an accident, and will be sentenced November 7 along with Keith Phillips, Albert Rose, Jr., and Fred McSauby, who are held on a charge of forgery and uttering and publishing.

REPUBLICAN WOMEN HEARD TALK BY ROLLIE L. LEWIS

BENEVOLENT FUND ESTABLISHED AS A MEMORIAL

Perpetuate Memory of the Late Lenore Goldman Myer in Charlevoix

In order to perpetuate the memory of Lenore Goldman Myer, who had been a lifetime summer resident of Charlevoix, a fund has been established by members of her family, to be used for emergency aid purposes in Charlevoix and Horton Bay.

Mrs. Myer was greatly devoted to Charlevoix, and in her quiet way she was intensely interested in assisting local people in time of need, and few people realize the good she accomplished.

It is the hope of her husband, Jesse S. Myer, Jr., and the Goldman family, that Mrs. Myer's memory may be perpetuated, and her work continued.

A local committee, composed of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Ranger, Donald F. Herrick, William F. Meyer and Robert Bridge have generously agreed to act in the administration of this fund, and give of their time in the furtherance of this memorial.

It will be appreciated if citizens will bring to the attention of the local committee any worthy cases.

HARBOR IS VICTOR OVER CHARLEVOIX

SCORED 14 TO 0 VICTORY HERE SATURDAY AFTERNOON

Visitors Out-Played in First Half, But Turned Second Half 'Breaks' Into Two Touchdowns

Harbor Springs tallied twice in the second half to defeat Charlevoix's Red Rayders by a 14 to 0 count at south side athletic field Saturday afternoon.

Had the Rayders maintained their first half pace, the result might have been different. They not only outplayed, but out-gained the decidedly heavier and more highly-touted Harbor outfit and held play in the visitor's territory most of the time. They were within scoring range at least twice, but out-weighed man for man by a considerable margin, lacked the punch needed.

Harbor turned two "breaks" into scores in the second half, one in the third and again in the fourth period. The second half had barely started when a poor pass from center delayed Nowland's punt which was partially blocked and bounded off to the left of the field into the arms of Hannah, Harbor center, who romped 45 yards over the goal. Herrick kicked for extra point from placement.

The ding-dong battle, with neither side showing any decided superiority, went on into the final moments of the fourth quarter until Cunningham intercepted a Charlevoix pass to start an advance which Charlevoix stopped on their own 20-yard strip. Charlevoix lost the ball on downs and Harbor, failing to gain, punted short to the Charlevoix 5-yard line. Two

NEXT TUESDAY IS GENERAL ELECTION

SIX PARTIES HAVE CANDIDATES ON BALLOT

Non-Partisan Ballot Contains Judicial Candidates; Four Amendments Before Voters

Voters of the nation will go to the polls next Tuesday, November 5, for the national general election.

In the hands of these voters rests the fate of the country's two major political parties — Republican and Democrat. The main issue centers around the unprecedented attempt of President Franklin D. Roosevelt, Democratic standard-bearer, to obtain a third term in spite of tradition to the contrary dating as far back as George Washington, first president of this country. Because of this attempt, together with other alleged failures of the so-called New Deal, Republican leaders, backing the candidacy of Wendell L. Willkie, vision a turn in public sentiment which may return the party to the White House.

Tuesday's election will climax one of the most hectic campaigns in history.

Michigan's governorship race is between Luren D. Dickinson, Republican successor to the late Frank D. Fitzgerald, and Murray D. VanWagoner, present state highway commissioner and leader of the Democratic party in Michigan.

The county has three election contests. On the blanket ballot, Fenton R. Bulow, county clerk, and Lillis M. Flunders, county treasurer, Republican nominees, are opposed by Luther Hanna and Guy C. Ecclestan, respectively, Democrats. On the non-partisan ballot, Ervan A. Ruegsegger, the incumbent, is opposed by Clarence B. Meggison.

Voters will be handed three ballots, the blanket ballot, containing candidates for six parties; the non-partisan ballot, with names of candidates for Judge of Probate, Justice of the Supreme Court and Circuit Court Commissioner; and a ballot containing four amendments.

PRANKLESS HALLOWEEN AIM OF KIWANIS CLUB

Free Movie and Dancing Party for Students Scheduled Thursday

Continuing a policy established several years ago, the Kiwanis Club is providing free entertainment Thursday afternoon and evening for all students who sign pledges to refrain from Halloween pranks.

A Kiwanis committee composed of t'. S. Webster, Robert Bridge and Fred Bancroft distributed pledges among students Tuesday afternoon. Their signature is a promise to respect private property and keep out of Halloween trouble.

As a reward, youngsters up to and including the sixth grade will be entertained at the movie "South of the Border," at the Palace Theater, at 3 o'clock Thursday afternoon. Upper grade students will by guests at the movie in the evening and also at a dancing party after the movie at the Dairy Bar.

THIRTY KIWANIANS ATTEND MEETING OF SERVICE CLUBS

Thirty members of the Charlevoix Kiwanis Club attended the joint meeting of Charlevoix county service clubs at Boyne City Monday evening, at which Boyne City Rotarians played host to over ninety men, including Rotary Club members from East Jordan.

SHOT AT RANDOM

By Ken Usher

With projects now under way completed, Charlevoix citizens will have had constructed in the past year something like 10,000 feet of street gutter.

While we all know hunting from an automobile is illegal, it would still have its advantages during the deer season, for even a tenderfoot hunter would know it isn't a deer if it's driving a car.

Dame Nature, due particularly to the absence of freezing weather in this vicinity so far this fall, is apparently in a prankish mood. Flowers may be found blooming throughout the city at this late date. In fact, this very morning I picked a banquet of sweet peas from my back yard and last Sunday, while hunting, observed wild strawberries.

An example of the deep attachment many of our summer residents hold for Charlevoix and its citizens is exemplified by a trust fund established by the Alvin D. Goldman family and Jess S. Myer, Jr., to perpetuate the memory of the late Lenore Goldman Myer. The needy of Charlevoix and Horton Bay will be the

By GENE ALLEMAN

Field Manager, Michigan Press Association

Because of competition, two private feuds go before Michigan voters next Tuesday.

And, as usually the case, the innocent bystander who is most affected is the consumer—Mr. and Mrs. John Q. Public—who pays the bill.

The controversies involve two referendums — State Proposal No. 3, the 1939 bus bill, and State Proposal No. 4, the 1939 dentists' anti-competition bill. The state legislature, along with other measures, passed both acts only to have special groups circulate petitions for a referendum of the people.

And so, when you go to the polls on Tuesday, you will be confronted with huge special ballots of bedsheet proportions. The headings will mean little, if anything.

EDITORIAL

CLIPPED COMMENT

Willkie and Peace or Roosevelt and War

Mr. Willkie's four speeches in Chicago established the issue to be decided in the election in November.

Mr. Willkie is for peace. He is against participation in an European war. He said so as unequivocally as a man could say it, and he repeated the declaration in every speech he made. "I will never send an American boy to fight in any European war" were his words. And there can be no question in his sincerity in this declaration. Everything he values in American life, as he said, would be lost in a war, and perhaps lost forever.

The issue is Mr. Willkie and peace against Mr. Roosevelt and war. Mr. Roosevelt says he is against war, but his words and his acts for a year and more can have left no doubt in any reasonable mind that in his thought America's future depends solely on the outcome in Europe. Because he feels as he does his pronouncements against participation cannot be sincere. If he had really recoiled from the idea of another expeditionary force to Europe, the provision against sending conscripts outside the western hemisphere would have been included in the first draft of the conscription bill instead of being forced into the measure by amendment.—Chicago Tribune.

Money found in letters sent to the dead letter office, is turned over to the treasury department as miscellaneous receipts.

Storms don't bother you with

Stormproof Roofing

Bethlehem Stormproof Galvanized Steel Roofing takes the worry out of winter winds. When you've roofed with Stormproof, thawing snow and ice can't siphon or blow through to ruin valuable tools and implements, either. Stormproof is designed to cling tight to the roof and really seal out moisture. Triple barriers prevent penetration of water through side laps. Double drains take care of any water that gets under the overlapped edge. End laps are guarded by a three-ribbed siphon seal.

No sticks, battens or special tools are needed to lay Stormproof. There is no bending or crimping to do in applying these sheets to any type of roof. Even nailing is kept to a minimum, yet Stormproof is easily put down to stay. A coating of pure zinc protects against corrosion, or, for extra resistance and even longer life, copper-bearing Beth-Cu-Loy Galvanized Sheets can be specified for a few cents more.

The Next Few Hours May Decide

THE DESTINY OF OUR COUNTRY

In a few hours you will be called upon to decide whether a President of the United States shall break one of our most cherished and hallowed traditions.

There are — of course — other grave issues. But none, however grave, is likely to have such a far-reaching effect on the future of our country. Shall we, with open eyes, go down the road that leads to Fascism, Nazism, Communism or whatever you choose to call a type of government which denies the dignity of man and the rights of the individual? Shall we, for the first time in our history, accept the theory of the indispensable man, as against the fact that no man in all history has ever been indispensable?

Make no mistake. Once we set foot on the road to dictatorship there is no turning back any more than the people of Germany or Russia can now turn back and choose other leaders . . . any more than the people of Germany can now end the terrible war that their present leaders have led them into.

So when you enter the polling booth on Tuesday—and you are alone with your conscience—with the ballot spread out before you, it will be up to you to choose whether we shall surely remain free men and women working together in a democracy, or whether we shall put ourselves in peril of one day living as slaves ruled by despots. It has happened there—it could happen here.

Cagney Takes Poke at "Oomph Girl" for Story's Sake

Jimmy Cagney came closest to a blow at an actress that he has come since swearing off the "grapefruit" style of motion picture lovemaking, when he did a scene of scuffling with Ann Sheridan in Warner Bros.' "City For Conquest" opening at the Palace Theatre on November 2 for three days.

The script required Cagney to punch Ann on her shoulder when she tried to step between Cagney and Anthony Quinn, during a quarrel scene.

Brenda Joyce Proves a Very Glamorous Deb

A girl whose beauty encompasses the loveliness of all of America's fairest women, Brenda Joyce comes into her own in the title role of Elsa Maxwell's "Public Deb. No. 1," the 20th Century-Fox comedy which comes to the Palace Theatre Tuesday and Wednesday, November 5 and 6.

Produced by Zanuck with a great cast, the film features, besides George Murphy and Brenda Joyce, Elsa Maxwell, Mischa Auer, Charlie Ruggles, Ralph Bellamy, Maxie Rosenbloom, Preston Churchill and Franklin Pangborn.

Elephant Bucks and Actor Sails Right Off Set!

There have been countless tales about rogue elephants who gave actors a bucking good time of it in western epics. However, Preston Foster, who costars with Dorothy Lamour and Robert Preston in "Moon Over Burma," coming Thursday and Friday, November 7 and 8, to the Palace Theatre, holds that a lumbering, unbroken circus elephant can be as dangerous and poorly behaved as any horse.

As might be gathered from the elephants and the title, "Moon Over Burma" is a film concerned with events in the tropics. It finds Robert Preston and Preston Foster as the operators of a teak lumbering business in the Burmese highlands. On a trip down to Rangoon to borrow more money needed to keep their business running, they run into Dorothy Lamour, singing in a club.

When they have become better acquainted, the boys and Dorothy return to the place where the boys operate their business. Both boys fall in love with Dotty, and there are thrills of every sort before the picture concludes.

My Message...

To the good people of Charlevoix County:

The duties of my office as Probate Judge do not permit me to make an active campaign for re-election next month; and the dignity of the office forbids that I should do so.

But I can give you this message for your consideration:

1st. The office of Judge of Probate is not a clerical nor a political one requiring constant presence in the probate office. It is a JUDICIAL office quite similar to that of Circuit Judge. My office or clerical work is comparatively light, when compared with the judicial duties, which cover all over the county. True, most hearings are had in the probate office; but in the interests of economy and saving of taxpayers' money, many matters are taken care of in East Jordan and Boyne City, and elsewhere in the county; —thus saving witness fees and time and money for those interested. My travel expense costs the taxpayers nothing; and there has never been any charge to the county for office rent or space, or for 'phone rentals, or for over-time work done.

2nd. The judicial duties of the Probate Court are varied and important; and not infrequently involve large sums of money. Within the past year one estate alone amounted to over a half million dollars; and several exceeded $50,000. Such estates require careful legal knowledge and experience as they always include many kinds of property. Then, too, there are the scores of small estates of $1,000 or less. They all require the same care, as the few dollars are just as precious to the poor as the millions are to the rich. I am always glad to give free legal advice to all those interested in any matter in my court as to their rights in the matter.

3rd. Then there are the many guardianship cases, which always involve minors or incompetent persons,—and such proceedings require legal exactness, from start to finish, besides supervision of the property and investments of the ward's estate.

4th. Many adoption cases are also difficult and require careful study of the law to make them legal.

5th. And then there are the scores of hospitalization cases of afflicted, crippled and injured children. They all require personal attention to weed out the unworthy, and keep within our allotment which has been reduced to about 20% in the last two years. We have been able to keep within our allotment, and also give good service.

6th. Then there are the many juvenile cases,—delinquent, neglected and dependent children. All under 17 years of age, are under the jurisdiction of the Probate Court, except felony cases. With the help of the County Agent, I have personally investigated every delinquent juvenile case, and have sought to require the child to right any wrong committed, and then keep him under probation, either to myself or some good neighbor or friend. In this way, I believe we have salvaged 98% of those brought into court.

7th. In the above I have not mentioned the unfortunate widows. The law makes it the special duty of the judge to acquaint them with their rights, and to see that they are protected.

8th. All of the judicial duties listed above, and many others, do require a lot of common sense, but also require a larger amount of legal education and experience, which I believe I have after 32 years as an active practicing lawyer. And I am frank to say that the services required of the Judge of Probate, as above set forth, cannot be rendered by sitting in the Probate Office all of the time. The law itself only requires the Probate Court to be open "at reasonable times AS FIXED BY THE JUDGE." Our own Circuit Judge only spends from 20 to 30 days a year in his office here, and we do not complain about that.

9th. When not in the Probate office I am subject to call at any time, night or day, and maintain 'phones at my own expense for that purpose. I frequently attend to Probate matters in my home or office evenings, by appointment: and I have always sought to handle all Probate matters in my court with as little expense as possible, and at the same time see that everything is legally done.

Lastly, I have conscienciously tried to fulfill the duties required of me as Probate Judge, efficiently, promptly, and with the dignity that the office requires; and if re-elected will continue so to do.

I want to thank the physicians of the county for their fine cooperation in the hospitalization of children; and my special thanks is given to all those, including the Kiwanis and Rotary Clubs, who have so cheerfully helped out in juvenile cases. So much could not have been accomplished without their help.

And now, if for services heretofore rendered, I am deserving of it, I will be truly grateful for your support and vote at the coming election on the non-partisan ballot.

Most Sincerely,

ERVAN A. RUEGSEGGER

Judge of Probate.

HOMEMADE TOYS STUDIED BY MSC

Orange crates and apple boxes will be scarce in Michigan if many families follow the suggestions of the home economics department at Michigan State College.

In a comprehensive study of "home made toys and play equipment" reported in a new bulletin with that title, Michigan Extension Bulletin 216, the use of inexpensive materials is stressed as a wise combination with such purchased articles as wagons, doll carriages, dolls, trains, boats and toy automohiles, bicycles, tricycles and roller skates and sleds.

From orange crates the bulletin describes simple construction of a toy cupboard, an orange crate chair, settee and small wardrobe.

Apple boxes become a chest of drawers and a packing case is converted into a small table in the bulletin.

Every living room ought to have at least one chair to fit each child. A place to put toys makes discipline and training easier.

Three types of toys described by the bulletin include:

1. Activity toys which involve use of large muscles: wagons, tricycles, kiddie cars, wheel harrows, climbing ladders, teeters, swings, boxes, boards and halls.
2. Imitative and dramatic toys: dolls, animals, trains, boats, toy automobiles, household equipment and costume materials.
3. Creative play materials: blocks, clay, paints, paper, scissors, tools, wood, sand, cloth and sewing materials.

Have your battery charged for strenuous winter use. GAMBLE'S slow-process method insures longer battery life. 6-volt 35c.—Adv. 44t1

STATE DENTAL BILL

This is an important message to you, Mr. and Mrs. Consumer.

Michigan has a model statute governing the use of advertising.

It fully protects the consumer against misuse of advertising by false or misleading statements of any kind.

Newspapers are ready at all times to keep their advertising columns clean from such abuse. Merchants likewise do not wish to mislead the consumer with inaccurate statements which result only in ill will and loss of patronage.

The economic freedom of the consumer depends largely on his or her ability to get truthful information. Is there any justification for a scheme to rob you of this right; to prohibit telling the truth?

State Proposal No. 4, the Dental Bill, would deny the consumer this important privilege It would prohibit the telling of prices. It would encourage other groups to work for special legislation to restrict competition.

It would evade the American system of justice by court and jury. It would deny to both consumer and business man the freedom of truthful advertising.

Consumers, Guard your rights!

Defend the right to tell the truth, as judged by court and jury, and as safeguarded against abuse by the Michigan false advertising law.

This is the American way!

REPAIR OF WATER MAIN STARTED UPPER CHANNEL

Holthe & Schultz, Muskegon Firm, Has Contract for Work

Re-laying of the upper channel water main between Round Lake and Lake Charlevoix has been started by the Muskegon firm of Holthe & Schultz, recently awarded contract for the job by the city council.

Equipment needed for the job, requiring complete relaying of the main to a depth of 25 feet to meet government requirements, was moved in last week. The main was damaged a year ago last summer by the dredge Gen. Meade. A telegraph cable for the Pere Marquette Railway Co. will be put into the water main trench at the same time, it is understood.

For a good time come to the box social at the Barnard Grange hall on Friday evening, November 1st.—4411.

RED CROSS ORGANIZE FOR ROLL CALL DRIVE

National defense as a major Red Cross obligation will be stressed in formulation of plans for the annual Roll Call which begins November 11 and concludes November 30.

Mrs. A. C. Leslie, county chairman, and other Charlevoix county Red Cross officials attended a regional conference Tuesday at Traverse City, at which initial steps toward strengthening membership to help meet added responsibilities of the Red Cross, locally and nationally, were taken. The Traverse conference was one of 41 in the 17-state Red Cross midwestern area.

Plans and organization for the Charlevoix county Roll Call drive will be announced within a short time.

WILLIAM WALKERS OBSERVED 25TH WEDDING ANNIVERSARY SUNDAY

In celebration of their 25th wedding anniversary, Mr. and Mrs. William Walker, of Eveline township, entertained ten guests at a family dinner Sunday at the home of Mrs. Walker's mother, Mrs. Minnie Cooper.

Lyle Walker, of Flint, was present at his parents' anniversary, as were Mr. Walker's sisters, Hazel and Mabel, his brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Dick O'Neil, and Miss Vida Black, all of Charlevoix, also Everett Combest, of East Jordan.

Mr. and Mrs. Walker received many gifts and cards of congratulation.

General Election Notice

Notice is hereby given of a general election to be held on November 5, at the Town Hall, Charlevoix Township, for the purpose of voting the general fall ballot as follows: National, State, County, also Non-Partisan ticket, and four amendments. Polls will be open at 7 a. m. and close at 6 p. m. Prudence Yeomans, Deputy Township Clerk.—

ADDITIONAL LOCALS

Mrs. Mary Allers, who has spent the summer months in northern Michigan, is making a visit with her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Irwin Belfy. She plans to leave soon to spend the winter in South Haven and Kalamazoo.

Miss Grace Shores and Mrs. Maurice Dixon returned Friday from Gloucester, Mass., where, accompanied by Mrs. Mina McIntosh of Stanton, they had spent three weeks with Miss Shores' brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Gerry Shores.

Mr. and Mrs. William Bogart and Mr. and Mrs. Edmund Bogart, also Mrs. Charles Box of Central Lake, were called to Kingsley on Tuesday by the death of their sister, Mrs. Gus Leaeck. Funeral services are to be held at Kingsley on Thursday afternoon.

Mrs. William Lennox, of Detroit, spent last week at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Gludos. She returned to Detroit with her son, Merton, and daughter, Candace, who motored up for her. They were also accompanied by William Crim, who had spent the summer in Charlevoix.

Mr. and Mrs. George Higman are the parents of a son, Michael James, born Thursday, October 24, at Charlevoix Hospital. Mrs. Higman is the former Edna Wyers, daughter of James Wyers. Mr. Higman returned to the Rockford State Police post on Friday, after spending several days here.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Wallace and Mr. and Mrs. Harry Foster returned home Saturday, following several days in Chicago on business. Mrs. Wallace made the trip to visit her niece, Miss Marjorie Kornfeld, who is recovering from a goiter operation performed last week at Holy Cross Hospital, Chicago.

Mr. and Mrs. Lance Neff, of Detroit, were overnight guests Tuesday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Milton Block. On their return Wednesday, they were accompanied by Mrs. Leo Carey, who will make a week's visit with Mr. Carey in Detroit, and by Tom Carey and Harry Withers, who will remain there indefinitely.

Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Foster had as week end guests their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Foster and children, Phyllis and Joseph, and Mrs. Robert Foster's parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Gretsker and daughter, Mary Lou, all of Kalamazoo. Mr. and Mrs. Bill Foster and son, Carl, of Petoskey, were at the Foster home on Sunday.

Mrs. A. A. Swinton returned home Friday from Ann Arbor, where for two weeks she had been receiving treatment at University Hospital. Her daughter, Mrs. Eugene Wolfman and son, David, of Mt. Clemens, accompanied her to make an indefinite stay. Mr. Wolfman motored up with them, and returned to Mt. Clemens on Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Bergmann, accompanied by Miss Betty Wolverton, spent the week end in Grand Rapids visiting their son, Robert, student at the University of Grand Rapids. They attended the football game between U. G. R. and Defiance, Ohio, in which the U. G. R. team, of which Robert is a member, was victorious with a score of 31-0.

John Schroeder, who has been employed at Fessenden and Son's drug store, has secured a position as traveling representative of John Wyeth Bros., pharmacists' supply house of Philadelphia, Pa.

ment of Street Railways in Detroit, a municipal utility, and the Eastern Michigan Motor Bus Company, a private utility.

In 1939 the legislature enacted an amendment to the Motor Carrier Act. This change said that when Detroit seeks to operate its buses beyond a two-mile limit from the city's borders, and on state highways, it must come under the same regulations and pay the same taxes as do private transportation buses.

The Michigan Motor Bus Association, which seeks a "Yes" vote on the No. 3 proposal, wants competition to be put on the same basis for all.

The DSR of Detroit, which as a municipal utility urges a "no" vote, raises the cry of "monopoly" and "profits."

Who is concerned about all this? Consumers in the Detroit suburban area are affected directly. Consumers in up-state communities are affected indirectly in payment, or non-payment, of gasoline taxes.

Dental Competition

The second private feud, also involving the consumer, is between two groups of professionally trained and state licensed dentists.

One group, who term themselves "ethical" dentists, operate single offices—one dental chair to each office.

Another group, known as the "advertising" dentists, operate low-cost dental offices on the chain store basis. Because of operating economies, these dental offices enjoy big patronage in the industrial centers by telling the consumer about what they have to offer. They do so by advertising. In Detroit these firms even support the Better Business Bureau!

The 1939 dental act contained these provisions, plainly designed to prevent such low-cost competition. We quote the law:

"No Prices"

"No person or persons shall own . . . or manage . . . more than one office for the practice of dentistry in any location . . . and operate them under his . . . own name, with employed operators."

"It shall be unlawful for any dentist or dentists to advertise price, cost, charge, fee or terms of credit for professional service or for materials used in the practice of dentistry."

This Henry Ford mass production method in dentistry—with economies made possible largely through advertising prices to the consumer—has thrived in industrial centers where there are many low wage earners. Actually, only a comparative few dentists in the state are concerned by such competition. And likewise, only a few newspapers have ever received dental advertising of this kind.

The Detroit Bureau of Government Research, a group that enjoys a splendid reputation, made this analysis of the two competing claims:

"The dentists who secured the passage of this act claim that poor dental work is confined largely to the 'advertising' dentists and by depriving them of advertising, they would lose their cliental, who would seek more competent care.

"The 'advertising' dentists claim they are able to attract persons who otherwise would neglect their teeth, that their work is as good as other dentists, that advertising prices prevent other dentists from 'gauging' the public, and that advertising is as rightfully applied to dentistry as to the sales of any other service."

"Doesn't Make Sense"

Continuing the bureau's analysis: "The public at large is not particularly concerned with a quarrel within the dental profession. It is concerned with the protection of public health. No doubt much of the material of this act (P. A. 122) is in the interest of public health.

"As to the allegation that advertising and the operation of more than one office is prima facie evidence of poor dental practices—to the laymen THAT DOESN'T MAKE SENSE. Possibly the answer is competent state regulation of all dentists—advertisers and non-advertisers alike."

As both dental groups must have professional training at a recognized dental college and must be licensed by the dentists' own state dental board, the competitive motive behind the bill is easy to see, as the Detroit bureau points out. From the consumer's viewpoint, the anti-competition restriction "doesn't make sense."

Shutting Out Competition

If the State Proposal No. 4 was the only anti-competition bill to confront the consumer, perhaps there would be less reason for concern.

But such is not the case.

Stuart Perry, editor of the Adrian Daily Telegram which has never received a penny in dental advertising, has called attention editorially to the point that the dentists' act is designed to stifle competition and would establish a dangerous precedent for the consumer who always pays.

If it is wrong to advertise the truth about dental prices, then it is wrong to tell the truth about other prices. And where will it all end?

In 1911 the "truth in advertising" statute, making it illegal for anyone to make an untruthful, deceptive or misleading statement in any advertisement, was introduced nationally. Michigan's statute is considered to be a model law of its kind.

Advertising of Prices

Invariably the point arises: Why is it necessary for any group to have a special law of its own—forbidding price advertising of any kind—when Michigan already has a statute fully protecting the interests of the consumer? The answer always brings up the legal delays, continuances and politics which are involved by a suit at law. There are the prosecutor, the judge, and the jury, and they all take time.

The legislative trend since NRA has been to circumvent the usual system of justice by establishing special state bureaus, empowered to regulate competition as far as the legislature will permit them.

That the trend is distinctly anti-competition is shown by State Proposal No. 4 provision to forbid more than one dental office with the mass-economy savings for low-income groups.

The ban on truthful price advertising is the heart of the entire proposal and has been so conceded privately by the Michigan State Dental Society, its sponsors. Behind the 6,000 words is this significant denial of consumer rights.

HARBOR IS VICTOR OVER CHARLEVOIX

plays failed to gain ground for the Rayders and the third, a pass, fell into a Harbor player's arms on the Rayder 5-yard strip. Herrick plunged 3 yards and Davert cracked the line for the remaining distance. Herrick again made extra point from placement.

The play of Carl Rowe, Rayder halfback, was outstanding. His shifty field running accounted for numerous long gains, he handled punts well and on defense stopped everything coming his way. Davert and Herrick were outstanding for Harbor.

Coach Klpke used Rowe, Carey, Nowland, C. Martin and Shaptan in the backfield; Novotny, Foster and J. Martin at ends; Meggison, Hooker and Poole at tackle; Bissell and Stewart at guard; Kohler at center.

As far as is known, last Saturday's contest with Harbor closes Charlevoix's schedule for the season. Gaylord, scheduled here next Saturday, has cancelled all remaining games because of injury to several of its players.

WAKE UP, CONSUMERS!

Consumer patience should be reached by State Ballot No. 4, the November referendum on the dentists' anti-price advertising act of 1939.

We quote an editorial by Stuart Perry, editor, Adrian Daily Telegram:

"Some time ago we commented on a bill pending at Lansing which would forbid watchmakers from advertising their prices. Another bill (State Proposal No. 4) would forbid dentists from advertising prices, and still another of the same short would apply to chiropodists.

"Now comes a bill which would forbid barbers from using any advertising sign—even the time honored barber's pole.

"It would take a vivid and far-reaching imagination to figure out any possible reason for such a prohibition. Is a barbar's pole "unethical"? Not that we can see. Is it detrimental in any way to the public? Not at all; on the contrary a great convenience. Is there any reason why a barber should not be allowed to advertise his place of business the same as a druggist, a clothier or a grocer? Again our imagination fails."

Referring to the trend to restrict competition by legislative acts, Mr. Perry concludes: "The idea of everybody trying to protect himself by making it hard for others to enter his line of business, and by preventing his competitors from going after business, is being carried too far. If this sort of thing goes on it will end with every trade being a sort of guild with limited numbers, fixed prices and regulated methods.

"Such legislation is the work of pressure groups, seeking their own ends. The public does not want such laws. The public, however, pays no attention. Some day public opinion will wake up and a lot of such laws will be repealed."

A vote of "No" on State Ballot No. 4 would put the brakes on anti-consumer legislation of this type in Michigan. The public has its opportunity on November 5.

Truth in a Nutshell—An ounce of fact is always worth a ton of fiction.

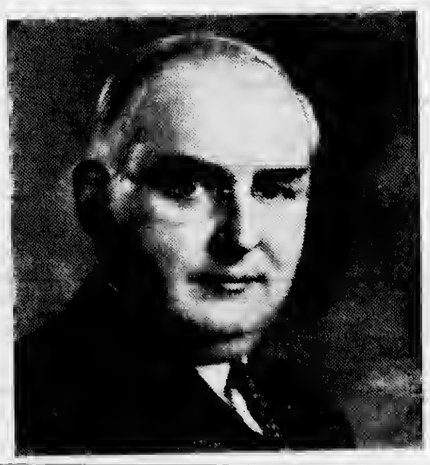
Re-Elect

SENATOR VANDENBERG



When You Vote for Vandenberg You Vote for Michigan

Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg is Michigan's champion. In foreign relations, in finance, in commerce, he is one of the few successful, influential and important men Michigan ever sent to Washington. BUT he has never forgotten the people who sent him there. For thirteen years he has fought for Michigan's interests—from sugar beets to automobiles, from furniture to fruit. He's a staunch friend of farming, an aggressive spokesman for organized labor . . . and an implacable foe of extravagance.

Vandenberg is the man who sponsored the famous "munitions investigation" that took big profits out of war.

He is the man who forced congressional reapportionment, gaining four seats for Michigan in the House of Representatives, and four votes in the Electoral College.

He is the man who was chiefly responsible for last January's bill which stopped an increase of 50% in taxes on 40,000,000 workers.

He is called "the Father of Bank Deposit Insurance."

He is the man who saved America $500,000,000 by defeating the shamefully wasteful Passamaquoddy and Florida Ship Canal and a number of other senseless projects.

He has done all these things for the nation, but he has never been too busy to "deliver the goods" for Michigan.

He saved the state's copper industry with his tariff.

He sponsored Isle Royale's development as Michigan's first National Park.

He has vigilantly guarded the state's vast interests in Great Lakes commerce, and he is working now for Michigan's share in National Defense.

This is the man who is a great leader of the Senate minority party . . . the man whom Life magazine picked among the "first ten" Senators.

His re-election is Michigan's duty to 47 other states as well as to itself. His re-election means that Michigan will continue to be "tops" in the United States Senate!

Re-elect MICHIGAN'S NATIONAL LEADER!

AUDITOR GENERAL HAS FULFILLED HIS PLEDGE

Promise to Courier, Other Papers in 1936 Has Been Kept

Vernon J. Brown, auditor general of the state of Michigan, today made an accounting to a group of over 300 Michigan newspaper publishers who solicited and sponsored his candidacy for that office two years ago.

It was their contention that as a business man, publisher and editor of a weekly paper, a legislator with ten years of experience, and a former county official, he was particularly well qualified for the office of auditor general. Mr. Brown, appreciating the sponsorship, frankly accepted their aid and outlined his platform with the following pledges: "If elected I shall reduce the cost of operating the department; I shall reduce the number of employees by removing from the payrolls every unnecessary jobholder; I shall economize to such an extent that there will be no more red ink bookkeeping in the department and the balances will be on the right side of the ledger."

A careful analysis of Mr. Brown's report shows that when he took office January 1, 1939 he found the former administration had an average of 422 employees with an annual operating cost of $1,129,521.64. Payroll costs were at an all time high and many political newcomers had replaced experienced employees. Auditor General Brown promptly removed from the payroll all purely political jobholders, and at the end of the fiscal year June 30, 1940 his reports show an average of 177 employees in the department with an annual operating cost of $650,581.51—a saving of $478,940.13 to Michigan taxpayers. Part of this saving has been due to the enactment of delinquent taxes in the offices of the county treasurers. This has not only resulted in greater convenience to taxpayers but has insured the permanency of this saving to the department.

Less known but by far the most important of his accomplishments has been the creation of a single unified accounting system for the state. Formerly four distinct records were maintained by various departments which resulted in conflicting and confusing reports on the financial condition of the state. Now clear, unified and accurate statements showing the true financial condition of the state are issued from the auditor general's office shortly after the last day of each month.

Notwithstanding this drastic reduction in personnel and operating expense, it has been observed that there has been a marked improvement in the efficiency of the department. Payrolls have been met on time, old age assistance checks issued when due, and thousands of dollars saved in discounts by the prompt payment of bills. This exceptional record of public service by Auditor General Brown has been particularly gratifying to his sponsors—he has faithfully kept his pledge and should be retained in office for another term.

4-H Club Leaders Hold Training Meeting

The plans for the coming winter 4-H club program were discussed with over 40 4-H club leaders and friends at the training meeting held in the dining room of the Charlevoix high school on last Tuesday, October 22nd.

A. G. Kettunen, state club leader, and Mrs. Ruth Schubert, assistant state club leader, were in attendance and gave instructions and suggestions for carrying on the winter 4-H club program. The group met at 5:00 p. m. in two different sections. One section discussed the handicraft program while the other section was devoted to clothing and hot lunch instruction.

Promptly at 6:30 the group enjoyed a banquet. The Kiwanis Club, of Charlevoix, enjoyed the banquet with the 4-H club leaders. They have long been interested in this program throughout the county and were anxious to observe the 4-H club program at work. The handicraft demonstration team made up of Mason Clark and Harry Watson, of East Jordan, gave their demonstration on "Saw Filing." This is the demonstration that won a trip to the National Club Congress at Chicago.

The usual successful club program is anticipated for the coming winter.

More than 550,000 life insurance endowment policies matured last year, paying nearly a quarter of a billion dollars in cash to these policyholders, according to the Institute of Life Insurance.

HEARINGS ON COMMERCIAL FISHING SCHEDULED

Joint United States-Canadian Boards Announce Meetings

A joint United States-Canadian board has announced it will open a series of hearings at Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., October 17 on methods of preserving and developing fishing resources of the Great Lakes.

The international board will hear testimony of commercial fishermen, sportsmen and government officials on methods of taking fish from the Great Lakes international waters, and will recommend to the United States and Canadian governments methods of developing and preserving the lakes' resources.

Hearings also have been scheduled at Marquette, Mich., October 18; Fort Williams, Ont., October 21; and Milwaukee, Wis., October 24.

The board was established by Secretary of State Cordell Hull and Leoing Christie, Canadian minister to the United States, after a conference at Detroit in February, 1938.

Hubert R. Gallagher, assistant director of the council of state governments, has been named its chairman.

Hearings have been tentatively scheduled with no dates for Detroit, Port Huron, Bay City, Rogers City, St. Ignace, Traverse City, Grand Haven, Houghton and Escanaba, all in Michigan; Michigan City, Ind., Green Bay and Bayfield, Wis., Erie Pa., Buffalo, Dunkirk and Rochester, N. Y., Cleveland and Sandusky, O., and Port Dover, Kingston and Southampton, Ont.

TUBERCULOSIS X-RAY CLINIC AT PETOSKEY

Monday Afternoon, November 4, Date Set for Examinations

According to Dr. Wallace M. Chapman, county health director, the Michigan Tuberculosis Association's x-ray unit will be at the Petoskey high school on Monday afternoon, November 4, to conduct an x-ray clinic. In the Charlevoix county clinic held this summer one active, one suspect, and one inactive adult type cases of tuberculosis and six primary infections were located.

Because tuberculosis is a very contagious disease, it is apt to leave a series of contacts behind which may prove to be dangerous when not checked. If caught in the early stages, tuberculosis can be cured at a saving of time and expense to the individual.

Anyone who has had contact with persons having, or suspected of having tuberculosis is urged to get in touch with his family physician or Dr. Chapman at once to arrange for a tuberculin test. A positive reaction to this test shows that there are tuberculosis germs in the body. Whether or not they are active germs can be determined only by means of an x-ray.

All of the Michigan Tuberculosis Association's health programs including x-ray films taken at county clinics, are supported by funds realized from the annual sale of tuberculosis Christmas seals.

11th DISTRICT

(Political Advertisement)

Notice!

To the Electors of the 29th Senatorial District:

I am a candidate for the above District, having been nominated without solicitation or even knowledge upon my part, but being in the race, I naturally wish to make a good showing.

I have been solicited by many groups and associations to support their recommendations, in the event of my election. I have made no promise or reply and now say to them I shall favor any measure that seems to have sufficient merit in it and shall not place Party before the welfare of my District and State. Particularly am I interested as to the wishes of Sportsmen and Nature Lovers and also I will use my best endeavor toward better commercial fishing conditions, more hatcheries, more artificial propagation. (Five of the counties out of seven in this District border the Great Lakes for approximately 300 miles.)

With the above declaration of my position I shall be grateful to you for your support.

THE MANDATE OF 1938. Two years ago the people of Michigan registered a protest at the ballot box. It was a protest against wasteful spending, mounting deficits, and a betrayal of honest laboring men.

You gave the Republican party in Michigan a mandate to do a job.

This party has kept the faith!

NO NEW TAXES—Needs of public service have been met on a "pay-as-you-go" basis without recourse to new taxes.

Business has been encouraged to GO AHEAD hire more men, increase payrolls.

Industrial peace has replaced industrial turmoil.

AMERICAN TOYS

For a long time it was assumed by everyone that most of the Christmas toy would always be made in Germany. That was the home of Kris Kringle, of gnomes with rosy cheeks and smiles digging things out of hillsides, of fine little elves who made things for good children while they slept. So it naturally became the home also of the factories which took the place of the fairy folk when there came to be too many children for them to make toys for.

Toys were made in the United States, too, especially such things as electrical trains and other mechanical toys which seemed natural to American children. But a large proportion of the charming Christmas things still came from Germany.

Now the German toy trade with us has practically disappeared. The Germans make munitions to kill people instead of toys to make their children happy. It was a bitter choice to make, and one that seems to the rest of the world completely unnecessary.

The American toy manufacturers seem to benefit by the change. But they, too, would probably rather make fewer toys in a time of peace than more in days like these. For everyone, in the long run, loses by war.

"DON'T BE MISLED"

An egg throwing incident put Michigan in a bad light throughout the nation.

The morning those eggs were thrown, Mr. Willkie stood before a group of 5,000 people in Pontiac. There were as many boos as cheers. But Mr. Willkie said solemnly: "You people who are using your voices instead of your intellect, you people who are substituting cat-calls and boos for straight thinking—you are the most misled. You are the people who will suffer the most if our government continues down the road it has been travelling."

And he continued by asking what good are the jobs you have now and all that they mean in pleasant living if this country continues on the road to bankruptcy?

Leaning forward as if he were talking to each man alone, with great dignity he plead, "Don't be misled, don't, don't, don't don't . . . ."

KNOW ● YOUR BANK

A Bank's Duty to its Borrowers

—As set forth in the Statement of Principles of Commercial Banking of the American Bankers Association

"WITHIN the boundaries set by his primary obligation to depositors, the banker should seek to assist in making sound loans to applicants of proper credit standing and of good character.

"No loan should be granted without a clear understanding between the bank and the borrower regarding the means, methods and time of repayment."

This bank realizes that it is rendering its best loan service when its loan policy supplies the sound needs of the individuals and businesses of this community. It strives to give adequate loan service to individuals and business enterprises of suitable character.

Once, I Could Vote, Too!

Once, like you, I was a free man!
A Frenchman!
Politicians made speeches to me, too!
They spoke about our unassailable democracy.
They told me what they were doing to protect my standard of living and my working conditions.
They promised my family safety through preparedness.
But they weren't honest with me! They let me down!
I found that out when I had to give up my job to go to war—at the same time that I found out you couldn't stop tanks with bodies, that you couldn't halt bombs and you couldn't buy peace with promises.
Now they are holding trials to find out whose fault it was. But I know—
It was MY fault!
I voted for the easy way.
I voted for the beguiling voice.
I voted for the politician, not the man.
I was one of a nation of free men who did not prize freedom. Today I am not free.
I repeat, it was my fault. But it was I who paid the penalty. I, with my womenfolk and my children! I, who thought I was prepared for war.
Free men of America, already you may be pledged to a conflict for which you know you are not prepared.
Remember my mistake! Weigh the men against the politician before you vote.
Do not vote for a politician—VOTE FOR A MAN WHO WORKED WITH HIS HANDS.
Do not vote for a voice—VOTE FOR A MAN.
Do not vote for the easy way—VOTE FOR A MAN WHO GAVE UP THE HARD WAY.

VOTE FOR WILLKIE

"I - DON'T - VOTE" AMERICANS NUMBER 49 PER CENT OF TOTAL

"What difference does it make whether I vote or not? There are millions of voters and it's only one."

That is a common excuse that some Americans make for failing to vote. And as a result, thereby millions of Americans each year forego the most cherished privilege of American citizenship the privilege of participating in free elections.

Don't be an "I-don't-vote" American. If you are a non-voter, you are failing to do your part to preserve Freedom in America. The people who don't vote each year are frequently numerous enough to hold the balance of power.

Your vote is all important. Every American's vote is all important. It is the most sacred right of American citizenship.

Machine politicians—the Kellys, the Flynns and the Hagues will get out the city vote. Unfortunately far too many rural voters often stay at home on election day. Next Tuesday voters in the rural communities of America can demonstrate their real power and swing this election away from the city bosses — IF THEY GO TO THE POLLS AND VOTE FOR WENDELL WILLKIE.

Wendell Willkie says:

"There has been a lot of talk about the danger of changing administrations in an emergency. The closer Mr. Roosevelt gets us to war, the more people say that we should not change horses in the middle of the stream. Well, for one thing, what are we doing in the middle of the stream; how did we get there—the man who got us in, is not the right one to get us out."

"By the simple laws of economics we must expand the domestic market and the foreign market."—Wendell L. Willkie.

Well, it's a rationing world, if not a rational one.—Des Moines Register.

To the Editor:

Letters to the editor contain many a grain of sound common sense. Once in a while one reaches the point of genius. Of that kind there is an example in a letter to the Christian Science Monitor in the Monday, from a Nellie Clark, concerning our wavering between self or herself "YES" it reads:

"IF A CANDIDATE FOR PRESIDENT OF THE UNITED STATES PROMISED TO:

"Double the national debt;
"Reduce the value of the dollar;
"Plow under 25 per cent of the crops;
"Pay $5 for each pig not raised;
"Create class hatred;
"Scare business into cutting down, thereby continuing unemployment and endangering everyone's job;
"Attempt to pack the supreme court;
"Try to make over the country into a one-man government;
"Set an example of evading laws;
"Ignore his party platform;

"WOULD HE GET YOUR VOTE?"

Editorial from The Pittsburgh Post-Gazette, October 5, 1940.

A woman once based a suit for divorce on the grounds her husband was in the habit of attempting suicide by hanging and she thought it cruel that she should be compelled to cut him down.

Auditor General Keeps Pledge Made To Publishers

Vernon J. Brown, Auditor General of the State of Michigan, today made an accounting to a group of over 300 Michigan newspaper publishers who solicited and sponsored his candidacy for that office two years ago. It was their contention that as a business man, publisher and editor of a weekly paper, a legislator with ten years of experience, and a former county official, he was particularly well qualified for the office of Auditor General. Mr. Brown, appreciating the sponsorship, frankly appreciated their aid and outlined his platform with the following pledges: "If elected I shall reduce the cost of operating the Department—I shall reduce the number of employees by removing from the payrolls every unnecessary jobholder. I shall economize to such an extent that there will be no more red ink bookkeeping in the Department and the balances will be on the right side of the ledger."

A careful analysis of Mr. Brown's report shows that when he took office January 1, 1939 he found the former administration had an average of 422 employees with an annual operating cost of $1,129,521.64. Payroll costs were at an all time high and many political newcomers had replaced experienced employees. Auditor General Brown promptly removed from the payroll all purely political jobholders, and at the end of the fiscal year June 30, 1940 his reports show an average of 177 employees in the Department with an annual operating cost of $650,581.51—a saving of $478,940.13 to Michigan taxpayers. Part of this saving has been due to the enactment of legislation sponsored by Mr. Brown in centralizing the collection of delinquent taxes in the offices of the county treasurers. This has not only resulted in greater convenience to taxpayers but has insured a per[illegible]ency of this saving to the Department.

Less known but by far the most important of his accomplishments has been the creation of a single unified accounting system for the State. Formerly four distinct records were maintained by various Departments which resulted in conflicting and confusing reports on the financial condition of the State. Now clear, unified and accurate statements showing the true financial condition of the state are issued from the Auditor General's office shortly after the last day of each month.

Notwithstanding this drastic reduction in personnel and operating expense, it has been observed that there has been a marked improvement in the efficiency of the Department. Payrolls have been met on time, old age assistance checks issued when due, and thousands of dollars saved in discounts by the prompt payment of bills. This exceptional record of public service by Auditor General Brown has been particularly gratifying to his sponsors—he has faithfully kept his pledge and should be retained in office for another term.

LOVE VS. HATE

There are many religions, with zealous followers. But Christianity alone has created the finest way of life for its people—because Christianity alone is founded upon love.

Christianity and democracy go hand in hand because they both believe in the individual, his rights and his responsibilities.

Fascist governments destroy the rights of the individual and at the same time destroy Christian principles and practice.

How does Fascism get its hold on people? Through hatred, hatred of one class for another, hatred of one race for another, hatred so all consuming that it finally destroys men's spirits. They then become slaves to the state.

Have we not had seven years of the teaching of hate in America? Seven years of class against class, labor against employer, the majority party against the minority?

Hate destroys democracy!

Save our democracy. Elect the man who preaches and practices harmany among all classes of American society—Wendell L. Willkie.

FORGOTTEN WISDOM

If this generation had not forgotten so much of the wisdom of the ages it would have had much less trouble.

Among that forgotten wisdom are many well-known proverbs and adages—one in particular: "Think twice before you speak."

If we would only think once—really think—we would say less, and thereby contribute less to the general confusion. There's altogether too much "loose talk," as Will Rogers called it.

Only facts carefully stuted contribute to human intelligence and mental stability.—Frank B. Crnig.

Willkie To Win, Polls Indicate

Nationwide Trend Points To Sweeping Republican Victory.

Wendell Willkie and Senator Charles L. McNary are riding the crest of a Republican trend that will take Mr. Willkie to the White House and will elect Senator McNary as the next Vice President of the United States.

This view is confirmed by all polls of recent weeks, including the Gallup poll, which have indicated a surge of voters to the Republican standard bearers and wholesale desertions from the ranks of supporters of the New Deal Third Term candidate.

The indications are also that this trend against the New Deal will be further accelerated and reach overwhelming proportions by the time the voters go to the polling places on November 5 to cast their fateful ballots.

Most significant of all prognostications on the outcome of the election is probably that made by Emil Hurja, noted statistician, who was the political analyst for the Democratic National Committee, under the Chairmanship of Jim Farley, from 1932 to 1937, and who in 1936 predicted with uncanny accuracy that Roosevelt would carry all but two states in the last national election.

Mr. Hurja now predicts with equal positiveness that Wendell Willkie will win on November 5 by a majority of from 2,500,000 to 3,000,000 of the popular vote, carrying the electoral vote of the states in New England and the Eastern Seaboard, the Middle West and the farm belt, more than enough to insure his election.

Mr. Hurja even goes further, declaring his belief in the possibility that Willkie may win by landslide proportions, securing a majority of from 5,000,000 to 8,000,000 of the popular vote. Says Mr. Hurja of the trend Republicanward: "This swinging of the political pendulum from the Democratic to the Republican side is noticeable in each of the eight geographical regions of the United States and it is sharply revealed in the reports of each of the several other polls now busy sampling opinion on a nation-wide scale.

"The marked sweep of the pendulum Republican-wise is the outstanding characteristic of the present campaign from a poller's point of view. And the swing itself is occasioned by this fact: the percentage of voters who intend to change party allegiance this year is much higher among those who voted for Roosevelt in 1936 than among those who voted for Alf Landon."

The Dunn Survey, compiled by Rogers C. Dunn, statistical analyst of New York, who has been engaged in making polls of political trends for the past six years, flatly forecasts that Wendell Willkie will win 27 States, with a total of 334 electoral votes or 68 more than the 266 required.

Said Mr. Dunn: "Should the trend toward Mr. Willkie continue, as is believed to be likely, the outcome of this election by States is expected to be similar to the pattern of the Presidential election of 1920, when the Republican candidate received 404 electoral votes."

Startling are the results of polls made by the New York Daily News, a pro-Roosevelt newspaper, which has Willkie leading in a state-wide poll of pivotal New York State with 50.6 per cent of the vote to the Third Term candidate's 49.4 per cent. This is the first time in the history of the Daily News forecasts, which have been very accurate in previous elections, that have shown the Republican Presidential nominee leading in the state.

Newspaper polls taken in Illinois, Ohio and other states also show Willkie leading and all indicate the marked Republican trend.

But polls are really not needed to substantiate the marked swing to the Republican ticket. It is evidenced by the steadily mounting enthusiasm of Republicans in every State, the tremendous receptions Mr. Willkie, Senator McNary and other Republican candidates and speakers have received wherever they have appeared and the growing realization by the electorate that the decision to be rendered on November 5 is literally to determine the future of the Republic

Your Interest Charge

Interest paid by the United States Treasury on the Federal debt for the year ending June 30, 1940, was over $1,040,000,000. This was $8 for each man, woman, and child in the United States and a $40 interest burden alone on each family of five.

THIRD TERM? NO!

On November 5th the voters of the United States will affirm their approval of the sound judgment of the delegates to the Democratic national convention of 1896 when they adopted this plank in their platform:

"We declare it to be the unwritten law of this Republic, established by custom and usage of one hundred years, and sanctioned by the greatest and wisest of those who founded and maintained our government, that no man should be eligible for a third term of the Presidential office."

RELEASE FIGURES ON DEER HUNTING

NUMBER HUNTERS IN '39 SET NEW HIGH RECORD

Upper Peninsula Counties Produced Bigger Percentage of Bucks to Number of Hunters

With six weeks to go before the gun season on deer opens in Michigan, on November 15, many hunters who are planning trips into northern counties, are studying kill reports before deciding where they will set up camps.

The 1939 season established a new record for hunters licensed—168,143. The total of bucks killed was 44,908. Increase in number of hunters last season was 5,842 over the previous record number—162,301—licensed in 1938. The final kill reports show only 99 more bucks were taken in 1939 than in 1938.

Percentage of hunters successful last season was, as usual, greater in upper peninsula counties than in those below the straits. Iron county led in percentage of hunter success, 48.2, followed by Dickinson's 43.8, Ontonagon's 43.7, Gogebic's 42.6, and Delta's 42.2.

Those who hunted below the straits last season had best success in Alcona county, where 32.4 per cent got their bucks. Others of the five ranking counties in the lower peninsula were Arenac with 28.8 per cent of hunters successful, Alpena 28, Crawford 27.9, and Oscoda 27.3. Average of hunter success above the straits was 39.1, in lower Michigan 25.4, and for the deer counties of both peninsulas, 26.7. Total of those hunting deer in the upper peninsula was 42,388 and the number hunting below the straits was 117,701.

Want You to Know His Record

He resigned a position in private employment to become a candidate in 1938, a position in private industry in which he had eighteen years of practical experience. He has lived in this district since 1912 and so has kept abreast of developments of this section continually. He has been part and parcel of the district from the time of the transition of the timber era to the development of new industry, Tourist and Resort business, etc. In other words, he is a well posted, practical citizen of the district which he represents.

He has consistently opposed the wild, impractical schemes of the New Deal, but has supported those measures that he has considered to be in the best interests of the Nation at large, realizing that the 11th District cannot prosper unless the Nation prospers.

He consistently opposed the various steps which tended to involve us in European entanglements as a protest, on the grounds that such entanglements are contrary to the wishes of a majority of the people and against the best interests of the United States, believing America is united for Defense—and Peace.

He has consistently supported All Defense Measures as the record shows. He believes that we should make Our Nation strong, ready to meet any threat. Strong for defense—to keep out, not to get in, any war.

He supported W.P.A. Appropriations for 1939-1940 and 1940-1941, in spite of the fact that he believed the work relief program was inadequate and inefficient, but because of the fact that it was the only program that the new deal had to offer.

His endorsement by American Federation of Labor Unions such as the Brotherhood of Maintenance of Way Employes; Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen; International Brotherhood of Boilermakers, Iron Shipbuilders and Helpers; Brotherhood of Railroad and Steamship Clerks; Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen; American Train Dispatchers Association; Air Line Pilots' Association speaks for itself how organized Labor approves his re-election.

Congressman Bradley has not waited until campaign time to tell the people of the 11th District what was going on in Washington. He has kept them informed by a weekly news letter sent to all papers in the district, copies of timely speeches and similar material. He has visited all the counties of the district as often as his legislative duties would permit and has been in close collaboration with his people. No congressman has remained closer to the "folks back home" than has Congressman Fred Bradley. All communications from his constituents have received prompt and courteous answers.

Congressman Bradley has never dodged a vote on any question. He has voted according to his honest convictions and as he believed the people of the district desired. He has been a real representative of his people. He has refused to become just another "rubber stamp" congressman.

beneficiaries of this fund which will be administered by a local committee. Mrs. Myers was a life-long summer resident of Charlevoix. She, as her family perhaps better know, was intensely interested in the well-being of our citizens and, in order that this interest be continued, the trust fund has been provided. Sach loyalty is very commendable, indeed.

Were it possible to manage personal affairs like President Roosevelt runs national affairs, how simple this life would be. All we'd have to do is run in debt for everything we wanted, skip merrily and recklessly along the path of life with no worry of the futare. That's where the dream ends for you and I, however. Sooner or later the sheriff catches up with us and then we start to pay! Roosevelt, though, if and when he is bounced out of office like he should have been four years ago, will dump his whole darn mess into someone else's lap to straighten out. Just remember this when you go to the polls next Tuesday!

Reading in the Petoskey Evening News an item relating to the attempt of a group interested in the welfare of younger element of that city to seek the establishment of a "Milk Bar," a place of entertainment for apper school grade students where intoxicating liquor is not sold, reminds me that the young people of Charlevoix are fortunate in having the newly-established "Dairy Bar" operated at the Tower Hotel by Isabel Smith.

Grandmother used a roller towel, a comb suspended from a string and a dipper shared by all and lived to be ninety, while granddaughter fights germs and dies exhausted at fifty!

FIRE DAMAGE NEW BELVEDERE REFRIGERATOR

Over-Heated Tar Bucket Caused Blaze Tuesday Evening

Cork insulation used in the construction of a new refrigerating unit at the Belvedere Hotel was damaged by fire Tuesday night.

The blaze is believed to have resulted when a tar bucket heated by an electric plate, which had not been turned off when workmen left the job, caught fire. Two sections of a sprinkling system located in the kitchen were released, causing slight water damage.

LOCAL YOUTH VICTIM AUTO MISHAP

GERALD NOVOTNY, 16, KILLED NEAR ITHACA

Four Other Members Football Team, Stewart Coleman, of Faculty, Injured in Accident Saturday

Gerald J. Novotny, 16, Charlevoix high school junior, met tragic death and four others were injured in an automobile accident Saturday evening on US-27, 2 miles east of Ithaca.

Those injured were Stewart E. Coleman, high school faculty member, driver of the car, head cut and back injuries; James Martin, 16, compound fracture of the right leg; James Foster, 16, facial cuts; Gerald Chambers, 14, wrenched leg and ankle. Don Meggison, sixth member of the party, was bruised. Martin is confined to R. B. Smith Memorial Hospital, Alma, while others have returned to their homes here.

The accident occurred when the party, one of four carloads of high school football players who had attended the Michigan State-Kansas State football game, was returning home from East Lansing. According to Mr. Coleman's account of the mishap, his car crashed into the rear end of a tractor-drawn wagon loaded with car corn. Blinded by the bright lights of a car approaching from the opposite direction, Mr. Coleman said he did not see the unlighted wagon until too late to avoid hitting it.

The impact tore the side of the car away. Novotny and Martin, the former in the right front, and latter in the right rear seat, were believed struck by the rack as it tore through the car body. Novotny died of internal injuries in an ambulance while enroute to the hospital.

RED CROSS TO OPEN ANNUAL DRIVE MONDAY

Classes in First Aid, Home Hygiene Are to Be Organized

On Monday, November 11, the American Red Cross will open its greatest membership Roll Call since the days of the first World War.

Although the organization of the Charlevoix County chapter is not yet completed, city and township chairmen already named include Mrs. L. S. Orlowski, Charlevoix city and township; Mrs. W. C. Naylor, Boyne City; Mrs. John Porter, East Jordan; Mrs. William Hair, Hayes township; Mrs. Ralph Price, Eveline township; Mrs. Jay Adams, Marion township.

Special emphasis will be placed this year upon the organization of classes in first aid and home hygiene, to meet the increased demands of the current national defense program.

The membership goal for Charlevoix county is set at 650, with this city's share at 175.

GIRLS' HIGH SCHOOL GROUP HELD CANDLELIGHT SERVICE

Attention Deer Hunters!
Don't let your venison spoil! Ship or bring it to us for cold storage. Curtis Market.—Adv. 45t1.

COLD STORAGE OF VENISON IS PROVIDED HERE

New Refrigeration Unit Available to Hunters at Curtis Market

If deer hunters take advantage of facilities available here in Charlevoix, there is no excuse for venison spoiling because of warm weather during the approaching season.

A large refrigerating unit, with "flash" freezer for fresh fruits, vegetables and other perishibles, was built at the Curtis Market early last summer. In storage there now are strawberries, peas, other fruits and vegetables and a large quantity of fowl and meats owned by individuals.

Having ascertained legality of venison storage from the conservation department, Mr. Curtis is now making these facilities available to deer hunters. A deer may be cut or stored whole, Mr. Curtis has stated. The plant is sufficiently large to hold a large number of carcasses.

KIWANIS' CHARITY SALE OPENS NOV. 8

ANNUAL "WHITE ELEPHANT" SALE A 2-DAY EVENT

Campaign Sponsored to Raise Funds to Aid Under-Privileged Children of This Community

At 9:30 o'clock Friday morning, November 8th, the Charlevoix Kiwanis Club will open its annual "White Elephant" sale in the former postoffice building.

Otto Krueger, chairman of the event, says that the club, aided by local and summer residents, has assembled a most varied assortment of merchandise for the sale. Everyone will be able to find some useful article at ridiculously low prices. Furniture, clothing, dishes, blankets, pictures, toys and hundreds of valuable articles will go on sale and must be disposed of during the two days allotted—November 8 and 9. The store will be open from 9:30 a. m. to noon, from 2 to 5 in the afternoon and from 7 to 9 in the evening each day.

Each year the Kiwanis Club stages this sale to raise funds for their under-privileged children's work. The money raised goes for many purposes, including the annual Christmas party, Michigan Children's Fund, 4-H Club and Boy Scout activities, sending baskets to needy families at Christmas time and many other charitable endeavors.

The sale has become known as an outstanding event. The public is invited to participate and thus lend assistance to this worthy cause.

ROOSEVELT LANDSLIDES COMPARABLE TO 1936 IN PROSPECT; VAN WAGONER DEFEATS DICKINSON

COUNTY POLLS REPUBLICAN MAJORITY

Three of Five Republican State Officials Hold Small Leads—Unofficial Tabulation Gives Ruegsegger Margin of 13 Votes Over Meggison for Probate Judge

Climaxing one of the most hectic election campaigns in the history of the country, voters of the nation re-elected President Franklin D. Roosevelt for a third term, while Michigan's electors chose a Democrat for governor by giving State Highway Commissioner Murray D. Van Wagoner a derisive majority over Luren D. Dickinson.

An electoral landslide comparable to 1936 was in prospect for Roosevelt. The popular vote reported at noon Wednesday, gave Roosevelt 21,339,241 votes to Willkie's 17,873,991. Willkie was acknowledged a lead in 9 states with 73 electoral votes and 26 electoral votes were in doubt. Michigan, giving Willkie an early lead, recorded a majority for Roosevelt.

In the governorship race, Van Wagoner, carried into office by a favorable Wayne county, had 854,367 votes to Dickinson's 749,234 with 3049 of the state's 3632 precincts reported.

Apparently the only Republican candidate sure of re-election was U. S. Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg, with a lead of 82,101 votes over Frank Fitzgerald in 2889 precincts.

Three Republican state officials were maintaining leads over their Democratic opponents with 2889 precincts reported. Harry F. Kelly led by 23,004 votes over Leo V. Carl for secretary of state; Vernon H. Brown had a majority of 66,089 over James D. Dotsch for auditor general; Herbert J. Rushton a margin of 9,394 over Raymond Starr for attorney general. Democrats in the lead for state office were Theodore I. Fry with a margin of 23,115 over Felix H. Flynn for state treasurer, and Frank Murphy with a lead of 29,997 over Eugene C. Keyes for lieutenant governor. With such an indecisive number of precincts reported, all of these contests are in doubt.

A nip-and-tuck race was being waged between Fred Bradley and Wendell L. Land for 11th district congress. At noon Wednesday, Bradley claimed a margin of approximately 1300 votes, an unofficial report. Another day will be required to bring out final results on this contest.

Otto W. Bishop carried every county in his district to win re-election as Republican senator of the 29th district over Robert H. Rayburn, and Louis Anderson, of Northport, was assured election over William J. Schram, Democrat for Charlevoix-Leelanau representative in the state legislature.

Reports on non-partisan balloting for Supreme Court Justice were not available at this time, but the county contest for judge of probate between Ervan A. Ruegsegger, incumbent, and Clarence B. Meggison resulted in unofficial victory for Ruegsegger by a margin of 13 votes, one of the smallest margins in county history.

Charlevoix county retained a precedent by polling a Republican majority for every candidate, national, state and county. This trend carried Fenton R. Bulow and Lillis M. Flanders into the offices of county clerk and treasurer, respectively, by over 2 to 1 majorities. Their opponents were Luther Hunna for clerk, Guy Eccleston for treasurer.

Charlevoix county turned thumbs down on all four amendments, but with only scattered results reported from the state, fate of the proposals is not known.

DRAFT LIST NUMBERS PUBLISHED NEXT WEEK

Late Arrival Master List Prevents Earlier Public Announcement

Late arrival of the master list of draft numbers from Washington, and subsequent delay caused the local draft board in allocating order numbers to draft registrants, has prevented publication of the list of serial and order numbers in this week's issue.

It is expected the entire list will be available for publication next week, however.

According to reports from Washington and Lansing, as well, there is little probability of Charlevoix county men being called to service for several weeks. Volunteers, of which Charlevoix county now has two, will in all probability fill the early quotas, especially in view of the small number to be called in the early allotments.

EVERZ NORDRUM DIED SATURDAY AT DETROIT

Succumbed Following an Operation; Was Former Local Resident

Charlevoixans will learn with deep regret of the death Saturday at Detroit of Everz A. Nordrum, 55, former local resident. Mr. Nordrum's death followed a major operation.

Mr. Nordrum, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Oluf Nordrum, spent his youth in Charlevoix and was educated in local schools. He married Miss Lila Campbell about 27 years ago. They resided in Jackson before moving to Detroit.

Surviving besides the widow are a daughter, Marjorie; two sons, Donald and Richard; a brother, Ibsen, all of Detroit; and a sister, Mrs. Arhutus Rassett, this city.

Funeral services were held Monday afternoon at Detroit.

KNUDSEN-SHORES WEDDING AT GAYLORD IS ANNOUNCED

Announcement has been made of the marriage of Miss Mildred Knudsen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Knudsen, to Joseph Shores, son of Mr. and Mrs. Timothy Shores, at Gaylord on Saturday, October 12. The young couple left this week to make their home in Detroit, where Mr. Shores is employed.

HARRIS PIERCE, PIONEER RESIDENT, DIED FRIDAY

Funeral for Well Known Norwood Township Farmer Held Monday

Harris K. Pierce, 72, died at his Norwood home last Friday morning, following a heart attack.

Born in Hayes township, May 7, 1868, Mr. Pierce was a pioneer resident of this county, and spent most of his life in this region. His wife, the former Rose Spear, had preceded him in death.

Surviving are four sons, Seeley, of Morrow, Ohio; Kenneth, of Williamsburg, Ohio; Newton, of East Jordan; Carroll, who made his home with his father; and a daughter, Mrs. William Parsons, who resides near Ellsworth.

Services were held at Norwood Methodist church on Monday afternoon at two o'clock, with Rev. J. C. Matthews, of the East Jordan Methodist church, officiating. Burial was at Norwood cemetery.

TUESDAY BROUGHT HUNTING CHANGES

IS FINAL DAY OF 1940 UPLAND BIRD SEASON

May Hunt Ducks Until November 29, Rabbits Until January 31—Nimrods Prepare for Deer Season

Tuesday, November 5, brought a change in the small game hunter's calendar.

It was the last day of the upland game season in lower Michigan, ending hunting for partridge, pheasant, prairie chicken and squirrel.

Ducks remain legal game until November 29th, two weeks longer than previous years. Rabbits may be killed until March 1 across the straits, January 31 in northern lower Michigan and December 31 in southern lower Michigan. The season on woodcock closed October 29. Open deer season for archers begins Friday, November 1, and closes November 14, the day preceding opening of the deer season for gunners.

Hunters who enjoy the nocturnal sport of treeing raccoons begin their trailing Friday, and the season remains open until December 15. The raccoon trapping season extends from November 15 to December 15 in northern lower peninsula, and from December 1 to December 15 in lower Michigan. No hunting or trapping of coons is permitted in the northern peninsula.

REMOVE COMMERCIAL FISHING BAN SUNDAY

Re-Open Season on Mackinaw Trout; Chub, Whitefish Seasons Closed

Local commercial fishermen, inactive since the closed season on mackinaw trout went into effect October 10th, resume operations Sunday.

With the season not only closed on trout, but also on whitefish and chubs, most operators have utilized the enforced vacation to get their gear ready for the re-opening of fishing.

The season on chubs reopens November 20 and the closed season on whitefish, effective since November 5, continues until December 10.

CROPS SHOW OUTSTANDING EVENT

DISPLAYS OF HIGH QUALITY SHOWN SATURDAY

Five Hundred Persons Enjoyed Kiwanis Entertainment Program in Evening at Gymnasium

Unreserved success marked the 2nd Kiwanis "Farmers' Day" program last Saturday. A crops show at the city hall community room and evening entertainment at the school gymnasium were the outstanding features.

Charlevoix county potato and apple growers, 4-H Club and Smith-Hughes exhibitors divided $75 in cash premiums, provided by the Kiwanis, Charlevoix city council and 4-H Club department.

It is estimated nearly five hundred persons attended the evening entertainment program at the school gymnasium. Rollie L. Lewis, newly-elected Kiwanis president, acted as master of ceremonies and gave the address welcoming the visitors. The program opened with selection by the school band. Other features were a roller skating exhibition by Ray March, his daughter, Marcelin, and Malcomb Gokee, of Walloon Lake; presentation of crops show winners by B. C. Mellencamp, county agricultural agent; western songs with banjo accompaniment by Bob Green, of Traverse City; two violin duets by Nicholas Blinoff and Dr. Mark Gifford and a violin solo by Mr. Blinoff, with piano accompaniment by Mrs. A. J. Stelter; selections by a "Barber Shop Quartette" composed of Harold Lumb, Frank Poole, Dr. D. C. Nettleton and Charles Hamlin; selections by the Kiwanis German band; "Star Spangled Banner" by band and singing of "God Bless America" by the assembly.

HOSPITAL BOARD WILL SOON OPEN FUND DRIVE

Must Raise $1500 to Match Summer Residents $3500 Pledge for X-Ray

At a meeting of the Charlevoix Hospital board of trustees tonight (Wednesday) plans will be formulated for an intensive campaign to raise $1,500 in the territory served by the institution for the purchase of new equipment.

Impetus for the campaign about to open was furnished last summer when three Charlevoix summer resident groups, the Belvedere Club, North Side Association and Chicago Club, pledged $3,000 for the purchase of a modern x-ray and addition to the hospital to provide an x-ray room, with the provision $1,500 be raised locally.

Added incentive to the drive is the fact that the proposed addition will be dedicated to the memory of the late Dr. R. B. Armstrong who gave his life to the practice of medical science in this community.

Further details of the campaign, in which donations from $1 up will be sought, will be announced next week.

SHOT AT RANDOM

By Ken Usher

Yes, last Thursday was Halloween, but with the advent of modern plumbing, the kick is all gone for the boys. They were born several years too late!

Gosh, but it is hard to keep up with things! The deer season opens November 15, just 8 days away; Thanksgiving, the New Deal early variety, is the 21st, 14 days distant; and the first thing we know it will be Christmas.

And speaking about the deer season, that event is going to bring about an awful scarcity of meo in Charlevoix. What with nearly 200 Charlevoix men employed in Detroit and the remaining able-bodied in the woods, there's going to be a lot of "widows" in our midst. It might not be safe for a man to stay at home.

Charlevoix citizens owe a lot to the Kiwanis for their charities and uppermost among them is the annual Halloween party for kiddies. Nearly one thousand youngsters were entertained last Thursday afternoon and evening and response by the

By GENE ALLEMAN

Field Manager, Michigan Press Association

When someone a few months ago signed the names "Joe Palooka," "Gyp the Blood," "Charlie Potato," and "Joe Manure" to a legal petition seeking a referendum on an act of the 1939 legislature, he probably didn't realize the public service he was performing.

Those names were among thousands signed on petitions filed with the secretary of state. They were supposed to be qualified electors of the state of Michigan, and the petitions carried affidavits saying they were so. But the fact was that they were not only fictitious but they were scribbled into the document in blithe defiance of Michigan's basic law.

What was the result? Was someone called to account for this prankful misuse of a democratic privilege?

No, the only thing that happened was that the names finally were scratched off the list and the rest of the petition was accepted by the de-

Mr. Hardy, Boyne City, and Mr. Bossman, Holland, R. E. A. officials, spent a few days here last week on business.

Lloyd McDonough, Dick Lafreniere, Don Lawrence, Roland McCann and John Gallagher, were business callers in Boyne City Friday evening, returning home Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Al Durette, keeper of Beaver Head light, left Saturday on an extended leave, due to ill health. Bert McDonough, first assistant, will take over during Mr. Durette's absence, and Jack Coppens, local coast guard, will act as second assistant.

NORWOOD

Vern Baumbach left Sunday for Homer, Mich., where he will have employment.

The community expresses its sincere sympathy to the Pierce family in the death of their father.

Mrs. I. L. Dice was admitted to the Charlevoix Hospital Monday afternoon for medical treatment. Everyone wishes her a speedy recovery.

Mr. and Mrs. Percy Empey and family were Sunday guests of the former's sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Kirby of Central Lake.

George Lord, who has spent the past ten days visiting at the home of his daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Merrill Richardson, returned to Charlevoix on Friday of last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Holecheck and family of Homer, Michigan, spent the week end visiting at the home of the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Holecheck, also called on other relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. Russell Spear of Eaton Rapids, Mich., also Mr. and Mrs. Newton Slick of Manton, arrived on Sunday evening to attend the funeral of Mr. Pierce, which was held Monday afternoon.

Seeley Pierce and Phyllis, of Morrow, Ohio, accompanied by his brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Pierce, of Williamsburg, Ohio, who were called here in the death of their father, Harris Pierce, arrived Saturday evening.

This community was shocked Friday morning by the sudden death of Harris Kingsley Pierce, who passed away at his home from a heart attack. He was born May 7th, 1867, in Hayes township, Charlevoix county, where he spent his boyhood days. He spent eight years sailing the Great Lakes when a young man. Returning to Charlevoix county he resided there until 28 years ago when he became a resident of Bucks township, Antrim county. In 1897 he was united in marriage to Eleanor E. Seeley. To this union were born two sons, Seeley of Morrow, Ohio, and Kenneth of Williamsburg, Ohio; also a daughter, Elizabeth, who died in infancy. In 1912 he was united in marriage to Rose L. Whitbeck. To this union were born two sons, Newton of East Jordan, Carrol at home, and a daughter, Mrs. William Parsons of Norwood township, who also survive him. Mrs. Pierce preceded him in death August 12, 1933. Surviving also were a stepson, Russell W. Spear, and six grandchildren. He was a kind and loving neighbor and will be greatly missed by all who knew him. Funeral services were conducted at 2 o'clock Monday afternoon, by Rev. J. C. Matthews, of East Jordan, from the Norwood Methodist church, with burial in the Norwood Cemetery.

TO MAKE RIGHT THE MASTER OF MIGHT

—From the Preamble to the Constitution of The American Legion

The American Legion is ever conscious of the rights of the minorities. In the World War its members learned first-hand the disastrous effects that fall upon other nations where the rule of might obtains. Within its ranks the Legion ever tends to seek the right solution of every problem it faces.

This is a fine ideal toward which we should strive. The dictators of Europe deny that it will ever be a practical reality as long as human nature is what it is today. History records many examples in which might has conquered right. Right supported by might is the ideal situation. Right and wrong are generally relative aspects of a question. Our interests or feelings sometimes blind us regarding the rights of others. Even in a supposedly neutral body like our National Supreme Court the controversy is more often decided by a five or four vote than it is by unanimous decision.

However, in view of all these considerations the sentiment expressed by this phrase is morally right.

In the words of our immortal Lincoln, "Let us have faith that right makes might and in that faith let us to the end dare to do our duty as we understand it."

CROPS SHOW OUTSTANDING EVENT

Three sets of dishes, provided by the Kiwanis, were awarded to holders of lucky numbers. The winners were Frank Rumisek, Mrs. L. O'Brien and Mrs. Charles Metzger.

The following account and announcement of prize winners at the exhibit is provided by B. C. Mellencamp:

The Charlevoix County Apple and Potato Show, held last Saturday in Charlevoix, proved to be an even greater success than was anticipated by its sponsors. The Kiwanis Club of Charlevoix, with the assistance of the city of Charlevoix and the 4-H Club department, were more than pleased with the success of the day, the quality of exhibits, and the fine attendance that came to see the displays.

Throughout the afternoon and evening a constant stream of people carefully looked over the potatoes, apples, corn, beans, conservation articles, and other products. The fine display of apples took the fancy of the visitors. They certainly had the beautiful, rich color that appears on fruit grown in this area. Likewise the display of 89 bird houses, nesting shelves, feeding racks, and conservation signs attracted much favorable comment. The bird houses were original to say the least. We have a hunch that birds will not be as much attracted to houses that are highly polished and painted as they will be to the more rustic and natural types. The majority of the bird houses shown were of the latter description.

There were 37 pecks of potatoes shown by adults, 4-H club members, and Smith-Hughes students. The outstanding pecks in the open classes were two samples of Russet Rurals shown by Lee Sneathen and Clinton Blanchard, both of Charlevoix, and a peck of Katahdins shown by Elmer Hott of East Jordan. All three samples are being taken to the Northern Michigan Show at Manistee this week. Other outstanding potato samples were 4-H club pecks shown by LeRoy Nicloy, East Jordan, Raynor Olstrom, East Jordan, and Stanley Dean, Charlevoix. LeRoy Nicloy duplicated in the Smith-Hughes competition with a very fine sample. Other beautiful Smith-Hughes displays were those of Curtis Nicloy, Barton Vance, and Douglas Gilkerson, all from East Jordan.

In the apple department the two outstanding exhibitors, Eveline Orchards, East Jordan, and Douglas Tibbitts, Boyne City, stole the show; each winning about the same high awards. In the bushel competition first place went to Eveline Orchards with a bushel of Starking and Douglas Tibbitts won second on a bushel of McIntosh. There were 29 plates of highly colored apples in the various classes. In any other variety there were 14 plates with first place going to Douglas Tibbitts. Howard Bedell, secretary of National Farm Loan Association, judged the apples and Wilford Sterzik, a prominent grower of certified seed in Emmet county, judged the potatoes and other crops. Following are the prize winners in the various classes:

Potatoes

Russet Rurals, adult class—First, Lee Sneathen, Charlevoix; second, Clint Blanchard, Charlevoix.

Chippewas and Katahdins, adult class—First, Elmer Hott, East Jordan; second, Harry Behling, Boyne City.

Any Other Variety, adult class—Second, Ed. Veldy, Boyne City.

Russet Rurals, 4-H club class—First—LeRoy Nicloy, East Jordan; second, Raynor Olstrom, East Jordan.

Any Other Variety, 4-H club class—second, Stanley Dean.

Russet Rurals, Smith-Hughes class—First, LeRoy Nicloy, East Jordan; second, Curtis Nicloy, East Jordan.

Any Other Variety, Smith-Hughes class—First, Barton Vance, East Jordan; second, Douglas Gilkerson.

4-H Club Corn Exhibits — First, Jim Hamlin, Charlevoix; second, George Hamlin, Charlevoix.

Other Corn Exhibits—First, LeRoy Nicloy, East Jordan; second, Evelyn Orvis, East Jordan.

Conservation Exhibits

Walloon Lake Club — First, Opal Follette; second, Norma Goodwin.

East Jordan Club — First, Ralph Sloop; second, Shirley Sinclair.

Boyne Falls Club — First, Elmer Matz; second, Elmer Lick.

Clarion Club—First, Betty Miller; second, Margaret Moreau.

Curfew Club—First, Richard Hayden; second, Walter Bornadyn.

In the apple competition, Douglas Tibbitts won four first places in the plate competition, Eveline Orchards won four first places, and Stanley Staszik, Boyne Falls, won one first place. In the bushel competition, Eveline Orchards won first and Douglas Tibbitts won second.

LOCAL YOUTH VICTIM AUTO MISHAP

—The tractor was driven by Bert White, of Ithaca. He was not injured.

"Jerry," only son of Mr. and Mrs. Jeffer Novotny, was born in Charlevoix. He was a member of the Congregational church.

an all-A student throughout his school career, was a member of the band, president of the Pep Club, member of the "C" Club, and participated in football, basketball and track.

Funeral services were conducted at 2 o'clock Tuesday afternoon from the See Funeral Home by Rev. G. R. Parker. With the funeral parlors filled to overflow, others heard the service over an amplifying system in the Baptist church. Huge banks of floral tokens attested the popularity of the youth. Burial was at Brookside cemetery.

"You'll say 'YUM YUM' to these delicious Cinnamon Rolls home-baked . . . with Occident!"

"And, praise be," says Aunt Kate, "here's a hard Western wheat flour that holds the freshness!"

Delicious OCCIDENT Cinnamon Rolls
Quantity: 24 to 30 rolls
4 cups OCCIDENT Flour (sifted)
½ cup milk
¾ cup water
1 to 1½ cakes compressed yeast
¼ cup sugar
2 teaspoons salt
1 egg
⅓ cup shortening
Dissolve yeast and sugar in ¼ cup lukewarm water (80-82° F.). Sift flour before and after measuring. Scald milk. Add remainder of water and salt and cool until lukewarm. To this add dissolved yeast and sugar and slightly beaten eggs. Add one-half the flour and beat thoroughly. Add melted shortening. Add remainder of flour gradually and beat thoroughly after each addition. Turn onto lightly floured board and knead until satiny smooth and elastic. Place in bowl, cover and allow to rise in warm place (80-85° F.) until double in bulk, about 1¾ hours. Punch down. Let stand thirty minutes. Roll dough into a rectangular sheet 8 x 12 inches and about ¼ inch thick. Spread with 2 tablespoons melted butter and ¼ cup brown or granulated sugar mixed with 1 teaspoon cinnamon. Shape like jelly roll. Cut in ¼-inch slices, place cut side down in greased muffin pans.

You get not only "come again" flavor when you bake with OCCIDENT flour —favorite of generations of home-baking champions—you get superb quality for every use, a beautifully white flour, high in energizing protein, that impartial tests show keeps baked goods fresh longer! The best economy is always quality! Only hard Western wheat can make OCCIDENT quality. Try this new recipe for delicious, lip-smacking Cinnamon Rolls. You'll have "better luck" with OCCIDENT!

CHARLES BUROUGHS, A FORMER RESIDENT, DIES

Succumbed Sunday Night at Dexter, Mich.; Funeral Wednesday

Charles Buroughs, 78, former well known Charlevoix resident, died Sunday evening at Dexter, Mich., following an extended illness.

Mr. Buroughs lived in this city many years before leaving about 20 years ago for Alabama. He had since established his home at Dexter.

Two step-children, Mrs. Charles Novak and Tolon McKenzie, this city and a daughter, Mrs. Della Harper, residing in Alabama, survive.

Funeral services were conducted Wednesday at Dexter.

KIWANIS HALLOWEEN PARTY A BIG SUCCESS

Nearly Thousand Youngsters Were Given Free Entertainment

Last Thursday's annual Kiwanis Halloween entertainment for students of Charlevoix schools and those of this vicinity will go down on the records as the most successful ever held.

The afternoon movie was attended by 480 children, representing Charlevoix public and St. Mary's grade classes and 12 rural schools in this vicinity. Candy bars were given the children after the show.

Upper classmen numbering 315 attended the evening movie and 208 were present at the dance held at the Dairy Bar. Each dance attendant was presented three tickets, each worth 5c in trade.

Success of the venture can be measured by the small amount of Halloween mischief apparent Thursday evening. In but the most scattered instances was it apparent, and then confined to happenings of minor consequence. This fourth annual affair brought the desired results—acceptance by youth of entertainment for mischief.

How to Avoid Service Charges

THE costs of handling a checking account are in proportion to the number of deposits made, the number of items in each deposit, and the number of checks written.

Offset against these costs are the earnings of the account through the investment of the free balance (that part which is not set aside for reserves and which is not reduced by checks drawn). If costs exceed earnings a service charge is made to cover the difference. In other words a certain amount of free balance is necessary to carry the cost of each check written and each deposit.

We do not like to make a service charge so to avoid it we encourage the depositor to either increase his balance or limit the number of checks drawn.

BRITISH SUBJECTS SHOW HIGH MORALE

LETTER FROM ENGLISH WOMAN REVEALS ATTITUDE

Aunt of Mrs. Dean Davenport Residing in Lancashire, Refutes Numerous Nazi Claims

The high morale of British subjects under Nazi air attack which has now extended into nearly two months, is indicated in a letter received by Mrs. Elizabeth Johnson, of Ishpeming, mother of Mrs. Dean Davenport, this city, from a sister residing in Lancashire, England.

Portions of the letter, published herewith, clearly reveal the attitude of Britain's public in respect to the outcome of the present "Battle of Britain:"

"Much seems to have happened since last I wrote. The capitulation of France, which then seemed an impossible thing, has brought our country into the first line of fire, but I am afraid Hitler will have had his spirits dampened if for one moment he thought we should follow suit.

"By now the idea of air superiority which he boasted about is sunk, and in comparison to our own raids, I feel sorry for the innocent people of Germany who must suffer with the guilty when our force goes into action. One thing this bombing business has forced upon us, is the secret of real living. Yesterday, with all its failures is past. Tomorrow, with its worries, may never come. Today is ours to use.

"I have just returned from another holiday, having spent it with a friend who lives in the Midlands. There is plenty of nice country around her home, and we enjoyed plenty of walking. I'm still one of those who thoroughly enjoys that pastime. The only trouble was that air raid warnings lasted for longer periods, but you grow a little indifferent to them, and at night we often went to bed. We managed to get one or two kicks out of it by watching the air battles from a distance.

"The harvest seems to be very good this year, both of grain and fruit. We spent a morning in a fruit orchard helping to gather the pears. Great, big ones you know, the sight of which makes your mouth water. As for plums, I hardly dare look one in the face now, I had so many.

"By the way, if you read German propaganda in your papers to the effect that we are short of food in England, don't believe it. If you looked into the shops and stores, you would think we could be besieged forever, and not suffer any lack of food. For us, the propaganda we get from them has exactly the opposite effect for which it was intended. They tell us we are starving, that only the rich have shelter, but when your own house, shop and shelter give the lie to it, then all their fairy tales go by the wind.

"All of us are very busy working at it to speed the day when the countries of Europe shall be given freedom again from the aggressor. Tomorrow the King has again called the nation to prayer. It will perhaps not be too much to expect that as a result, a miracle greater even than that of Dunkirk will take place. A speeding towards the victory of which we have every reason to believe will be given to us."

CHARACTER BUILDING CONFERENCE NOV. 13TH

One of Seven Regional Gatherings at Congregational Church

One of seven regional institutes on character building, sponsored by the Michigan Council of Churches and Christian Education, will be held Wednesday, November 15, at the Congregational church.

The territory embraced by the local institute comprises Grand Traverse, Kalkaska, Antrim, Charlevoix, Cheboygan, Montmorency, Otsego and Emmet counties.

There will be an extensive exhibit of material on character education of interest to parents, church and public school workers. Lists of books on character education, available in the libraries of major cities in the state, will be distributed to those interested.

The all day program follows: 9:30 a. m., exhibit open for inspection; 10 a. m., devotional period; 10:15 a. m., address, "Character Education and the Future of Democracy," Dr. J. M. Artman; 11 a. m., groups for discussion of address, led by members of team and others selected locally; 12:15, luncheon; 1:45 p. m., address, "Co-Operation of Home, Church and School in Character Training," Dr. J. M. Artman; 2:30 p. m., discussion groups: home problems, Mrs. Thompson, church problems, Mr. Bowman, school problems, Mr. Haitema; 3:30 p. m., brief report and interpretation by Dr. Artman; 4 p. m., dedication service, closing 4:30.

Those coming to the conference are requested to plan staying for the entire day.

BANK CHECKS TO ADVERTISE MICHIGAN RESORTS

Two Local Banks Cooperate in Tourist Association Plan

Bank checks, half a million or more of them, will be used to advertise West Michigan vacations next summer. The Charlevoix State Savings and the Charlevoix County State Banks are among those in the area that will use this new type of check next year.

On the face of the check, lithographed in the background, is a map of West Michigan showing the principal highways and the important tourist and resort centers. Along the border at the top is printed "We Invite You to Vacation in West Michigan" and at the bottom "Air Cooled by Three Great Lakes — Average Mean Summer Temperature 71 Degrees." At one end of the check is the wording "Over 5,000 Lakes and Streams" and at the other "The Playground of the Nation."

A somewhat similar advertising plan was pioneered among the resort cities of the Finger Lakes region of New York and, quick to see its possibilities in this region, the West Michigan Tourist & Resort Association recommend it to the banks in the area it serves.

Among the other banks represented in this new vacation advertising venture are those in Traverse City, Cadillac, Muskegon, South Haven, Saugatuck, Grand Haven, Whitehall, Montague, Holland, Spring Lake, Hart, Kalkaska, Alden, Bellaire, Mancelona and Petoskey.

MICHIGAN COWS ARE ABOVE U. S. AVERAGE

Production Figures Are Compared by Michigan State College

If production is part of defense, Michigan dairy cows are highly patriotic, for they are far above the average in the United States.

Similarly, says A. C. Baltzer, dairy extension specialist on the staff of Michigan State College, the animals enrolled in cow testing under the 87 dairy herd improvement associations in the state are also far above the average Michigan cow.

Here are some of the most recent figures.

The average cow in dairy herd improvement associations in the state is producing at the annual rate of 8,180 pounds of milk containing 337 pounds of butterfat. The average of all Michigan's 915,000 dairy cows is producing at the annual rate of 5,200 pounds of milk and 198 pounds of butterfat. For the United States the average cow's yearly output is 4,538 pounds of milk and 179 pounds of fat.

There's economy in this Michigan milk production, too, it is pointed out by Baltzer. Feed cost for a Michigan D. H. I. A. cow is $57 a year, for the average Michigan cow, $45, for the nation's average cow $48.

To project this average picture further, the feed cost is used as 41 per cent of the cost of producing milk. This indicates a Michigan D. H. I. A. can produce milk at a total cost of $1.68 a hundred after including feed, labor, management, buildings and equipment and depreciation. For the average Michigan cow the production cost seems to be $2.09 a hundred and for the average U. S. cow it is $2.60. Consumers can interpret these farm costs by remembering there are about 46 quarts in a hundred pounds of milk.

A similar game to cross-word puzzles is said to have amused the Hindus and Chinese as long ago as 1000 B. C.

10,265 PEOPLE—Prepared to Serve

Telephone preparedness takes more than miles of cable, tons of wire, forests of poles and thousands of switchboards. Behind that equipment . . . building it, guiding it, guarding it . . . are people, 10,265 thoroughly trained, friendly human beings. They are the Michigan Bell Telephone Company! Their eagerness to serve you well, brings to life the wires and the switchboards. Palace to Show "No Time for Comedy" November 9-11

A film replete with sprightly dialogue, fine acting and delightfully humorous situations will make its local bow November 9-11 when Warner Bros.' "No Time For Comedy" opens at the Palace Theatre.

The picture stars two of movie-goers' most popular players, James Stewart and Rosalind Russell. "No Time For Comedy" was one of last season's greatest Broadway stage hits.

Genevieve Tobin, Charles Ruggles, Allyn Joslyn, Clarence Kolb and Louise Beavers make up the talented array of supporting players. William Keighley directed. "No Time For Comedy," the year's gayest comedy.

Real Drama Behind Touchdown Thrills in "Yesterday's Heroes"

There's real drama behind the touchdown thrills of football and 20th Century-Fox has captured this in its latest release, "Yesterday's Heroes," which opens November 12-13 at the Palace Theatre. A really different football film, it's exciting entertainment of real all-American caliber.

Reliving the experiences of a college hero who thought glory would last forever, "Yesterday's Heroes" is based on the popular serial of the same name which aroused such interest among readers of the Saturday Evening Post. Executive Producer Sol M. Wurtzel endowed it with a fine cast of refreshing young talent including Jean Rogers, Robert Sterling, Ted North, Katharine Aldridge and Russell Gleason.

"Sailor's Lady" Stars Nancy Kelly, Jon Hall

According to advance reports "Sailor's Lady," 20th Century-Fox film starring Nancy Kelly and Jon Hall, which is due on November 12-13 at the Palace Theatre, is one of the most hilarious pictures to come out of Hollywood this year.

Hitting a new entertainment peak, "Sailor's Lady" has romance ashore and fun afloat. Imagine a thousand gobs on the loose! One of their sweethearts adopting a baby and stowing it away on the flagship just as the Navy's war games start! That's the kind of furious, fun-provoking action that goes on before "Sailor's Lady" roars into a surprising, side-splitting climax.

REDUCED PRICE ANNOUNCED FOR AMERICAN BOY

With the announcement of an enlarged and enlivened magazine, The American Boy, foremost publication for boys ten to twenty, also announces a reduction in its subscription and single copy prices. Hereafter The American Boy will sell for 10c a single copy at newsstands or for $1.00 a year and $2.00 for three years on a subscription basis.

In announcing a change in editorial policy, publishers of The American Boy assure subscribers that the established fiction heroes who have made the magazine so popular with young and old alike, will continue to tell of their adventures exclusively in The American Boy. Included in this group are Renfrew of the Canadian Mounted, Connie Morgan and Old Man Mattie, prospectors; Square Jaw Davis, railroad engineer; Johnny Carruthers, flyer; Jim Tierney, detective; Tod Moran, seaman; Alan Kane and Ted Dolliver, adventurers in science, and others identified exclusively with The American Boy.

However, with a larger magazine will come new fiction characters and an enlarged sports, defense and adventure program in the non-fiction field. Greater recognition will be given to outstanding boys the country over and an exceptional achievement will be rewarded with the boy's picture on the front cover. This feature was inaugurated with the November issue which carried on the front cover the picture of America's outstanding driver of high school age.

Teachers, librarians, parents and leaders of boys groups recommend The American Boy enthusiastically. They have found that, as a general rule, boys who read The American Boy regularly advance more rapidly than boys who do not read it. Through the leadership and sportsmanship of its fiction characters, boys are imbued with a desire to become leaders, to develop the high ideals and courage the heroes themselves display.

To subscribe to The American Boy simply send the name and address of the one who is to receive the magazine together with proper remittance ($1 for one year or $2 for three years) direct to The American Boy, 7430 Second Blvd., Detroit, Michigan.—Adv. 4512pd.

43t3 Judge of Probate

Notice By Persons Claiming Title Under Tax Deed

To the Owner or Owners of any and all Interests in or Liens upon the Lands herein described:

Take Notice, that sale has been lawfully made of the following described land for unpaid taxes thereon, and that the undersigned has title thereto under tax deed or deeds issued therefor, and that you are entitled to a reconveyance thereof, at any time within six months after return of service of this notice, upon payment to the undersigned or to the Register in Chancery of the county in which the lands lie of all sums paid upon such purchase, together with fifty per centum additional thereto, and the fees of the Sheriff for the service or cost of publication of this notice, which fee shall be the same as provided by law for service of subpoenas or for orders of publication or the cost of such service by registered mail, and the further sum of five dollars for each description, without other additional cost or charges: Provided, That with respect to purchasers at the tax sale held in the years 1938, 1939 and 1940 the sum stated in such notice as a condition of reconveyance shall only be all sums paid as a condition of the tax title purchased, together with ten per centum additional thereto. If payment as aforesaid is not made, the undersigned will institute proceedings for possession of the land

Description of Land: State of Michigan, County of Charlevoix, Lot One, Section Twenty-three (23), Town 39 North, Range Ten West. Amount paid $192.28; tax for years 1928, 1929, and 1931 to 1935 inclusive and 1936.

Amount necessary to redeem, $112.51.

Mortgage Sale

Whereas default has been made in the payment of money secured by two certain mortgages dated the 19th day of May 1934, and the 25th day of September, 1934, respectively, executed by James Rose and Louise Johnston, of Charlevoix, Michigan, to Charles Heise of Charlevoix, Michigan, which mortgages were recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds of the county of Charlevoix, Michigan, in Liber 71 of Mortgages on page 26, and in Liber 71 of Mortgages on page 35, on the 20th day of June 1934, and the 5th day of October, 1934, respectively.

And Whereas the amount claimed to be due on said mortgages at the date of this notice is the sum of $684.56 of principal and interest, together with an attorney fee as provided for by statute, stipulated for in said mortgages, and which is the whole amount claimed to be unpaid on said mortgage and no suit or proceeding having been instituted at law to recover the debt now remaining secured by said mortgages, or any part thereof, whereby the power of sale contained in said mortgage has become operative.

Now therefore, notice is hereby given, that by virtue of the power of sale, and in pursuance of the Statutes of the state of Michigan in such case made and provided, the said mortgages will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises therein described, at public auction, to the highest bidder, at the front door of the court house in the city of Charlevoix, in said county of Charlevoix, state of Michigan, on the 20th day of January 1941, at ten o'clock in the forenoon of that day; which said premises are described in said mortgages as follows, to-wit:

Lot eleven (11) of Block seven (7) of the city of Charlevoix, Michigan, according to the original plat of said city.

Dated October 22nd, 1940.

LANSING LETTER

parliament of state as valid. There were numerous other evident deceptions on that particular batch of petitions. Some names were accompanied by non-existent ward designations and others were written one after another down a page in the handwriting of a single person.

Authority Limited

This case was carried to the state supreme court in an effort to invalidate these petitions. The court held that under the constitution the secretary of state is merely a ministerial officer and has no authority to look behind the face of the petitions. It was held, however, that the department of state may eliminate names which are manifestly fictitious, such as "Joe Palooka;" those that have no addresses given; and those listing non-existent wards.

Thus the funny names served one important purpose. They were funny enough to attract statewide publicity and to highlight, at least to some degree, a grave weakness in the state's election machinery. The instances cited here are by no means all that could be mentioned to illustrate the disregard of the purpose as to petition signing. A careful study of almost any batch of petitions filed to qualify an issue for the ballot, indicates that this form of voting has become something of a farce.

It might be argued whether signing a petition is the same as voting at the polls. However, the constitution provides the same qualifications. That is to say, only qualified electors may do either. The big difference appears to be that while there is ramified machinery set up to prevent fraud at the polls and to punish the culprit who tampers with the ballot box, there is little besides his own conscience to deter the petition promoter.

Constitution to Blame?

The fault, it appears, rests principally with the constitution itself. In the articles dealing with initiatory petitions for legislation or constitutional amendments it is provided that each section of a petition shall bear the affidavit of the persons soliciting the signatures, affirming that the signatures are genuine.

"Such petitions so verified," the constitutional provision reads, "shall be prima facie evidence that the signatures thereon are genuine and that the persons signing the same are qualified electors.

Is it any wonder that the supreme court ruled the state department could not go back of the face of such petitions?

To the layman, at least, it seems as though something should be done about the situation. Taught to regard an affidavit as something which cannot be toyed with by practical jokers or high pressure lobbyists, he is inclined to wonder why "somebody" doesn't do something to correct the legal setup, if that is what is responsible for the loose practices.

Public Indifference

Of course, public indifference to the responsibility of petition signing is partially to blame. It is commonly admitted that persons put their names on petitions they know nothing about other than what the circulator may tell them. The recent barrage of protests made public by persons who said they signed Communist party petitions under the belief the documents were for an entirely different purposes, illustrates the point.

What are the chief evils of promiscuous petition signing? They might be classified as:

1. Issues are put on the ballot that perhaps have no right to be there other than because an aggressive, small group wants it.

2. Cluttering-up of the ballot by too many complex proposals serves to confuse voters and to distract their attention from really worthwhile measures.

3. Representative government is not given a chance to function freely.

Possible Remedies

A remedy for the petition problem, then, appears to have two sides. One is a more active and enlightened public consciousness and the other is a more effective legal setup to regulate petitions.

It has been suggested by some observers that certain of the same safeguards which have been thrown about the ballot box should be used to safeguard petition signing. In other words, persons wishing to affix their names to a petition should, perhaps, be required to go to some public officer in their vicinity who would have a petition form available who would be able to certify that they were qualified electors.

Is this too harsh a measure? Those who favor such a rigid plan contend that it would eliminate the various falsifications so prevalent now; that it would cause persons to think seriously about an issue before deciding to go to a polling place and sign a petition; and that it would tend to reduce the number of non-essential proposals appearing on the ballot.

Ballot Restrictions

Proponents of such a scheme point back to the days when there were no voting booths, no official ballots, and little if any secrecy at the polls. Ballot box stuffing, false counting, counterfeiting of ballots, "repeater" voters, and impersonators were all too common features of election day. These practices have been either eliminated or greatly modified as a result of a tightening of election restrictions.

One of the chief reasons for this improvement has been the Australian ballot. When electors began to use this ballot they were obliged to look the entire list of candidates in the face, so to speak. They were less inclined to be led to the polls like sheep with a ballot printed by their party and kept under surveillance while they dropped it into the box. One political commentator has said the Australian ballot served the high purpose of "putting some intelligence into the 'brute vote.'"

It is on similar grounds that critics condemn Michigan's present petition setup and urge steps to improve it. They regard most of the petitions on file with the department of state as expressing nothing more than a "brute vote," and they feel it is quite as possible and perhaps every bit as essential that "some intelligence" be put into it, also.

Storms don't bother you with

Stormproof Roofing

Bethlehem Stormproof Galvanized Steel Roofing takes the worry out of winter winds. When you've roofed with Stormproof, thawing snow and ice can't siphon or blow through to ruin valuable tools and implements, either. Stormproof is designed to cling tight to the roof and really seal out moisture. Triple barriers prevent penetration of water through side laps. Double drains take care of any water that gets under the overlapped edge. End laps are guarded by a three-ribbed siphon seal.

No sticks, battens or special tools are needed to lay Stormproof. There is no bending or crimping to do in applying these sheets to any type of roof. Even nailing is kept to a minimum, yet Stormproof is easily put down to stay. A coating of pure zinc protects against corrosion, or, for extra resistance and even longer life, copper-bearing Beth-Cu-Loy Galvanized Sheets can be specified for a few cents more.

TUESDAY BROUGHT HUNTING CHANGES

The southern peninsula trapping season opens November 15 and continues through December 15 in the northern half, and is December 1 to 31 in the lower half. Skunk and badger may be trapped in the lower peninsula from November 1 to January 31. All season dates are inclusive.

Licenses are now available at usual agencies for deer hunters, whose preparations for the annual trek to the north woods is already under way. Michigan's deer population is reported plentiful in all areas.

Did you buy YOUR car on "Millinery"?

YOU hear it said often nowadays that it's millinery that sells automobiles.

All right—let's put it up to one who knows. Did you buy your car on nicknacks, trick devices, novelties?

We don't think so.

We believe that while considering style, and room, and comfort—you really picked your car on what it would do on the road!

Now, we take our hats off to no car for being smarter-looking than Buick. We'll match our product against any for room, for appointments, for fine finish, for comfort.

But beyond all that, we challenge the whole field to equal Buick on its downright all-round performance ability.

On its power—on its pull—on its pick-up—on its easy handling (including freedom from shifting)—yes, and on its thrift.

Nowhere will you find a car that does so much so well and so frugally.

You'll find novelties in the new Buicks of course, but they're not the chief attraction. Instead you'll see the two big basic engineering developments of the year—FIREBALL design and Compound Carburetion.

Buick prices begin at $935 for the Business Coupe delivered at Flint, Mich. State tax, optional equipment and accessories—extra. Prices subject to change without notice.

children to refrain from mischief was apparent by the almost total lack of customary pranks. The evening party, with over 200 youngsters thoroughly enjoying themselves, was a sight to watch. Congratulations, you Kiwanians!

Seeing a deer in this vicinity has become too commonplace in recent years to be news, but Rodney Belding's experience in seeing a bear on the Charlevoix-Boyne City highway near the E. E. Stroud farm last week is another story. Rodney says that Bruin was a large one and that he approached so close he could see the bottoms of the animal's feet as he scurried across the road. Someone will be after that bear steak, I'll bet you!

A deeper appreciation of Charlevoix's fine city hall was impressed upon this writer Tuesday in watching voters at the polls. They had a place to come in out of the rain and places to be seated if waiting was necessary. Few localities offer their citizens such fine facilities.

Now that it's all over, perhaps Traverse City has the answer to the problem of eliminating election animosities. They held a public handshaking ceremony at noon today (Wednesday), at which Democrats and Republicans attending pledged they would "formally forget the campaign and begin working together for the good of the city."

BOYNE, EAST JORDAN MEET MON. FOR TITLE

Northern Class C Crown at Stake in Contest at East Jordan

The northern Michigan football classic of the 1940 season, a contest between the undefeated Boyne City and East Jordan teams for the Tip of Michigan class C conference title, will be played Monday, November 11, at East Jordan.

Last Saturday, Boyne City won 30 to 0 from Manceland, while East Jordan was defeating a strong Harbor Springs team by a 12 to 7 count. The two teams are undefeated thus far this year.

CONSERVATION MATERIAL FOR COUNTY FARMS

Lime and Superphosphate Provided Under 1941 AAA Program

Under a provision of the 1041 AAA program, Charlevoix county farmers will be able to receive conservation materials in the form of lime and soperphosphate in an amount not to exceed 70% of their conservation payment.

The lime and superphosphate, of which much of Charlevoix county land is in need, will be obtained at very low prices, through the county agricultural conservation committee.

Walter H. Henley, chairman of the Charlevoix county agricultural conservation committee, said this week: "This is one of the first conservation provisions that has been introduced to date under the national farm program. Many of us have wanted for years to apply lime and superphosphate to our land, but could not afford to.

"Under this provision we can all afford the conservation materials our soil has so long needed. It should be a great thing for the county. It's a good business policy, too, turning back into the business some of the earnings for upkeep.

"I am sure that the majority of Charlevoix county farmers will avail themselves of this opportunity to build up sweet soil. A soil survey of the county has shown that from 30 to 40% of our land needs the application of lime materials and practically all soil types need phosphorus, if we are to get good stands of legumes and other crops.

"The county AAA office will be glad to assist all interested farmers in obtaining these materials."

WILL GIVE WORKERS STATEMENT OF WAGES

Traverse Social Security Office Invites Information Requests

The Social Security Board is now giving workers a statement of their wage records, on which future payments will be made under the eldage and survivors insurance program.

These statements may be obtained without charge, except one cent for postage, through the Traverse City field office of the Social Security Board. The procedure to be followed was explained today by Sidney Laurens, manager of the office, who said:

"We have post cards which any worker may use to obtain a statement of the wages which were credited to his social security account during the years 1937, 1938 and 1939. If any wages which the worker has earned in jobs covered by the Social Security Act do not appear on the statement, a study of the record will be made and steps taken to adjust it.

"As all monthly payments under the amended Social Security Act are based on average wages, it is important that all earnings of insured workers be credited to their accounts. That is why we suggest that these statements be obtained at this time. It takes only a few seconds to fill out the cards, which may be obtained by personal or telephone calls at our office in the Weaver Building, or thru mail requests," Mr. Laurens said.

HOUGHTON LAKE NAMED LARGEST IN MICHIGAN

Lake Charlevoix Stands Fifth in Total Acre-Area Covered

In resolving in favor of Burt lake a local controversy as to whether Burt or Mullet lake is larger, the geology and fish divisions of the department of conservation have rated anew the 15 largest inland lakes of Michigan.

Airplane photographs and recent surveys made by CCC crews under direction of the department's institute for fisheries research were used in revising the old figures.

Houghton lake, with 20,044 acres, or more than 31 square miles of surface, is largest by a big margin. Torch lake, in Antrim, Charlevoix and Kalkaska counties, with 18,286 acres, is second. Burt lake with 17,792 acres and Mullet lake with 15,940 acres rank third and fourth. Both lakes are in Cheboygan county.

Next largest lakes, in order, are: Charlevoix, 15,200 acres; Gogebic, 14,781 acres; Manistique, 10,130 acres; Black (in Cheboygan and Presque Isle counties), 10,130 acres; Crystal, 9,711 acres; Higgins, 9,600 acres; Hubbard, 8,820 acres; Indian, 8,000 acres; Elk, 7,732 acres; Long (in Alpena and Presque Isle counties), 5,652 acres; and Grand (in Presque Isle county), 5,081 acres.

Crystal lake, with a depth of 175 feet, is the deepest of the 13 of these lakes whose depths have been sounded. Deepest spot in Houghton lake is only 20 feet.

SEEK SATURDAY OPENING HUNTING SEASONS

Conservation Commission to Consider Proposal Next Meeting

Saturday opening of the small game season and a later season in the upper peninsula are sportsmen's proposals which it appears will be presented to the conservation commission when it meets November 9.

The commission, as in other years, will consider all proposals and hear all complaints in ample time to draft its recommendations to the next legislature so that the latter body can fix 1941 seasons well in advance of opening dates.

City hunters, especially those who work in factories, want the Saturday opening. Farmers do not, for trespass troubles are multiplied.

Increasing agitation for the fixing of a later date for the season opening in the upper peninsula has been heard this year. Apparent reason is that heavy foliage in early October spoiled good shooting. The bird season in the upper peninsula ended October 20 this year, opened October 1.

TURKEY TIME EXCEEDS HOLIDAY

Turkeys are going to market over 30 million strong this year. This is the biggest turkey crop on record, with unusually large numbers ready for market early in the season, according to state and federal reports. Michigan has more than half a million birds on fattening rations.

Along with the increased production, the demand for turkey on the table is growing, members of the Michigan State College home economics staff report.

Restaurants have turkey on the menus often, because it is economical to cook and serve. The meat appeals to the diner-out who wants something special. Many homemakers also use turkey for more than Thanksgiving and Christmas dinners. They find it an ideal choice when there are guests, or just for the family dinner on Sunday. If the turkey is large, it serves as the main dish for other delicious meals to follow.

In a single month of 1910, truck production amounts to more than the total commercial motor vehicle output in all the years preceding the World War.

CHARLEVOIX COURIER

VOLUME 45 NUMBER 46 | TEN PAGES | THE CHARLEVOIX COURIER, WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 13, 1940 | PRICE $2.00 PER YEAR

1940 DEER SEASON WILL OPEN FRIDAY

EXPECT RECORD NUMBER OF HUNTERS THIS FALL

Buck Law Still Rules Deer Hunting —Much New Territory Open to Hunters This Year

The northern counties of Michigan will entertain more deer and bear hunters this year than at any time in our history. Although a new high was set last year with 168,143, it is expected the season which opens Friday morning will see an army of over 170,000 in the woods.

Last year the deer hunters bagged 44,908 bucks and this year the kill may run as high as 50,000. Deer are just as plentiful, if not more so, than in 1939, and if one hunter out of every three should be successful in his quest we can look for a new record.

The state has thrown open a number of former game refuges to hunting again this year and these areas no doubt will draw capacity crowds. Those open are the former deer refuges near Alpena; Cusino, near Munising; Landen, near Hillman; Pigeon River, east of Vanderhilt; Molasses River, Midland, and Ogemaw, north of West Branch.

Attention is drawn to a number of rules governing this sport, the violation of which have always drawn many hunters into the clutches of the law. Among these are the following: Persons under 14 years of age cannot hunt deer, and between that and 17 years the youths must have their parents' or guardians' consent. Bear cannot be shot in Keweenaw or the northern half of Houghton county. All backs shot must have antlers measuring at least three inches above the scalp.

Don't carry a loaded gun in your car while going to the deer hunting cover and be certain to place the seal on the antlers as soon as the kill is made. Venison may be kept in possession for 60 days after November 30. No change has been made in this provision.

The license fee for residents remains at $2.25 and for non-residents $25.

BASKETBALL PRACTICE BEGUN HERE MONDAY

Numerous Veterans Out for Positions on This Year's Squad

Practice for the 1940-41 basketball schedule of Charlevoix high school began Monday afternoon under the direction of Coach Roy Kipke.

Around thirty candidates reporting for the initial session included Don Carey, Ernest Nowland, Carl Rowe, "Bud" Kohler, regulars, and Jack Stewart, John Swanson, Ralph Mitchell and Billy Gengle, who played in numerous games last season. A large group of aspirants for positions make up the balance of the group from which Coach Kipke is seeking members of this year's squad.

Charlevoix's basketball team last year had its poorest season in history, tying but one game of their schedule. Prospects for the current season indicate a much better combination.

Of the 30 Charlevoix county students, 13 are from Charlevoix as follows: Charles L. Carey, Alice Margaret Ecklund, Margery Helena Edwards, Edward Gerhard Fochtman, Lee Chris Hiller, Elinor Margaret Howe, Clare Lavern McGhan, Frances Maxine Meggison, Ernestine Nickerson, Leslie D. Shapton, Warren William Shapton, Betty Margaret Willis and Robert Frank Wood.

COUNTY GROWERS WIN SHOW PRIZES

TAKE TOP HONORS AT EXHIBIT IN MANISTEE

Lee Sneathen, Hayes, Elmer Hott, East Jordan, Given High Honors at Northern Michigan Event

(By B. C. Mellencamp)

Charlevoix county exhibitors at the Northern Michigan Potato and Apple Show held last week at Manistee, walked off with the highest awards possible. Lee Sneathen, Charlevoix, again demonstrated his ability as an exhibitor by winning first place in both peck and certified bushel competition. Not alone this but his bushel sample of Russet Rurals won the sweepstakes ribbon for being the best bushel in the entire show.

Elmer Hott, East Jordan, maintained his usual record on Katahdin potatoes by winning first in this strong class. His sample of 32 potatoes was selected as the best peck in the show and won the sweepstakes award. Also, he won fourth in the Premier Grower's contest with a yield of 387 bushels per acre. Clinton Blanchard, Charlevoix, won sixth place with his peck of Russet Rarals. In this same class Harry Behling, Boyne City, won fifth with a sample of Chippewas.

In the Smith-Hughes competition Wm. Korthase, Jr., Boyne City, won first with a peck of Russet Rurals. This same peck came very near to winning the sweepstakes award in the Junior Department, being defeated by only one sample grown in Emmet county. Barton Vance, East Jordan, won first on his peck of Katahdins while Harry Pearsall, East Jordan, won second on a peck of Pontiacs. Brice Vance, East Jordan, won third with a peck of Russet Rurals and LeRoy Nicloy, East Jordan, won sixth with a peck of Russet Rurals. Curtis

BURMEISTER AUCTION SALE IS POSTPONED

Event Set Ahead Week to Tuesday, November 19, Due to Storm

Tuesday's storm caused postponement of the W. D. Burmeister auction sale at his farm one mile south of Horton Bay.

The sale, including list of livestock, general farm machinery and household goods will be held Tuesday, November 19, according to W. E. Byers, auctioneer.

The Burmeister sale precedes by one day the auction of H. Ralph Brock, scheduled November 20.
